Tabernacle To Be Dedicated

A ranch type tabernacle, 36 by 80 feet, with seating capacity of 300 persons, known as the Guiding Light Mission, Inc., will be dedicated on Sunday, October 20, at 2:30 o'clock. The dedication will be in charge of Rev. Lloyd A. Trout and Rev. Helen R. Stalnaker, of Hunkers and Youngwood, Pa.

The tabernacle is located on route 495, six miles from Grantsville on the Bittinger road.

Building plans began in July, 1956. Later a mortgage of $5,000 was negotiated at the First State Bank of Grantsville. With free will offerings and all free labor the building was completed. Pews are to be added later. Tent seats are being used at present.

The public is invited to the service.

Is Your Name WILT?

Wilt, an old and honored surname, is principally of German origin. It is of relatively simple derivation. The equivalent of the surname Wildt, it is obtained from the German "wild" meaning untamed" or "wild". It was bestowed in medieval times upon those who, upon provocation, were quick to anger rather than upon those who were inherently of a savage or uncivilized nature. In this connection, it should be noted that the naming of individuals in accordance with their personal traits or characteristics was a practice often followed when surnames first came into vogue.

Wilt may also be of English origin; and in such application it is the equivalent of Wilts and is derived from the Old English "weald" signifying "a forest".

According to the Historical Register of Virginians in the Revolution, Benjamin Wilt served as a private in the Virginia militia. His home was probably in the neighborhood of Romney (now West Virginia) because it is noted that he was paid in that community in the year 1775.

The progenitor of a substantial number of the present day members of the Wilt family was Peter Wilt who was born near Frankville, Garrett County on February 15, 1775. He was the father of seven sons and one daughter. One of his sons, John Wilt (1807-1872) was the father of six sons and five daughters. Two of John Wilt's grandsons were Samuel Emory Wilt, the father of five sons and four daughters, and Edward Wilt, the father of four sons and four daughters.

Charles T. Wilt Company of Chicago is a substantial manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer of luggage and leather goods. Robert L. Wilt (1900-1951) was its treasurer for a number of years.

John R. Wilt is a senior vice-president, Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, Michigan.

Napier Wilt is professor of English and dean of the division of humanities University of Chicago.

Glenn A. Wilt is chairman of the board of directors, Massillon Steel Casting Company, Massillon, Ohio.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Bill Kisser, who passed away one year ago, October 19.
There is a plan far greater than the plan you know.
There is a landscape broader than the one you see.
There is a haven where storm-tossed souls may go—
You call it death—we, immortality.
Yet, somehow, when the gentle winds across the grasses blow,
There is something in its whisper,
like the voice you used to know,
And you dream that as it passes,
every gleaming drop of dew
Is a tear that lost loved one has left behind for you.

One Man Looks At God

(By Charles W. Carlson, Pastor, St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Oakland Maryland.)

As the second in our series on "Christian Proverbs," I will this week consider the words of Christ recorded in Matthew 7:3. "Why do you see the speck that is in your brother's eye, but do not notice the log that is in your own eye?"

One of the greatest temptations within a Christian's life is indicated in this statement of our Lord. It is so easy to criticize! It is so easy to see the sins of another man, while completely ignoring our own sins. The man who stands up each Sunday and preaches as a servant of the Lord, speaking words which should be the Word of the Lord, is painfully aware of this temptation if he is truly a "servant of the Lord". How easy for him to become cynical about the character of man, and caustically berate the people who are listening to his words, perhaps even justifiably, yet never let the thought enter his mind that the Word of God is meant for him also! All of us as Christian pastors must at the beginning of each day of our lives take stock of the work done thus far for God and His Kingdom, trying in all sincerity to see where we have failed, then beg God's forgiveness in all humility, asking as well that He strengthen us to do better for Him this day.

The condition to which Christ points, however, is not just the sin of pastors. It is widespread, painfully hidden at times like a "canker sore" in the moist depths of a man's mouth, many times bursting forth like an angry boil on the back of man's neck, for all to see. Yes, this is a major sin of church members, who are much more ready to criticize the sins of a seamy society than to act as a part of the redemptive community that the church should be! They more often snub or gossip about an openly sinful person than go to him in love, trying to bring him into a redeemed relationship with their Lord, who is, sad as this may be, much more ready to forgive than we are.

What we need is the openly objective inward glance at our own weaknesses and sins in the light of God's perfection. It is not enough for us to say, "Well! I'm certainly better than she is!" That is not the point. The point is that God sets the standards! And these standards are very high. It is one thing to helpfully look into the problems of a sinner and try to help them understand their weaknesses in the light of God's revelation; this is indeed good, and all Christians can have a part in this act of humility. But along with this there must be a positive statement of the fact that God has given us a way of forgiveness, a way of redemption, in the Person of His Son, Christ Jesus. To merely criticize is not enough.

Again, as our Lord so clearly says, the only way to do this is to first of all take stock of our own weaknesses, trying with God's help to overcome them, and then become a living part of that redemptive community that Christ so wonderfully established as the Way, the Truth, the Life: His Body, the Holy Christian church, the Communion of Saints.

Safety In The Home Is Topic For Four-H Clubs

"Safety in the Home," is the 4-H lesson topic for clubs during October. County 4-H girls will be discussing home safety hazards, their elimination, and the overall importance of a safe home.

Meetings are centered around two safety skits, "The Trial of Hazel Hazard," and "Hazel's Hazard Hunt." According to Miss Johana Magaha, assistant home demonstration agent, "Hazel" is a youngster who pays no attention to safe practices, is careless with electrical appliances and scatter rugs. The second skit shows her finding hazards and eliminating them.

Members of individual clubs are showing individuality by using various costumes and arrangements for these skits.

Committee to Meet

The county 4-H senior planning committee will meet in the Extension office on Saturday, October 19, at 10 a. m., when plans for fall and winter 4-H activities will be made and committees will be appointed.

Serving on the committee are Judy Buckel, Juanita Buckel, Ralph Buckel, Jr., Dave Beachy, Cynthia Nace, Harland Carlson, Susan Bowman, Charles Wilt, Jr., and John Wildesen.

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Hardin-Simmons College

Five generations of American citizens have enjoyed individual freedom as a matter of course. The present population of America, with the exception of a comparatively few immigrants, was born into freedom and would find it difficult even to conceive of living under any other circumstances. And yet no nation in all human history has achieved lasting freedom.

The men who worked on the creation of the Constitution all knew that freedom had never existed for long anywhere, and that no nation had ever become a world leader and survived.

Among the most notable world leaders whose histories we have available in great detail are Old Babylon, Ancient Egypt, Assyria, Egypt under the Pharoahs, New Babylon, Phoenicia, Persia, Greece, in which Sparta and Athens represented two kinds of government, and Rome. Many of the achievements of these nations contributed to the march of human progress.

Babylon developed the basic science of astronomy, the duo-decimal system of numbers, and an early form of the calendar; Egypt challenged man's imagination up through the centuries by building the pyramids; Assyria built the first roads known to mankind, constructed canals for irrigation, and grew the first cotton known to the world; Greece became the fountain-head of great architecture and art, and the cradle of man's first experiment with democracy; Rome contributed a great republic, established remarkable courts of justice, and made notable achievements in art and music.

The three major causes of the downfall of these nations of the past were: Political decay, economic decay, moral decay. The decline and fall of each nation was characterized by these three common causes—and we should note well that each cause was something over which people had control. Many of these nations established some degree of individual freedom which lasted for a while. In each case, government ultimately became too powerful, and the citizens too indifferent to what was going on around them.

Rome's downfall was preceded by the government's attempt to bribe the people into action against the political and moral decay within the government. The government provided the populace with "bread and circuses"—meaning that it undertook to feed the people and to provide entertainment at the coliseum games. The decay went from bad to worse—and the people didn't seem to care. Rome's downfall ushered in the 1000-year-long Dark Ages for mankind.

Yes, human history presents powerful lessons. Will enough Americans recognize these lessons and understand their significance? The future of freedom will be determined on this question.

One Man Looks At God

(By Charles W. Carlson, Pastor, St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Oakland Maryland.)

As we continue our current series on "Christian Proverbs," we will consider this week the words of our Lord, recorded in Matthew 7:7 "Ask, and it will be given you, seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened unto you."

One of the great problems of the Christian church is the tremendous rate of spiritual illiteracy that is prevalent among her members. Many people are stumped at the most simple questions about their faith . . . many have not the slightest understanding about the real meaning of salvation in Jesus Christ. Some of the fault lies, we are sure, with the inept work of some Christian pastors, who seem not able to expound the meaning of the word of God with enough clarity. This, however, is not the main reason for this problem. The main reason is the simple fact, though simple it is certainly horrible, that people are too indifferent about their faith to really care what they believe. The vast majority of the people in churches do not even make the effort to participate in the Sunday program of education that their church has, let alone any special week day programs they may have. This fact is clearly born out by the recent statistics of church membership and Sunday Church School enrollment. In 1956 over one hundred million people belonged to churches, yet only thirty-eight million were active in Sunday church schools. In some places the statistics are even worse.

One of the horrible side issues of this situation is the fact that many who are interested enough to seek and ask seem intent upon seeking in the wrong direction, and with the wrong viewpoint in mind. They start with their own limited reason, and not with an open mind to God's revelation. These are the self-styled intellectuals who think that the basic Christian doctrines i.e. Divinity of Christ, Virgin Birth, Trinitarian God, et al, are beneath their sense of reason. How miserably inadequate these attitudes are when a man realizes that it was God who built this world in the first place, gave us a mind with which to think in the first place, and that the first place he should start in finding his peace as a creature of God is in what God has clearly revealed about Himself.

Southern-Keyser Game Postponed Until Next Monday

The Southern-Keyser football game, scheduled for Friday, October 25, will not be played until Monday afternoon at 1:30, it was announced yesterday by Coach Richard Travis of the Highlanders.

The Southern eleven is still suffering from the effects of the flu and as late as Tuesday were only able to muster fifteen boys on the playing field for practice.

Saturday they went to Kingwood with thirteen players, only three of them were regulars, and two became ill before playing time which left them with an 11-man team—no substitutes.

Kingwood defeated the Highlanders 24-6. Bulter scored Southern's only touchdown in the fourth quarter. The game was played in a sea of mud.

Travis said the Keyser-Highlander game would be broadcast over the Keyser radio station.

SUNNYSIDE UNDERWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Soelter and Bessie Canan were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smouse, near Deer Park, on Thursday. Mr. Smouse is recuperating at his home from recent surgery at the hospital in Oakland.

The Underwood Ladies' Aid will meet for its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Vera Sliger on the last Wednesday of this month. Mrs. Mary Hardesty will be co-hostess.

Kenny Hebb and son Allen, and Mrs. Villa Hebb were guests on Wednesday of Mrs. Bessie Canan.

C. W. Soelter accompanied Frank Arnold to Terra Alta on Saturday, where they were installing air lines in a garage building.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Friend and girls were in Parsons, W. Va., on Sunday where they were dinner guests of Mr. Friend's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Lipscomb and family who have recently purchased property and have moved there from their farm home near Lead Mine, W. Va.

A number of our young folks are off from school with flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Soelter were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Ada Martin and son Ira near Red House.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Stahl and children and Miss Virginia Sillies were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Glotfelty.

How much easier it would be for God to accomplish His purpose through the Church, which is founded upon the revelation of His Son, if church members in all humility were to really "seek. . . ask . . . and knock . . . " They will never really be given anything, find anything, or find any new doors opened to them until they do this. Why not this week make your step in the direction of God's revelation, and seek out His Word in the educational program of your church. If you have no church, you will be more than welcome at ours.

Miss Bertha Adkins was recommended as member of Maryland University Board of Governors.

happier sunset years

THANKS TO WOODMEN...

THE "SUNSET YEARS" are happier years for retired grocer W. G. Thornton, 75, Paducah, Ky. Though taken by ambulance to a St. Louis hospital early last year for treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis, he was back home six months later in improved health and enjoying visits from fellow Woodmen.

The cost of his treatment was nearly $2,000, yet he paid nothing. Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society footed the bill. Now it pays for his out-patient treatment.

Free treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis is another non-contractual "plus" benefit of Woodmen membership. More than 5,000 Woodmen have benefited from this service.

It is an example of the true fraternal regard the Society has for each of its members . . . and of a great service unparalleled in the insurance industry.

Mysterious?

NOT ON YOUR LIFE!

Your prescription may look mysterious—with its symbols, abbreviations, Latin terms—but there is nothing secretive about it.

Think a minute... don't musicians, engineers, lawyers, accountants—in fact, doesn't anyone in a skilled profession, including yourself—use technical terminology to communicate precise information?

Actually, the way your prescription reads facilitates and makes certain that you get exactly "what the doctor orders."

"Phases Of Patients" Is Title Of Civic Club Talk Tuesday

Merritt Feather, accounting consultant for the Garrett County Memorial hospital, was guest speaker of the Oakland Civic club at its Tuesday afternoon meeting.

He gave an account of the phases of a patient upon entering the hospital relative to mental, physical and financial reaction, with the final question being "What is the Cost?"

With facts and figures he outlined the financial operation and what it means to the community, and that the care indigent patients receive actually costs the county less now than before the hospital services were available.

He also pointed out that the hospital has superior equipment and accommodation to anything to be found in any similar agricultural community.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Grover C. King who passed away October 29, 1952.

ALONE IN SILENCE

I wander through a meadow, and
I gaze up at a hill.
The sky is like a pillow, and the countryside is still.
It is a calm and peaceful scene,
beneath the morning sun.
And yet without your loving smile
it is an empty one.
The meadow has not changed at all
The hill is just the same.
But when I call an echo forth,
I do not hear your name.
And when I touch the twilight of
The evening or the dawn
I have to tell my heart at last
That you are really gone
And I can only try to match the silence all around.
By weeping quietly beside a little plot of ground.

Sadly missed by wife,
OLLIE C. KING

Barley Has Place In Dairy Rations

With a scarcity of corn in many areas of Maryland this year, dairy rations will have to be altered accordingly. Present feed prices in the state show that barley is a likely substitute.

Barley can be used to a maximum of 50 percent of the dairy rations, according to Richard G. Saacke, University of Maryland extension dairyman. He says barley is equal to corn, pound for pound, in energy content. Barley is higher in protein content than corn, so when barley is increased in the ration an adjustment should be made in the amount of protein supplement.

A general rule for determining the relative values of barley and corn is that the grain selling for the lowest price per pound is the better buy, from the standpoint of energy content. When the protein content is considered barley has an advantage over corn when the price per pound is the same.

Regarding the belief that feeding barley in the dairy ration can cause short lactations and other harmful effects, Saacke says all such beliefs have been disproven by research.

Barley can also be substituted pound for pound, for oats in dairy rations if a price situation develops where this substitution has an advantage.

Fish Regulations Are Announced

Regulations adopted by the Game and Inland Fish commission of Maryland at a meeting October 5, were announced this week by the commission.

The announcement was made in conference with sections of the laws of Maryland whereby the commission shall adopt and publish seasons, size and creel limits for game and fresh water fish before October 25 of each year.

Bass season will run from June 1 to November 30, minimum size 9 inches, creel limit 10. Trout season, except Savage river watershed, April 15 to September 15, minimum size 7 inches, creel limit 5. Other fish: pike or pickerel, June 1 to November 30; Walleyes, April 1 to November 15; shad and herring, March 1 to September 15; striped bass no closed season; suckers, catfish, eel, perch, etc., no closed season.

New Regulation

There's a new wrinkle in trout fishing. It will be lawful to fish for all species of trout from April 15 to March 14, inclusive, except the season for Savage River watershed shall be from April 15 to September 15 inclusive; provided however, the season shall be April 15 to March 14, inclusive, in the Savage River reservoir and New Germany Lake.

This will give eleven months of trout fishing.

The waters designated as trout streams in Garrett county include Savage river watershed, salt block watershed, Little Youghiogheny watershed above Maryland route 560, Big Youghiogheny watershed above Maryland route 39; White Rock, Bear Creek, Mill Run, Muddy Creek, Puzzley Run watersheds; Potomac river from mouth of Kempton Laurel run to West Virginia State line; Millers Run, Buffalo Run, Sand Run, Piney Run watersheds.

Regulation on trout in Deep Creek Lake, approved by the Attorney General in 1955 was rescinded and substituted in lieu the following:

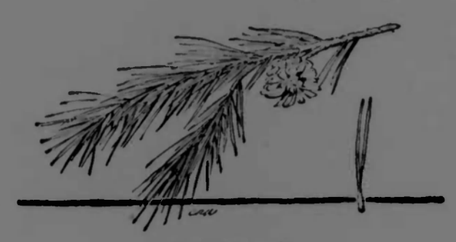
"The hours only for fishing for trout as set forth in section 207 of article 66C shall not apply to fresh water impoundments of live acres or more."

It is lawful to fish through the ice during the lawful open season with not more than six tip-ups, bobs or hand-lines to each individual licensed fisherman. The tip-ups are not to have more than one hook per line.

The regulations are effective January 1, 1958.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE PLANTS

Prepared by the MARYLAND GAME & INLAND FISH COMMISSION



SCOTCH PINE

(Pinus sylvestris)

RANGE: A native of Europe and Siberia; thoroughly naturalized at some points on the N.E. coast; much cultivated in Maryland but its use has decreased.

DESCRIPTION: Commonly an irregular shaped tree; height usually not more than 60 feet; bark reddish to red-brown; leaves in clusters of two needles, dark green, to three and a half inches long.

PREFERRED HABITAT: Thrives on well drained, deep and moist soil; will grow on dry, sterile sands and thin soils of rocky outcrops.

METHOD OF ESTABLISHMENT: Seeds or seedlings planted in Fall; 68,000 seeds per pound, germination 70 per cent; plants reasonably free of fungus diseases and insect pests.

FLOWERS: Staminate cones (male), yellow, egg-shaped, two-fifths of inch long, appearing in May or June behind new leaves; pistillate cones (female) short-stalked, tawny yellow, 2½ inches long, mature in the second season.

FRUIT: Seeds winged, dark gray, mottled, 1/6 inch long.

WILDLIFE USE: Many birds and mammals feed on the seeds; needles are eaten by deer, also serves as nesting material by several species of birds; trees are important cover and roosting places, particularly during migration.

OTHER USE: Control of soil erosion, fire wood, little value as timber producer.

Good Year To Keep Old Hens In Flock

High egg prices this fall and the prospect of continued high prices for the winter are helping producers decide what to do with hens that have been in production for a year.

This is a good year to keep hens over, and let them go into a second year of production.

Even with high prices on the old hens' side, though, they must be carefully culled or the producer may find himself losing money.

Grover C. Harris, University of Maryland extension poultryman, points out that culling isn't as important with today's improved hybrid strain crosses as it used to be. "But this tendency to do less culling than a few years ago," he adds, "is not good business where hold-over hens are concerned.

"We should keep only the best hens—and cull the poorer producers out of the flock—if we are keeping birds over into the second year."

Harris explains that the present egg market situation resulted from last spring's record low hatch of layer-type chicks. The outcome is low egg production and high egg prices.

Retires From Navy

Mrs. Amelia Harvey, of Mt. Lake Park, has received word that her son, Wilmot E. Bowen, has retired from the U. S. Navy as commander in the Naval air corps, after serving twenty-five years. He resides in West Atlantic City, N. Y.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: I Corinthians 8, 9, 10:23-33
Devotional Reading: Galatians 5:13-25

Christian Freedom

Lesson for October 27, 1957

LIFE would be simpler if it were all in clear black-and-white. There is no mistaking one for the other. Daylight and dark can't be confused. But twilight is confused and confusing. There are some actions, some ways of living, which are evidently and undeniably good; there are others which are just as plainly bad. (Quotation again from Billy Sunday. "If a man starts arguing with you that stealing isn't a sin, don't argue with him—search him!") But there are many problems in living which can't be solved by simple rule. There are many actions about which sincere Christians may differ, some saying Do, others saying Don't.

Dr. Foreman

Twilight Zone

In the twilight zone are many actions or proposed actions, which are really unprecedented. The Bible says nothing about them, even the state's legal code may not mention them. One day a woman threw a whiskey bottle at the door of England's prime minister. She was arrested and fined. But she said to the judge: "I'll be back with another bottle. The government is throwing hydrogen bombs, and throwing bottles is nothing near so wicked as that. This is my protest against the wickedness of the H-Bomb." Well, it is certainly against the law to throw bottles. It's not against the law to experiment with H-bombs. But many people would feel the woman was right, no carload of glass bottles can do a small part of the harm that one H-bomb can do. But it's in the twilight zone. More simple, personal matters are also in the twilight zone. Is it right or wrong for a Christian to attend the theater? to read a book of fiction? to use tobacco? to drink wine, beer, whiskey, gin? Christians are not unanimous in their verdicts.

Abusing Freedom

We can get a good deal of heat on at least part of the brilliant case by reading Paul and the Gospels. Paul gave a positive statement on a negative basis. Christians can abuse their freedom in Christ. Let Christians who abuse their freedom be directive. At Corinth, for example, there was a [illegible] sort of twilight-zone problem: the question of meat that had been offered to idols. In every Greek butcher shop there were cuts of beef, veal, lamb and [illegible] just as in our super-markets, only of course much less sanitary. When the 20th-century housekeeper goes shopping for a steak, she does not inquire how the cow died. Presumably it was killed by some one paid for doing such things. But there is nothing religious about a slaughter-house. In Corinth, in the First Century, on the contrary, the cow from whose dead body the steak was taken, very likely had died in a religious ceremony, killed in sacrifice on altars dark with blood and black with fire and smoke. After the ceremony in the temple, most of the dead animal would be taken and sold in the market-place . . . and so find its way to the tables of the ladies of Corinth.

The problem was: Could a Christian eat steaks and chops from animals slaughtered in heathen religious rites? It was a twilight-zone question. Many Corinthians were saying, "Certainly I can eat without sin. Idolatry is bad, but if a cow breathed her last in an idol's temple, that doesn't infect the roast beef with sin!"

Using Freedom

Wait a minute, Paul says in effect, when they ask him about this. You are free, to be sure. This particular twilight-zone thing is not a sin. Eating such meat is not an approval of idolatry at all. But suppose some weaker brother knows what you are doing, and concludes that you are approving idol-worship? Then what? Then the question is not any longer, Is this particular act right or wrong? The question for you is, What will be the effect on my brother if I do this thing I am free to do? This brother may be weak, he may even be stupid; but Christ died for him. Are you going to drive back into sin this man for whom Christ died? So it is with many twilight-zone acts today. You may be strong and free; doing them will not hurt you at all. But what about other people? I am never so free if I am a Christian, that I have a right to abuse my freedom by leading some one else into what for him is sin.

GRIP-SPUR

Here it is—the new Unico Grip-Spur . . . the first tire ever specifically designed 100% for YOU—THE FARMER. Built for most extreme driving conditions on the farm. New Super Cordura rayon carcass body is 20% stronger than conventional rayon cord—resists injuries which damage ordinary tires, and has extra flexing resistance for greater wear and longer life. Super Cordura insures cooler running, better tire performance.

Super Deep Tread

Deep penetrating tread is made of powerful spurs that grip and hold on slippery hills, in soft mud, on rough terrain. In the popular 8:25 X 20 (10 ply) size the Grip-Spur has a 1.11 inch tread depth. Nothing like it on the market today. Broad tread profile affords flotation in muddy or wet field operation. Husky shoulder lugs protect against snagging, tearing on hard surfaces and frozen roads. Yes, in every way the GRIP-SPUR is engineered for overall tough farm operation. It's the sturdiest, most serviceable, dependable farm tire ever made. Reasonably priced too. Why not get a set today!

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Blasted Dream

There is no question that the Senate Committee on Labor Racketeering headed by Senator McClellan, of Arkansas, has accomplished one extremely commendable and comforting thing. It has—at least for a long time to come—effectively killed the great idea cherished by so many of labor's more powerful bosses of establishing in this country a labor party along British lines. This, of course, involved a labor President as well as a labor-dominated Congress.

—o—

Those who think this idea of a labor party was not a serious one have forgotten the facts. It not only was exceedingly serious but it was openly discussed nearly eight years ago. This was practically proclaimed by several well-known journalists, acknowledged New Dealers and with close relations to the controlling influences in labor circles. This, it will be recalled, was in 1950 when the late Senator Rob. A. Taft, author of the Taft-Hartley Act, was a candidate for re-election. The leaders of organized labor joined forces. They let it be known his defeat was vital to the interests of every working man. They sunk their personal enmities and avowed that Mr. Taft's election would be a crushing blow to labor generally, its "hopes and aspirations."

—o—

They literally drenched Ohio with money, propaganda and speeches. Conceded it, Mr. Taft was in great peril and his defeat would vastly increase the national political prestige and power of the labor bosses, who visualized a labor party that would give them even greater dominance of the Government than they had acquired under the Roosevelt-Truman administrations. Nevertheless, Senator Taft won the election by more than 100,000, a majority unprecedented in the State and constituting a devastating blow to the above referred to "hopes and aspirations." But, bad as it was, it did not completely obliterate that real labor party dream. Of course, this was five years prior to the formation of the great AFL-CIO combination with its boasted 15,000,000 membership. However, neither the Taft victory nor the Eisenhower White House victory really blotted out that party idea. In the last election, though labor's candidate, Mr. Stevenson, took a terrific clobbering, undoubtedly it was labor support that enabled the Democrats to control both the Senate and House.

In brief, they could have maintained their rule of terror over congressmen, candidates and politicians generally in both parties had it not been for the McClellan committee's revelation of shocking and shameless labor-leader graft, bribery and corruption. The exent and character of this corruption has been so extraordinary that it has troubled the whole labor movement in the United States. True, most of these revelations have concerned the Messrs. Beck and Hoffa and their aides in the International Teamsters Union. But the further fact is that the Meany-Reuther reaction to the teamster exposures has not been wholly convincing.

The simple fact is that these corruption revelations have blackened not only the Beck-Hoffa type of union leadership but they have created distrust and contempt for union leaders generally—with the exception of Mr. John L. Lewis, who has kept his union in a state of complete independence. The net of all this has been to create among Americans generally a feeling that many of the leaders of the American labor movement have been shown up as crooked and many more who are crooked have not yet been caught. Also, it has increased the prospect of more "right to work" laws. All this, to be sure, has increased the feeling among the people as a whole that there are few labor leaders who can be trusted, that the unions largely are run by men chiefly concerned with feathering their nests and that it is dangerous to put political power in their hands.

It may do some an injustice but there is much truth therein. This means that the political power of organized labor has greatly diminished within the last few months. It means that to some extent Congress has lost its fear of the "labor vote"; that the power to brow-beat members of Congress has been lost; that to some extent the support of organized labor has become a liability and not an asset. Certainly many members of Congress who have operated under dread of what an organized labor boss could do to them breathe more freely. It must be a relief. There are, of course, some who contend that the revealed crooks among the labor brass constitute a small minority and that the majority are patriotic in spirit and unselfishly devoted to the "labor cause." Possibly they are right.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

Each of us wants the most of our Federal Government's dollar. We want definite national programs of objectives; but there are some areas running the Federal Government reduced, and we applaud every effort to cut waste and duplication in which we must carefully weigh the price we pay for reduced from departmental appropriations. budgets. National safety is one of those areas. Too, we are aware of the fact that there are differences of opinion as to the amounts necessary to pursue

A major debate will again characterize the Congress' consideration of funds for national defense next session. I think that it is imperative that we make full use of this country's scientific manpower and resources in our battle against the spread of communism. I have in the past supported the maximum appropriations necessary to carry on the Defense Department's research and development programs. I will continue to do so as long as our national safety is in danger.

Modern weapons and the continuing war against the spread of communism require a high degree of specialization in our defense program. Such specialization is costly and a part of the price we must pay for national safety. But such expenditures must be made in such a way so as not to endanger the economic strength of the country.

I think that it is unfortunate that there is so much misunderstanding about the aims and objectives of the Mutual Security program. It is our nation's insurance against aggression. It includes funds for our national defense and for military and economic assistance to the nations allied with us in waging the peace.

It is easy, perhaps, to see justification for military expenditures. But what about economic assistance? Economic aid is just plain good business. The raising of the standard of living in the nations of the world will help—not hurt us. The ideal is, of course, for all countries to have the same high standard of living. But such a world is a long, long way off. Nevertheless, only then will there be complete freedom to carry on unhampered trade. The barrier to free trade is national differences in standards of living. Low living standards permit low unit-costs of production and the nations with high standards must protect themselves whenever low cost goods threaten their way of life.

FIRST choice in gas and oil...

Let the top-quality, first-choice products perfected by Esso Research bring out the best in your car. Golden Esso Extra is the first, and still the best, gasoline expressly designed for all new cars and those with higher-compression engines. It starts quickly in any weather — and no other gasoline gives faster engine warm-up. Really great for mileage, too.

LAST word in dealer service...

With colder weather just ahead, your car deserves the attention of a man who specializes in Happy Motoring in any weather — your Esso Dealer. You'll want a complete lubrication, battery and cooling system check-up (one fill with Atlas Perma-Guard® Anti-Freeze lasts all winter), and an oil change to new Uniflo — the best motor oil you can buy! See your Esso Dealer soon ... travel first class, regularly!

Copr. 1957, Esso Inc.

ALWAYS your best buy!

When you stop at the Esso Sign, you needn't pay an extra penny for power your car can't use, because you can choose from three gasolines — not just two. There's Esso, the popular "regular"... big value Super Premium Esso Extra ... and for all new cars and higher-compression engines, Golden Esso Extra, "the gasoline that's truly in a class by itself"! Try one of these three fine gasolines next time you drive.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Nellie A. Coddington, who passed away two years ago, October 30, 1955.

You left us on your birthday
As God would have it so.
And we shall never forget, dear
The day you had to go.
We're so alone without you
We miss you day by day
But still our memories guide us.
And help us on our way.
We'll follow in your footsteps.
And live by faith and prayer.
So when our savior calls us,
We'll meet again up there.

Sadly missed

World on Wheels . . .

The importance of the automotive industry is brought to mind more forcibly at this time than any other period in the year, for it is now that most of the new models are being announced. There will be much persuasive advertising published, calculated to clinch the sale of new automobiles by the hundreds of thousands.

There was no thought in the horse and buggy days of a few short years ago that the automobile industry would rocket to the size we know it today. It is now one of the biggest of the "big" industries. In Garrett county alone figures indicate that more than $5 million dollars are spent for automobiles annually, over $2 million dollars more than people spend for food.

When automobiles were in their infancy, many people feared that the industry would ruin the economy of the nation by driving out of business all the hardware dealers and blacksmith shops. But where would our economy be today if we took away the automotive dealers, the filling stations, tire stores and allied businesses?

We talk about recreation as an aid to Garrett county. We point to Deep Creek Lake and how interest in property there has raised our taxable basis. But year in and year out, one of our stabilizing influences has been the automobile business, and that of the garage, tire and gasoline enterprises.

They are some of the big cogs in this vast wheel of activity, and they are necessary to our existence.

There are a few spots in the continents today that do not know the automobile but the automotive industry virtually has put the world on wheels. We take our hats off this week to the millions of people who are associated in the job of keeping our wheels well oiled and incessantly revolving.

Garrett One Of Five Counties Of State Brucellosis Free

A report on the brucellosis eradication program in Maryland shows that Garrett county is one of five counties in the state that has been certified as a disease free area. The certification was effective October 1.

Other counties certified are Wicomico, Somerset and Caroline. Dorchester county testing has been completed and is ready for certification while three counties, Talbot, Queen Anne and Kent, each has one herd to be tested.

The report, presented to the State Board of Agriculture by Edward Holter, agriculture committee chairman, declared that the brucellosis eradication program had been an important phase of the annual disease control program by the Live Stock Sanitary service under the jurisdiction of the Maryland State Board of Agriculture.

The Live Stock Sanitary service staff has worked closely with the State Veterinary association, the State Brucellosis committee, the farm organizations of Maryland, and others interested in the eradication of the disease.

Both State and Federal funds have been available for payment of indemnities for animals slaughtered in the program. In addition, Federal funds were made available for the drawing of blood samples.

The report showed that calfhood vaccination with strain 19 has been encouraged for many years. Approximately 45,000 calves were vaccinated each year for the past several years. In 1956-57 there were 49,887 calves vaccinated or a 10 percent increase from the year before. The report showed the calfhood vaccination program had helped to reduce losses from Brucellosis and assist in the eradication program.

This will be the second time this year for a night game at Kingwood, having played Kingwood High school there Saturday, October 19.

Gives Arrow Heads

Garygene Barton, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Shillingburg, of Sever, and Mrs. James S. Burton, of Kitzmiller, gave three authentic Indian arrow heads to Governor Theodore R. McKeldin to be given to Queen Elizabeth II at the football game at College Park two weeks ago.

Governor McKeldin, in a letter to Garygene, stated he gave the arrow heads to the Queen for her two children. He said the Queen was pleased with them. They were of white quartz.

Rotary and Lions To Salute Teachers

In observance of American Education Week November 10 to 16, teachers in the southern part of the county will be guests of the Oakland Rotary and Lions clubs at their regular meetings scheduled during that week.

The Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club will meet Monday, November 11, and will have as its guests teachers from Center street, Annex, Kitzmiller, Crellin, Loch Lynn, Red House, Swan Meadow, Swanton, Deer Park and North Glade. The Rotary club will have as its guests on Friday evening, November 15, all members of the Southern High school faculty.

Efforts are being made to secure as speaker for both programs a member of the State Department of Education. Special music is to be provided by visiting teachers.

Officers of the two organizations were endeavoring to have these programs between the teachers and local service clubs to become annual events.

Three Members Of Family Are Injured

Three members of a Garrett county family were admitted to Sacred Heart hospital in Cumberland early Sunday morning after sustaining injuries in an automobile accident.

Hospital attendants said that Mrs. Gladys Warnick, 36, and her daughters, Wanda, 16, and Leota, 17, were in "good" condition.

Mrs. Warnick, who apparently was driving the car when it skidded off the highway while traveling on the New Germany road, suffered multiple abrasions of the face, a laceration of the face and injuries to her right shoulder.

Miss Leota Warnick sustained contusions and abrasions of the scalp and legs and a laceration of the chin. Miss Wanda Warnick, apparently the most seriously hurt, suffered a cracked vertebrae near the neck, contusions and abrasions. She was placed in traction at the hospital.

The father and husband, Wilson Warnick, 38, was treated for facial cuts and abrasions at the hospital. He is a district employe of the State Department of Forests and Parks.

The family lives at Big Run in the New Germany-Savage River state forest area.

Deputy Sheriff Has Resigned Position

Raymond Thomas, who has been serving as deputy sheriff since the latter part of June, has resigned his position, effective Saturday, November 1.

Mr. Thomas was named deputy by James E. Frantz at the time he was appointed sheriff by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin. Mr. Frantz was named to succeed Mr. Fisher who resigned to accept an appointment as a county assessor.

Mr. Thomas, a former resident of Friendsville, had been residing in Cleveland, O., for several years where he was employed as a welder. He and his family plan to move to Friendsville.

Mr. Frantz said he had a person in mind for deputy but that there would be no definite statement as to a successor for Mr. Thomas this week.

Ross Speicher Made Elder In Brethren Church

Is One Of Four Ordained At Convention Last Week

Rev. Ross Speicher was one of four ministers ordained as Elders in the Church of the Brethren at the 91st annual convention of the Western Pennsylvania district held last week at Morrellville church in Johnstown, Pa. The ordination service highlighted the Wednesday evening session of the convention.

Officiating at the ordination service was Rev. Wilfred Staufer, of Greensburg, Pa.

Mr. Speicher received a temporary license to preach in 1945, and received his permanent license two years later. He is the first local person to be ordained as elder in the Church of the Brethren for a number of years.

The Bear Creek Church of the Brethren at Accident was Mr. Speicher's home church. A son of Mrs. W. A. Speicher and the late Mr. Speicher, he attended services there while a youngster.

His first charge was the Maple Grove Church of the Brethren at Grantsville. Subsequently he served the Maple Glen Church of the Brethren at Salisbury, the Markleysburg Church of the Brethren, and the Fairview Church of the Brethren. At present he is pastor of the Hostetler church near Meyersdale.

Mr. Speicher married the former Helen Glotfelty and they have one daughter, Iva Kathryn Speicher, a senior at Northern High school this year.

Annual Meeting Set For Mental Health

The first Annual Meeting of the Garrett County Association for Mental Health is scheduled for Saturday, November 2, at the William James Hotel, Oakland, according to an announcement by Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, president.

Members of the newly formed Association and the general public are invited to the luncheon meeting at 1:30 P. M. Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. William Smith, Route 2, Oakland. Tickets will be $1.50.

Guest speaker will be Ray Hamby, assistant executive director of the Maryland Association for Mental Health, who will show a "20-minute film, "Will I Be Welcome?", which he wrote and filmed in Maryland state mental hospitals. Mr. Hamby will discuss the role of the community in accepting Garrett Countains back from mental hospitals and helping them to a successful rehabilitation.

Also on the agenda for the meeting will be the presentation of awards to workers thoughout the county in the organization's May campaign. By-laws for the organization will be presented for adoption by a committee headed by associate Judge Neil Fraley and committee chairmen will be appointed for the coming year.

The Association is making application for memberships in the Maryland and National Associations for Mental Health.

Officers are Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, Oakland; president; Mrs. Bernard Guy, Bloomington, 1st vice president; Miss Viola Broadwater, Grantsville, 2nd vice president; Mrs. William Smith, Route 2, Oakland, recording secretary; and Mr. George Littman, of Oakland treasurer.

New Fishing Regulations To Be Explained

A report on the meeting of the Game and Inland Fishing Commission at Hagerstown recently will be heard at a meeting of the Garrett County Conservation association next Tuesday evening, November 5, at 8 o'clock, at the Oakland Fire hall.

Carroll Miller, president, said a number of changes had been made in the fishing regulations and said these would be explained and discussed. All persons interested are invited to attend the meeting.

Other officers named at the October meeting were Helmuth Hose, vice-president, Harland Bittinger, secretary-treasurer; and Ray Cogley and Joseph Kahl, directors. Mr. Miller remarked that the hunting season was now with us and cautioned people to be careful in order to be "safe and sorry."

Now It's All Clear

There's some valid explanation for the mix-up in telephone calls that have been occurring in this area in recent weeks.

There are dial exchanges in Washington and Oakland that are the same and yet are not the same. In Washington it's DEwey, while in Oakland it's DEerfield. Sometimes the long distance operators just get their wires crossed.

Those calls for U. S. Senators, members of the House of Represenatives and other dignitaries were going not only to Southern States in Oakland but also to Joseph Stanton, down on Deep Creek Lake, and possibly others.

Annual School Tour Set For November 14

The second annual all-day pilgrimage of county schools will take place Thursday, November 14, it was announced by Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools.

The pilgrimage will be in keeping with numerous special programs in the schools during the week of November 10 to 16, American Education Week.

He said the pilgrimage was being held as the result of popular demand, as many parents who made the tour of some of the county schools last year are interested in visiting other schools this year.

Parent groups will be made up at 9:30 a. m., that day, at the Annex in Oakland, at Friendsville, Accident, Kitzmiller, Bloomington, Grantsville and Northern. All parents of children in county schools are invited to join the tour and may report to any one of the centers listed. Parents then may decide where they want to go and may visit as many different schools as time permits.

Cafeteria lunches will be served at the Center street, Annex, Friendsville, Accident, Kitzmiller, Grantsville, Southern, Northern, Red House and Loch Lynn schools for 35 cents each.

Mr. Hawkins pointed out that in addition to improvements to schools made prior to the first annual tour that parents would be able to see the complete renovation and many improvements made to the Yoder, Bloomington and Crellin schools this past summer. They also will be able to see the exterior painting jobs to both high schools, and although incomplete, the new school on route 40. The new school on Dennett road, Oakland, will not be open to public inspection, Mr. Hawkins said, as this would interfere with workmen trying to complete the building by Thanksgiving.

A special open house and dedication program is planned, however, for the Dennett Road school soon after it is opened for classes.

Mr. Hawkins said every effort would be made to interest many parents in joining the county-wide school tour. He emphasized that all parents and school patrons would be welcome.

The Associated women of the Farm Bureau elected the following directors: Mrs. Charles Wilt, Accident; Mrs. Claude Bishoff, Friendsville; Mrs. Morris Beachy, Grantsville; Mrs. H. G. Gortner, Oakland-Red House; Mrs. Harland Beckman, Swanton-Deer Park. Women delegates are Mrs. Kenneth Buckel, Mrs. Willie Warnick, with Mrs. Harold Bittinger and Mrs. Glenn Durst as alternates.

County Has Faint Connection With Nation's Richest Man

Garrett county can almost reach out and touch the richest man in the nation. One of his second cousins is a life-long resident here.

Fortune Magazine this month identified J. Paul Getty, an American oilman now living in Paris, as the nation's richest man. It said he was worth 700 million to a billion dollars.

Getty heads a list of 76 Americans whose wealth Fortune estimates at over 76 million apiece.

Mr. Getty gets into the local picture because he happens to be a second cousin of Mrs. Joseph F. Fahey, of Grantsville. Mrs. Fahey said this week he visited in Grantsville in 1945 and that she hears from him occasionally, but that is the extent of the association. He published a book about the Getty family a number of years ago.

She said that her father and the father of J. Paul Getty grew up together, that Paul's father went west and struck oil, and that her father came east and didn't. She recalled this week that at the time of his visit to Grantsville he admired Mrs. Fahey's house, the Casselman hotel property. She said she indicated jokingly at the time that it was in need of repair and that the roof leaked in spots, and he replied, "I admire it just the way it is."

The tall, well-built Oxford graduate in economics, who was a millionaire in oil when he was 23, said he got rich because he was lucky.

Getty was born in Minneapolis, the son of a lawyer who moved to California and who died in 1930 worth many millions. His father, too, made his money in oil.

The son's great fortune was founded in the depression years, buying oil company stocks from rich people. Many of these stocks are selling today at 75 to 100 times more than what he had paid.

He said he planned to retire "when they put me six feet under."

Getty will be 65 on December 15. He is in London from Paris on a private visit to see old friends. Then he plans to return to his home in Saudi Arabia. He also has an estate in Santa Monica, Cal. Getty went to London alone. He is in the midst of a divorce from his fifth wife. He said he had no plans to marry again. He has six children.

Fortune magazine had quite a lengthy article on the wealthy people of the nation and listed many of them by name.

Flu Epidemic Has Reached Its Peak In County Schools

While the flu epidemic seems to have reached its peak earlier in the week and near normal attendance is taking place in the high schools, a number of elementary schools still are suffering from a high rate of absenteeism, it was announced by Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools.

He said the schools probably hit the hardest in the county were Kitzmiller, Yoder and Swan Meadow where in these schools the attendance for several days dropped to less than 50 percent of normal.

Hawkins said absenteeism among teachers has been unusually high, cutting into the efficiency level at which schools can operate.

He said that county school officials hope that by next week the epidemic will have passed and that schools can resume normal operations.

He added that no thought was given to the closing of the schools due to the epidemic of flu as such was not recommended by the State Health department.

County Has Over Inch Snow Sunday

Garrett county had its first real snow of the year on Sunday. Between one and one-half and two inches of snow fell during the day. This was not the first snow of the season, some having fallen on October 12 in the Bittinger area, but it was the first of the year that could be measured.

Enough snow remained on the roads to make them icy and hazardous through the following day. Monday remained cold and cloudy, but Tuesday was clear and warmer. There was a slight rainfall on Wednesday which continued through Wednesday night, but today appeared clear and warmer.

An inch or more of rain fell last Wednesday night and Thursday. None of it seems to be getting into the deep wells of the town, however. It was reported this week that the town hadn't been able to obtain any surplus water much above the fire reserve in the two reservoirs.

Inducts Wesleyan College President

Ernest Ray Jones, Oakland attorney, as chairman of the Board of Trustees of West Virginia Wesleyan college, inducted the new president of the college into office at appropriate ceremonies at Buckhannon last Friday afternoon.

Inducted into office was Stanley H. Martin, who succeeded Dr. William J. Scarborough, who recently resigned to become president of Baker university at Baldwin, Kansas.

Mr. Martin comes from Nashville, Tenn., and was formerly with the General Board of Education of the Methodist church.

Attending the induction ceremonies were Mrs. Jones, Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Patterson, and two local students at the college, Sam Moore and Geraldine Davis.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors on Thursday the contract for the construction of the new dormitory for women was awarded to the John I. Vandergrift company of Cumberland. The contract price is in the neighborhood of $750,000.

Used Clothing Drive Declared Huge Success

Cub scouts of Oakland reported this morning that residents went "all out" to provide them with a generous amount of used clothing last night to start off the Junior Woman's Civic club "Clothes Closet" project in the Oakland schools.

Included in the donations were two dozen pairs of shoes, all in good condition, dresses, sweaters, underclothing, socks, coats, jackets, boots, hats, shirts, trousers and large box of baby clothing.

Frank McOaniel, cubmaster, said the cubs and the Civic club would be very grateful for all the contributions.

One Man Looks At God

By Charles W. Carlson, Pastor St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Oakland, Maryland

Four hundred and forty years ago an Augustinian monk with the Latin name Martinus Luther, professor of Biblical Theology at the young University of Wittenberg, posted just under a hundred points for the theological argument on the door of the church that he served as pastor, along with his university duties. This was common practice among the Christian theologians of that day, to post points for discussion on a church door.

This time, however, the arguments reached far beyond the usual channels of scholastic theology. For one thing, the arguments eventually reached the ears of the pope, something which did not usually happen. Though the articles dealt mainly with the practice of indulgences, the points inherent in them were disturbing to the minds of the authorities of the church. They perhaps felt the early rumblings of a movement, in these articles, that was to set free the conscience of man, give rise to the modern educational movement and a whole host of other major and minor things that were the outgrowth of the Reformation. It all started with these hammer blows.

Luther was not the only Reformer. No, the field was "ripe unto the harvest," having been cultivated by men like Huss of Bohemia. There were other great men who also bore the banner, Melanchthon, Calvin, Zwingli. But more than any other man Luther became the voice of Reform. His fortress and pen became mighty instruments in the cause of Christ. Eventually in 1559 at the Council of Trent even those who had remained within the fold of Rome realized a need for certain Even today there are people who look to Luther as the

After this time, Luther preached Christ as opposed to Rome as a system of men. His great doctrines of justification by Faith, the Universal Priesthood of believers, his monumental writings, including a wonderful translation of the Bible into German, and many commentaries on the scriptures, as well as the many practical tracts and treatises on everything from catechism to marriage, stand as clear proof that here was a man for whom nothing mattered more than the clear propagation of the Gospel of Jesus Christ and after the propagation an ever-increasing awareness of the responsibilities of a Child of God to the purposes of the Kingdom.

Yes, we can learn much from Luther, his hard hours of prayer in seeking out the Lord's way for his life, his stubborn concentration on what the scriptures clearly teach, his tremendous courage to stand in the face of imminent personal destruction at the hands of Rome, yet with clear conviction saying, "I cannot, I will not recant!" But most of all, his personal humility in the face of other men's praise for his accomplishments. He wanted men to have faith, not in him, but in his Lord. We can truly say, here was a real man, made real by his tremendous devotion to his Lord. Oh! For more men like this today.

Northern Whips Fort Hill JV's

Deer Park Robeson tallied all the points for his team as the Northern Bison Huskies snapped a two-game losing streak with a 19-0 triumph over the Fort Hill Jaycees yesterday at Fort Hill Stadium.

Coach Denver Mitchell's Huskies, who saw an 11-game winning streak snapped by Beall High two weeks ago and then lost again last week to Berlin, scored in each of the first two quarters yesterday. They bounced back after the Little Sentinels tallied in the third quarter and added the final touchdown to register their sixth victory in eight games this season.

Robeson, leading scorer in the area, galloped 60 yards for the initial six-pointer and added the extra point. Robeson went 23 yards for the second score and concluded the scoring with a 14-yard romp for a touchdown following a blocked kick in the 4th period.

Playing for Northern were Beitzel, Durst, Mackey, Baker, Frantz, Strauss, Lawson, Robeson, Hamberson, Schroyer and Miller. Substitutions included Spear, Swauger, Sisler, Gilpin, Wright, Umbel.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of Bonnie C. Calhoun who departed this life one year ago November 1st, 1957.
Our hearts deep in sorrow return to the day
As memory recalls how death bore her away
And left us in tears in grief and in woe
When we stood by her grave one year ago.
Though suffering she breathed not a murmur
For the Comforter stood by her side and whispered:
"Fear not, I am with thee, with me thou shall abide"
O'er the river the pale boatman hastened;
We heard the sad dip of his oar.
Then from earth and its sorrows
He bore her across the shore.
Her busy hands are folded,
Her work on earth is done;
Her trials are all ended,
A heavenly crown she has won
We did not want to lose her
But God knows what is best
And some day we hope to be with her
In that sweet land of rest.

By her niece,

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

There are five accelerators built into our production system which are not to be found in combination and in like measure anywhere else in the world. It is important that every citizen know what these five factors are, so they can be properly appreciated and protected. They are: 1. Freedom to work; 2. Freedom to dream; 3. Freedom to compete; 4. Freedom to advance; and 5. Freedom to invest.

Our freedom to choose our occupation makes it possible for the American to enjoy his work, to work at top efficiency and thus produce more per man hour of work. Productivity means production per worker. The American's freedom to choose his own work has been a basic factor in pushing American productivity far ahead of the rate in every other country in the world.

When the American finds the occupation he likes, he is free to dream and to try to make his dreams come true. Thomas Edison tinkered with everything, and he constantly dreamed of new things to create. Some of Edison's inventions have been priceless contributions to the advancing welfare of American citizens. Our system harnesses the brain power of the whole population.

When a person is free to dream dreams, and free to make his dreams come true, he encounters in America a third great stimulating factor: competition. If someone can beat the dreamer in production and marketing and new ideas, he's free to do so. This keeps a steady flow of improvements going into American products.

American competition, along with our freedom to advance, has developed the finest industrial and business management in the world. Incompetent management cannot survive the keen competition of our free market. The most efficient rise to the top. This means better jobs and a more secure future for employees and better products at less cost to the consuming public.

Today the average job in American industry requires an investment of more than $12,000—per job! This is one of the major factors, of course, in our unmatched productivity and our unmatched living standard.

We should be reminded that the key word in each of the five accelerators of our great production is "freedom." Take freedom from any phase of our economic system and our progress would stall. For our self-preservation and welfare, we must watch carefully and guard against all encroachments on freedom in the economic life of our nation.

FOOTBALL
Why Play Football?
By DICK TRAVIS

Now that we are nearing the end of another football season we might pause to consider some of the individual benefits of the game.

Ask any boy why he played football and the answer that is almost always given is, "I just like to play." A few boys may want to use the game as a means of acquiring an education through a scholarship, or an occasional boy may have visions of earning a livelihood by playing professional ball. Occasionally, an individual plays so well that he may receive the plaudits of the fans, but the vast majority have no selfish motives and probably have given little thought as to why they have spent long hours and much hard work participating in the sport.

Probably one of the greatest sources of satisfaction an individual can derive from the game is the knowledge of what he is, how much he can take and how much he can give. There is no other sport that so well tests these characteristics as does foothall.

We have all heard the expression, "He can dish it out but he can't take it." Whether or not this is true of himself probably is in the minds of most young football candidates. The sport gives him an opportunity to test himself and he must receive much satisfaction in knowing that he has the physical, mental and moral strength to meet the challenge of the game.

The real test lies within the boy himself. Some people call it just plain "guts," but to the boy it is a satisfaction beyond his realm of understanding. He must sacrifice much of the demands of the game, but in so doing he comes to understand himself—find himself and to become a personality.

After a hard fought game he is physically and sometimes mentally exhausted, but after a shower, some banter with his buddies, and congratulations given and received, all his weariness is cast aside.

Life is wonderful, he has made new associations, experienced new feelings and the world is a rosy place in which to live. Self-satisfaction has been restored within himself.

You see, he has met one of life's challenges and has experienced a strengthening of his confidence. He has competed against an opponent individually and in cooperation with other teammates. He has shared his strength and wits with others in a sport governed by regulations which put each player on an equal basis. There is no dishonesty within himself. He's no hero, no star, no idol—he's just a boy expressing to himself what he can do. That's why a boy will say "I love football."

Leads In Touchdowns

Darwin Robeson, Northern High backfield ace, was listed this week as the leading scorer in the area. Robeson was credited with eleven touchdowns for a total of sixty-points. J. Frye, Petersburg, had the same total with 10 touchdowns and six points after touchdown.

Ninth in the list was Spear, also of Northern, with 30 points on five touchdowns. Butler of Southern was listed seventeenth with four touchdowns and 24 points.

From 25,000 to 30,000 U. S. troops will leave Japan by Christmas.

Club Pays Tribute To Dr. B. F. Selby

The Oakland Rotary club paid special tribute to Dr. B. F. Selby, Oakland dentist, at its regular meeting last Friday evening.

Dr. Selby is one of the oldest members and one of the few remaining charter members of the organization. He celebrated his 77th birthday on Friday, October 25.

He was called to the front of the room and the following words were said to him by Willard Hawkins club president.

"Dr. Benjamin Franklin Selby

"This is not your life, but this is your birthday. Born October 25, 1880, in Howard County, Maryland —graduated from the University of Maryland Dental School in 1904 —established a dental practice in Oakland—fifty-three years ago in the same office in which you practice your profession today—became a charter member of the Oakland Rotary club more than a quarter of a century ago. Tonight your fellow Rotarians felt that it would be proper and fitting to pay you a special tribute upon your 77th birthday. I am sure this thought comes not because you have seventy-seven years of age today, but rather from the hearts of Rotarians who have known you, some but for a brief time, others through out the years.

Respected, beloved quiet, unassuming, humble and honest—What greater reward can one reap on his seventy-seventh birthday than to know he has spent a lifetime cultivating the respect, friendship and esteem of his fellowmen. This, Dr. Selby, is the high reward you harvest on this 77th birthday of yours, as you have exemplified over the years the true meaning of Rotary in its highest sense.

"Many more words could be added to this brief but worthy tribute, but we are going to say the rest with flowers as we present you with one dozen red roses, a token of love and esteem from the members of this Rotary Club, and with best wishes for your future health and happiness."

A housewife turned down a 60-room castle and equivalent of $56,000 and decided to remain in her ten-room house instead, in England.

Maybe no one has ever actually bound your wrists with a rope. But haven't you, at times, felt as if you were literally hand tied? You struggle and strain with your problems and anxieties, and you are completely unable to get free.

Such moments come to everyone, and they are not easy to face. It's simple to be serene when things are going well. But when your hands are tied—when you feel helpless, even hopeless—then you begin to realize life cannot be lived alone.

It's then that you know how important Faith is—how it is something you absolutely must have. With Faith to sustain you, you inevitably begin to see your way out. Without it, you flounder.

Turn to the Church—not just because you are troubled, but because it can give you spiritual freedom.

The Flu

Though the absentees is decreasing, there are some who are still absent with the flu. Don Ruff has written a poem, which he hopes will console those who are still ill.

The Asiatic Flu

There's an ornery little bug,
At least that's what they said,
That smothers to get everyone,
And put them right in bed.
So when you get that mean old flu,
There is nothing you or I can do,
So I guess I'll take to stay
Right in bed for another day.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH L. FOREMAN

In Worship

Lesson for November 3, 1957

WHY do people go to church? There are very poor reasons such as showing off a new hat, or sleeping in a respectable manner. There are reasons which are only middling good, such as enjoying the music, or going to please your wife. There are also very good reasons, the best of these is simply worshiping God.

There are times when one leaves Christian assemblies with a feeling that he has worshiped God and yet at other times one leaves with a feeling that he has not worshiped God at all. In particular services one makes this mistake.

Hymns are a part of worship in one way, and prayer is another, and offering is another. But the way of worship which most churches feel to be most sacred is the observance known by the names of Eucharist, Lord's Supper, Holy Communion.

Dr. Foreman

Long Years, Wide Road

What is the right spirit of worship? In particular, how can we make the most of Communion? Saint Paul offers us some plain and valuable hints in the letter he wrote to the church at Corinth. That church needed some plain-spoken help, for two reasons. For one thing, the Christian religion was hardly thirty years old. There were no long traditions, no prayer-book, no New Testament to go by. For another thing, many of the Corinthian Christians had been outright pagans till recently, and apparently had some very odd notions about how to worship their gods. Even in getting drunk in their temples. So Paul had to make some things clear. One is that the participants at the Lord's Table are not alone; there is a tradition behind them, there are hosts of fellow-worshipers also in session at the same time. We worship best when we are most conscious of the unity of Christ. We are members one of another. We are fellow-citizens through the long and many years, not merely years and miles and souls around us.

Remembering Others

Paul's second point is equally another thought to Paul's lines about the Lord's Supper. That is that the act of worship we can best do alone. There is room for private worship of God, and a necessity for it. But there is also room and necessity for the public worship of God, and the Holy Communion is public and communal, corporate, rather than private and individual. That is the way Jesus would have it. For the plain reason that the sacred high point of worship shall get the most out of it if we give thought to others not just to ourselves. We need to remember the Church as a whole, many this past is held. We need to remember the Body—and the broken body of Christ for the Church which Paul in the very next chapter calls the body of Christ. We even also to remember those who are in need, the congregation and the Community, those for special offerings for the poor, or offerings made for the right way to approach the Lord's Table. Paul's third point is to remember the unity of the spirit of brotherhood. If we give part of ourselves to God in the Communion service we are to commit him to love his neighbor as himself.

Platinum-Treated KEYSTONE GASOLINE

KEYSTONE Super Premium GASOLINE

Drivers who spend much of their time in city traffic appreciate the extra "get away" power of Keystone Super Premium Gasoline.

Yet they make sure their tanks are always filled with this new power-packed fuel, because the same high octane quality which counts in traffic also gives better performance at highway speeds.

Whether you drive a brand-new car or an older model, you too will notice an immediate difference in performance with Keystone Super Premium. You'll also get better mileage because Keystone is a cleaner burning gasoline. This means that more fuel goes to the engine, where it belongs, less out the exhaust pipe.

Why not take our cabbie friend's "tip"? Drive in at the Keystone sign in your neighborhood and fill up with Super Premium — for all the performance your car was built to give.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and published in The Republican by permission)

Think of the Alternatives

We seem to be in a period of very harsh presidential criticism. From all quarters, including not only Democrats but Republicans who voted for him, attacks are being made on Mr. Eisenhower. Literally, at the moment, he is being blamed for practically everthing - for what he has done, for what he is doing and for what he has failed to do.

It is true, of course, that presidents are always subject to criticism—particularly Presidents who for one reason or another are debarred from re-election, as this President is. But it is unusual that a President, disqualified from succeeding himself, should be as viciously assailed as though he were in the middle of a campaign to do exactly that. Increasingly now, for weeks, the opposition to General Eisenhower has been whipped up by every device known to party propagandists.

This, to be sure, is perfectly legitimate and customary. Nor would it be especially effective were it not for several very clear things. First, of course, it is being unusually skillfully done. The boys manipulating the anti-Eisenhower publicity these days make a practice of bellowing about "Madison Avenue" every time the President or one of his spokesmen goes on the air to make a counterattack or explanation. But if there is anything more Madison Avenueish than the manner in which Democratic publicity is now being handled it has not yet been discovered.

A second thing is that the paid propagandists are very potently led by a large group of columnists - and cartoonists—able to circulate their opinion daily in all parts of the country, and who appear to think that it is their duty, as well as their pleasure, to belittle and besmirch the President in every way they possibly can. A third thing is that on the radio there are at least four regularly employed and highly paid radio commentators who, every night, under the guise of presenting news, hold the Eisenhower Administration up to scorn and rarely fail to get in a reference to his golf game. This, too, is probably excusable as a partisan political attack, though it is not on record that the Republicans made similar partisan use of the late Roosevelt's long and frequent stays at Warms Springs, Hyde Park and Campobello.

There, of course, are two other important items that make the present criticism of the President more than ordinarily effective. Undoubtedly, one is the fact that the President has made some errors, both of omission and commission—particularly on the military and research side. Upon these blame may be laid for his failure to get full information and vitally needed recommendations from subordinates who should have been more alert, comprehending and competent. There, of course, is no question of their loyalty but there is considerable question of their wisdom. At any rate, these seem more responsible for the wave of anti-Eisenhowerism so marked today among so many individuals who voted for him and so many newspapers which supported him.

Not long ago Mr. Arthur Krock, of the New York Times, reported having privately asked a good many men who constantly see the President and on whom he relies how he was taking this criticism to which he is entirely unused. The practically unanimous reply was that he is completely undisturbed. He feels, for example, that his critics do not have all the facts and that he has. He feels that when it is possible, consistent with national security, to present all the facts they will justify him and his policies. As to the charge that he has not provided the kind of "leadership" the present critical situation requires, his friends say he feels that the opposition has confused "leadership" with pounding on the table and name calling, neither of which he is addicted.

Another interesting point observed among those who voted for Mr. Eisenhower last November and in 1952, and who are now extremely critical of him, is the response they make to questions such as "Would you now rather have Adlai Stevenson in the White House?" Almost invariably the answer is, "Good Heavens, no." Similar is the response to the names of Nixon, Kefauver, Kennedy, Johnson, Knowland, Herriman, Truman, Symington Dewey, Humphrey of Minnesota, etc. So it is too, when they are asked would they prefer Dean Acheson as Secretary of State to the brutally denounced John Foster Dulles, who could not possibly be as bad as they make him out. Perhaps, some glamor has worn off of "Ike." But there is a lot left.

Maryland legislators were told they must curtail state services or find 15 to 20 million dollars in new revenue next year.

MARRIED

Dorman-Nicholson--Miss Delores Elaine Nicholson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nicholson, of Mt. Lake Park, became the bride of Alton F. Dorman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton F. Dorman, Sr., of Hyattsville, on Saturday, October 19, at St. John's Lutheran church at Red House. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Rev. William A. Renn, pastor.

The altar was decorated with white mums, while the pews were decorated with white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was escorted down the aisle by her brother, William Nicholson. She wore a ballerina length gown of white nylon lace over satin with tiny self covered buttons down the back. The gown featured a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves which came to points at the wrists, a fitted bodice to which a full lace skirt was attached. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of tiny seed pearls. The bride carried a white orchid fastened to a white prayer book with cascades of white satin streamers.

Serving the bride as maid of honor and bridesmaid were Misses Mary Stephanie Sedmock and Agnes Ann Ferruso, both of Washington, D. C. They wore ballerina length gowns of melon and blue lace over taffeta with matching headbands of velvet and nylon veiling. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow rose buds, white asters and lavender delphinium with pastel streamers cascading from the bouquets.

Earl Dale Nicholson, Columbus, Ohio, brother of the bride, served as best man. Ushers were Gary Lee Evans and Lee Shillingburg. Mrs. Barbara Flinn, soloist, sang "I Love You Truly," "Because", and "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Elaine Gnegy presided at the organ.

Mrs. Nicholson, mother of the bride, was attired in a navy blue silk dress. She chose pink accessories. Her corsage was pink rose buds. Mrs. Dorman, mother of the groom, wore a black velvet dress with white accessories. Her corsage was red rose buds.

A reception followed in the social room of the church. The bride's table was decorated with white pompons and long tiered candles. Mrs. Dale Nicholson served the wedding cake while Mrs. William Nicholson and Mrs. Edward Callis presided at the punch bowls. Mrs. William White, Jr., had charge of the guest book.

The bride was graduated from Southern High school with the class of 1955 and has since been employed by the Federal government in Washington.

Mr. Dorman, graduate of Eastern High school, Washington, with the class of 1946, is now employed with the P. and B. Contractors in Washington.

Following the reception the bridal couple left on a trip through the south. They are now residing at 3922 Buchanan street, Mt. Ranier.

Drive to Reduce Mine Accidents Gets Under Way

More than 60 Maryland coal mining companies have joined in a year-long campaign to reduce roof fall accidents—the No. 1 killer of coal miners.

More than 1200 mines are enrolled in the campaign which has as its goal a 50 percent reduction in these accidents which account for more mine deaths than any other cause. Roof fall accidents result when rock or other material falls from mine roof, face and rib.

An estimated 80 percent of the total tonnage of the U. S. mines is represented in the campaign. West Virginia has more than 400 mines represented and leads the state enrollment with Pennsylvania and Kentucky second and third.

1956 Maryland Cash Farm Income Up 5 Percent Over 1955

Cash farm income in 1956 in Maryland was 5 percent higher than 1955, according to C. N. Gnellow of the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service at College Park. Farmers' cash receipts last year from the sale of crops, livestock and livestock products, plus Government payments, totaled 246.1 million dollars compared with 234.1 million in 1955.

Most of the increase came from vegetables, corn, soybeans and milk. Cash receipts for all fresh market and processing vegetables combined were up 3.9 million dollars over 1955. Corn was up 3.0 million; soybeans were up 2.5 million; and milk brought 2.3 million more than the previous year. Other commodities making important contributions to the over-all gain in cash receipts in 1956 were eggs, with an increase of 1.1 million dollars, tobacco—up 1.2 million, and Irish potatoes—up nearly 1.0 million dollars. Government payments made in connection with the various Government agricultural programs totaled nearly 2.6 million dollars—about 1.6 million more than the previous year.

On the other side of the ledger, commercial broilers registered a decline of 2.5 million dollars. Income from turkeys was off close to 1.0 million dollars and fruit was off by a similar amount.

Dairy products led the parade as the most important source of income, accounting for a total of 69.3 million dollars or 28 percent of the total cash income from farming.

On Maryland, nearly all of the income from dairy products is from the sale of milk.) Commercial broilers, despite the drop in value from the previous year, ranked second to milk as a source of farm income, with a total of 41.0 million dollars. Cattle and calves ranked third, with 18.8 million, and tobacco was in fourth place with 16.8 million dollars.

Local Automobile Dealers To Show Many New Models This Week

The 1958 automobile show will get under way in most of the dealer garages this week. A few of the new models will be kept under cover until next week. But for the most part this is the week for the round of activities that will mark the 1958 campaign.

Many of the dealers are planning open houses with free gifts, refreshments and door prizes.

Sharps Motor company will hold a big open house today, Friday and Saturday for residents of the area to view for the first time the new 1958 line of Chevrolet models. C. E. Sharps, local dealer declared Chevrolet had produced an automotive masterpiece in its 1958 models. The garage will be open day and evening. Souvenirs will be distributed.

Ralph Pritts garage will display the new Dodge beginning tomorrow and will remain open Friday and Saturday evenings. There will be free souvenirs and door prizes will be given away.

Chrysler goes on display at Spoerlein's garage in Accident and Ray Teets garage in Oakland. At both places there will be open house on Friday and Saturday with refreshments consisting of coffee and cookies to be given away.

Plymouth automobiles will be on display at Ray Teets garage, Ralph Pritts garage in Oakland, Spoerlein's garage in Accident, and Grantsville garage in Grantsville.

The announcement of new Jeeps was made about two months ago. This company does not announce new models annually as the majority of other automotive dealers. Mt. City Motor company is the dealer.

Buicks went on display at the Leighton Brothers garage in Oakland on Tuesday.

Holding off for a week will be Oldsmobile, Pontiac and Ford. Sanders and Hershman garage will display Oldsmobile models on November 8. Pontiacs will go on display on November 9 at the C. & M. Pontiac Sales. The Shaffer Ford Sales will place their new Ford automobiles on display on November 7. There will be refreshments and gifts at an open house next week-end.

Garrett Truck and Implement had its showing of International Trucks some two months ago.

Studebaker had its showing of new models at the Oakland Equipment company on October 15.

Along with the Ford showing at the Motor Service company in Grantsville will also be a celebration in observance of the 35th anniversary of the business under Harvey Gortner.

Mr. Gortner started in the automobile business with Jim Evans in Oakland, remaining with him for seven years before opening his own business in Grantsville as a Ford agency. He added the Mercury agency in 1939.

As part of the celebration a Hillbilly show, the East Coast Ramblers, will be presented at the garage on November 7, at which time the New Ford will be on display. The Mercury will be displayed on November 12.

Mr. Gortner has already received official congratulations on his anniversary from Ford Motor company officials.

Casselman Motor company also is planning a square dance and band concert for its open house and showing of the new Chevrolet models tonight.

Grantsville garage also has planned an open house for the showing of the new Dodge and Plymouth models.

Many Dairymen Face Question: How To Stay In Business?

Continually higher costs of production and relatively small increases in milk prices have many dairymen wondering what they can do to avoid being forced out of the business.

Many dairymen have turned to larger herds. The average Maryland DHIA herd has doubled in size in the past 20 years, according to University of Maryland Extension Dairyman, Robert D. Appleman. Most of this increase occurring in the past seven years.

"In many cases, the dairy farms are now taxed to their full carrying capacity and any further increase in number of cows may result in a lower net income per worker." Appleman points out. "It becomes obvious, then, that dairymen must meet the price squeeze with such measures as a more efficient labor force and a better feeding program."

He says a study of 700 Maryland DHIA herds revealed a very definite positive relationship between the herd production average and the profit above feed cost per cow per year.

The 143 herds in the study with a herd average of less than 7500 pounds of milk received an income above feed cost of less than $200 per cow per year. The 169 neighboring farms with herd averages of more than 10,500 pounds enjoyed a return over feed cost of $350 per year. This latter group doubtedly [illegible] the combination of good [illegible] and sound management [illegible]. Appleman notes.

A look at the comparative feeding program of the two groups mentioned showed that the high income group fed less grains per pound of milk which was produced than the lower income group (3.4 compared to 3.0 pounds of milk per pound of grain, respectively). This, in itself, may result in an increased income of $3 to $4 per ton of milk produced.

The average production in Maryland DHIA herds last year was 9,210 pounds of milk and 368 pounds of butterfat. This means that in three years, the average cow increased production by 300 pounds of milk and 12 pounds of butterfat.

New Plymouth Sport Suburban

Plymouth's new Sport Suburban station wagon for 1958 goes even more modern with an upswept Silver Dart two-tone treatment that heightens interest in the popular rear fins. Also new for 1958 are the dual headlights, standard equipment on all Plymouth cars, and a dressed up lower grille section which matches the horizontal lines of the upper grille. The distinctive rear-facing third seat which Plymouth introduced in 1957 is again available with Sport Suburban station wagons for 1958. The new Plymouths, with six engine options and 19 separate body styles and models, will be introduced in dealer showrooms throughout the country on November 1.

Plymouth Boasts More New Styling

Substantial styling advances in keeping with the trend-setting characteristics of the immensely popular current model Plymouth cars, plus a broad new lineup of six engine options and other important new engineering features will be seen when the Plymouth for 1958 is introduced November 1, at Ray Teets or Ralph Pritts and Sons in Oakland, Spoerlein's Garage in Accident; or Grantsville Garage.

"The new Plymouth is improved in appearance, performance, comfort and safety, yet retains many of the outstanding styling, handling and riding features that were so enthusiastically accepted by American car-buyers this year," John P. Manslield, Plymouth president said.

Styling features of the new Plymouth include a bright new "Silver Dart" side moulding treatment, sweeping upward at the rear on Belvedere and Sport Suburban models to the tip of the Plymouth's familiar high-flung directional stabilizer fins, with optional dart inserts of silvery anodized aluminum or compatible colors. Another distinctive new side trim is available also with Savoy and Plaza models.

display beginning November 8, at the Sanders and Hershman garage on Liberty street, Oakland.

The car has been completely redesigned with distinctive styling. The company offers three different Rocket engines in its three series of cars. The "88" series is powered by an engine with a new dual carburetor and is rated at 265 horsepower. The Super "88" and "98" series both have the Rocket engine with quadri-jet carburetor and developing 305 h.p.

Two Oldsmobile accessory innovations are available—a transportable radio that can be removed from the care and a safety sentinel speedometer warning with light and buzzer to warn when any preset speed is being exceeded.

The new styling starts at the four beam headlamps and extends to the new and larger taillights. Horizontal trim strips sweep the length of the front fenders and through the rear quarter panels and fenders. The New-Matic ride is optional at extra cost. This air suspension system cushions the car on four chambers of compressed air to create an ultra-smooth ride.

Interiors are also different. The Super "88" and "98" holiday models present a new "star-light" headlining of sponge vinyl in light colors to set off the "fashion-flair" upholstery offered in a variety of colors and fabrics.

New Style Changes Mark 1958 "Olds"

Styling changes calculated to enhance the appearance from every angle mark the new Oldsmobile for 1958. In addition there is introduced an air suspension system, new Rocket engines and an improved Jetaway Hydra-Matic drive.

"Our Growing Edge"

MRS. MARTHA GLOTFELTY

Discord Or Harmony?

It has been said that a great orchestra conductor can detect the discordant note in a symphony orchestra of perhaps one hundred and fifty instruments. His trained ear can hear that one discordant note, even in spite of the other one hundred and forty-nine harmonious ones, stands out and makes perfect harmony impossible. The conductor aims for perfection, and rightly so. When at last the discord is eliminated, and the curtain goes up for a concert, the great master raises his baton, and the audience hears a great harmony of beautiful music.

The other Sunday, a visiting minister in one of our churches raised the question if, perhaps in real life, all of us are so busy listening to the discords, that we miss the music we should also be hearing.

I think he was right. Let us look at some examples. The newspapers, for instance, print news of crime, delinquency, discord among men. They do so, because of course, it is news. Television and radio stations tell of debate, controversy, violence, hatred, racial disturbances. They, too tell it because it is out of the ordinary, and therefore, news. Of course, it is unfair to say those mediums of communication do not report constructive and good news also, but the discord always seems to be more dramatic and newsworthy.

Let us look at ourselves as individuals, and I certainly fall under the classification. Aren't we always looking at the discords?

I am a man who is well-to-do. I have a wonderful loyal wife and a fine family. Yet, I have never heard them say, "We are so proud of you." Instead we complain about what we don't have, and constantly finding fault. We spot only the discords.

I have another man who is a hard working wife, whose husband is disabled and retired. He has been blessed with a fine family, good health and reasonable security, yet I have never heard her thank God for all of her many blessings. She hardly ever says a word other than complaining about the heat. She sees only the discords.

I have a friend who has many comforts and conveniences and is reasonably well-to-do, yet she is constantly grumbling that she is being cheated to death, that farmers never make any money, etc. She never seems to see much except the discord.

I know folks who come to your door who start telling about those crooked politicians, all the faults of their neighbors, and generally all the moral evils of life. They are so busy looking at the discords, they fail to see and hear the music around them. There is the music of a kind Heavenly Father who loves us, of good neighbors, of many honest people, of the wonders of science and a world of opportunity.

The orchestra leader heard the discord. He detected it and corrected it in a helpful and constructive manner. Then, the orchestra stood up again for a new rehearsal. The erring member was now in harmony with all of the others, and the entire orchestra's music was once harmonious and beautiful.

The next time we start griping, let's take another look. Maybe we ourselves are the ones listening only to the discords, and having no music. Perhaps, if like the orchestra conductor, we longed for harmony and beautiful music, we would work for it, hope for it, and more prayerfully find it for ourselves and those around us. Then, in our own small way we could add to the music of the world in which we live.

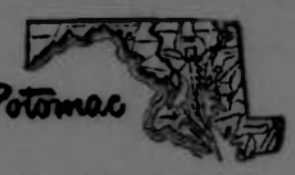
Along The Potomac



Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

One of the great problems confronting the Congress next year will be that of finding a means of combating inflation. When we consider the grim reality of inflation we realize just how great the burden of national defense is. But inflation can be stopped even with this burden if we insist on real reductions in present Federal activities and avoidance of any new programs. If this can be done, the normal growth of our economy will not lose any of the advances we have made in recent years.

There are certain limits, though, to the lengths that governments can go in holding down inflationary forces. The search for the culprit to blame for the present puzzling inflation is difficult. I say puzzling because the classic conditions for inflation do not exist. For example, the Government is running a surplus, it is small to be sure—but, nevertheless, it is not a deficit. Historically, inflation runs wild when governments spend more than they take in.

If the classic conditions for inflation are being brought under control, or do not exist, why do prices continue to rise? The classic economist says that given time, the methods—monetary methods—now in use will halt the rise in prices. But the nonclassic economist, or new inflationist as he is called, says we overlook the factors which spring from the powers and practices of business, particularly big business, and labor, particularly organized labor.

Present day practices of big business and organized labor tend to push unit costs and wages up, and their upward movement is reflected in the price of the things we buy. Whether business or labor, or both are responsible for the continued rise in prices is not so important as the fact that they have interjected into the inflation picture a new factor—a factor that cannot be reached by the government without price, wage and profit controls.

President Eisenhower recognizes this new factor when he appeals to business and labor for statesmanlike action with regard to prices and wages.

The Congress will be looking into these new factors next session. Its main job, though, will be to hold Federal spending to levels consistent with the growth and security of our nation.

'58 Pontiac Features An All-New Body

Sixteen all-new models in four series—headed by a "dream car" series of two family sports-type cars—are presented by Pontiac.

A new body, new chassis, new "Tempest 395" V-8 engine, new optional equipment and a new Bonneville series of family size "dream cars" mark what the division calls "the boldest advance in 50 years." It will be shown November 9 at C. and M. Pontiac in Oakland.

In addition to the top-of-the-line Bonneville convertible and sport coupe, Pontiac offers other new innovations for '58. Among them are a convertible in the lowest priced Chieftain line, air ride suspension as an option on all models, along with improved fuel injection, introduced by Pontiac last year.

The new "Tempest 395" engine is bigger than ever, with displacement increased from 347 to 370 cubic inches, and designed to deliver power where most needed—in the traffic range.

Pontiac engineers list 88 new features in the 1958 models and 135 separate safety features.

From the rear the 1958 Pontiacs will be immediately recognizable by dual twin tail lamps above oval, chromed, back-up lamp ports, and the simply styled trunk lid bears chrome handles on each side of the superbly fashioned name plate.

In addition to the five-passenger Bonneville convertible and the sport coupe, Pontiac has for 1958 the Star Chief series consisting of two and four-door Catalinas, a four-door sedan with slim center pillar, and a custom Safari station wagon. The Super Chief line includes two and four-door Catalinas and a slim pillar, four-door sedan. The Chieftain series is led by the convertible, new in this line; two and four-door Catalinas, two and four-door slim pillar sedans, and a two-seat and three-seat, four-door station wagon.

New Chevrolets Go On Display Today

The side and rear treatment of the Biscayne four-door sedan points up the complete job of restyling on the 1958 Chevrolets.

The Chevrolets will be on display tonight, Friday and Saturday at Sharps Motor company in Oakland and Grantsville garage in Grantsville.

The rear deck lid is broad and flat, the rear fender line has the graceful full-wing sweep and the molding is full length. These mark the latest development in sculpturamie styling.

The Biscayne series is in the middle price range of the 1958 line.

Chevrolet also offers in its 1958 Bel Air series two Impala models, named after and strongly reminiscent of a "dream car" in the GM Motorama. The Impala sport coupe is distinctively styled from any angle and sets a new standard for interior luxury in the low price field. A new engine, new frame and two new suspension systems are but a few of the many chassis advances. Impalas are grouped with the Bel Airs, one of four new series of Chevrolets this year.

Buick Presents Its 1958 Line of Cars

Buick last week presented its 1958 line of cars, at Leighton Brothers garage in Oakland.

The 1958 models, with new stylings, feature the new Dynaflow transmission, improved brakes with thicker linings and a number of other engineering changes.

The new Buicks come in five series, topped by the new Limited, a luxury model which is Buick's new entry in the prestige car market.

All models are equipped with dual headlights on each front fender. There are radical changes in the grille. The fender line has been lowered and the hood line raised slightly to complement the new front end design.

Rear fenders of all models are topped by a chrome applique which blends with the newly-styled taillight housing.

The new transmission also has three turbines instead of two which increases the torque output. With a new air-poise suspension which gives a more controlled ride, the car maintains the same level when it is loaded as when empty.

All brakes on the 1958 Buicks have been improved. All cars are equipped with 12-inch brakes. Brake lining on all models has been increased in thickness, providing much longer brake life.

All cars are powered by a 364 cubic inch high compression V-8 engine with two-barrel carburetor on the special and four-barrel on all other models.

Park Lane Heads New Mercury Line

The big new "super Mercury" series, called the Park Lane, which will be a new addition to the 1958 line of Mercury cars, will have three models, each designed to appeal to the more discriminating buyer in the upper-medium price field, it was revealed by Harvey Gortner, of The Motor Service Co., Grantsville.

The Park Lane is powered by a newly designed Mercury Marauder 360 horsepower engine with 430 cubic inch displacement and a new automatic transmission as standard equipment. A 400 horsepower Super Marauder engine with three two-barrel carburetors is optional.

Multi-drive offers three ranges, cruising range for normal smooth acceleration; high performance range and hill control or low range for heavy pulling and for engine braking on hills.

The frame for the Park Lane is bigger and sturdier.

Its power brakes are self-adjusting, thus eliminating the need for manual adjustment.

Mercury's soft, limousine ride is even more comfortable in the Park Lane, and it is quieter, due to a specially designed insulating shield which is three to four times more effective in blocking out under-the-hood and road sounds.

Mercury's new air cushion suspension, which has air springs replacing steel springs to provide the ultimate in ride comfort, is optional. Heater on the Park Lane features climate dial control—a vacuum powered fresh air and heater control which adjusts the vent openings for maximum driver comfort.

Mercury's new speed limit safety monitor which gives a warning signal when speed exceeds a previously selected setting is optional.

1958 Studebakers Now On Display

A wider look combined with a lower and flared silhouette, highlights the styling features of the new 1958 Studebaker sedans and station wagons which are on display at Oakland Equipment company.

The new Packard Hawk made its debut, joining Studebaker-Packard's distinguished Golden Hawk and Silver Hawk for 1958, which with 14-inch wheels comprise one of the lowest series of cars on the road.

In November, two sleek completely new models will be introduced into the Studebaker line—a two-door hardtop in both the President and Commander series.

Chief characteristics of these new Studebakers are dual headlamps, lowered roof line and high, canted rear fins.

The rear deck flows out and down, giving a long, symmetrical appearance — with a Continental tire motif cresting and accentuating the lines.

Dealers also will display the 1958 version of the popular Scotsman models which scored such a sensational success as a 1957 model in Studebaker-Packard's line-up of fine cars.

Beauty Going Your Way

1958 CHEVROLET: Fore and Aft

Effectiveness of the 1958 Chevrolet styling is shown by this front-rear view of the Impalas, luxury models in the Bel Air series. The gull-wing sweep at the rear is a perfect complement for the fleet, flowing lines that begin with the fine-grid concave ribs of the grille. In addition to complete body redesign, the latest Chevrolets offer such features as Level Air suspension or all-round coil spring suspension, a more rigid frame and body and an unusual new V8 engine. Impalas top an offering of 17 models.

The crisp and clean lines have been continued, along with economy of operation and maintenance that attracted purse-wise buyers last spring and summer.

United Nations celebrated its 12th birthday on October 24.

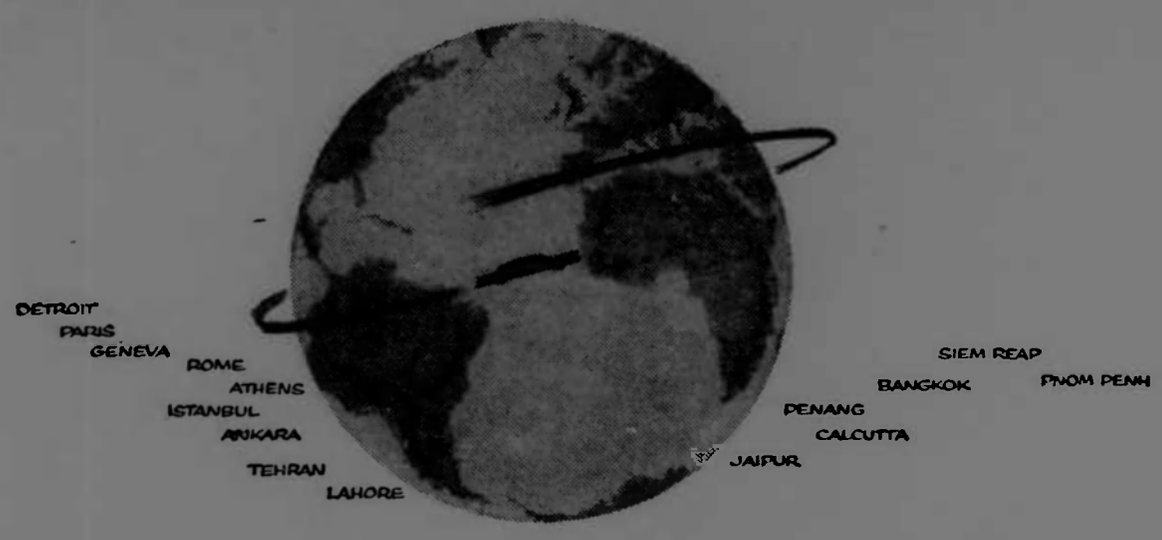
58 FORD COMING NOV. 7

Nothing newer

AROUND THE WORLD



The 58 Ford has been proved around the world. This is the most dramatic and most grueling test ever given a new car before its public announcement.

The whole world was used as a test track for the 58 Ford. The car drove through England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey, Iran, Afghanistan, Pakistan, India, Malaya, Thailand, Cambodia, Vietnam, and finally back to the place it started—Detroit, Michigan, U.S.A.

The Ford powered over the great mountain ranges of three continents: from the Alps to the Himalayas and the Rockies. It crossed the great rivers of history: the Thames, the Seine, the Tiber, the Arno, the Tigris, the Euphrates, the Indus, the Ganges.

This car stood at Buckingham Palace, rolled up the Champs Elysees to the Arc de Triomphe, and paused at the Eiffel Tower. It was greeted by the great Paris couturieres at the famous fashion salons where its "sculptured in steel" styling was applauded by the most style-conscious audience in the world.

The 58 Ford rode smoothly down the rugged, beautiful seacoast of Tito's country, to a festival in Dubrovnik, and into Greece to Athens, where this newest classic met such ancient classics as the Parthenon and the Temple of Poseidon.

Into Turkey; and the 58 Ford passed the great white lacework palaces of the Sultans along the Bosporus and the Golden Horn. Then the Ford went where few but nomads travel, up into the hot days and chill nights of the ancient mountains of Afghanistan. And thence along the route Alexander the Great followed with his chariots to cross the historic Indus river.

On and on the Ford moved, down into the heat of mysterious India, through New Delhi to the Taj Mahal, and to the great pink palace of the Maharajah of Jaipur.

This great new car met the challenge of the monsoons—rains that for centuries have stopped all road movement throughout Indo-China, but didn't stop the 58 Ford. It drove on to Penang in Malaya, and then north to Bangkok.

Further on came Saigon, the Paris of the Orient, at the farthest tip of Southeast Asia. Finally, it powered across the great Rockies and plains of North America and back, at long last, to Detroit, Michigan.

The 58 Ford . . . has been proved and approved around the world. A natural question arises. Why did Ford go to such great lengths with its 1958 model? Why spend so much money and time and go through all the problems of negotiations, customs, border transit, diplomacy in so many countries?

The answer: in the competitive automobile market of today, only the best in all-around value can survive. And this round-the-world test is the most decisive possible demonstration of the best.

The 1958 Ford is value: hard dollar value. It is also style, power, performance, and a dozen great new features. But above all, it is value.

This is the car you've been waiting for. See it November 7—there's nothing newer in the world than the 58 Ford!

Chrysler Features New Luxury Entry In Low Price Cars

The 1958 Chrysler line, introducing a new Windsor series and two new nine-passenger station wagons, will be shown by Spoerlein's garage in Accident and Ray Teets garage in Oakland beginning Friday, November 1

Combinning such innovation as Auto-Pilot, a new pushbutton automatic driver assist, aircraft-type bubble wind-hields and improved full-time power steering, the 1958 Chryslers are offered in the New Yorker and Saratoga series, plus a new Windsor series in a lower price range.

New grilles, plus side and rear styling detail refinements give the new Chryslers added glamour. Interiors are all new with fabrics and leathers color keyed to a wide range of exterior colors. Improved V-8 engines give added performance and economy with new 10 to 1 compression ratios.

The new cars offer advanced sure-traction differential, captive-air tires and dual headlights. They feature award-winning four-billion-mile tested torsion-air ride as standard equipment.

Swept-Wing Dodge To Make Debut

Significant advances in safety engineering, fuel economy, and engine performance, plus dramatic "Swept-Wing" styling, distinguish the 1958 Dodge passenger cars, which will make their local debut at Ralph Pritts and Sons, dealers, on November 1 and 2.

The all-new Ram Fire V-8 engine, designed for top economy and performance, as well as quiet operation, heads a long list of important engineering features of Swept-Wing '58. Among these is the "Sure Grip" differential, which provides pulling power to the rear wheel with most traction, eliminating wheel-spinning on ice or snow, or in sand and mud.

A strikingly different stainless steel grille design complements the dual headlight styling.

Torque-Flite automatic transmission is available on all Dodge V-8 models, while Power-Flite is offered on all 1958 Dodge Coronet models.

The 1958 Dodge line consists of the Coronet, Royal, Custom Royal and station wagon series.

New High In Styling, Safety

A complete safety group, consisting of power steering, power brakes, padded dashboard and sun visors, is available on all 1958 Dodge cars. This Custom Royal four-door Lancer also features the compound picture windshield, standard on all hardtop and convertible models. The push-button Torque-Flite transmission is an added convenience, and the safety Torsion-Aire ride is standard on all models.

Hallowe'en Improves . . .

Apparently depredations at Hallowe'en are on the wane and conduct of individuals very much improved. These are encouraging signs.

From two communities come comments to show how great the improvement was. Henry Arnold, Oakland's chief of police, said there was practically no devilment here and that Hallowe'en last Thursday was by far the best in history. Some boys did borrow a lot of garbage cans to roll down the hills, but that was all.

Merle D. Frantz, principal of Friendsville school, said his school and community had been working for several years on better behavior at Hallowe'en and each year there had been a decided improvement. This year, in particular, he said, "We had very few cases of celebrating in the wrong way. We had practically no soaping of windows of homes, business places or cars. Children generally limited trick or treat to one night and the behavior of those attending the Hallowe'en carnival sponsored by the school and P.-T. A. was ideal. It is a real pleasure to work in a school community where one can see improved behavior which is the real test of education." Even in Baltimore instances of vandalism were few and far between.

Down through the years things have changed. People now fifty-five and sixty years old love to tell of their escapades on

Baptists Name Rev. W. C. Rogers Leader

The Western Baptist association of Maryland elected Rev. William C. Rogers, of Mt. Lake Park, as moderator for the coming year, at the 87th annual session at Frostburg last Friday. He was installed by Rev. William B. Orndorff, pastor of the First Baptist church of Westernport, a former pastor of the Mt. Lake Baptist church.

Mr. Rogers was the only Garrett county minister named to an official position.

Dr. Clifton C. Thomas, general secretary of the Maryland State Mission Board, who delivered the final address of the two-day program, compared the growth of the Baptist church throughout the State, stating the membership had grown from 27,367 to 45,000. Ten new churches were founded during this period. Gifts to missions jumped $250,000 during the 10-year span. The goal for the next seven years is to establish 170 new churches in Maryland.

County Has Taste Of Winter On Tuesday

Garrett county received a taste of winter Tuesday evening when nearly an inch of snow fell within the space of about two hours. The snow followed an hour or more of rainfall.

The snow clung to the trees and in a few places the roads were covered and slippery, but for the most part roadways remained clear. Rainfall amounted to less than half an inch.

The snow quickly disappeared Wednesday morning as soon as the sun appeared.

Weather throughout the balance of the week has been varied with rain on Saturday and a light drizzle Sunday evening. There was a heavy frost last Friday morning and much heavier this morning. Days generally have been cool.

Gas Production Declines Again

County Commissioners Get $11,555.04 Check As Share Of Totol

Natural gas production in Garrett county over the past three months ending September 30, showed another decrease over the previous three months period, it was learned from the report received this week by the County Commissioners. The check received by the commissioners, however, was still a sizeable one.

The number of cubic feet produced in the 90-day period totaled 664,295,000, over seven million three hundred thousand cubic feet per day. The marketable gas was valued at $165,072.02.

The company sent a check for $11,555.04 as the county's total from the seven percent tax on the marketable gas which was $5,481.23 less than the amount received for the previous 90-day period. The largest check received for any 90-day period was $28,573.82.

The breakdown of the latest tax receipts showed $4,662.02 as the purchaser's proportion (2.8 percent) and $6,933.02 as the producer's proportion (4.2 percent).

Only thirty-three wells were listed this time, one less than the previous report. The Beachy well which showed a production of only 1,000 cubic feet the last time was not listed in this week's report.

Biggest producing well this time was the Barbara Miller well with 169,044,000 cubic feet. Next was the Earl Knox well with 109,622,000 and third was the Collier well with 77,612,000. The N. K. Welch well, the first producer in the field was still holding up at 20,902,000. Other big producers were the Arnold, Mitchell-Rush, Bowser, Ford-Fike, Swartzentruber, Miller, The Herman and Hanlin well, which was largest producer the last period with 246,012,000, had a production of 38,084,000 this time. The Mitchell Rush well last time was also 182,164,000, which was greater than the largest producer this time.

Mt. Lake Park and Accident will receive a portion of the tax through the County Commissioners from gas produced within the corporate limits of the town.

Year's Total Is Biggest

The past year's total was the largest for any year since gas was discovered in the area, and showed $85,619.57. The first $50,000 goes to help pay off the school bond indebtedness. The next $25,000 goes toward expenses of the Garrett County Memorial hospital. Any amount above $75,000 goes into a fund for new school building repairs or additional new construction.

Since the first check for the tax on the marketable gas was received by the Commissioners in July, 1951, the county's governing body has received $301,986.49.

The complete report of the production for the ninety-day period is shown in tabular form in today's issue, page four.

Deep Creek Gets 2200 Striped Bass

The Maryland Game and Inland Fish commission released 2,200 striped bass in Deep Creek Lake during the past week, October 28 to November 1, it was announced by William Harman, regional fish culturist, Accident.

The fish averaged about 12 inches in size.

This is the second planting of striped bass in Deep Creek Lake, Mr. Harman said, the first having been about a year ago.

He pointed out that the stocking of striped bass in the Lake was in line with the Commission's program adopted several years ago of introducing desirable predators in an effort to control the too abundant yellow perch population. The striped bass, in addition to being an excellent predator, will also give the angler a great deal of sport, as well as affording excellent eating, Mr. Harman said.

Governor Suggests Jobs For Some at An Earlier Age

Governor McKeldin suggested yesterday that it might be wise to allow some school children "who have ceased to learn in the academic classes" to accept jobs in trades at earlier ages.

"Certainly," McKeldin said, "if idleness is a cause of lawlessness and delinquency in the young there is no virtue in our insistence that the scholastic hours be wasted in resentful staring at blackboards and textbooks that have lost their meaning."

McKeldin made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery at a ceremony dedicating the state's second forestry camp for rehabilitating boys, in the Savage Mountain forest west of Lonaconing, but in Garrett county.

McKeldin said that discipline is the balance wheel of human society and the most desirable of all disciplines is that which the individual imposed upon himself.

The governor said the primary purpose of the camps is not to relieve the overcrowding of training schools but devices of applied discipline, meant to provide opportunities for increasing self-discipline and intended to arouse the pride of individuals in their accomplishments.

He said we must accept the fact that there may be boys in these camps who have no interest in scholastic subjects beyond a given grade. But if we can arouse those boys to a realization that there are useful and enjoyable skills in their hands we may launch them in successful and constructive careers, he declared.

Twenty-five boys are to be assigned to the camp and the same number will be transferred to the third camp site, also located in Garrett county, when it is open next spring.

The boys at the camps work as employes of the State Department of Forests and Parks. They help with outdoor jobs such as cutting fire breaks, fighting fires, road repair and flood control projects.

Assisting in the dedication services were Thomas J. S. Waxter of the Department of Public Welfare, and Joseph Kaylor, head of the Department of Forests and Parks. Mr. Kaylor had a tree planting ceremony.

The presentation of colors was by Charles C. Bender, of Grantsville American Legion Post. The boys raised the American and state flags prior to the governor's address.

The camp has two one-story buildings 130 feet long, one of which serves as a dormitory, washroom and storage space. The other is a mess hall and recreation room. There also are small cottages for directors of the camp. Ralph Swauger is camp director.

Fires Extinguished

Two fires occurred during the week, but neither one caused much damage. Oakland firemen did not receive an alarm on the first one which occurred last Friday afternoon on the town property west of town, the former Dr. M. C. Hinebaugh farm. A blaze was spreading among some young pine trees and members of the Forestry department were called and extinguished the flames.

Oakland firemen were called to extinguish a brush fire Monday evening about 7 o'clock which had gotten out of control near the Weber crossing along the B. and O. right of way.

Frantz Names Bruce Close As Deputy

Sheriff James Frantz has named Bruce Close of Mellenry as the new deputy sheriff of the county, to succeed Raymond Thomas who resigned.

Dr. Baumgartner Is Hospital Patient

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner is a patient at the Garrett County Memorial hospital suffering from a broken nose and other injuries sustained in an automobile accident on the Terra Alta-Oakland highway, at the west edge of town Tuesday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock.

Automobiles driven by Dr. Baumgartner and Walter Holler, of Holler's Taxi, collided just east of the Youghiogheny river bridge.

Police said that Dr. Baumgartner may have "blacked out" as he drove along the street. Walter Holler, operator of the taxi, tried to avoid the collision without success. Holler's car was against the guard rail when the vehicles collided, police said.

Dr. Baumgartner also had several broken ribs, an X-ray revealed and he had a knee injury. Holler also had an injury to his knee and was given an examination at the hospital yesterday afternoon. He was also bruised considerably. Both automobiles were badly damaged.

Publishes Notice of Change In Highways

The State Roads commission, in an advertisement this week, is advising interested persons that the construction of U. S. route 219, Oakland to Gortner, and Maryland route 135, from Loch Lynn to improved U. S. 219, was being planned by the Commission.

The notice indicates that the Gortner to Oakland improvement will closely follow present U. S. 219 and will end shortly beyond the intersection with state route 135. The Loch Lynn to Oakland improvement will pass through Mt. Lake Park and enter the town of Oakland, and intersect with U. S. route 219 near the city limits of Oakland.

The commission notifies interested persons that the tentative location of such routes is available at the office of the district engineer in Cumberland and that any person affected by the proposed changes may request a public hearing by delivering a written request to the district engineer before November 18.

Edward P. Kahl, roads engineer for the county, said the new portion of route 135 would veer left from the present road at Martin's store in Mt. Lake Park, and keep south of the present road until somewhere in the neighborhood of 9th and Oak streets. The new 219, going south, would veer slightly to the right at 9th street and would connect with the present roadway somewhere near the Weber crossing. From there to Gortner there would be very little change, with a few curves to be removed.

COLLISION!—As a result of this collision Tuesday afternoon near the Youghiogheny river bridge, at the west edge of town, Dr. E. I. Baumgartner sustained a broken nose, broken ribs and an injury to his knee, and is now a patient in Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland. Walter Holler, driver of the other automobile, was bruised and shaken. Investigating officers said that Dr. Baumgartner may have "blacked out" as he was headed for Crellin, presumably to see a patient.—Photo by Stanley Stark.

Olds is All New from Head to Taillamps

Oldsmobile for 1958 offers a completely restyled body, featuring the new "mobile look." This distinctive and tasteful styling in the "98" Holiday coupe harmoniously employs horizontal trim to emphasize its long, flowing lines and low silhouette. The ultra-modern thin line roof sweeps rearwards to the top of the enlarged single-piece rear window. The redesigned front end is distinguished by new four-beam headlamps, recessed style grille with narrow aluminum louvers, and lower sleek hood line. Dominant in Oldsmobile's 1958 styling are striking twin blades that sweep down the rear fender crown. Choice of three Rocket engines with improved economy is offered in the 1958 Oldsmobile, which has a smoother Jetaway Hydra-Matic transmission and New-Matic Ride, a new concept of air suspension, available as a desirable option.

Ski Club Elects Slate of Officers

The Western Maryland Ski club elected George Hankins as president at a recent meeting at Meadow Mountain lodge.

Other officers included Howard Naylor, Oakland, vice-president; Mrs. Evelyn Anderson, secretary; and Miss Marcella Kerins, Oakland, treasurer.

The club plans a "mixer" and invitations are to be extended to ski clubs of Morgantown, Baltimore and Washington. Members also approved the affiliation of the club with the U. S. Eastern Amateur Ski association. Individual, student and family memberships, established last year, will prevail again this year.

Naylor reported that the Marsh Mountain ski slope at Deep Creek Lake, will offer a newly developed beginners' slope with tow, an equipment repair shop, an enlarged lodge, and an ice skating pond with lights for night skating.

The following were named on committees: Robert Hoffman, membership in Garrett county; Robert Sincell, publicity for Garrett county; Mrs. Howard Naylor, entertainment and meetings; Dr. Joseph Alverez and Bruce Anderson, ski patrol; Helmuth Heise and Howard Naylor, winter carnival. A committee for races and tournaments also was named.

Hallowe'en Improves . . .

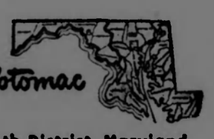
Hallowe'en night. For similar things today youngsters would be called juvenile delinquents of the worst sort. We never did go for malicious destruction of property, cutting up tires on automobiles, running soap over the finish upon those cars, mutiliating buildings and the like. We don't care too much for these "trick or treaters" who descend upon a house in droves, but it wasn't too much overdone this year. And it's hard to deny the youngsters something to which they have been accustomed to expect over the past ten years or more.

Some of this improvement in behavior can be traced to the UNICEF trick or treat, which was started here last year and was continued again last week. This is held to collect funds that will be turned over to the United Nations agency to fight disease and provide adequate nutrition for growing children throughout the world. It was planned to make the trick or treat custom at Hallowe'en into something constructive. It looks like the plan is having a good influence.

It is nice to think about—this improvement through education. Maybe we can eventually lick these litterbugs too—through education.

Along The Potomac



Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

Recently the Chairman of the House Subcommittee on General Education was quoted as saying that he intended to hold in committee any bills calling for a broad program of Federal aid to school construction. This means that Floor consideration of such bills is unlikely next session.

It is clear that even the proponents of the various proposed measures providing for Federal aid for school construction will concede that these bills have not been designed to provide Federal aid where need is greatest. If there is to be Federal aid for school construction, the bill ought to spell out the sums which are to go to each state, and not be distributed on the basis of complicated formula or administrative whim.

Most of you know my position on the specific bills that have been before the Congress. My opposition to the basic concept of Federal aid stems from deeply rooted convictions concerning dangers of Federal interference or control of our educational system. To say that I adopt a position on any legislation and then close my mind is not to know me.

I am fully aware of a changing world and changing conditions within our own country. And my mind is open to the implications of those changes. But my misgivings over the content of currently talked of Federal-aid-to-school construction measures, and my distrust of controls on Federal interference written into the measures, continues.

I am not alone in my distrust of so-called controls written into Federal aid measures. For example, President Roosevelt's Advisory Committee on Education in 1938 was moved to observe that: "An excessive amount of federal control appears to have been exercised over many aspects of the federally aided system of vocational education. This control has been due in part to the provisions of the statutes, but it also appears to have resulted in part from the manner in which those provisions have been interpreted and administered in the United States Office of Education and its predecessor in the work, the Federal Board for Vocational Education."

The history of Federal aid programs demonstrates that Federal authority has often reached down to the local school board level and has dictated its policies.

Presents Pictures of Schools At P.-T. A. Meeting

Pictures of the schools of the county were presented by Willard Hawkins, county superintendent of schools at the regular meeting of the Loch Lynn Heights Parent-Teacher association in October.

Following the business meeting refreshments were served. P.-T. A. members are feeling they have a unique group because all of their officers are men. They believe the Loch Lynn group is the only association with all-male leaders. They are Melvin Sisler, president; Glenn Shaffer, vice-president; Willoughby Callis, secretary; and Stanley Baker, treasurer.

A Hallowe'en parade was held October 31. Judges were Rev. Wenger, Arthur Humberston, H. M. Weeks. Prizes were awarded to Mary Frances Evans, Milly Loughry, Douglas Liller, Jay Bill Rice, Donna Lee Shaffer, Larry Tichnell, Harland Tichnell, Billy Cline and Ronald Sisler.

The P.-T. A. was host to principals of the county and guests at a dinner meeting October 21. Next meeting is set for November 11 at 8:30. The school is observing American Education Week November 10 to 16.

Buildings Consecrated

Two buildings of a three-section building program instituted by Rev. Denver C. Pickens at St. Petersburg, Florida, were consecrated for use on Sunday, October 27.

The social Hall and Educational building have been completed and there is yet to be constructed the main church building in the center. The two buildings were constructed at a cost of more than $50,000.

Dr. Pickens retired from the active ministry after serving as pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church in Oakland and moved to Florida where he established a mission church in St. Petersburg, a few years ago. This has expanded into a growing congregation.

Two services were conducted on the day of consecration, with a service of Thanksgiving in the morning and the actual consecration service in the afternoon. Altar furnishings consisting of cross, candlesticks and the vases in one of the buildings were provided by S. Townshend Naylor, of Oakland, in memory of his wife.

One Man Looks At God

(By Charles W. Carlson, Pastor, St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Oakland Maryland.)

This week the Christian proverb that we will consider is recorded in Matthew 7:21 "Not every one who says to me 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of my Father Who is in heaven."

One of the biggest mistakes of the present day church situation is the willingness of many people to believe that just because they have their name on a church roll some place, their salvation is assured. Mere formal membership in a church does not prove a thing, as is clearly indicated in the word of our Lord. Mere attendance at a service, no matter how regularly this is done, is not a guarantee either. The "Will of my Father" reaches far beyond the mere formalities of church membership. It is a relationship that depends more on what we do during the week than in the words of our mouths on Sunday. Mere lip service is not enough. In fact, this mere lip service is probably more condemning than no religion at all, for we must remember that our Lord was hardest not on the openly sinful people, but on the outwardly religious people of His time. He could pierce through the shell of outward respectability that these people put on, and in one place predicts their destiny in such words as these: "Woe unto you, Scribes, Pharisees, hypocrites! It were better for Sodom and Gomorrah on judgement day than for you!" And the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah were noted for their tremendous sins!

To do the will of God is to submit to God's way, and this goes against the grain of people of today who want to proclaim their freedom from any outside authority. In the church people do not want to submit many times, for they would rather have the church affairs run to suit themselves and their many times picayune pet ideas, than to set out in the Word of God an ideal for their church. To do the will of God demands absolute obedience, and men, just like small children, do not go for absolute obedience in a big way.

At any rate, these words of our Lord should remind us that we must never presume our salvation, because of a church affiliation, but should use this church affiliation to first of all find what the will of God is, then submit to it by not only letting words about our faith pour forth like a mighty stream, for this is not enough, but to make of our bodies a living testimony that Christ indeed is our Lord and Master, so that people who know us will first of all know us to be Children of God, and not just of man.

Five Listed For Traffic Violations This Week

Only five persons were listed for traffic violations at the office of Earl C. Friend, trial magistrate, this week, but one of them had three charges against him, and for which he received prison terms.

He was Jesse Astor Bowen, of Wilson, W. Va. On a charge of operating under influence of intoxicating beverage, second offense, he was fined $1,000. Fine and costs were suspended and he was sentenced to the Maryland House of Correction for two years.

On a charge of operating an automobile after his license was refused, canceled or revoked, he was also fined $1,000. This was also suspended and he was given six months in the House of Correction, the sentence to run concurrently with the two-year sentence.

On a third charge of displaying plates issued to another vehicle, he was fined $100 and costs. This was also suspended and he was sentenced to a year in the House of Correction, the sentence to run concurrently with the other two.

Other violations:

Harold David Seamans, Garrett, operating at a speed greater than reasonable and proper, $10.

John Gilbert Filsinger, Deer Park, operating a motor vehicle without red lights on the rear, $5.

Carl Henry Will, Oakland, reckless driving, $25.

James Johnson Hall, Terra Alta, driving off the pavement on roadway when passing on right, $10.

The Deeds department was trying to prevent new rivalry over nuisance.

said were taking away the independence of the American people, making them afraid of a competitive market and inviting totalitarianism.

Better living he termed as something we all wanted and urged thinking about the other person; and living in harmony with other people as a part of that better living program.

As a result of the fourth year for one hundred percent completion of all enrollees, the Monongahela Power company will award $25 to the Extension service for work among the 4-H clubs of the county. This award will also be presented to W. Dwight Stover, chairman of the FFBL council, at the regional meeting in Morgantown.

Herbert Glen, Clarksburg, toastmaster of the first FFBL banquet, served again in that capacity last Friday evening. Bush Swisher, of the Power company, and project director for the program, made brief remarks and also presented Howard C. Riggs an award for his ten years of service as treasurer of the program. Mr. Riggs had been a booster of the program since its inception and assisted in the distribution of prizes at last Friday's meeting.

Enrollees in the FFBL program were guests of the business men of the county for the dinner and each family received a prize. Over one hundred twenty-five individuals and business concerns contributed cash or articles for the affair. They were listed from Accident, Bittinger, Crellin, Deep Creek Lake, Frostburg, Friendsville, Grantsville, McHenry, Mt. Lake Park, Loch Lynn and Oakland.

About the Winners

A lifetime of farming experience, plus a close cooperation with agents of the agricultural extension service in the county has enabled Mr. and Mrs. Wagner to get off to a solid start on their 198-acre farm that they bought three years ago. Previously they farmed with Mr. Wagner's father.

Their farm is essentially a dairy operation with 22 producing cows. Their average annual milk production figures 11,121 pounds of milk per cow. All cows have been bred artificially. The barn is equipped with running water and drinking cups, and unproductive cows are culled from the herd. Mr. Wagner is secretary-treasurer and a director of the Dairy Herd Improvement association and chairman and a director of the Artificial Breeders Cooperative.

Over the three years Mr. Wagner has built up the soil of the farm with lime, fertilizer and manure. The Wagners keep a flock of 100 laying hens and the manure from the poultry is used for top-dressing of the pastures. Fifteen to 18 acres are covered each year in this manner. Buildings on the farm have been improved with new roofing, painting and repairs. The farm is landscaped with trees and shrubs.

The Wagners have two boys, Larry, 10, and Dale, 8. They are also interested in the farming program and exhibited heifer calves at the county fair. Dale winning a blue ribbin and Larry receiving a white.

The farm garden and home-use live stock produce plenty of food for the family. A sixteen cubic foot food freezer is filled with peas, cherries, peaches, beef, pork, chickens and turkeys. The canned goods shelves have tomatoes, tomato juice, fruits, jams, jellies, pickles, and relishes.

While this is only the third year on their farm and their second year in Farming for Better Living, the Wagners have made considerable progress on their plans for their farm. They plan to add additional mechanization to their farm and to enlarge their dairy barn in the coming years and have their eyes on better dairy production through better breeding and on the production of a better quality roughage through additional meadow and pasture improvement.

Keyser Takes Easy Game From Southern

Keyser High made it 25 consecutive victories with an easy 33-0 conquest of Southern High school yesterday in Keyser. Keyser used its entire squad of 67 players in the Potomac Valley Conference rout.

The Clarkmen again are contenders for the class A crown in West Virginia and is 4-0 in the Potomac Valley conference.

Keyser rolled to a 19-0 lead in the first half. In the fourth period the Keyser coach substituted freely and moved his players to different positions. After quarterback Fred Clark sneaked over for the one following the blocking of a Southern punt on the Highlander eight yard line, tackle Melvin Davis moved into the backfield to plunge over from the one for the final Keyser touchdown.

Playing for Southern were Gnegy, Sanders, Kelly, Friend, D. Bittinger, Murphy, Paugh, Coker, L. Bittinger, Colaw and Callis. Substitutes for Southern were Mason, Malone, Stemple, Martin, Butler, White.

Southern made four first downs against nine for Keyser.

Accepts Call To Deep Creek Church

Dr. C. P. Anderson, of Petersburg, Va., has accepted a call to become pastor of the Deep Creek Baptist church, it was announced by church officials this week. The call became effective November 1. He assumes the position left vacant by the death of Dr. Paul S. Parker several months ago.

Dr. Anderson, a native of Halifax county, Va., is a graduate of the University of Richmond, Richmond, Va. He holds the degree of Master of Theology and the degree of Philosophy from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

He has served pastorates at the Fulton Baptist church in Richmond, now the Montrose Baptist for twelve years, and the Elm Street Baptist church in Petersburg for eleven years. At each place much work was accomplished. Dr. and Mrs. Anderson have placed special emphasis on young people's work, and while in Petersburg the church led the state in Bible study, having had 12 study centers and one enrollment center.

Recently Dr. Anderson has been doing superb preaching and evangelistic work.

While in Petersburg Dr. Anderson served as moderator of the Baptist Association of the area and also served as chairman of various committees of the association.

Mr. Anderson is a graduate of Westhampton college, University of Richmond and holds the degree of Master of Religious Education from the Carver School of Missions and Social Work, at Louisville, Ky. She was Training Union director of the Petersburg Baptist association for eight years and served on the advisory board of the department. Deer Park Firemen Called To Assist Deer Park firemen were called to the home of Harvey Mellinger, in the North Glade section of Swanton on Monday, October 28th when a fire became overheated. However, no damage resulted. Firemen remained on the scene until all was secure.

A near tragedy was averted on Tuesday, October 29th, at the home of Everett DeBerry at Deer Park when a timber located near the furnace caught fire. The family was away and upon returning found their home filled with smoke and called the local dept. When firemen arrived on the scene they found the timber, a 6x6 inch piece had burned in two and approximately one foot of it burned away. Flames were by this time nearing the floor of the new home. The flames were quickly extinguished and damage was considered slight.

Firemen were called to the home of Corwin DeBerry at Deer Park when an automobile owned by Douglas DeBerry caught fire apparently from a short circuit. When discovered the entire interior of the automobile was ablaze. The fire was quickly brought under control and extinguished but almost the entire interior of the automobile was destroyed.

A meeting will be conducted by the local Dept. on Saturday, Nov. 9th at the fire Hall. Drills will be conducted and 12-16-20 gauge shotguns will be used. The match will get underway at approximately 1:00 o'clock.

Farmers will be awarded as prizes.

American Education Week Is Proclaimed

President Eisenhower has designated November 10 to 16 as American Education Week in a recent proclamation.

"I urge our people to enter fully into its observance. Let them demonstrate their appreciation of the work of our Nation's teachers, and let them [illegible] their active support for every program designed to improve our schools and colleges, which are truly engaged in building a better [illegible] nation," the president said.

American Education Week is sponsored nationally by the National Education association, the American Legion, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the U. S. Office of Education, in order to call attention to the achievements and the needs of public schools. Sponsors in Maryland include the Maryland State Federation of Labor, Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, the State Department of Education, the Baltimore City and county boards of education, local teachers associations and PTA's, the Maryland Department of the American Legion and local Legion posts.

School of the county will be open for visitation by the public during the week.

ENGLANDER'S PHARMACY Monthly News

A Message from Clinton W. Englander, "Your Pharmacist"

November is traditionally the month when all of us count our blessings and give thanks for them.

Do you remember how seriously sick patients would be? Day after day, sometimes for months, the doctor would have to call and, finally, the fortunate ones who survived would have to spend much sickness time recuperating. Medical, hospital and drug bills would cost hundreds of dollars.

Now, more lives are being saved. A few visits from a physician and, within days instead of months, the patient is usually as good as new again.

Remember those kidney infections that used to make permanent invalids out of so many people? Your physician now prescribes one of the new sulpha combinations that cost just a few dollars, and sometimes overnight a cure is accomplished.

We are thankful that we now have many important new medicines that can be depended upon to help you more than ever before. We are grateful that our profession of pharmacy permits us to work for your better health.

HOW SMALL, YET HOW BIG

How small a man seems—walking down a lonely road on a rainy day, with gaunt trees towering over him.

How small man is, and how frail in body. The trees in the picture and even the chimneys on the old house will probably long outlive the man.

Yet how big man is—in the things that are not of the body, but are of the mind and soul. God has not made man mammoth. But He has made him potentially great—if he will but accept the blessings given him, and use the tools of Christian teachings.

Man finds in the Church, the encouragement and the instruction to enable him to make from his God-given divine spark something great and enduring—and of benefit to all human-kind.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Gifts of God

Lesson for November 10, 1957

THE tiny patch of Paul's letter printed in most Sunday school quarterlies this week is not nearly enough to give the full idea of what he meant to teach on our subject. For this, the three whole chapters should be read. The reader will please notice that the famous chapter 13 is tied in both to the chapter before and the one following. However, there's enough in the first baker's dozen of verses in chapter 12 to give any one food for thought.

Dr. Foreman

Every Christian Has a Gift

The problem in the Corinthian church, to which these three chapters turn our attention, was the matter of "spiritual gifts." Some of the church members had some rather spectacular gifts like working miracles or speaking with tongues; others were good at administrative jobs, and so on. Everybody with a special gift was inclined to look on his own as a mark of God's favor, something that set him "a cut above" other Christians.

All these people combined to despise the poor ordinary run-of-mine Christian, who in Corinth (as in your own home church) had no special gift at all. Coming out to church once a week, and staying awake, was about all that could be expected of him.

Paul points out, in effect, that every Christian has some gift of the Holy Spirit. Well, what about these church-goers who don't seem to have anything special about them? Paul would be asked. "No one can say 'Jesus is Lord' except by the Holy Spirit," Paul says. Now that is the mark of all true Christians, that they accept and confess Jesus as their Lord. Every child, every new member, from the humblest unskilled worker right up to the President of the United States, on entering full church membership is required to acknowledge Jesus as Lord. Now, says Saint Paul, whenever that is said sincerely, there is evidence of the work of the Holy Spirit. You may call this the Grace of Believing, or the Grace of Confession; whatever you call it, it is a gift of the Holy Spirit.

For the Common Good

There are two wrong notions, among others, about gifts of the Holy Spirit, against which Paul sets the simple truth. One of these notions is that gifts of the Holy Spirit are bound to be something sensational, miraculous, spectacular. On the contrary, the truth is that the Spirit's presence is shown by such simple things as confessing Christ as Lord, or teaching, or simply having faith. The other notion is that if I have a spiritual gift, something supernatural, direct from on high, that is a sign of special favor to ME; that the gift is mainly to benefit myself.

On the contrary, Paul points out, "to each is given the manifestation of the Spirit for the common good." (That is the R.S.V. translation of verse 7.) Any gift of the Spirit is like money put into our hands to be used for some good cause; if we keep it, hoard it or use it selfishly, we are bad trustees.

One Spirit, Many Gifts

Why doesn't the coming of the Holy Spirit into people's lives affect them all alike? Why all the variety of gifts that Paul mentions? Well, the reason is not hard to see; all these gifts are needed, in the church and outside. But one thing Paul emphasizes is that there is only one Spirit, and that all spiritual gifts, even the "humblest," are divine gifts. No one has any right to look down on any other Christian, certainly not if the other Christian is using "for the common good" the gift God gave him. A man complained to D. L. Moody, a not too well educated but very successful 19th century evangelist, that his grammar was bad." "Brother," said Moody, "you've got plenty of grammar. What are you doing for the Lord with it?"

No one should read the 12th chapter of I Corinthians without reading straight on into the 13th, which brings all this to a point. No matter what a person's gifts may be,—they can be miraculous as moving mountains,—one and all, if there is no love in the heart the most gifted Christian is a Zero, no Christian at all. It is love that gives life to all else.

Southern Magazine Campaign Produces Sales of $2,531.12

Southern High school students concluded their magazine campaign Monday with a total sales report of $2,531.12. Last year's campaign netted about $800 more.

Reasons for the decline in sales was not fully explained. "One possible factor may have been the new set-up in prizes," Kenneth Johns, principal, stated. "Instead of giving many small prizes, the number of prizes given were reduced and more expensive prizes were to be given to those students who did an outstanding job in selling."

Heading the list of high salesmen was Susan Gibson, 9A, who reported $108.75 in magazine sales. Elaine Bittinger, 10A, was in second place with $96.87, followed closely by Tommy Forman, 9A, who reported $95.43. These students will have their choice of one of the following prizes: Brownie movie camera, Bennus wrist watch, Emerson clock radio, Emerson portable radio or a V-M record player.

Students who sold $30.00 or more worth of magazines were Tom Mulvey, 10C; Robert Michael, 11D; Margaret Beckman, 7E; Donald Bittinger, 7F; David Gonder, 10C; Gary Orr, 7D; Kenny Jones, 9A; Christina Iden, 7D and Billy Beere, 8C.

Mr. Ringer's homeroom, 9A, received the prize of a field trip to Buhl Planetarium in Pittsburgh to be taken in late November or early December. They reported a total sales of $438.20. The second high homeroom was Mrs. Meyer's 7D section with $294.93. Other high homerooms were Mrs. Beachy's 10A, $219.95, Mr. Bennett's 11C, $190.25, and Mr. Trickett's 11B, $136.78.

The ninth grade reported the highest sales — $596.73, followed closely by the tenth grade with $510.77. Grade seven was in third place with $423.06.

After expenses are paid, Mr. Johns said the school would have a $650.00 profit. This money is to be used to purchase some additional materials for the guidance and audio-visual aids departments.

The magazine campaign was under the supervision of Ernest Spurgeon, guidance counselor at the school. His two student assistants were Joan Sharpless and Helen Fike.

To Present Program

Several of the students who attended the United Nations in New York on Monday and Tuesday, will present a program at the Crellin Methodist church on Sunday, November 10, at 7:30 p. m., to which the public is invited. This will be the regular MYF service.

Understanding Goal Of Farm-City Week

When people get together they learn more about each other, and the more they learn the closer they come to understanding of each other's problems.

That, in a nutshell, is what National Farm-City Week, November 22 - 28, is all about, says County Agent Jesse Carter.

In explaining the need for more understanding, he points to the great changes which have taken place in the last two or three decades in American Agriculture.

One big change is in farm population. Just prior to World War II, farm people made up 24 percent of the population of the country. Now they account for only 13 percent. In 1940 each farm worker produced enough food for himself and 10 others. Today he produces enough for himself and 19 others.

Farm population is decreasing while the country's population is increasing and contrary as it might seem, agriculture is an expanding industry, in terms of production and investment. Production of U. S. farm products in 1956 was about 50 percent above that of 25 years earlier. Per acre production of crops and production per animal unit of breeding stock were more than a third above the 1930-32 period.

Investment per farm worker is now more than for each worker in industry. The average investment per farm is now over $25,000; the investment per worker about $15,000 compared with $13,000 for industry. Some large commerical farms carry an investment of as much as $50,000 per worker.

"All these changes and expansion are accompanied by specialization," Mr. Carter says, "and specialization means less understanding of what the other fellow does.

"So while we become more dependent upon the other fellow—because he produces the things we need and cannot produce for ourselves—we also understand less of what he does, how he earns his wage or salary and how he meets his everyday problems."

A Pamphlet entitled "Partners in Progress" has been issued by the University of Maryland Extension service to tell people about the Farm-City Week in an attempt to bring about better understanding between the urban and rural people of America.

A NEW KIND OF CAR IS BORN!

At Your Pontiac Dealer's Nov. 9

BOLDEST ADVANCE IN 50 YEARS!

THE GOLDEN JUBILEE CAR!

It's a revolution on wheels—boldly planned from the very beginning as a Golden Anniversary showpiece for Pontiac and General Motors.

This one you really must see—here is a car unlike any you have ever known! This Golden Jubilee Pontiac is actually an all-new breed of cars—in four brilliant series and 16 sleek models covering virtually every price bracket.

In all of them you'll find engineering advances so daringly different yet so basically sound that they will trigger the next big change in automobile design. You'll find a few of these ideas illustrated here, but even they can't begin to tell the full story.

Why not be among the first to discover the newest. When you meet this bold new Pontiac, you're in for a driving thrill that is impossible to duplicate in cars of conventional design. So make it a point to see your Pontiac dealer soon and prove to yourself that no car in history ever left yesterday so far behind!

Aero-Frame STABILITY

Here is the biggest basic construction change since the early days of motoring. Pontiac's revolutionary new frame design is lighter, stronger, more stable than the conventional box type used on other cars.

Quadra-Poise ROADABILITY

Only the wheels know where the bumps are! Pontiac's new suspension geometry ends dive, sway and bounce to bring you the smoothest ride, easiest handling you've ever known!

Conventional Springs Pontiac's New Air Ride

Ever-Level Air Ride*

The most perfect suspension system ever designed—and Pontiac's revolutionary Aero-Frame is specifically designed for it! Air cushions on all four wheels literally float you over the bumps . . . keep the car perfectly level regardless of load or road!

*An extra-cost option.

Circles-of-Steel SAFETY

Pontiac's completely new body construction surrounds you with girder steel protection—above, below, fore and aft. Now you can drive with wonderful new peace of mind!

Tempest 395 PERFORMANCE

Try Pontiac's new jeweled-action responses! Scores of exclusive engineering innovations make Pontiac's hefty power plant a miracle of smoothness . . . and you can choose from four horsepower ratings including Tri-Power Carburetion and Fuel Injection

Lack of Surplus Water Stressed At Council Meeting

The lack of any surplus water for use of the town of Oakland was stressed at the monthly meeting of the Mayor and Town Council on Monday evening at City Hall.

The city council urged the continuance of caution in the use of water and asked that no water be used for the washing of automobiles and that there should be no unnecessary use of water at all. "We are just barely holding our own," one member of the council stated.

James Lewis, water superintendent, said the town uses about 265,000 gallons of water every day in normal consumption. The one new well is supplying about 150 gallons of water per minute, and on a 24-hour basis this one well would produce only 216,000 gallons per day. He said the other wells had not been helped yet from the recent rains but that the spring had shown some improvement.

A good portion of the evening was taken up with discussion about the water situation in Oakland. Thomas McKewen, and Thomas Shives, of the State Health department; T. H. Slaughter, from the Department of Geology, met with the council Monday night.

Mr. McKewen suggested procuring an engineer to find additional sources of water for the area. Mr. Slaughter provided a geologic map showing rock formations in this area. Mr. Shives spoke chiefly on possibly financing with the Federal Housing and Home Financing administration to help with engineering costs that would be necessary. W. W. Nace, district soil conservationist, also attended the meeting and volunteered his services where possible.

Mayor Russell L. Smith was instructed to ask the Chester Engineers of Pittsburgh to send an engineer to make a preliminary survey and to give estimate of cost.

Other routine business was conducted. Receipts for the month amounted to $8,940.63 with $5,808.37 from water, $1,637.54 from taxes, and $1,494.72 from miscellaneous. Parking meters provided $907.30 of the miscellaneous. Expenditures amounted to $13,371.81. This included water supplies of $1,549.90, capital outlay for the water department of $3,730.77, and street supplies amounting to $2,605.12. The capital outlay for the water department was for an 8-inch pipe line from the springhouse to the No. 1 well.

Council agreed to furnish water and sewer service for the new building of the Eastern States Farmers Exchange, on 8th street.

A delegation from St. Peter's Catholic church sought information about some steps on Fourth street, leading to the cemetery.

Joseph Hinebaugh and Bernard I. Gouder, who own the lot, corner of Second and Alder, received permission to knock out a curb on Second street to allow an entrance into their lot, which is to be made into a parking area.

Ernest Ashby was granted a permit to erect a building 14 by 24 in rear of his home on Oak street, for a utility room and storage. Sunday movie tax amounted to $75.50 for October.

No Cause for Jitters. . . .

We see no cause for jitters just because the Russians have launched two satellites, but we do feel that the accomplishment should put the United States definitely on the alert.

Two things caught our eye in the U. S. News and World Report this week. It pointed out that "before downgrading U. S. strength, keep this in mind: Soviet Russia, in 10 years of effort, got ahead with two satellite launchings. In that time she gave her people little that they did not have before. Living standards suffered to get armed might. U. S. in 10 years did these things: Spent 285 billion for defense, gave away 50 billions to help Allies; built 11 million new homes for people, produced 54 million new automobiles, turned out 56 million TV sets, 41 million refrigerators, 93 million radios. Living standards in U. S. and in allied countries rose amazingly."

The other was an editorial from a Paris newspaper which praised U. S. It said: "Since Russian satellites have been whirling above their heads, some Europeans have tended to reproach Americans for failing in their duty as leaders of a free world. A little logic is needed. We should also reproach the Americans for choosing comfort not only for themselves but also for their allies. They made the mistake for 12 years of feeding our factories, of spending billions of dollars to help Europe feed and house itself. The USSR has had the merit of acting as extortioner towards its allies. How good it must be to live in chains while Laika (the satellite dog) takes a trip to the moon!"

The Soviet leaders have launched a satellite at the price of an oppressed people who are being deprived daily of adequate food and clothing.

The military balance of power has not been upset by the Sputniks and this is what counts in the long run. People just need to realize that we may have to sacrifice a little more to maintain that balance of power in the satellite program as well as in the arms race.

Completion New School Held Up For Several Days

Failure of Several Shipments Halts Work Temporarily

The opening of the new elementary school on Dennett road, near Oakland, will be delayed a few days, it was learned Tuesday by members of the Board of Education.

Board members were notified that progress on the building had been held up due to failure of shipment of glass, chalkboards and wardrobes. All materials have now been received with the exception of chalkboards and they are due to arrive any day.

The board was assured that the building would be completed within a reasonable time.

It had been announced in October that the school would be ready for occupancy prior to the Thanksgiving holidays. The new school on route 10 is expected to be completed by February 1.

Members of the Board visited the school on Tuesday and all expressed their pleasure at the workmanship done on the building. Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent, said he felt a very fine job in all areas was being done.

Bid Awarded for Insurance

At the board's meeting on Tuesday bids submitted for insurance on the new Dennett road school were opened. Bids were submitted by Carlton Bowser, B. I. Gonder, Nationwide, Jones and Jones, Dan W. Hershberger, and the American Farmers Insurance company. The latter agency managed by Thomas D. Kight, was low bidder, and was awarded the contract for insurance on the building.

Upon vacating the Annex on Green street, a portion of the building is to be renovated and remodeled for use of the Board of Education for its offices. The estimated cost of renovating was reported by Superintendent Hawkins to be between $6,000 and $8,000.

The board studied price quota-

Temperature Drops To Eight Above Zero

Ear muffs were almost necessary for at least two mornings this week in Garrett county. On two clear evenings the temperature took a big drop and ended with an 8 above zero reading on Monday and Tuesday.

There was a heavy frost also on Wednesday but the thermometer did not go below 18.

Winter was also in evidence with a swirling snow storm on Saturday which partially covered the ground and made roads slippery in certain areas.

In spite of the low readings on Monday and Tuesday the weather moderated rather quickly and the days were fairly warm. There was rain last Friday morning and rain again last night which continued into today.

The first event will be an open house tour of the Armory, beginning at 1:30 and continuing until 4:30. At four o'clock, the Southern High School Band, directed by Raymond Borrell, will present a concert and at five o'clock the anniversary celebration will take place.

At 6:30, a dinner for invited guests will be held at Southern High School, followed at 9:30 with a dance for the company's guests at the Armory.

Since its organization in November of 1917, Company C has shown a steady record of progress. Steps Taken To Provide Winter-Long Activities

Promotion Council To Spend $10,000 For More Weeks Of Skiing

The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council took a big step in endeavoring to provide winter long activities in this area to round out a year-round recreation program for Garrett county, at a meeting of the membership on Tuesday evening.

The council approved the expenditure of some $10,000 for the purchase of snow making equipment for the Marsh Mountain Ski slope. The equipment will include a high pressure pump, aluminum pipe lines and a number of nozzles which will be placed at strategic locations on the slope. The machine is calculated to provide an adequate covering of snow any time the temperature is freezing or below.

According to those who have inspected the machine, it actually turns water to snow, and because a large quantity of water must be provided, the council has arranged to drill a well in the vicinity of the location of the ice skating pond to provide more water than the actual drainage into the pond. The pond will have a capacity of a million gallons.

Water will then be pumped into the aluminum lines under high pressure made possible by the use of three compressors, and then forced into a high mist.

Persons working on the ski slope are making an additional clearing on the hill to provide more ski room to accommodate more skiers.

It was announced last week that this year there would be a beginners' slope with tow, an equipment repair shop, an enlarged lodge and an ice skating pond with lights for night skating. The dam is being built under supervision of the Soil Conservation Service.

Lights also are to be erected to make it possible to ski at night. Lonnie Long and Helmuth Heise are in charge of the supervisory work. Heise is president of the Promotion Council.

People acquainted with facilities at many ski slopes in the eastern section of the United States say that when completed the facilities at Marsh Mountain will compare favorably with those at Ligonier, Pa., and other larger resorts.

Although the Promotion Council is initially responsible for the expense of the new installations, business men and women around Deep Creek Lake appear to be enthusiastic and have agreed to back up any loan necessary to provide the money.

Ski Club to Meet

The Western Maryland Ski club will meet next Wednesday, November 20, at 7:30 in the City Hall in Oakland, to which all skiers and interested persons in the area are invited.

Ski movies are to be shown and after a business meeting light refreshments will be served.

The club will have a rock picking party this Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, at the Marsh Mountain slope. Members from Cumberland are expected to turn out at this time to assist.

The Ski club members assisted last year in supervising the slope while in operation, and will do the same this year.

Dale Swauger Is Given Ten Years

Sentenced This Morning By Associate Judge Fraley On Rape Charge

Dale Swauger, 18-year-old young man from Jennings, who was found guilty of rape by Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley on October 16 in the Circuit court here, was sentenced to serve ten years in the Maryland penitentiary by the judge this morning.

Sentence had been withheld pending a pre-sentence investigation report which was made by David Steele, parole officer. The report was received by Judge Fraley yesterday and sentencing was set for 10 o'clock this morning.

Before passing sentence Judge Fraley remarked "You have been convicted in this court on a charge of rape. I have purposely delayed passing sentence because I wanted a pre-sentence investigation made by our parole officer. This report was filed yesterday.

"To my mind what you have committed is one of the most heinous crimes that has been brought before me in my term as judge in this court. You definitely know right from wrong. How anybody in his right mind could have done what you have done to this seven-year-old girl, is simply beyond my comprehension. The maximum penalty fixed by the statutes is death. I don't believe the court should give the extreme penalty but you must be properly punished for this crime.

"You are young and I hope that after you serve your sentence that you will see and realize the offense you have committed and attempt to rehabilitate yourself. It is difficult to send one as young as you to the penitentiary but this I must do."

Judge Fraley then notified the clerk of the Circuit court that Swauger be confined to the Maryland Penitentiary for a term of ten years. He then recommended that Swauger be sent to the Patuxent Institute for examination and treatment if necessary. The sentence was to run from June 14, the date of his confinement in the Garrett County jail.

Barn Is Burned

A large and improved barn on the farm of Huey Rodeheaver, who resides about four miles north of McHenry and about a mile from U. S. route 219, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin last Thursday evening about 4:30 o'clock.

Mr. Rodeheaver, who is employed at Vetter Brothers limestone quarry at Deep Creek Lake, was not at home at the time.

All of Mr. Rodeheaver's farm equipment and much of the summer produce was consumed in the flames. No live stock was lost.

The Accident Fire department was called and a short time later an assist call was sent to the Oakland department. By the time the Oakland firemen arrived at the dirt road leading to the farm the way was blocked by numerous automobiles and they were unable to help.

Christmas Trees Are Now Available

A quantity of Christmas trees are now available at Savage River State Forest and Swallow Falls Forest for purchase by wholesalers, according to William H. Johnson, district forester. Trees will be sold on the stump.

There are also a number of private growers of Christmas trees in the county who will have trees for sale. The district forester has contact with the growers.

Johnson urged persons who are carrying on a reforestation program of idle land whose plantations are closing, to thin out part of the trees.

He said this year's crop of Christmas trees on state-owned land is probably the smallest during the past decade due to the discontinuance of planting during the war years.

Hurt In Collision

Mr. and Mrs. William Hahn and daughter were injured, but not seriously, on Saturday evening in a collision near Winchester, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Hahn and daughter were occupying the Chrysler station wagon owned by Emroy Bolden and were returning from Gaithersburg where Mr. Hahn had delivered a body for the Bolden Undertaking company.

A soldier stationed at Fort Myer, Va., driving in the opposite direction, crowded Hahn off the roadway and smashed into the side rear of machine, practically demolishing it. The soldier was placed under arrest.

The Hahns spent the night in a Winchester hospital and were brought to Oakland on Sunday where Mr. and Mrs. Hahn were admitted as patients in Garrett County Memorial hospital. Mrs. Hahn sustained a cracked rib, and Cheryl Susie, aged 8, had several stitches taken in her forehead. Mr. Hahn was badly bruised but had no broken bones.

Has Leg Broken

E. E. Fike sustained a broken leg this morning when he was struck by an automobile driven by Clarence Sisler, Corinth, W. Va., while enroute to his work at the State Roads garage.

Mr. Fike was taken to the Garrett County Memorial hospital where he remains a patient.

School Attendance Takes Big Drop

School attendance took a big drop in October, occasioned by the epidemic of influenza, but school officials felt the percentage was much better than in many other areas throughout the State.

The average percentage of attendance among all schools was 85.9.

Finzel was the only one-teacher school and had an attendance of 93.7. North Glade led the two-teacher schools with 91.5, with 31 belonging. Swanton with 15 pupils, had 90.2 while Deer Park with 49 pupils, had 87.5.

Loch Lynn led the graded schools with 90.7, and with 126 pupils. Red House, with 133 pupils, was second with 88.2 while Crellin with 101 pupils, had 85.9. Northern High with 778 pupils, had a percentage of 85.9 while Southern with 1,120 pupils, had 85.8.

Enrollment during the month was 4,671, with 2,666 in the first six grades and 2,005 in junior and senior high schools.

Attendance figures were released by John L. Fitzwater, supervisor of pupil personnel.

They Cut Down The Old Pine Tree!

We thought we had a story to tell this week, after the "old pine tree" on the lot of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Umstot, South Third street, had been cut down.

The story was not so much about the pine tree, although it has stood tall and stately for almost a century, perhaps longer, but about the story that many years ago a circus giraffe had been buried under it.

When I got to inquiring from the Shirer family I learned that actually a giraffe was buried but it was under another pine tree about 100 yards from this pine tree, but that it had blown down several years ago.

W. E. Shirer recalled that some 65 years ago when the John Robinson circus was showing in Oakland, and was set up in the vacant lot in back of his house, that the giraffe became ill and died. They buried it right on the spot.

Youngsters playing around that area might think they had uncovered the bones of a dinosaur if they ever got to digging beneath the surface of the earth.

So there's not much of a story to tell. The pine tree they cut down was 75 feet tall and 31 inches in diameter at the point where it was cut. Neighbors had felt for some time that a strong wind might blow it over on the Umstot house. So they cut down the old pine tree!

To Handle Newspapers

Beginning this week The Republican will be sold at the Loch Lynn Service station in Loch Lynn instead of at the Harvey and Humberson store there.

Civil Defense Will Organize Auxiliary Police Force Soon

The Garrett County Civil Defense is planning to organize an auxiliary police force in the near future, it was announced by Fred Tichnell, county director.

Approximately forty men will be needed to start the organization and more will be added later. Classes for training will be announced, with training in charge of local and state law enforcement officers and the staff of the civil defense agency.

Any man over 18 years of age and interested in this type of training are asked to contact Tichnell as soon as possible. His mailing address is box 250, Oakland, and his telephone is DE 4-2468.

He said guns for the organization had been ordered and would be delivered at an early date.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyrights by The Baltimore Sun and published in The Republican by permission

About To Go Abroad

Soon after this piece appears in print President Eisenhower will make the first of several speeches upon the international situation precipitated by the Russian launching of their sputnick. This will be the first time Mr. Eisenhower has expressed his considered views on this subject about which so much has been said and written. Possibly, it may turn out the most important made since he became President in 1952. Certainly, the situation is as grave as he has faced since he took the oath of office then. His first speech is scheduled for Oklahoma City on the 13th.

One thing is sure. It will not please Mr. Adlai Stevenson and his columnar followers. Nor will it please Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and the Americans for Democratic Action. Nor will Mr. Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., Mr. Paul Butler, his Democratic Digest, his Democratic Advisory Committee, Governor Faubus, Hubert Humphrey, Wayne Morse, Mr. Truman, Governor Harriman and others like it. And how could he please them and why? Whatever he says or does they will misinterpret and criticize. And, if as perhaps is wisest of all he sits still and attends to business, they will criticize that more than anything else. There is no way for him to please the kind of critics he has and it is useless to try—which fortunately he is not doing.

In all our history there has perhaps been no graver moment. One cannot think of any President from Washington down who has faced a crisis requiring greater coolness, courage and competency. Under existing conditions one would think him entitled to the support of every patriotic American—even in his mistakes, if they are mistakes. At least one would think him entitled to be free from heckling over small things. His worst enemies do not accuse him of dishonesty or hypocrisy or falsification or political ambition or unpatriotism or selfishness. He is way above those things which his predecessors in the last quarter of a century certainly were not.

About eleven years ago—on March 6, 1946, to be exact, Mr. Winston Churchill made a speech in Fulton, Missouri, where he had gone to accept a degree. He denounced the Second World War as one for which there was no excuse and despite the difficult attitude of Russia, he declared it would be international insanity to permit a third world war to break out. The speech was a sensation and it was generally misunderstood. Stalin, of course, denounced Churchill as a "warmonger." Various important newspapers in this country and his own criticized him. He was astounded. What he really intended to say was what he had been saying to his friends privately for weeks—to wit, "The way to handle the Russians was for the English-speaking nations to draw a line and say to them 'All right, just so far but don't cross that line or you will have to fight—And Mean It. And you won't have to fight." Of that he was firmly convinced now. Of course, he included France. She is not an English-speaking country, but she is a natural ally.

Well, since that Fulton speech some of his critics have said that after all the "old man was right" and have apologized for what they said. A good many have just let it lay. A few will see some similarity between the speech Ike is about to make and the Churchill Fulton speech eleven years ago. The crisis now is far greater, but it still requires courage and coolness to handle. Mr. Churchill did not in 1946 have the responsibility but no one doubted he had the qualities. Eisenhower led us to victory in the last great war. Does anyone think that indicated a lack of courage or judgment? Few would have the temerity to say so. Yet to listen to or read Mr. Stevenson and his Americans for Democratic Action journalistic and political friends one would think that Mr. Eisenhower now cowered behind a chair in the White House, his teeth chattering with fear and the true facts hidden carefully from him and from the American people. This, of course, is utter rot.

He isn't scared of the Russians and their sputnik. He knows the facts about the situation—theirs and ours—better than anyone else. He hates lies and liars but he does not let them throw him off balance—except once in a long while. The idea that he is a part-time President is a silly one—particularly when one thinks of some we have had. He has no symptom of a swelled head or unpleasant cockiness. At a time like this he ought not to be pelted with a peashooter by persons who don't know the facts. This is a time to support him not to be kicking him around for partisan or personal purposes.

Gypsy Moth Could Ride to Maryland On Christmas Trees

The gypsy moth, a destructive forest pest, hasn't been found in Maryland and people who are familiar with the leaf-chewing insect say that's the way we want to keep it.

One way the pest could be introduced into the State, is for a Maryland motorist to pick up a Christmas tree or evergreen bough in an infested area and bring it home with him.

Entomologists at the University of Maryland say that eggs of the moth overwinter on evergreen and that if eggs are brought in on trees or boughs the eggs could hatch next spring and spread the pest to Maryland forests.

Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, most of New Hampshire and Vermont, and numerous counties in Maine and eastern New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey were sprayed earlier this year to eradicate the pest, but the success of the spraying program has not yet been verified. All these areas are under quarantine, and trees and boughs must be inspected and certified before shipment.

Entomologists at the University ask motorists not to take evergreens outside quarantine areas without the proper certification and remind Christmas tree shippers to secure certification of trees and greens at loading points, where it can be done with a minimum of delay.

Gypsy moth caterpillars each year destroy shade and forest trees worth thousands of dollars, and if they are permitted to spread over a large area the damage could mount to millions of dollars.

"THEY'RE CATCHING ON, BUT THEY CAN'T CATCH Us." That's how lots of people feel about the "new 1958" cars that are trying to match the Dodge Swept-Wing look. These other cars have been lowered some, but still seem high and boxy by comparison. A few are "catching on" to fins, but they're years from "catching up." And the air suspension offered by some cars (at well over $100 extra) can't compare with the sway-free, dip-free ride of Dodge Torsion-Aire (standard equipment on all models). So on your way home from someone else's new car showing, stop in and compare it with Swept-Wing 58 by Dodge. You'll see what we mean.

Congressman De Witt S. Hydo • 6th District, Maryland

I have just returned from attending the meetings of the Intergovernmental Committee on European Migration in Geneva, Switzerland. I participated in the discussions as an official delegate of the United States. The assignment proved to be a valuable adjunct to my work as a member of the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Immigration.

Previously, I reported to you on the work of ICEM and of my conviction that this body, in contrast to many other international committees, is accomplishing the work it is supposed to do. ICEM was formed in 1951 and is composed of 26 nations of the Free World. It acts as an agent in aiding the relocation of persons who wish to emigrate but are unable to pay for their own transportation. In addition to transportation, pre-emigration training in language, customs, history and some vocational guidance is furnished migrants.

The success with which ICEM operated in moving thousands of Hungarian refugees a year ago prompted me to suggest to the Committee in Geneva that a permanent section ought to be set up within ICEM to handle any such problems in the future. Certainly, it is the one body that has the experience and the facilities necessary for the rapid movement of refugees in the event of another freedom break within the Soviet satellite fringe.

Overpopulation is still a pressing European problem. We devoted a goodly portion of our time at the meetings to the discussion of the best means of handling the resettlement of European people, Africa, South America, and Australia offer the best opportunity for the relief of population pressure in European countries. But much encouragement and hard work is needed to provide areas in underdeveloped countries for the resettlement of these immigrants.

Funds for the organization come from contributions made by member nations on a basis of the number of migrants leaving or entering a country.

Preston County Man Posts Bond in Case

A Preston county man has posted $1,000 bond for action of the March grand jury at Kingwood on a charge of felonious assault resulting from the wounding of an Aurora High school student.

David Teets, 32, of Horse Shoe Run area, is accused of wounding Howard Parsons, 18, of Aurora, while the youth was in a group engaging in pranks on October 30.

According to West Virginia State Trooper John Coleman, the group had been warned away from the Teets farm and when they failed to leave immediately the farm owner allegedly fired a high-powered rifle into the ground near the youths.

The bullet disintegrated upon striking a rock with fragments of both the projectile and stone wounding Parsons in the legs, wrist, back, head and hands. He was admitted to Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland where he was a patient for a week. He is a star athlete at Aurora High school.

France was constructing a nuclear submarine, first for any other country other than U. S.

God must speak to men. Despite the barriers of language and dialect which separate nation from nation, tribe from tribe—God must speak to men!

This conviction has long inspired the American Bible Society in its stupendous task . . . to translate God's word into every tongue . . . to place the Bible in every hand.

Now in 1,100 tongues God has spoken to men through inspired Scripture. In marble cathedrals and mud huts the same timeless truths are read, heard, taught and discussed in the words men know. And millions of Bibles, Testaments, and portions of Scripture are being placed in eager hands.

This is our triumph . . . and our continuing challenge . . . the countless Christians who, individually and through our churches, make possible the work of the American Bible Society. Thank God! Carry on!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: I Corinthians 15. Devotional Reading: I Corinthians 15:50-58

Center of Faith

Lesson for November 17, 1957

WHERE is the center of Christian faith? What is it that if we don't believe, we can hardly believe anything else? Every one would agree that the center of Christian faith is Christ. The religion called by his name is not by any means first of all a philosophy, a collection of ideas, a system of thought, a set of rituals. It is first of all a Person, and then it is the lives of other persons who have been touched by this Person. But what is central about Jesus? His virgin birth? His teaching? His cross? His character? Nowhere in the New Testament is his birth mentioned except in two Gospels, so we have no reason to say that the early Church considered his birth, or the manner of it, highly important. His teaching is referred to in most epistles, but only in a rather sketchy way. We have to go back to the Gospels to find what Jesus taught. Much stress was laid on the cross by the early Church, but even this takes second place.

Dr. Foreman

Central for the Church

In the Greek New Testament, in the part outside the Gospels, —that is, the part that contains the early Christian preaching and teaching—there are 11 specific references to Christ's cross and nine to the crucifixion—a total of twenty. On the other hand there are eight references to the resurrection of Christ, and the expression "God raised him from the dead" or equivalent phrases, will be found 32 times—a total of forty. From the data we have in our New Testaments, therefore, we can say that the resurrection loomed twice as large, in the mind of the early Church, as did the crucifixion. Paul in his Corinthian letter uses the words meaning "of first importance" about Christ's crucifixion and resurrection, but he dwells on the resurrection at much greater length, as any reader can see for himself.

Central for Faith

Consider what the situation would be if Christ had not risen from the dead. In the first place, we should not have had the Church. It is on record that the disciple forsook the crucified Jesus, but the risen Christ drew their strongest and undying loyalty. It was the resurrection that changed a band of timid men, even cowards, into the beginnings of a mighty army to overspread the earth.

Someone asked a French statesman what it would take to start a new religion. Very simple, said the old man. Just get yourself crucified and then rise from the dead!

If Christ had not risen, what would be remembered of him? Some of his teachings very likely; but there would be no essential difference between him and other teachers of the past. If Christ had not risen, we might have admired his thoughts and the way he expressed them. The risen Christ challenges more than admiration, —devotion. More than once in the New Testament the resurrection appears also as the one single event more than any other, which carried the first Christians' minds to heights of faith.

His Life and Ours

Men did not arrive at belief in Christ's deity by pondering the crucifixion, rather by meditating on the resurrection. It is the resurrection that gives the crucifixion its meaning.

Besides all this, it is clear in the New Testament that the resurrection of Christ is our best way of understanding what our own destiny will be. There is a great deal we do not understand about this. Not all the New Testament together answers all our questions. But Paul sees the Easter story as so important that if it had not happened our whole faith is vain. Furthermore, the best reason for believing that death will not make an end of Christ's people is that death did not make an end of him. If he went on living, changed yet the same, so we may believe that after this present life is over and our work here done, we too, in ways of which only God knows the secret, will go on living, changed,—bearing "the image of the man of heaven"—yet still our very selves, with the weakness and the darkness gone, imperishable and victorious, sharing his conquest of death.

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

Out of the national furor created by Communist Russia's successful earth satellite, "Sputnik," have come a number of political voices declaring that "economy" in government has held back our nation's satellite launching. It's a fair question to ask: What economy in government? The Federal Budget is the biggest in peacetime history. The Budget reduction which the vast majority of the American people demanded earlier this year just did not occur, although the public got the impression from news out of Washington that the economy ax was being swung healthily.

The politicians who are sadly shaking their heads over a non-existent "economy" session of Congress are actually advocating increased Federal government spending and the rejection of any suggestions for cutting taxes next year. Out of all the statements I've read from leaders of our government's satellite program comes the inescapable conclusion that lack of capable management and proper coordination by Federal government agencies—and not lack of money—delayed the U. S. earth satellite launching. The same trouble apparently is delaying our intercontinental ballistic missile program.

Expert opinion suggests that the program to launch an American earth satellite—counting research, construction, launching and operation—requires the expenditure of approximately $100 million in tax money. That's a comparatively small item in a budget of $72 billion. According to recent published statistics, the Federal government paid out almost that much in cheese subsidies to benefit dairy farmers in the last 12 months!

This year, in fact, the Agriculture Department will be paying more than $5 million to farmers, most of it in subsidies on farm production far beyond market demands at true value prices. This is one of the most ridiculous situations in the history of our nation.

We certainly need to spend adequate money on the missile program, on the development of earth satellites, and on other vitally important research and explorations. But we should obtain whatever additional money is needed above present allocations by a sensible cutting down of the swollen Federal Budget. Here are the items that make up the record Budget: Military, $38 billion; foreign aid, $3.2 billion; foreign economic aid, $1.5 billion; other defense activities, $2.9 billion; aid to veterans, $5 billion; welfare and labor programs, $3.4 billion; aid to farmers, $5 billion; power, reclamation, etc., $1.4 billion; aids to housing and commerce, $2.1 billion; interest on debt, $7.3 billion; all other programs, $1.5 billion.

The Budget items add up to $72 billion. This is almost $200 million more than the government had planned to spend before Congress began its widely publicized "cutting of appropriations." Look at the Budget items carefully. Do you approve of the amounts? Are your taxes not burdensome? What are you doing about it?

Insects On House Plants A Year Around Problem

We often think of insects as going into hibernation or a state of dormancy during the winter, but a sign of relief on the insect season being over can result in exasperation where house plants are concerned. House plants can be damaged at Christmas as well as on the 4th of July.

The most common insect pests of house plants are armored scales, soft scales, mealybugs, white flies, aphids and spider mites. The best insecticides to use are malathion, rotenone and pyrethrum. These materials are available in different forms; the emulsifiable liquids and aerosol are best for household use.

All insecticides should be diluted and used as recommended on the label by the manufacturer. The manufacturer's precautions should also be followed regarding safe storage of these poisons.

One precaution pointed out by Dr. Elizabeth Haviland of the University of Maryland department of entomology is that malathion cannot be used on poinsettia. Also, many cacti cannot be wet with any material.

Dr. Haviland says householders have their choice of three general types of treatment—sprays, dips or aerosol bombs. All treatments are most effective when the temperature is between 60 degrees and 80 degrees F. Outdoors is the best place to treat, but in some cases the work must be done indoors and then there should be plenty of fresh air and papers arranged to catch spilled materials.

If plants are sprayed, it is easiest to set the plant in the open in a position that makes it possible to apply spray from all directions. Use a hand sprayer and spray with full pressure to cover all surfaces of the leaves and stems. Dr. Haviland suggests, but stop before the liquid begins to drip from the leaves.

Dipping is a satisfactory method if the plants are not too large. African violets and other compact plants can be more thoroughly treated by dipping than by spraying. A bucket, pan or any container that is large enough and deep enough to immerse the plant without mashing is suitable. A gallon or more of the insecticidal material is mixed in the container. Each plant is inverted and shaken or twisted in this mixture. The soil, and pot are kept dry. To keep the soil from falling out the fingers are placed over the soil; or a cloth, plastic or paper may be held tightly over the top of the pot. It is easier to dip well established plants than ones that have just been potted. Rubber gloves should be worn to keep the hands from frequent contact with the insecticide.

If an aerosol bomb is used, it should be held 18 inches from the surface of the leaves and moved around so that all parts of the plant are covered. Be sure the preparation is one designed for use on plants. Dr. Haviland cautions, and not a kerosene-base formulation made to kill mosquitoes and flies.

Used Litter Can Cause Trouble

As new flocks of pullets went into laying houses this fall, some were put on new litter and others were put on the same litter used by one or more flocks before them.

It points up a difference of opinion among poultry producers as to whether deep litter should be left in or cleaned out.

Both can be right, depending on conditions, according to Grover C. Harris, University of Maryland extension poultryman. He says that if the litter is dry and is not a source of disease or parasites, then the "leave the litter in" advocates are on solid ground.

The big problem — and the problem that swings the extension poultryman to the side of the "clean it out" advocates— is that sometimes it's impossible to know if litter is a source of disease organisms or parasites.

"One thing is sure," he points out, "a grower can't go wrong by cleaning out the litter and thoroughly disinfecting the house and equipment between flocks."

Worms, lice, mites, are the main concern. If they get in the house and litter the only safeguard for the new flock is cleaning and disinfecting. Cholera and typhoid can also be problems, since there is usually little time between removal of the old flock and housing of the new flock for organisms causing these diseases to die out.

The extension poultryman says that although he hasn't heard of any specific cases this year where pullets got disease or infested with parasites soon after going on old litter, it can almost be taken for granted that there are such cases. "It happens nearly every fall," he says, "and that's the reason for the recommendation to put pullets on clean litter, in a clean house."

Eisenhower named Stanley F. Reed, retired Supreme Court Justice, to be chairman of new Civil Rights Commission.

Truck Rams Cars Into Gorman Store

A runaway truck on U. S. Route 50 created havoc when the driver attempted to ditch it at Gormania last week.

The truck operated by Russell Sheaster, Bedford, Pa., and loaded with steel, was descending the mountain leading into Gormania when the ditching attempt failed. The vehicle traveled about 600 feet and struck two parked automobiles.

The cars, owned by Ray Ridder and William Renn, both of Red House, were driven by the impact into a store operated by R. E. Aronhalt. The front of the store was badly damaged as were the two automobiles.

The only thing reported about the accident last week that Mr. Sleaster was a patient at Garrett County Memorial hospital suffering with a broken back.

Trooper Robert Mozingo, West Virginia state police man, who investigated, estimated the damage at $1,000.

Trooper Mozingo said Sleaster would be charged with hazardous driving upon his discharge from the hospital.

Is Your Name KING?

Do you know that:—

King, an old and honored surname, is principally of English origin. It admits of a few derivations. For example, according to most authorities on nomenclature, it owes its usage as a surname to the miracle plays of mediaeval times in which the principal actors acquired the names of the characters that they represented year after year. Thus, the one who played the part of the King was referred to as King, and it is in the same manner that such surnames as Prince, Knight, Angel, etc. came into existence. It is said also that the surname King was often bestowed, when surnames came into vogue, upon those connected in some way with the King's household; and in addition it is stated that it stems from the Saxon "cyning" and signifies "a wise and knowing person."

Among the high ranking officers who served in the Continental Army during the Revolutionary War was Colonel James King (1752-1825) who commanded a regiment of Virginia troops.

The first census of the United States, taken in 1790, has sixty-two listings of individuals by the name of King who were residents of Maryland and heads of families at that time.

The 58 FORD is here now...
there's nothing newer in the world
There's bold, new styling—new Interceptor V-8 Power—new Cruise-O-Matic Drive—new Ford-Aire Suspension! The 58 Ford is the only car ever to meet a world-wide test and win world-wide approval before its public premiere!
You could search the world over and never find a car to match this 58 Ford's new beauty . . . new power . . . new ride . . . all at the low Ford price. We know! We tried it!
In Paris . . . the most style-conscious fashion critics in the world had a deep, low bow for Ford's latest style creation. In the mighty Himalayas, Ford's new Interceptor V-8 engine with Precision Fuel Induction won the day!
Then there's nothing newer than the true air ride of Ford-Aire Suspension. It's like riding on a cloud! But, you don't have to go to foreign soil to drive this newest Ford. We'll gladly save you the trip. Come in today!
From London to Bangkok . . . the whole world loved it!
The 58 Ford stopped traffic in Trafalgar Square when it passed through on its round-the-world trip. And that was typical of the excitement this Ford caused in Paris . . . Rome . . . Athens . . . Istanbul . . . Calcutta . . . and Bangkok. For this Ford was proved around the world in the toughest "shakedown" cruise in history.
With all that's new for a world of difference
You'll ride in a new world of fashion with Ford's deep-sculptured styling. From new Power-Flow hood to Safety-Twin taillights, Ford's worlds-ahead styling is a standout! There's a new Slipstream roof . . . a new Sculptured rear deck that's out of this world.
You'll be ahead with Ford's new Interceptor V-8 and Precision Fuel Induction. Gives you up to 300 hp. Smoother power . . . more power . . . from less gas! The secret is Precision Fuel Induction, a new carburetion, fuel feeding, and combustion system.
You'll get up to 15% more gas savings with new Cruise-O-Matic Drive teamed with the new Interceptor V-8. New D1 position, used for normal driving, lets you move smoothly—with a touch of your toe—from solid-feeling take-offs right up to highway cruising speeds.
You'll ride on a cloud instead of a spring with Ford-Aire Suspension. This is the way you've dreamed of driving—floating on air! Four air pillows literally soak up any sign of a bump. Car relevels every time someone gets in or luggage is loaded.
You'll steer with a feather touch with Ford's new Magic-Circle Steering. Nothing rolls like a ball, and that's the secret of Ford's handling ease. Free-moving steel balls in the steering gear are virtually friction-free—give you the closest thing yet to power steering!
Your night driving is safer with Ford's Safety-Twin Headlights. You get safety you simply can't get with single lights . . . special light for high beam . . . special light for low. It's the biggest advance since the sealed-beam! It's high style, too.
"THERE'S NOTHING NEWER IN THE WORLD OF STYLE!"
"THE WHOLE WORLD SEEMS SMALLER WITH FORD'S NEW INTERCEPTOR V-8 ENGINE!"
1958
Smooth as they come... smart as they go. The Fairlane 500 takes the 58 styling cake, going away (arriving, too)!

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Encouraging Precedent

Perhaps it was to have been expected, but the outburst of malignity from the Eisenhower domestic opposition over the President's speech on Thursday night seemed extraordinary in more ways than one. First, there was the fact that the most ferocious criticism was led by well paid union labor radio commentators and followers, rather than led, by the usual New and Fair Deal anti-like politicians. Second, there was the fact that the speech was attacked before it was delivered, and when these pre-speech predictions of what Mr. Eisenhower was going to say turned out at variance with what he actually did say, no retraction or correction was made.

The general hostility of the labor bosses toward management and the Administration has not really been concealed by the strenuous efforts of Messrs. Reuther and Meany, now busily beating their breasts and proclaiming the purity of their souls. They are just as bitterly anti-Eisenhower as they were in 1952 and 1956. Also just as anxious to take over the Democratic party as they ever were—particularly Mr. Reuther, who is in control of considerably more than his own State of Michigan, where his alliance with, and high hopes for, the present Governor, Mr. "Soapy" Williams, are well understood. In view of this hostility it is pleasant to record one really unprecedented instance of labor-management co-operation and good will. This comes from an editorial in the IUE (International Union of Electrical Workers), James B. Carey, president, at Sharon, Pa. This paper is the recognized spokesman of a local with more than 6,000 members, which recently went through a violent six month strike against the Westinghouse Company. In its last issue the IUE editorially declares that "this local union would be less than candid if it denied that in the past there had been serious differences separating labor and management at the Sharon Westinghouse plants."

The editorial then proceeds to say:

And for many months after conclusion an uneasy truce existed. However, the passage of time and considerations of men of good will on both sides have succeeded in establishing a workable relationship that steadily improves. And it is the hope of Local 617 that with the continued growth of understanding and good faith in each other, the spirit of labor-management teamwork in Sharon Westinghouse can become a model for the electrical industry.

There can be no question that labor-management teamwork is necessary to meet the special demands of today's competitive world. As a union we cannot afford to retain only a passive interest in the Westinghouse Corporation's fight for its rightful share in the transformer market. Especially are we interested when our competitors continue to establish a beachhead among customers, using the sales talk that you cannot be sure of Sharon Westinghouse because of unsettled labor conditions. We are gladly informed that this is actually happening. This is not competition in the time-honored sense of building a better mousetrap. It is competition in the most ruthless sense in that it implants unfounded fear and doubt in the effort to close a sale. But whether our competitors know it or not, they are, in fact, confessing that their product is inferior. In so many words, they are saying, "We can't beat Westinghouse quality and craftmanship but we can guarantee delivery."

In this respect, Local 617 has this to say: We are a local union of 6,000 members. You could count on your fingers and toes those of us who would prefer to work elsewhere than Sharon Westinghouse. We are a militant union, prepared to fight for our contractual rights. And we are equally militant when our company is subjected to unfair sales practices by our competitors. We have a great heritage for we are widely known as the most accomplished transformer builders in the entire world. Throughout the universe, Sharon-built transformers are doing the job they were designed to do, efficiently and dependably. The skills and craftmanship of years of experience have gone into these Sharon monuments and we take intense pride in their standard of performance.

Local 617 wishes to assure our competitors in the transformer field that labor-management relations at Sharon Westinghouse are well on the way toward the goal of sound understanding. And Local 617 wishes to reassure our customers that their needs in the transformer field, in so far as our membership is concerned, will be met and built to the same rigid standards that have made the Westinghouse transformer the world's standard of comparison. Our membership is very willing to work 52 weeks per year to insure that delivery dates can be fulfilled.

By informed persons this is said to be the first time in the history of the American labor movement that a strong local union has ever lined up, out of sheer loyalty, plus enlightened self-interest, with management against its competitors; the first time labor has really recognized that its interests and the interests of management were identical. It shows it can be done—but what a contrast to the Reuther-Meany philosophy—if it can be called that.

THE AMERICAN WAY

THOUGHTS WHILE SHAVING
By George Peck

Several years ago I wrote an article that bore the title: "Thoughts While Shaving"—the same title as heads this column. From several editors have come requests that I do the article again, bringing it up to date. This is how it went except for some minor revisions:

The other morning, as per daily custom, I got out my trusty electric razor (the name of the make purposely omitted here—no free plug), turned on the switch and proceeded to shave. As usual, I could not help noticing that some of the whiskers were longer than others. This has always puzzled me. "Why in the same length of time does one whisker grow longer and stronger than others of its fellow whiskers?," I have often asked myself.

Growing in the same soil, or rather I should say in the same skin, blood and flesh alongside of a puny runt, a healthy, virile whisker blossoms forth. Just why, I've never been able to figure out. But, when my razor has gotten in its licks, all of the whiskers, both healthy and puny, are reduced to the same size—that is, no size at all. It must be plumb discouraging to a healthy whisker that has toiled day and night to gain stature, to be mowed down to the size of the shiftless, non-toiling bit of fuzz.

On this particular morning, it suddenly dawned on me that what that razor was doing to the individual whiskers on my face is exactly what Socialism does to the individuals of a nation. It cuts them all down to one size—that is, no size at all.

Under a socialistic economy the hard-working, thrifty, self-reliant individual is reduced to the same size as the indolent, shiftless, wasteful citizen. Struggle as he may, constantly he is cut down. Finally, he loses all incentive to attempt to lift himself above his fellows and discouraged, he throws up his arms in surrender, and ceases to struggle.

The theory of Socialism is beautiful—the idea of all sharing alike is intriguing, especially for those who have little or nothing to share. But, Socialism in practice, that is something else again. The end result is that all do share alike—each finishes up with a large equal slice of nothing. For when you reduce the honeybees to the status of the drones, no honey is produced.

But there is something that Socialism creates that is far worse than poverty, uncomfortable as that status is, and that thing is loss of freedom. Loss of freedom goes hand in hand with Socialism. Those in charge of the dividing process have a nasty habit of dictating how each recipient of the division shall spend his share.

The citizen of the socialistic state is told where and at what he shall work, how he shall live, how he shall educate his children, what doctor and dentist shall serve him; he is even told how to entertain himself.

If you doubt the foregoing statement, just ask any Englishman. The English have learned the hard way that under a socialistic government they not only were ruled and regulated to the hilt, but were gradually coming to share less and less. Three Prime Ministers, Churchill, Eden and now McMillan have tried to restore their lost freedoms and lift their standard of living from the low level to which the Labor-Socialist government sank it.

Of course, those who foisted Socialism upon England were honest about it. They called it "Socialism." Those who are foisting Socialism upon America are not so forthright. They have a lot of fancy, misleading names for it, such as "Social Security," "Federal Medicine," "Public Housing," "Federal-Aid-To-Education," "Federal Power Production," etc., etc. They know that were they to call it by its right name, the American people would avoid it like a plague.

Thank God, the American people seem to be waking up to the fact that this nation has already travelled far along the road to Socialism. Let's hope and pray that it is not too late to turn back to an entirely free economy.

Definition of a Gentleman.

Many times we hear a man spoken of as a gentleman. What mental picture do you have of such a descriptive term? I have always thought he should be just what the word implies, a "gentle" man. This word gentle brings to mind an image of courtesy, tact, goodwill and understanding. To be a genuine gentleman, he should have all those qualities of character.

I particularly like this definition of a gentleman which I recently read. It tells in a dramatic way just what he should be like.

Gentleman; A man who is clean inside and outside, who neither looks up to the rich nor down to the poor; who can lose without squealing; who can win without bragging; who is too brave to lie, too generous to cheat, and too sensible to boat; who takes only his share of the world's goods and lets other people have theirs—that is a real gentleman.

A good definition and a worthy objective for any man to strive to achieve.

Telephone Workers Adopt New Contract

Members of Local 2109, Communications Workers of America, last week voted approval of a new 15-month contract with the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company of Maryland.

Michael L. Lindner, president, said ratification of the pact was voted by large majorities at meetings held in Oakland and Cumberland.

The local represents about 128 plant and commercial workers in Garrett and Allegany counties.

Results of the votes are to be forwarded to state CWA headquarters and tallied so the union can report final results by November 25.

If approved by majority vote the agreement reached by bargainers for the company and union in Baltimore late in October will be retroactive to October 27.

It will run for 15 months and will provide wage increases ranging from $2 to $5 a week for some 5,500 workers of the company.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

My mail in recent weeks has been heavy with requests for information on the nation's defense program. Our people have been startled and left uncomfortable by the spectacular demonstrations of Soviet success in the missile and space satellite fields. None like the idea of the Reds unveiling a great scientific achievement ahead of us. In our momentary discomfort we must not overlook the fact that we have made greater strides than the Soviet in the practical application of nuclear power to weapons and propelling submarines. In almost every field of science we are ahead of the other nations of the world.

But no one in Federal Government or on Capitol Hill is minimizing the Russians these days, for the very good reason that they apparently lead in some fields. The President in his talks with the people has presented the salient facts of our defense position and has dealt with their implications. I think, too, that the press and radio have done a good job in presenting available information to the public.

The Russians, advertently or not, have spurred us to decision making. But we must remember that there are basic principles at stake in the decisions we make—whether these decisions concern the immediate defense picture, or the long-range problem of educating our people to live in a world dominated by science and mathematics. We must not forget that we are defending liberty and the freedom of choice.

It is truly frightening, for example, to read the recent report on "Education in the U. S. S. R." Totalitarian states can select and train its ablest youth in any field it desires. It can force its scientists and technicians to work for the military. It can, and does, enforce on its people a bleak and hopeless standard of living. Such a program is repugnant to every American.

Bernard M. Baruch sums up our present position as follows: "If America ever crashes, it will be in a two-tone convertible . . . There are worse burdens than taxes . . . Sputnik represents the test of democracy. Do we meet this challenge—regain our leadership, assure our security? Do we discipline ourselves to protect our freedom? If we do not, we will bear the far harsher disciplines which our enemies will impose on us."

Dost think this turkey will please the Pilgrim Fathers?

Those cranberries have been strung with careful fingers, the bird itself has been roasted to just the proper degree of succulent brownness, and that bit of wheat, lying on the table, symbolizes the rich bounty of this year's harvest.

If our Puritan maid, Priscilla, looks a bit skeptical, it is only because she is wondering if tom turkey will be big enough to satisfy all the hungry guests.

They will be coming with vigorous appetites, whetted by the walk through snow covered fields from Church, where they have given thanks for their good fortune.

And on all Thanksgivings since that first one, thankful people have knelt in prayer. Thanksgiving is our own American holiday, unlike any other. It is deeply religious in nature. We can only observe it if, like the Pilgrims, we go to church to give our thanks. And never have a people had cause to be so thankful for so much.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Patients Admitted To New Hospital

Garrett and Allegany counties were represented in the first group of patients to be admitted to the new 300-bed Western Maryland hospital in Hagerstown.

The facilities, not yet completed, were opened for 28 patients transferred from Deer's Head and Montobello hospitals last week.

The group included two patients from Garrett county and two from Allegany county.

The hospital is for the chronically ill persons from Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties.

According to the County Commissioners, the hospital desires those chronically ill but curable patients who can be given surgical and medical treatment to put them back into society as healthy, self-sustaining citizens.

Dr. James A. McCallum, superintendent of the state chronic disease hospitals, said with the first group of patients, one of the five wings of the hospital was activated.

When there are applicants for admission other areas of the hospital will be opened as soon as additional staff members can be recruited and trained.

Giving?

Lesson for November 24, 1957

PREACHERS talk too much about money, some people complain. It is very seldom that this complaint has good reason behind it. If you don't like a religion that talks about money a good deal, you'd better hunt up some other religion besides Christianity. Read the parables of Jesus and see for yourself what a large number of them have to do with money.

Dr. Foreman

The Christian religion is a religion of love. Now love always involves giving. Selfish, tight-fisted "love" is a contradiction. Everybody would agree to that. The arguments or the misunderstandings begin at this point: What is giving?

Substitutes for Giving

There is really no substitute for giving, but people do try to run substitutes under that name. When time comes for a missionary offering, in almost any church you can hear some one sourly speaking: "Why should we give to people who never give to us? Why must it all go one way?" As a matter of fact, missionary gifts don't all go one way; but let that pass. The objection just quoted shows that the objector doesn't want to give, all he wants is exchange. But exchange is not giving. Here we are nearly at Christmas time, and all around us are people who talk about Christmas "gifts" when what they really mean is a Christmas exchange.

Another substitute something like this is investment. People talk about dividends from the mission field, they like to feel that by upping their contribution ten dollars they will get a dividend in the shape of one more soul saved. But the work, the true work of the Christian church, is not like that of a business. A railway can cut off a train that is not making money; but a church has no right to cut down a missionary's salary because he can't show as many conversions as the next missionary down the river. An old cripple who can never be cured, is just as worthy an object of Christian giving as a crippled child who can be cured.

Prying It Loose

Parting with your money isn't giving it. If you are being held up and are relieved of your wallet, you don't take credit for being generous with bandits. If you sit down and write the government a large check about the middle of next April, nobody can be fooled into thinking you are giving the United States anything; you are merely paying your tax. And maybe you wouldn't even do that if you didn't know it was a case of pay—or else . . . And yet people in the church will take credit for being generous when they are only parting with money they'd much rather not part with. This is not to say that the church ever robs any one. But sometimes a church will assess its members so much a member. It will be known who pays and who doesn't, so the man pays; but he's really being held up, he is paying only because he can't help it. What has to be pried out of a man is never a gift!

True Giving

"Let all that you do be done in love," Paul said. This holds for giving as for anything else. In I Corinthians 13 Paul had already said that if a man actually gave away every single thing he owned, even if he presented his own body as a sacrifice to be burned on a great altar, but did this without love, it would amount to nothing at all. The love of which Paul speaks is not a natural thing, that is to say, without the Spirit of God this love cannot exist. Ordinary love is so different from this that the New Testament uses a different word for it.

There is an ocean of difference between "love" that demands some kind of return, some reward, some dividend, and love that pours itself out without even asking for return. Such love is a rare sight, you say? To be sure it is; and that is why true Christian giving is so rare. This is not to say that a church should run each of its contributors through a third-degree examination—"What was your motive?"—before it will accept a cent. But every church ought to be working to educate its people out of being exchangers, investors, prestige-grabbers, quota-fillers, Lady Bountifuls, into the joy of giving from pure Christ-like love.

Answer To Socialism?

The foregoing article was received this week from William A. Tasker, of Kitzmiller, in reply to an article published last week that was written by George Peck in which he showed that the practice of socialism cuts all people down to the same level—that is—nothing at all.

Mr. Tasker says:

"In answer to last week's article on socialism, I used to belong to the socialist party and voted that way until I saw there would be none elected. Then I quit voting the socialist ticket. I notice you are like many I have talked to. You don't have the understanding of the socialist party. You seem to think as many do, that if the socialist party was elected and you had a lot of money as the rich man has, you would have to take this money and divide it. No it does not mean to divide up what you now have at all. It only means that there should be a more equal division on the profit from the man's labor you hire. If you hire a man to work for you and he makes you a profit of $20 and you pay him $5 for his labor, do you think this would be a fair division? The man labors and does all the work. He gets a pitiful $5 for his hard toil while you can sit at home in your big easy chair with your white shirt and collar, or maybe go out for a drive and still take three fourths of what the man made. Is that a fair division? Not by a long ways. If I were to do this I could not look this man in the face squarely when pay day came.

"You spoke of whiskers getting much longer than others which you could not understand. I believe that whiskers are as easy for you to understand as the socialist platform. The reason your whiskers grow uneven is like capital and labor. As soon as some gains a little on the others then the ones above the others will try to keep the little ones under control so they can never get above them, so they can always be the ruling power.

"The reason a lot of people are socialist is because the capitalist takes the biggest profit from our labor. He gets the social part and the laborer takes the "ist.' Does the rich man get pleasure from idle money? Will it be left for relatives to fight over? When Jesus calls what good will money be to the rich man? Turn to the 19th chapter of St. Matthew and see God's opinion of a rich man."

Editor's Note: There were several more paragraphs to the letter which seemed to repeat over and over what had been said before. He concluded by saying, "If I have made any statement in this letter that is untrue I ask you to forgive me for I did not do it on purpose, I am not ashamed of what I have written.

Look At Future Helps In Home Landscaping

One of the most important steps in a good landscaping plan is to visualize what plants are going to look like when they grow up—how tall they will get and how wide they will spread.

Most homeowners usually start with small plants in fan-shaping their yards. And Carl Johnson, University of Maryland extension landscaping specialist, says it's easy to make the mistake of setting them too close together, not realizing how large they will be when they mature.

Johnson points out that when young plants are spaced well apart the planting may look bare and incomplete for a year or so, but when they begin to grow they will fill in the empty spaces and give a better balanced planting for the future.

He suggests that if the planting looks too bare at the start, "filler" plants can be used temporarily but they should be taken out when the permanent planting begins to spread out and thicken.

The landscaping specialist cites a shrub border along one side of the yard as an example. For this purpose flowering shrubs such as forsythia and spirea would be a good choice. If they are planted too close together, they become a tangled mass eventually and will be hard to prune. On the other hand, if they are planted too far apart they won't blend together and provide the solid planting that is desirable. Generally, for these plants, the spacing should be about 5 to 6 feet apart so that when the individual plants fill out they will touch but not grow into one another.

"When you put young plants in the ground," he advises homeowners, "try to see these plants as they will look in 5 or 10 years, and allow space for them to develop. Also remember how high plants are going to grow so you won't use a tall-growing plant where you should use a smaller specimen. This simple rule will save you pruning problems later on."

Book Will Explain State's New Statute

Maryland motorists will receive a quick but thorough education about the state's new Uninsitised Claim and Judgment Fund Law in the same envelope that brings them their 1958 registration application forms, it was announced by Carlton S. Hardwick, chairman of the recently appointed board that will administer the statute.

Under the Uninsitised Claim and Judgment Fund Law, residents of Maryland filing just and legal claims will be protected up to approximately $25,000 against damage, either to their person or property, caused by financially irresponsible drivers in traffic accidents.

"When motor vehicle owners in Maryland receive their application blanks for 1958 registration," said Motor Vehicles Commissioner James K. Monroe, "they will find in the same envelope a small, four-page leaflet that they can read in just about three minutes. It will be one of the most valuable pieces of paper they will ever receive and they will never spend a more profitable three minutes in reading it. That little leaflet may save them from losing both their driver's license and registration plates for all cars owned by them.

"This leaflet will spell out in simple, every-day, layman's language everything that the average motor vehicle owner needs to know about this law. Among other things, it will explain why insured owners will pay an additional fee of only $1 with their registration in 1958, while uninsured owners will pay $8 additional, and may be called upon to repeat this fee in succeeding years. Insured owners will never be called upon to pay such an additional fee."

Mr. Hardwick explained that these additional fees will help to create the fund out of which those entitled to recover will be compensated for economic losses suffered in traffic accidents caused by financially irresponsible drivers. In addition, all insurance companies writing automobile liability insurance in Maryland must pay into the fund a half of one percent of their 1958 Maryland premiums for that line of insurance.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Adlai As A Helper

It does seem that Mr. Adlai E. Stevenson, who spoke so highly of himself in the last two presidential campaigns and was lauded to the skies by his adoring friends, despite the low character of his efforts to be elected, lacks the saving grace of a good loser—to whit, magnanimity. True, he has at last accepted the twice proffered request of the President to help show a united front in a grave national crisis by joining with him in framing the foreign policy of this country at the meeting of the NATO which the President will attend in Paris next month.

The last proposal of the President was so phrased as to leave Mr. Stevenson no choice save to accept, which his embittered speeches and attitudes since his overwhelming defeat in 1956 seemed to make very difficult, indeed. In fact, Mr. Stevenson after consulting with his close friends, Mr. Dean Acheson, Mr. Thomas Finletter and Mr. Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., appeared in such a poor humor about cooperating with the man who had twice beaten him at the polls so badly and whom they all personally dislike—that a good many people felt that Mr. Stevenson's "co-operation" might cause more harm than good, since some opponents might think Mr. Eisenhower in his slick, pious way and he would be sure to do it. However, Mr. Stevenson in this case had no real alternative.

If he refused, as he did, to accept a position on the Civil Rights Commission, which was offered him, declining to put aside personal and political prejudice in a matter of foreign policy, he could justly be accused of a lack of patriotism. Better no it would be to help his successful rival to the backing of a united country, there was no way to avoid the obvious grudging acceptance of the President's invitation.

Particularly is this true when he knew that not only would a refusal brand him before the nation as a churl, but it would open wide the door for the President to turn to Mr. Truman, who while not at all the "titular" leader of the party is, perhaps, more the real leader than is Mr. Stevenson. It happens that the personal relationship of the President and the former President is even less cordial than that between the President and Mr. Stevenson.

None the less, such is the desire of the President in this crisis to have a united country behind him that had Mr. Stevenson declined, he undoubtedly would have appealed to Mr. Truman and very few think that Mr. Truman would not have accepted with a good deal more alacrity and heartiness than did Mr. Stevenson. Incidentally, anyone who does not think that Mr. Truman deeply enjoys his position as a democratic "elder statesman," just does not know the facts. Deep as is his personal dislike of Mr. Eisenhower, he would unquestionably have jumped at the sort of invitation that Mr. Stevenson almost turned down. And that would have left the good Adlai well up a tree with it would have pained Mr. Truman about as little as it would have pained Mr. Eisenhower.

As things now stand, Mr. Eisenhower has made the sort of sincere, magnanimous, nonpartisan gesture which was expected of him. As for Mr. Stevenson, he will garner a great deal of publicity from his personal publicity agents and the anti-Eisenhower columnists. In addition, he will have established more firmly his position as the "titular" party leader, which certainly needed strengthening. And he will have inserted a position of more influence in the next Democratic National Convention of 1960, where he possibly might be nominated for the third time—though it must be admitted, not many Democrats think so. For one thing there are quite a few younger—and quarter—Democrats already in the field with important support.

As to what he will be to Mr. Eisenhower in formulating and promoting American policies in NATO remains to be seen. He will be guided, of course, by the eminent Messrs. Acheson, Finletter and Schlesinger, Jr., all of whom are very anti-Eisenhower personally and really—all three of them—much more forceful and persuasive fellows than the good Adlai himself. These gentlemen are not only smart and wily but experienced.

It is very unlikely that Mr. Stevenson will say or do anything as a "helper" to the president not approved by the three advisers who have the same warm feeling toward the President they have toward a rattlesnake. It is perhaps fortunate that Mr. Eisenhower will have as tough and experienced an old boy as Secretary of State Dulles by this side. John Foster is not too easy to push around.

IN 58 DAYS A '58 PLYMOUTH RAN 58,000 MILES—EQUAL TO MORE THAN TWICE AROUND THE WORLD AND IT DROVE EVERY INCH OF THE WAY!

We knew this car was tough.

We designed it that way.

That's why we weren't afraid to give Plymouth the toughest test run of all time . . . with all America as the "track."

We didn't coddle this Plymouth. Didn't crate it and ship it carefully from place to place. Instead, we aimed it out of Los Angeles one misty morning and sent it through a course that ran 58,000 miles through 37 states.

The time limit? Only 58 days.

A thousand miles a day!

The equivalent of 6 years' driving crammed into little more than 8 weeks!

Three times this Plymouth crossed the Rockies. Three times it wound its way up and down across the country . . . passing through more than 1200 cities and towns. Whipping over turnpikes . . . creeping through city traffic . . . arrowing down super-highways . . . feeling its way through 500 miles of rutted detours. And when the drivers turned the key to end the marathon, it still looked, ran and rode like new.

This is what lasting value really means. The ability to take everything that American roads and weather can dish out—and come up grinning. Why don't you give Plymouth a test drive yourself—today? You'll see what we mean.

Plymouth 58

That's the Plymouth "track" . . . and just look at that route! Every possible road and weather condition. Plymouth ran every inch of that murderous route 3 times in just 58 days. What greater proof of lasting, built-in stamina!

Star of the Forward Look . . . Plymouth ahead for keeps!

Good Education Is Cornerstone For A Better America

them will be a strong influence in the development of their full potential in later life. A community never rises above the level of the quality of schools it provides for its youth.

"American Education Week came into being as a yearly reminder to all citizens of the need for more and better education for more and more American youth.

"Unfortunately we cannot operate a successful educational program without money. Prudent men in education know that they must invest money in education if they are to expect adequate returns in terms of well trained future citizens. Like any other business the cost of education has been affected by Inflation, competition for personal services and a program of betterment. Inflation hits the schools like it hits everything else. Most everything we buy this year will cost us more than it did a year ago. This applies to textbooks, utilities, insurance, repairs, paper, materials of instruction, transportation, etc. Thus, if for these things we have only the same number of dollars we must lose ground, just as you find that the dollar buys less for you in your business needs.

"Competition for personal services meaning primarily competition for teachers, necessitating constant salary increases, has also been a large factor in the rising costs of education. On this Issue I should like to speak somewhat in detail for it is in this area that Garrett county schools might conceivably suffer their most severe blow. I take the position that good buildings, adequate books supplies and equipment are all necessary to provide adequately for the educational needs of youth, but the quality and competence of the teacher is by far the most important factor in determining the quality of any school system. This quality will not come cheap in the days that lie ahead, and there is no reason why parents who want this quality, or why communities which want this quality in their teachers should expect it to come cheap. Quality in the personnel of your business comes high and yet personnel lacking quality and competence is hy far the most expensive. The returns from the investment in any school system operates in exactly the same way as it operates in the business world. You can't pay the least and expect the best.

"Each year the demand for teachers is on the increase. Each year population increases in schools exceed the increase in the supply of trained and available teachers. While the school population of our county is static, the demand for teachers across the state and nation increases. Each year we face an ever increasing gap between our salary schedule and the salaries paid hy many other counties in the state. The governor's theory of 'let the counties finance their own salary increases' is ruinous to counties like Garrett. It defies completely the whole principle of equalization upon which our state school system has operated for years—a principle which gives us $4.00 in State money out of every $5.00 spent on public education in Garrett county, or 80 percent of our total cost. The theory of 'let the counties do it' is fine for Baltimore City and the wealthy counties, but unless this theory is reversed it will be devastating to counties like Garrett. Starting salary scales in the state now range from $3100 In Garrett to $3800 in several other counties. By next fall I predict that at least 75 percent of the teachers of the state will he getting a starting salary of $4000, or $900 more than the starting salary in Garrett at the present time. In this room are some of Ihe finest teachers in the state and our higher paying counties would be glad to have any of them—and well they might be. But I believe first of all that the children of Garrett county—your children—deserve teachers who are just as good as are the teachers of children in any other county and I helieve such teachers deserve just as much pay for teaching in Garrett county (barring perhaps some slight cost of living differential) as do the teachers in any other county.

"The first order of business hefore the short session of the Legislature in February is the disposal of the salary bill vetoed by the governor last April. The bill calls for a $400 increase in the minimum state salary schedule, bringing the starting salaries from $2800 to $3200 and the maximum salaries from $4600 to $5000.

"It is now imperative to us that the governor's veto be over-ridden or we will face next year a salary scale so much lower than 75 percent of the rest of the state that a substantial loss of highly qualified teachers, without opportunity for adequate replacements, must be anticipated.

"I am the last person on earth who feels that the wealth in Garrett county is sufficient to enable it to compete with inequities. It takes six cents on our tax rate to produce enough money for a $100 raise for teachers in Garrett county. You can easily figure for yourself what it will mean to increase teachers pay $400 next year on a local basis and I'm quite sure nothing less than that will suffice. What I am trying to do is to place some cold facts before you—facts that should be a concern of every thinking citizen in the county.

"Yes, there is another side to this picture—there is the side of teacher responsibility. No amount of pay is too much for the good teacher, while those who do not give an honest measure of effort and devotion to duty are perhaps already overpaid. Every parent has a right to expect a sincere and conscientious effort as well as a reasonable degree of competence from the teachers of their children. Contrary to the popular notion of those who know no better, the teacher's day is a long and arduous one requiring skill, study, planning, a vast knowledge of children, of how they grow and behave—and above all an honest feeling for the welfare of the children they teach. Much of the work of the good teacher is done beyond the hours of 8:30 a. m. and 4 p. m. And let me say in all honesty to those of you who are parents of children in our schools, you are very fortunate indeed, for in the vast majority of cases your children are laught by teachers truly dedicated to the great profession to which they belong, and numbered among them are some of the finest to be found anywhere.

"Garrett county has made a noble effort to improve its schools within the past decade. It has a $2.00 tax rate which is higher than many counties that are much wealthier; it has a $30,000 000 assessable base, one of the lowest in the state; it has a high honded indebtedness and a great portion of it is for the two high schools; it has the lowest per capita Income level in the state, but this level is steadily rising; it has not had the benefit of industrial promotion, government installations of any kind, or many opportunities for high paying jobs; it has lost ground in the coal and lumher industry. It has had some help from Ihe gas tax and State Incentive Fund to help finance its building improvement program. I don't believe any county in the state has done as much with as little.

"This brings me to my third and last point in the discussion of school costs and that is the program of Betterment. Schools should set the pace for community betterment. There were perhaps more fine new homes built In Garrett county this pasl year than at any other simllar period. People want new and hetter homes, cars, furniture, clothing, etc. And so it Is with schools. People are not content, nor should they be, with school facilities obsolete and outmoded, uninviting, and unsanitary. Certainly this was true In Garrett county. How much erosion in the potential of child development has taken place over the years In buildings such as the old Annex would be hard to measure, but certainly a red letter day is soon to arrive when these children so inadequately housed can be moved to a new, modern school plant. So in spite of efforts made, a program of Betterment for facilities throughout the elementary schools of the county was long overdue. This program of Betterment is nearing a phase of completion and Improvements in educational returns are beginning to emerge. Teacher and pupil morale has been raised—resulting in a greater degree of pride In work to be done.

"What finer investment can you make toward total community Betterment than the investment you make in your schools. You are entitled, Mr. Taxpayer, to a dollar's worth for a dollar spent, whether it's in a teacher's salary, a new school building, or in the purchase of insurance. This we try to give you, hut it is ohvious to me that we cannot provide the education needed in the future on today's school budget. The President's plea just Wednesday of this week, for schools lo step up their offerings and facilities in the fields of math, physics, and chemistry, to he taught by highly trained and competent teachers in these fields calls for first of all an increased school budget. Just as the President called for higher pay for career officers and military personnel, the same must he forthcoming if we are to secure an adequate number of trained men and women for the teaching profession. School administrators have been wrestling with thls problem for a number of years and it may he that our national security must be threatened before the admonitions of school administrators are taken seriously hy the public. When more money is needed for military research and milltary personnel in order to provide greater security for us, it is readily forthcoming. When more money is needed for hetter schools, which are our first line of defense and security, it becomes in many instances a matter of indifference, opposition and vetoes. Can we afford to give our children the educational opportunities they need? Statistics run through my mind sometimes as follows—spent annually on liquor, tobacco, gambling, to say nothing of Mike Todd parties, $30 billion per year; spent on educating American boys and girls in our public schools, $11 billion per year; spent of Federal funds for roads, $36 billion; spent of Federal funds for schools, relatively nothing.

"Such figures and statistics and many more can he produced to show what American people are doing with billions of dollars of their income annually. Can we afford good education for our youth? Or better put, perhaps, is the question of whether or not we can afford not to provide a good education for our youth. The answer to these questions may well be determined by our sense of values. If we are willing to spend three times as much of our yearly income on liquor, tobacco, and gambling as we are on schools for our children, or if our Federal government is willing to spend $36 billion for roads but nothing for schools, then it would seem to me that we have indeed lost our true sense of values."

YEAR END TAX TIPS NUMBER 1

Act Now To Trim Your Federal Income Tax Bill

This is one of a series of four articles on federal income taxes. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants.

You still have time—but not much time—to do a little year-end tax planning and assure yourself of the best possible break when you file your tax return next April.

Millions of high, low and middle income taxpayers, realizing that careful planning of their financial affairs between now and the first of the year can pay off handsomely when the tax collector calls next spring, have already begun to establish those extra deductions and special exemptions that will reduce their tax bills.

You can do this too, but you must act no later than December 31

To alert you to the tax-saving steps you may he able to take before the end of the year, this newspaper is printing a series of articles prepared with the help of the national and state organizations of certified public accountants. These articles—if yon keep them and follow their advice—can save you money.

Evaluate Income Prospects

If you are like most individual taxpayers, your goal at this time should be to level out income for this year and next year. Needless or careless bunching of income in either year can be costly. The sharp bite of today's progressive tax rates—which you can assume will be as high or possibly only slightly less in 1958—makes it much better to have an income of $8,000 In each of two years, rather than $6,000 in one and $10,000 in the other.

Taxpayers who are in danger of being whiplashed from one tax bracket to another because of wide fluctuations in their 1957 and 1958 income should act before December 31 to try to average out their taxable earnings. This can be done by careful shifting of Income and deductions from one year to the next.

How to Shift Income

For example, if your two-year Income estimate shows that your income for this year will be significanlly higher than next year s, you should take immediate steps to throw as much income as possible from 1957 to 1958. At the same time you should speed up the payment of all expenses that can be deducted on your 1957 return. By concentrating deductions in the higher year and switching income to the lower, you will keep your taxes for both years in the lowest possible tax bracket.

Should you be faced with the more desirable problem of a sizeable increase in your 1958 income, reverse this procedure—delay expenses and speed up income if you can

Timing Income and deductions to gain a tax advantage is not too difficult for the millions of taxpayers who file returns on the basis of cash receipts and cash disbursements. "Cash basis" business and professional men can shift income by simply delaying or speeding up the collection of accounts receivable near the end of the year. Salesmen and contractors can do the same thing by extending or closing deals that may be pending in November or December.

Farmers who operate on a cash basis can accelerate or postpone income by proper timing of the sales of their crops or livestock. While their income will be taxable in the year cash is received, the full costs of raising crops or cattle are deductible for the year In which the costs were paid.

Special Income Situations

There are special situations in which it can be advantageous to bunch income in a single tax year. For example, a husband and wife can file a joint return to gain the benefits of income-splitting. Should one of them die, the survivor may file a joint return for the year in which the spouse died and also for two succeeding years under certain conditions. Thus, a widow or widower may profit by throwing more income into this year and less into next if his or her spouse died in 1955, since the privilege of filing a joint return will be lost in all cases in 1958

If you are planning to be married in 1958, remember that the income-splitting privileges you gain will act like a rate cut for you. At $7,000 of income, your taxes will be $240 less than if you were single, assuming that you take the standard deduction and claim only exemptions for you and your wife. For this reason, young couples planning marriage might consider postponing income from 1957 to 1958, while accelerating deductions from 1958 to 1957.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Annie Louise Bateman, who passed away three years ago, November 26, 1954.

November brings sad memories,
Of our loved one gone to rest.
You will always be remembered,
By those who loved you best.
We think of you so often,
How much you meant to us.
You are just a beautiful memory,
Of the one we loved so much.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still.
Death has left a vacant chair.
No one can ever fill.
No one knows the silent heartaches,
Only those who have lost can tell.
The grief we bear in silence.
For the one we loved so well.

Sadly missed by her husband, Hugh Bateman, Children and Grandchildren.

TODAY we're proudly displaying the 1958 GMC Money-Maker. And we think you'll find it the handsomest hustler you ever handled.

An eager 200 horsepower swings a top load like a cargo of feathers. Turning ease is like power steering's.

A fast-ratio cruising axle gives you an overdrive's road pace and gas savings. Foam-rubber seats cradle you in a roomy cab. Boulevard styling carries out the feeling of luxury.

But this beauty is built like a pocket battleship. You'll see that in its massive spring hangers. In rear springs with the highest deflection rate of all light-duties.

You can sit solidly on an unhooked end of its tail gate—and you can't crinkle the roof or door panels with a smack of your hand.

You'll get the same quality instrument panel as on the big, $10,000 GMC heavy-duties. A radiator mounted on a bulkhead integral with the frame. A steering column braced like a mast.

Hail to Farmers .....

Farmers sustain America's greatness, readers of Progressive Farmer are told in the November issue. An article in that magazine suggested that during Farm-City Week, being observed from November 22 to 28, that the people residing in towns should be told the facts on how these farmers do just that.

The magazine listed eight facts.

1. America's farmers have increased their efficiency faster than any other group. In 1900 one farmer could feed only himself and seven other people. Today he can feed himself and 21 others, releasing workers for other jobs.

2. Farmers have been penalized for increased efficiency. As gross income has increased farmers have received a decreasing percent of the total.

3. Farmers are customers for both consumption goods and production goods. He's a double-barreled customer, buying both consumer goods and production goods.

4. Farmers are producing cheap food for which city folks are paying high prices. On an average the American family spent $1,500 for food but only $600 went to the farmer, the balance to middlemen.

5. Farmers have subsidized cities rather than being subsidized themselves. Subsidies paid farmers are far less

Gas Company Seeks Rate Hike

The Cumberland and Allegheny Gas company today asked the Public Service Commission for a $465,000 annual rate increase on its Maryland operations.

The company said the proposed increase would raise costs for a customer using gas for cooking, water heating and other non-heating uses 81 cents a month, and $2.11 a month over a year's time for a typical heating customer.

It also filed a $665,000 increase from its West Virginia customers.

Russell H. Brown, manager of the company's operations in Oakland, said the company was basing its applications on the financial results of its operations in the 12 months ending July 31. He said the proposed rates are designed to offset increases in costs the company has had to pay since the end of 1955 in Maryland which include higher labor costs and higher cost of materials and supplies.

Under present rates a typical customer using 5,000 cubic feet of gas a month for cooking, water heating and clothes drying or refrigeration now pays $5.27. Under new rates it would be $6.08. A heating customer using another 180,000 cubic feet a year for heating, now pays $140.00 a year. Under the proposed increase this would cost $156. If one person used both the increase would go from $203.64 to $228.96.

The new rates will put gas heat higher than the direct cost of coal for heating but still some $65 to $70 a year below the cost of oil.

Local Scout Troop To Have 19th Eagle

Oakland Scout Troop will soon have its nineteenth Eagle Scout. He is David Gonder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard I. Gonder, Alder street, who will go to Cumberland on Monday evening to qualify for that rank before the Potomac Council Board of Review.

David, 15 years of age, has been active in scouting for almost five years. He became a Life scout on August 8, and since that time has been passing additional merit badges which would qualify him for Eagle, one of the top ranks obtainable in scouting.

Twenty-one merit badges are needed for Eagle scout, some of them required. David now has a total of 25 merit badges, but still needs one required merit badge before qualifying for the Eagle rank. This he expects to pass on Monday evening. He will then have the five additional merit badges needed for the bronze palm, but this cannot be presented until a few months after he receives his Eagle award. He is also working on his God and Country award, which is a joint award accomplished through work in his church and in the community.

During the existence of the Oakland troop which began in 1924, there have been eighteen scouts who have won the Eagle award. Eight were won while Rev. A. J. Torrey, first scoutmaster, was still here, in 1925 and 1926. They include Bernard I. Gonder, Jr., Thomas A. Gonder, James Lee, McClelland Dixon, Kenneth Stahl, Robert Stemple, George Altstetter and Guy Gregg. In later years Eagle awards were won by Ward Hinebaugh, Harley Dawson, Kenneth Lawton, Horace O'Donnell, Hopwood Wooddell, Charles Mason, Howard Naylor, Robert Lawton, Robert B. Sincell and Richard Leighton. There have been no Eagles in the troop since about 1915.

Illegal Sale of Deer Meat During Year Brings Arrest

The first case concerning the sale of deer meat in the state of Maryland will be prosecuted on Friday, November 29, at a hearing before Trial Magistrate Earl C. Friend in Oakland.

The case will be heard against Carlos Woodrow Friend, 45, a truck driver, of Uniontown, Pa., who is charged with 23 infractions of the game laws, according to S. R. Pagenhardt, state's attorney. Friend was arrested last Saturday after some deer meat was delivered to state and federal undercover men who were staying at a Deep Creek Lake motel.

Friend was taken before Trial Magistrate Friend on Monday where he posted bond amounting to $1,750, pending his appearance at the hearing on the 29th.

Listed among the twenty-three charges were possession of deer, sale of deer, hunting with an improper license, having grouse out of season, exceeding the bag limit for grouse, and a number of others. The charges include ten deer that have been disposed of within the period of a year.

The State's Attorney said that Friend had signed a statement admitting all the charges when questioned last Saturday morning by officers.

Charges were preferred by Leo Friend, game warden.

Pagenhardt said the first sale was made December 10, 1956, to a Federal undercover man and that since that time there had been nine other deer killed illegally and sold up to as high as $45 each. All of them were killed in Garrett county, Pagenhardt said. A number of grouse illegally killed also were delivered to the federal and state men, it was stated.

Game law officers had wind of the scheme over a year ago that wildlife was being killed in this county and taken into Pennsylvania and sold. Crossing of a state line brought the case under the jurisdiction of the federal government also so an officer of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and an officer of the State Game and Inland Fish Commission were sent to conduct the probe.

The two officers posed as real estate men and made friends with Carlos Friend, and during the year made their various purchases. The game was placed in cold storage for use as evidence.

The State's Attorney said he felt sure that a number of other individuals were also involved in the case, but that evidence thus far had failed to turn up additional persons. A search warrant of Mr. Friend's farm property near White Rock last Saturday revealed two additional deer hanging in a shed.

On hand for the filing of bond on Monday were Joseph Minke, regional game warden; Leo Friend, Francis Ruge and Robert S. Brown, game wardens, and others. The case, being the first of its kind in the state, has created unusual interest. Officials said it is difficult to obtain evidence in such cases.

Tennessee Man Is Held In Fox Safecracking

Third Man in Robbery at Friendsville Sought Since Last July

The third man suspected of participating in a safecracking on July 29, at the Fox Hardware store in Friendsville, was taken into custody by Tennessee Highway Patrol and will be returned to this county to face prosecution. He is Earl Franklin, about 31, of Johnson City, Tenn., and Washington, D. C.

A total of $37,510 was taken from the safe of the Hardware store with $25,000 of the total in non-negotiable U. S. saving bonds.

Elwood Kissner, 26, former Friendsville resident, and Oliver Rockett, 53, Baltimore, were tried in the Circuit court here on September 6 and sentenced to 10 years each in the state penitentiary for grand larceny and breaking and entering.

Corporal Samuel Conrad of the Maryland State Police reported last night that a teletype was received at the LaVale barracks yesterday notifying authorities that Franklin had been taken into custody and indicated he would waive extradition to this county.

Cpl. Conrad said Franklin was a native of Johnson City but was rooming in Washington when he met Kissner and Rockett.

All three, Conrad said, were employed on a paint crew and had worked together on various jobs. Police said Franklin made his first trip to Garrett county just prior to the safecracking. Kissner was the only one of the three who knew his way to Friendsbille, according to police, who said the men made a three-way split of the money with Franklin getting a little more than his share of the loot.

Bought Station Wagon

Approximately a week after the safecracking Franklin purchased a 1957 model station wagon and had been "on the go" ever since, Conrad said both men identified Franklin as the one who actually cracked the safe. He is reported to have a wife and child in Baltimore.

During the trial last September Kissner who had no previous criminal record, told the court that he was not so much interested in the money but "just wanted to see a safe cracked." He also admitted "fingering" the hardware store for Rockett and the third man who was at that time still at large. Kissner said he did not realize at the time that the safe would contain such a large sum.

Rockett, who had a criminal record, admitted he had burned the $25,000 worth of bonds in the back yard of his home in Baltimore. The two men were apprehended in Baltimore a few days after the crime.

About $1,100 was recovered from a rock pile near Friendsville and another $1,900 was located at the Richmond, Va., home of relatives of one of the men.

The third man, identified as Franklin, was believed to have escaped with between $6,000 and $7,000 of the loot.

Deer Season To Open December 2

The annual deer hunting season will open Monday, December 2, and will continue until sundown Saturday evening, December 7. During this period it will be lawful to kill bucks with two or more points to one antler and spike bucks with three inch antler.

The small game season, which began on November 15 and will continue until January 5, will be suspended during the deer season.

Hunters have already made reservations in private homes, boarding houses, and other places and it was estimated that at least 3,000 hunters would be in the woods at least during the first few days of the open season.

Hunters will attempt to surpass the all-time record of 662 kills made during the 1956 season. In 1955 there were 608 killed; in 1952 there were 592 killed, while in 1951 there were 566 killed. The limit is one buck per year per hunter.

Game regulations stipulate it is lawful to hunt deer while there is snow on the ground but they may be killed only with a rifle that develops over 1,200 foot pounds of muzzle energy. Shotguns loaded with pumpkin ball or slub may also be used. Cross bows, buck shot and dogs are prohibited.

There will be the usual five deer checking stations in this county where deer must be checked as soon as possible after being killed.

It is unlawful to remove the head or hide or other parts except internal organs, or cut up the meat until the deer has been reported and weighed at one of the checking stations. Stations in this county will include the sheriff's office in Oakland; Floyd Hetz in Grantsville; Mat Storey's Inn at Deep Creek Lake near Mellenry; Reckner's store in Swanton; Yough Motor company at Friendsville. Hunters making kills near the Allegany county line also may check their deer at the police station at Westernport or the state police barracks at LaVale.

Additional district game wardens from other counties of the state will be assigned to Western Maryland during the six-day season.

Briner Will Head March of Dimes

Charles L. Briner, Oakland, will serve as Garrett county's 1958 March of Dimes director, it was announced by former United States Senator George L. Radcliffe, Maryland chairman. Next January will make the twentieth year of the organization.

Mr. Radcliffe said the fight was nearing successful completion but that people could not forget the obligation to the thousands who are still in iron lungs, on rocking beds, in wheel chairs, and on crutches who still look to the March of Dimes for their rehabilitation. The organization will attempt to raise $41,900,000 in 1958 to meet the quota.

A recent census of polio cases throughout the United States indicates a total of between 80 and 90 thousand persons still directly dependent upon March of Dimes assistance.

Mr. Briner noted that last year a total of $357,910.10 was used in direct aid to polio patients in the state of Maryland, most of it going for rehabilitation.

Good Education Is Cornerstone For A Better America

Declaring that a good education for every boy and girl was the cornerstone of a better America, Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, stressed education week in two addresses before Oakland service clubs last week.

He addressed the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club on November 11, and the Oakland Rotary club on November 15. Teachers of elementary schools of the southern end of the county were guests of Lions club members while instructors at Southern High were guests of the Rotary club members.

Mr. Hawkins spoke on inflation and how it was affecting teacher salaries, on the keen competition for personal services and on programs of betterment.

He urged every parent and taxpayer to meditate purposefully and sincerely on the value of education in today's world and to consider the program of universal education and its relation to a free society becoming capable of self government, stressing particularly the theme of this year's observance of education week, "an educated people moves freedom forward."

"A good education in these times involves having well prepared teachers, unlimited opportunity to learn, and facilities at hand to use in getting a good education," he declared.

A portion of Mr. Hawkins remarks are quoted below:

"The matter of operating a school system, while left in the hands of teachers, principals and administrators to do the teaching and to make most of the administrative decisions, is a matter of utmost concern for every citizen in a community, if not, well that it might be. Children to be educated are the children of the people in the community and the kind of educational opportunities provided for

Kight, through his attorney, Edward J. Ryan, charges that the lake, known as Mt. Lake, located on a large piece of property owned by him, has been contaminated by sewage from the community.

The declaration states that during the installation and repair of a sewage line the lake was polluted from the sewage due to the negligence in the sewer line work.

Kight said that he had realized a substantial sum each year from the lake from fees for swimming and fishing paid by visitors. He also said that after the sewage polluted the lake the Garrett County health officer ordered it closed to both swimming and fishing.

Christmas Savings Checks This Year Will Reach $45,000

Christmas Savings club checks from the two Oakland banks will total more than $15,000 this year, an increase of about $7,000 over the previous year, it was announced this week. Both banks will mail out these savings checks December 1.

The money will be sent to more than 450 depositors of the First National Bank and the Garrett National Bank in Oakland.

Both banks are planning Christmas clubs for next year and may be started at any time. The first payment will be due when started. Depositors may make as little as 25-cent payments each week. They may be taken for as much as $10 a week.

There have been increases in the local banks almost every year since the custom started quite a few years ago. Distribution throughout the nation will be over one billion dollars. While most of the money annually goes for Christmas presents it is also estimated that a percentage will go into savings accounts, insurance premiums and savings bonds. Many regular Christmas club members save for specific purposes, for winter vacations, to pay taxes, to meet insurance installments, to finance home modernization and for tuition for college students.

Legislators Would Review Tax Problem

A committee of the Legislative Council has urged a careful but drastic revision of our outmoded system of taxing personal property.

The Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters said administration of the state's personal property tax is in "wild disorder." It pointed out that the tax had degenerated for the most part into an inconsistent tax on business and also covered "farm machinery and live stock and scattered remnants of the old household furnishings tax in our rural counties."

The committee named three possible replacements for the personal property tax—a gross profits tax, a turnover tax based on classified gross receipts, and a business privilege license fee measured by net income. A simplified personal property classification system similar to that of Ohio was noted as a fourth alternative.

Changes suggested for the 1958 legislature amounted to specifying in law the personal property which is in fact taxed now. The practical effect, the report said, would be to limit the tax to property that "forms the backbone" of such taxation and eliminate "an inconsequential variety of odds and ends."

Loose Dairy Housing May Dissatisfy If It Doesn't Save Work

Dairy farmers who are considering a loose housing system have more to think about than meeting the requirements for state and local milk market approval.

Unless feeding and bedding operations are handled with minimum labor there is likely to be dissatisfaction with this method of housing, says A. V. Krewatch, University of Maryland extension agriculture engineer.

He thinks that eventual satisfaction with the system depends just as much on things as self-feeders for silage and hay and convenient storage for bedding as on ordinance requirement.

Pointing out some of the labor saving methods, Krewatch says mechanical self feeding of silage is possible by using a silo unloader and a drag conveyor in the yard feeding bunk. Top unloaders are now improved to effectively handle chopped grass as well as corn silage; one silo incorporates unloading mechanism at the bottom. Miscellaneous Extension Publication 39, by John W. Wysong of the Agricultural Economics Department gives farmers a method of figuring the value of a mechanical unloader for animal feeding. Some farmers self-feed from horizontal silos.

Self feeding directly from a vertical silo by means of controlled movement of silage downward into the feeding trough surrounding the base is now practical as a result of extensive research by Mark Singley, agricultural engineer at Rutgers University according to Mr. W. C. Krueger, extension farm engineer at Rutgers.

Self-feeding of hay, either baled or chopped, from movable crib cuts labor to a few minutes a day. It is also possible to build hay storage from which the animals can eat chopped hay without attention.

Hail To Farmers . . .

than tax writeoffs granted industry. Rural communities educate children and then ship them off to cities to become taxpayers.

6. Farmers are a barrier to possible excesses of Big Business or Big Labor. He combines capital, management and labor. He is ready to deal with each group and pay a fair price for service. But he will not tolerate injustice.

7. Farmers are the most effective foes of communism. Efforts to collectivize farms in Russia have met with failure. As long as there are solvent farmers communism will never become effective in America.

8. Farmers provide America with a reservoir of spiritual strength. Those who labor in the earth are the chosen people of God, said Thomas Jefferson. "Our government will remain virtuous as long as our people are chiefly agricultural. Our rural heritage must be sustained to give our nation the stamina, strength and tranquility that it can gain from no other source," said our former president. Our farmers not only feed the stomach of America. They also nurture its heart, its conscience and its faith.

These eight points are enlarged upon in the article. But the basic points are here. And now is a good time to let the farm people know that they are appreciated, not only this week but for the other fifty-one weeks of the year.

Social Security For Farmers Is Explained

The purpose of social security for farmers is the same as for other working people and their families, it was pointed out by James E. Robertson, district manager of the Cumberland Social Security office. Social Security insurance old-age benefits are intended to replace part of the income lost of lower earnings or loss of earning due to retirement.

If a farmer has no earnings after he becomes entitled to payments he may receive them regularly. Even though he did not retire after he applied he may receive them for all months if his earnings for the year are not more than $1,200. Farmers whose earnings are more than $1,200 may still receive payments for some months if his earnings for the year do not exceed $2,680 or if the farm work is seasonal and he did not work in some months.

All farmers who have applied for the social security payments or who were not yet 72 by February 1 must report to the social security office if their earnings for the year are more than $1,200.

Income Tax Has Netted Half Billion To State Coffers

State income taxations have brought more than half billion dollars into the coffers of Maryland, according to figures recently released by J. Millard Tawes, state comptroller.

The state has had a full twenty years of tax returns under the law enacted in 1937, with actual net collections being $510,928,988.

The real jump in receipts has come within the past few years, Tawes said. During the past ten years receipts total $131,185,997. For comparative purposes the retail sales and use tax collected $327,751,067 during that time. The peak year ended June 30, 1956, when $86,262,407 was collected.

Since 1939 subdivisions of the state have shared in the income tax paid by residents.

The resident individual amount paid by Garrett county citizens within the twenty-year period totaled $507,741.59. Calvert county is the only other county that paid less, and only one other county, Somerset, that was under a million dollars. Caroline, Charles, Kent, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Worcester and Dorchester were the other counties in the million dollar category. Allegany county citizens paid $6,209,737.57.

Since 1939 when the income tax return to subdivisions began, Garrett county has received $165,191.77.

Gives Ten Pointers On Christmas Mail

Ten basic pointers for users of the mails to follow in order to assure prompt and safe delivery of their Christmas cards and gifts this year were outlined by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

1. Address mail fully and clearly; 2. use 3-cent letter rate on cards and letters with return address; 3. do not enclose coins or hard objects in letters; 4. do not mail money in Christmas gifts or letters; 5. separate letters to local and out of town to speed up mail and relieve congestion; 6 make certain parcels are well packed and securely wrapped; 7. mark gifts such as glass, china, electrical appliances, radios, musical instruments as "fragile," and food stuffs as "perishable"; 8. insure parcels early to avoid last minute rush; 9. avail yourself of opportunity to discuss problems with postal employes about postal rules and regulations and mailing.

The amount of Christmas cards and parcels lost at Christmas time due to improper or inadequate addressing, or lack of return address, runs into the thousands. The Postmaster General advocates use of first class 3-cent letter postage because of its advantages. It is returnable to the sender and may be forwarded if the party has moved.

Thirty-one Report For Basketball At Southern Hi School

Thirty-one candidates reported to Coaches Carl Schoonover and Dick Travis as basketball practice got underway last Friday evening at Southern High school.

The coaches are seeking replacements for Bob Shilly, Earl Kight, John Roth, Gary Bittinger, Bill Deckman and Tom Bittinger who were lost to the squad by graduation.

Returning lettermen, Ken Shafer, Willard Pangh, Dana Dintaman and Terry Colaw, are expected to form the nucleus of this year's team but may be hard pressed by members of last year's Junior varsity and junior high squads.

From the Jayvee squad are seniors Ronald Glaze, Julius Bolyard, Bill Murphy, Don DeWitt and Robert Maxey; and juniors

John Updyke, Ronald Dilgard, Leo Martin, Don Stemple, Wayne Callis, Joey Sanders and Jack Gnepy.

Reporting from the Junior High team are sophomores Dorris Updyke, Bill Duling, Steve Malone, Jerry Wine, Ken Savage and Donnie James. Other candidates reporting for the first time are sophomores Tommy Bergner, Jack Broadwater, Fred Hinebaugh, Ken Wenger, Dick Callis, Bill Butler, Carroll Miller, Tom Armstrong, and Marlin Coker, a senior.

Coach Schoonover said Bill Stemple would be lost to the squad due to an injury in practice.

Coach Schoonover will carry a squad of twenty players for the varsity and JV teams. Formerly these two teams were under separate coaches.

The addition of Petersburg and Piedmont to the schedule will give the team six Potomac Valley conference games but Southern will be unable to compete for top honors since eight games are set as a minimum for league championship competition. Kenneth Johns, principal, called this year's schedule an attractive one, meeting top teams of the district.

Coach Schoonover remarked this week that he was pleased with the early performances of some of his players and that although he had to rebuild his team he hoped for an improvement over last year's record. Southern won only three of nineteen scheduled games last year, although many of the losses were by less than five points. The Highlanders took two games from Terra Alta and one game from Bayard.

Dance Concludes 10th Anniversary Of National Guard Unit

Between three hundred and four hundred people converged on the National Guard armory in Oakland on Saturday night to bring to a conclusion the tenth anniversary program of Company C, 121st Engineers.

The program began in early afternoon with an open house and conducted tour of the premises, followed by a band concert by Southern High school band at 4:30.

A crowd of less than 100 people gathered at 5 o'clock for the anniversary program. Speakers were Lieut. Col. Frederic M. Hewitt, battalion commander of the National Guard; Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland; and Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley as representative for the town of Oakland. B. Beeson Snyder served as master of ceremonies and the Rev. Charles W. Carlson, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, delivered the invocation.

Col. Hewitt was high in his praise of the local unit of national guard which was honor company this year at the summer encampment, marking the fifth time in ten years that such an honor had been bestowed. "Year in and year out, these men of Company C did an outstanding job," the colonel stated.

He reminded the civilians attending the ceremony that the guard brought some $30,000 annually into the community in pay and that they were always on call to perform civic duties.

General Reckord traced the history of the National Guard and also complimented the local company on its outstanding performance.

Colonel Hewitt also presented the best engineer soldier award to Sgt. Doyle Biser while General Reckord presented a plaque to Capt. Arthur Calhoun, commanding officer of the local unit, for having won honor company.

Approximately one hundred persons attended the dinner given at Southern High school cafeteria.

Attending the several functions were officers of the various other Guard units from Leonardtown, Westminster, Ellicott City and Baltimore, with their wives.

The Mello-Aires, of Clarksburg, W. Va., furnished the music for the dance.

Legion Auxiliary To Aid In Raising Funds

The American Legion auxiliary in this county will assist in raising funds for "Friends Aware," it was decided at a district meeting of the auxiliary held in Grantsville recently.

Mrs. Harrison Stewart, auxiliary head, said that in order to attain its goal members would be asked to contribute by a "bakeless bake sale." Each member is to be contacted.

She explained that the Friends Aware fund is used to provide transportation for mentally and physically handicapped children so that they may attend school. She said that three schools had been set up in Allegany county for these children who need special attention and education, and that they hope to establish a similar school in this community in the near future.

Self-Evaluation For Teachers Urged

Garrett county teachers were urged to give themselves a self-evaluation test to determine just where they stood in the eyes and in the eyes of the community, at the annual dinner meeting of the Garrett County Teachers' Association.

The self-evaluation was urged by Miss Gay Moore, vice-president of the State Teachers' association of Hagerstown, who addressed the gathering. She asked them to consider many angles of their jobs, whether they felt they were worth what they were being paid, whether they were doing quality teaching, had a genuine love for children, were happy, having fun, facing up to problems, dirty, realizing mistakes in judgment and behavior, were well informed, assumed activity in community life, and other phases.

She urged them to be proud of their profession, to continually search for new ideas, and to teach with all the knowledge at their command that they are able to assemble. She hoped that all teachers would so conduct themselves that students would have a desire to emulate them.

Approximately 175 to 200 persons attended the affair. Albert R. Ringer, president of the county teachers, presided. Entertainment was furnished by two groups from the Southern High and Northern High senior choruses. Taking part for Southern under direction of Mrs. Russell H. Brown, were Joan Paige, Carole Savage, Amanda Dixon, Nancy White, Bill Burgwald, Thelma Show, Keith Mersing, Peg Ridley, Dick Snyder, Catharine Filsinger, Lester Bittinger, Harvey Winters, Jr. Taking part for Northern, under direction of Mrs. Lucille Sines, were Joanne Collier, Janice Callis, Troy Wilburn and Ronald Beiler.

Retired teachers of the county and new teachers this year were special guests of the association.

TOO LITTLE, TOO LATE is the way we Dodge dealers feel about competitors' efforts to match the Swept-Wing 58. They lowered the roof some, but left the sides high. Their windshields got smaller while ours got bigger. So much for styling. Then, for another important comparison, take ride. Here's Dodge with Torsion-Aire suspension that just about everybody admits is the greatest advance in sway-free, dip-free, silent going that any car offers. So what do these other cars do? They borrow an air suspension system that's been used in buses for two years! (Costing well over $100.00 extra.) And most of 'em still don't have push-button driving—much less Dodge TorqueFlite—the proven automatic transmission. If you're a little disappointed in the '58 version of your car, come on in and see our Swept-Wing 58. The others are catching on—but they can't catch up.

MARRIED

Smith - Beachy — An impressive fall wedding took place in The Stone Church of the Brethren in Huntingdon, Pa., on Saturday afternoon, November 9, at 2 o'clock when Miss Rosalie E. Beachy and Mr. George H. Smith, Jr., were united in marriage. Dr. T. F. Henry officiated, at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Homer Beachy, of Hesston, Pa., formerly of Accident. The bridegroom is a son of George H. Smith, Sr., Lancaster, Pa.

Vases of autumn flowers were used to decorate the church altar in addition to lighted candles in candelabra.

Miss Kathy Hollsinger presented an organ prelude. Mrs. Ernest Miller, McConnellstown, sang several numbers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a full length gown of French Chantilly lace over tulle and satin. The fitted bodice of lace was styled with an illusion neckline and mandarin collar which was studded with sequins. The sleeves were long tapering. Her bouffant skirt of tulle over satin was fashioned with lace ruffle above the pleated front panel of tulle, the back was accented with a wide lace panel, which fell into a chapel train. She wore a finger tip veil of silk illusion, trimmed with white lilies of the valley. She carried a cascade of white rose buds and white pompons.

Miss Ruth Beachy, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her Princess style, ballerina length gown was of taffeta in coral with collar and back panels of red velveteen. Her short scalloped veil was held by a clip trimmed with matching illusion and pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of mauve mums.

Miss Barbara Arbuckle and Miss Judy Widder, cousin of the groom, both of Lancaster, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns styled identical to that of the maid of honor, in seafoam, with emerald and matching headdresses. They carried colonial bouquets of bronze mums.

Bonnie Garner was flower girl. Mrs. Beachy chose a royal blue dress with which she wore navy accessories. The bridegroom's stepmother wore an aqua dress with black accessories. Both wore corsages of pink rosebuds.

A reception followed in the church fellowship hall.

For travelling the bride selected a tweed suit with which she wore red accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Smith was graduated from the Huntingdon High school and Lancaster General Hospital School of Nursing. She is presently employed as a staff nurse in the same hospital. Mr. Smith is a graduate of the Mannheim Township High school and served three years in the U. S. Army. He is a student at Franklin and Marshall college.

The couple will reside in Lancaster.

One Man Looks At God

(By Charles W. Carlson, Pastor, St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Oakland Maryland.)

This week, in continuing our Christian Proverbs series, we will consider the words of Christ recorded in Matthew 7:24: "Every one who hears these words of mine and does them will be like a wise man who built his house on a rock . . ."

Any man who thinks of building a new house for his family will certainly think of the foundation first of all. He will want to know that the house will not be built on some sandy or swampy place where it will soon settle, with the cracking of the plaster and all the other troubles that come to a house not properly founded. A house is that important that is carefully planned.

But is a life any less important? Yet so many people seem to think that any way at all will do.

The world is full of many different self-centered ways of living, all of them leading in one direction only, man's destruction, both here and in the next life. Why not heed the word of Christ this week? His word makes sense, it is the only Way, Truth and LIFE, both here and in eternity.

Spirit of Thanksgiving . .

"Humbly aware that we are a people greatly blessed, both materially and spiritually, let us pray this year not only in the spirit of Thanksgiving but also as suppliants for God's guidance, to the end that we may follow the course of righteousness and be worthy of His favor." —Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Tax Increase In State Is Seen By Gov. McKeldin

More Money Required To Run Government, Lions Club Is Told

Governor McKeldin warned Maryland taxpayers Monday night to expect another pinch from the state next year and asked that his veto of a school teacher pay increase be sustained.

He said a preliminary look at the budget to be presented to the General Assembly next February shows more money will be needed to run the state government.

The Governor spoke to the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club and their guests at the annual Ladies' Night program, held at the Southern High school caleteria.

McKeldin revealed that the State Department of Education has asked for an increase of more than $6 million dollars in its next budget, which educators explained was largely because of the increase in school enrollment.

"Even if we wanted to reduce these requests drastically there would be little hope of accomplishing such a reduction," McKeldin said, "more than 3¼ million dollars of the total are mandatory appropriations required by law."

The governor did not mention how much other departmental requests may go up but did use the occasion to plump for the Legislature not to override his veto of a school teacher pay bill.

He explained that he vetoed the bill last year "because I believed, even in those pre-sputnik times, as I have believed for many years, that the civil division of the state must not abandon their primary responsibilitiy for support of our public schools."

He said he believes school teachers should be paid more but that increases should be paid by civil

Pays Fine And Is Released From Jail

Harry Tressler, resident of Pennsylvania, who was arrested last Wednesday on a charge of hunting without a license and was confined in the county jail in default of a payment of a fine of $50 and costs, was released after paying the assessed amount the latter part of last week.

Man fined Saturday

Harry A. Mallow, route 1, Cumberland, was fined $10 and costs at a hearing before Trial Magistrate Earl C. Friend on Saturday, on a charge of having a loaded rifle in his automobile.

Mallow was parked on the Dennett road last Friday night when apprehended by Sheriff James E. Frantz. The warrent was issued on information furnished by Robert Brown, game warden. He also had a large flashlight with him, the game warden said.

One Birth Recorded

Only one birth was recorded at the Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland during the week, and it was a boy.

The son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ward Clayton Ervin, Mt. Lake Park, on November 22.

During the week the hospital admitted 37 patients and discharged 30. Census this morning was 55.

7,500 Chickens Are Destroyed in Blaze

Some 7,500 chickens were destroyed in a fire last Friday morning at Mt. Storm, W. Va. The chickens were owned by Jess Kitzmiller.

The Gorman fire company was called to the scene and officers of the company asked for assistance from the Oakland Fire department. The local company sent a truck to the scene and assisted in controlling the flames. A number of the chickens were smothered by smoke as the blaze was being extinguished in two chicken houses.

There were 6,500 three-day-old chickens in the one house and 1,000 in the other.

Flue Fire Sunday

Oakland firemen were called a second time on Sunday morning about 10:55 to extinguish a flue fire at the home of Mrs. Truman Casteel, about two miles north of Oakland on U. S. route 219. There was no damage.

Volunteer firemen from Bayard and Kitzmiller also assisted in fighting the blaze and kept the flames from spreading to the home nearby. A garage was slightly damaged.

Garrett County Ranks Fourth In Bond Sales

Maryland sales of Series E and H Savings bonds for the first ten months of 1957 totaled $53,216,202, or 82 percent of the annual goal of $64,900,000.

Royden A. Blunt, state advisory chairman, said that for this 10-month period series E bonds showed an increase of 2.79 percent in contrast to the national decline of seven percent. Maryland's E and H total sales for the 10 months are just about one percent under the same period of 1956 compared with a national decline of 11.8 percent.

Garrett county ranks fourth in the state in the percent of its annual quota sold with 83.5, or $312,-b79 of its $375,000 quota. October sales reached $64,463. State leader for 10 months was Baltimore county. Allegany county ranked sixth. Caroline county was second, and Baltimore city, third.

Temperature Dips

The temperature took a dip this morning to sink to the lowest level of the fall months. The thermometer registered 17 degrees above zero. Only one other day this fall, around the middle of October, was this cold.

The weather began to moderate, however, as soon as the sun came over the horizon. It has been cool to moderate throughout most of the week, with about an inch of snow falling on Saturday morning. This did not remain on the ground for any length of time.

On Second Team

William Murphy placed second on the Potomac Valley conference second team in balloting among coaches. Murphy plays tackle on Southern High Highlanders.

Close For Thanksgiving

Schools of the county closed for the Thanksgiving holidays on Wednesday and will resume regular instruction on Monday morning 9 o'clock.

Hospital Auxiliary Hears Address On Civilian Defense

A program on civil defense was presented at the regular meeting of the Loar Auxiliary of the Garrett County Memorial hospital last Thursday evening in the board room at the hospital. Fred Tichnell, director of Civil Defense for Garrett county, was the speaker.

Garrett county will be used to care for civilians from Pittsburgh Washington and Baltimore in case of emergency, and a survey of available space has shown that the area would he able to take care of 32,000 people in time of disaster. This would include feeding, clothing and sleeping.

Mr. Tichnell told the group that sixteen miles is a safe distance from any fall out, and that Grantsville would be the most vulnerable spot for fall out. He said he had been advised that the area should have seven days supply of food on hand.

A film, "First Aid in Time of Disaster," was shown. The program was under direction of Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty, vice-president. Mrs. Webb DeWitt, president, opened the meeting. Mrs. William Ritchey gave the prayer.

The treasurer reported $136.65 was realized from the barber shop night of harmony. The Auxiliary voted to contribute $600 to the hospital for curtain screens, to be used in wards.

The group decided to dispense with the December meeting. The January meeting will be a joint one with the Board of Directors of the Red Cross group from the county.

Conservation Group Will Meet December 10

The Garrett County Conservation association, scheduled to meet Tuesday, December 3, has postponed its meeting until Tuesday, December 10.

The change was made because the regular date falls during the week of deer season. The meeting on December 10 will be held in the Oakland fire hall at 8 o'clock.

A door prize will be awarded at the meeting.

Fines Of $1750 Levied Against Carlos W. Friend

Fines totaling $1,750 were levied against Carlos Woodrow Friend, aged 45, of Uniontown, Pa., when given a hearing Monday afternoon before Trial Magistrate Earl C. Friend in Oakland.

Friend was charged with twenty-three infractions of the game laws, which included possession of deer, sale of deer meat, hunting with an improper license, having grouse out of season, exceeding the bag limit for grouse and others. S. R. Pagenhardt, state's attorney, said he pleaded guilty to nine cases of having deer meat in his possession.

Magistrate Friend fined him $150 and costs on the first charge, and $200 on each of the additional eight charges, making a total of $1,750 plus costs. Pagenhardt said the balance of the cases would not be prosecuted against the offender.

The fine and costs were paid at the conclusion of the hearing.

Friend was arrested on November 16 after delivering deer meat to state and federal undercover men who were staying at Deep Creek Lake. Charges were preferred by Leo Friend, game warden.

Game wardens became aware of the scheme over a year ago and two officers posed as real estate men and made friends with Carlos Friend. During the year they made various purchases, the first one occurring last December 10, 1956.

The coincidence of the three Friends being connected with the case caused unusual interest among the tri-state area. The story of the three Friends appeared on Johnstown television and in Pittsburgh, Baltimore and New York newspapers. One Baltimore editor checked with the editor of The Republican on Saturday, fearing there was a typographical error in the men's names. There was Carlos Friend, the one arrested, Leo Friend, game warden; and Earl C Friend, the trial magistrate. The newspaper stories usually concluded by pointing out that in fact the three Friends were not even friends.

People Prepare For Annual Deer Hunt

Motels, hotels, boarding houses and private homes are preparing for the rush of deer hunters expected to descend upon the area this week-end in preparation for the annual deer hunting season.

Hundreds of reservations already have been made and the outlook for a good hunting season appears favorable. Game seems to be plentiful, according to reports of game wardens.

The season will begin Monday morning, December 2, and continue until sundown Saturday evening, December 7. Bucks with two or more points to one antler and spike bucks with three inch antler may be slain.

The small game season will be suspended during the deer season.

The usual deer checking stations have been named where reports of the deer kill may be made. They are at the sheriff's office in Oakland; Floyd Hetz, Grantsville; Matt Storey's Inn, Deep Creek Lake near Mellenry; Reckner's store in Swanton; Yough Motor company, at Friendsville. Hunters making kills near the Allegany county line also may check their deer at the police station at Westernport or the state police barracks at La-Vale.

Additional game wardens are being assigned to Western Maryland during the six-day season.

Franklin Is Held For March Term On Safecracking

At a preliminary hearing Monday afternoou before Trial Magistrate Earl C. Friend, Earl Franklin, 31, of Johnson City, Tenn., was held under a cash bond of $15,000 or personal property bond of $30,-000 for his appearance at the March Term of Court.

Franklin was arrested last week in Tennessee and brought to Oakland last Friday by Sheriff James Frantz. He had been sought since July 29 when the safe at the hardware store of Arnold E. Fox and Son in Friendsville was robbed.

Two persons known to be involved in the robbery, Elwood Kissner, 26, and Oliver Rockett, 53, are now serving ten-year sentences in the Maryland penitentiary on grand larceny and breaking and entering charges.

Kissner, Rockett and Franklin were employed on a paint crew and had worked together on various jobs. Corporal Sam Conrad said Franklin made his first trip to this county a few days prior to the safecracking.

The three were said to have made a three-way split of the money stolen, with Franklin getting a little more than his share. Franklin denies any part in the safecracking, according to authorities.

Franklin is known to have purchased a station wagon in Alexandria, Va., a few days after the safecracking and had been on the go ever since. Conrad said both Kissner and Rockett identified Franklin as the one who actually cracked the safe.

Over $12,000 in cash was taken from the safe. About $4,400 was recovered from a rock pile near Friendsville and another $1,900 was located at the Richmond, Va., home of relatives of one of the men. Franklin was said to have escaped with between $6,000 and $7,000 of the loot.

Life Expectancy Surpassed "A. D." Gets Full Insurance

Alonzo D. Naylor, 96, of Oakland, has outlived the calculated life expectancy on which his life insurance policy was based and has received full payment of the proceeds from The Union Central Life Insurance Company of Cincinnati. Payment was made through Robert L. Hoffman, manager of The Union Central's Agency at Baltimore.

Born in West Virginia on September 27, 1861, Mr. Naylor has lived in Oakland since he was a young man. He purchased a Union Central policy there on October 30, 1896. He maintains an active interest in A. D. Naylor and Co., which he founded in 1884 as a blacksmith shop and which has since grown into a hardware, appliance and furniture business. His sons, Paul, Arthur and S. Townshend Naylor, now manage the business.

Mr. Naylor is in good health and still visits A. D. Naylor and company daily, his son, Townshend Naylor reports. In addition, he is president of the board of the First National Bank in Oakland and visits there several times a week. He and his wife, Mrs. Mary Townshend Naylor, make their home with a daughter, Mrs. Homer Bennett in Oakland. Married well over a half century, they have five living children and numerous grandchildren and great grandchildren.

The American Experience Mortality Table on which Mr. Naylor's policy was based calculated that there was less than one chance in 100,000 of reaching age 96. Life insurance actuaries estimate that approximately one out of 500 persons living today will reach this age, but this represents a substantial increase in average life expectancy during Mr. Naylor's lifetime.

Tax Increase

divisions since the one already makes "substantial" contribution to their base pay.

McKeldin said it was quite probable that his budget message to the 1958 General Assembly "will cite the need for certain tax rate increases or certain new taxes other than those which would be imposed by the Assembly's overriding of my veto."

The school teacher pay raise bill adopted last April 1 provided for 10½ million dollars in increases for teachers with the money to be raised through a state-wide tobacco tax. McKeldin noted that since he vetoed it many counties had gone ahead and voted raises for teachers on their own.

He said whatever tax proposals he makes with the budget which is to go into effect next July "will be equitable in nature designed for distribution over the entire populace and not to burden any one segment of our economy."

Responsible sources have estimated that the State will have to find $20,000,000 or more in new revenues to meet the rising cost of government and provide virtually unavoidable increases in services.

The sales and income taxes, in addition to being the heaviest producers of State general funds, also have the most far reaching application. Other major sources of State funds such as property and motor vehicle taxes, are devoted in large measure to specified purposes.

In enlarging on the additional request by the state department of education, other than the $3-225,000 that was mandatory, he explained that more than $1,800,000 was required for teacher retirement, nearly $666,000 for new funds for teacher colleges and $237,000 for state-aided educational institutions.

Following the dinner about 100 couples attended the dance in the National Guard armory. Music was furnished by Richard Lewis and his orchestra. Arrangements for the Ladies' Night were in charge of R. Thomas Thayer, Jr.

Competition May Be Stiffer Next Year For Egg Producers

A period of low egg production and high egg prices is often followed by just the reverse situation—high production and low prices. We are now in one of the low production-high prices periods, but layer numbers are on the upward trend.

This could mean a heavy output of pullet chicks in the spring of 1958, followed by a drop in egg prices next fall and early in 1959.

Wade H. Rice, University of Maryland extension poultryman, says a few well laid plans can help producers meet the impact of a low egg market in late 1958, if it should come.

He says the place to start is to get the right stock for egg production. "The business ben for egg production today is definitely a specialized organization," he says. "The sooner some folks forget about the meat value of layers and concentrate on getting the most eggs at the lowest cost per dozen, the more profit their records will show. Highly efficient broiler operations are no competition for an egg producing flock owner to challenge, unless he's looking for a licking. His field is eggs, and the day of profitable egg production and profitable meat from the same bird is a thing of the past."

Rice says the egg producer doing a good job of management should shoot for an average of 225 to 250 eggs per bird per year. To get this means vaccination against common diseases such as Newcastle, bronchitis and pox, use of a good high caloric feed, using lights to give a 14-hour day and culling regularly but not rigidly.

He points out that today's birds don't have to be culled so closely as flocks of some years ago. If a good strain is not producing well over 50 percent, the trouble is probably something besides the culling program. It's about a sure bet their owner has slipped up on disease control or the floor is the victim of mismanagement.

School Days

The Oldest Log School House in Garrett County—At Jenkins, two miles east of Grantsville. Now used for a blacksmith shop. It is over 100 years old. It has historical value.

Prior to the advent of free schools in Maryland there were a few subscription schools near my home in Allegany County, Maryland. These summer subscription schools were taught by good ladies who had in some way acquired a little more knowledge than those whom they were to teach. For these schools our parents subscribed to the best of their ability, sometimes for one child or two for one summer and for a like number of other children for another summer. I remember three of these schools one at Johnstown (now Hoyes) another of the Robert Sterling Farm, and still another in a shop on the Elijah Friend Farm, now owned by J. Bunnell Friend, in which I attended school for at least a few days. My only recollections are that we had slab benches and that Elize Frazee was the teacher.

Close upon the coming of free schools, a one room school building was erected in our district and named the Elder Hill school. This school was on the east side of the Oakland-Friendsville Highway, and it stood back in the woods. Just across the highway from the school there was a rather large charcoal pit which I believe had been used when there was an iron furnace on Bear Creek at Friendsville. As we had no playground on the school premises, we used the charcoal pit which served our needs for some plays, but as there was no water at school except a small pail of drinking water carried from quite a distance, the charcoal pit did not serve well to keep our hands nice and clean. If our Spencerian Copy Books could be resurrected they would show unmistakable evidence of the charcoal pit. Town Ball required more space than the charcoal pit furnished which was surrounded by the woods on three sides, so we boys cut out underbrush and climbed trees and cut off branches that we might strike the ball at greater distance. When we had made ourselves a respectable playground from the woods and the pit, we were indeed a happy lot of boys.

Elder Hill was dubbed by one teacher "The Bee Hive". Here I attended school under ten different male teachers and one female teacher, Miss Mary McClintock. The male teachers were: Benton White, William Ensley, John C. Dunham, Asa T. Matthews, Thomas Welch, Milton Forsyth, Henry Friend, James J. Ryland, John Dell and Silas Weimer. So far as I know none of my teachers held a college degree or a State Normal certificate, but some of them regarded teaching as a noble calling. "The Bee Hive" was an ungraded school and we did not always know what grade we were in, but I am quite sure that all of us who used M. A. Newell's Sixth Reader, were not in the sixth grade. Our teachers had not time to give us much individual instruction, yet some pupils acquired the habit of helping themselves and thus became able to face some of life's problems.

My school days at Elder Hill are still recalled rather vividly, but I must not indulge in too much reminiscence lest I may weary those who may read this rambling narrative of my school days. Suffice it to say our first superintendent of schools was a one-armed man named McKay, whose office was in Cumberland, Allegany county, which is now in Garrett County. I believe Superintendent McKay was a good school man, but oh how exacting he appeared to me one day when I was attending school in Johnstown. Mr. McKay had a number of us in a class and pronounced words for us to spell. When he pronounced the word "play" to me I spelled it correctly, but not to the satisfaction of Mr. McKay who passed it on to Will Smith who, observing that I had not pronounced the word before I spelled it, pronounced the word and then with a smile and a clear voice spelled the word exactly as I had spelled it. This pleased the superintendent and Will Smith was permitted to take my place in the class. Will now realized that if he could not turn me down on a word of difficult spelling he could do so on a word of easy spelling. Our next superintendent of schools was one of my early teachers, Asa T. Matthews, who I believe was our first superintendent after Garrett County was formed. Our school year was from two and one half to seven and one-half months, but generally only five months. Beginners were taught the ABC and ab-eb-ib-ob-ub methods. Some of our boys and girls became excellent spellers and did not fear a contest with any nearby school.

During my school days there was not a high school or academy in Garrett county to give ambitious boys and girls an opportunity to further fit them for successful lives. I believe that boys and girls in the previous generation were slightly more favored than those in mine, for on my Grandfather Jermiah Enlow's farm there was a one room hewn log structure called "The Academy." Here a man named Warren taught a number of years. Mr. Warren appears to have had a useful fund of knowledge and his teaching seems to have left its imprint upon his pupils. This was shown by the preciseness with which some of his pupils spoke the English language. This log academy stood unused for school purposes for many of my boyhood years. Patrons of this old academy were the early Enlows, Brownings, DeWitts, Friends, Hoyes, Mattinglys, Townshends, and others.

Not seeing my way clear for a more advanced schooling, I in 1878, left the Elder Hill school and took a teacher's examination and received a license to teach. The schools I taught in Maryland were the Bishoff, Beachy, Grantsville, Oakland, Midlothian Mines, and Boston Mines. To eke out an existence, I taught select summer school at Gap Run and Selbysport. At the close of my semi-normal school at Selbysport the county superintendent held a teacher's examination. This I believe was the first one held in Selbysport. I was later principal of the Summer Normal School at Accident. Ephriam Lee and Miss Mattie Porter being my assistants.

In the various schools I had for my patrons many of the oldest and staunchest families of Garrett county. The pay of teachers at that time being so meager, Silas Weimer, Alexander W. DeWitt, Ephriam Lee, Edward Browning, and myself crossed over into Allegany county where the school year was longer and the pay was better. DeWitt was vice-principal of the Frostburg school; Weimer, Browning and I lived in a select boarding house, the landlady of which was a Mrs. Coyner, a sister of the late Daniel Offutt, of Oakland, Maryland. Mr. Lee was in another part of the county and we did rarely see him, but we four in Frostburg had many pleasant hours and days together.

My last public school teaching in Maryland was as principal of the Oakland schools, and my assistants were Miss Mamie Weber, Miss Mattie Porter, Miss Julia Stanton, Miss Lou Thayer and Nathan Selby. This was in 1888 and 1889. The schools were housed in three different buildings, two of which were privately owned and in one of these Miss Lou Thayer taught, and in the other Nathan Selby taught the colored pupils.

The Oakland schools were then kept open only five months each year. The principal's pay then was only $60.00 per month. This was less than a school of fifteen pupils paid in California. Of course, I now understand Oakland schools are well housed and that teachers receive better pay than one half century ago.

PERSIAN VISIT TO THE WHITE HOUSE: The Shahanshah, or King of Kings, of Iran and his radiant Empress Soraya, are shown as they were greeted by President Eisenhower at the White House on their last visit to the United States. Mohammad Reza Shah Pahlavi, born in 1919, was educated in Switzerland and completed his studies at the Officers Training College in Teheran. He took over the throne from his father, Reza Shah the Great, in 1941 at a critical juncture in World War II and in helping to build the "BRIDGE OF VICTORY" in Iran showed that he was a unique blend of East and West. Since the war, the king has devoted himself, as a "modern, liberal Monarch," to serving the needs of his people, of raising their standard of living, and of establishing political stability. He is an all-round sportsman, pilots his own plane and loves speed. In all his activities he enjoys the loyal assistance of his lovely Queen, daughter of ancient Persian nobility. She devotes her time to social work and tending to the needs of the underprivileged section of the community. Both are symbols of Iran's unswerving allegiance to the West and staunch resistance to the encroachment of foreign political ideologies.

THURSDAY NOVEMBER 28 1957

The Constitution . . .

Dan Daniel, National Commander of the American Legion, writing in The American Mercury, points out very effectively people and organizations have tried, over the years, to alter the Constitution of the United States.

Yet, Daniel points, the Constitution was planned not just for the time it was drafted but for all time. Madison said: "In framing the system which we wish to last for ages, we should not lose sight of changes which age will produce." The people, through their elected representatives, have approved an average of only one amendment to the Constitution in each seventeen and a half years, a pretty convincing argument in favor of the wisdom contained in the Constitution.

The latest amendment was that limiting Presidents to two four-year terms, and Vice-Presidents, who serve as President for more than two years, to only one four-year elected term.

Daniel points out that one of the greatest surrenders of individual freedom came about in 1913, when Amendment XVI was passed, giving the Federal Government practically absolute power over us in giving the government the power to "lay and collect taxes on incomes from whatever source derived." Until this time, the Constitution did not permit Congress to levy personal taxes upon us as individual citizens.

This amendment was adopted in 1913 because it was said that the people would be taxed only a nominal one or two per cent. There was no limitation, however, and many corporations and some individuals today are taxed in unbelievably high percentage ratios.

In recent years we have seen attempts to circumvent the Constitution made by those who would pass treaties which would supersede state and Federal laws. Also, we have seen courts interpret the Constitution to suit their views, [illegible] USA.

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

One of the important lessons yet to be learned by many of our citizens is that the great foundation principles and ideals underlying America's unparalleled progress will die—no matter how right and advantageous they may be—unless they are carefully nurtured and taught to each succeeding generation of citizens. The most dramatic confirmation of this fact is the story of what happened to most of the 7,000 American prisoners of war held three years in Communist camps in North Korea.

Under relentless, cunningly-handled Communist "brain-washing" most of the 7,000 American prisoners responded in varying degrees to the wishes of their Red captors. The United States Army says they behaved like no other group of Americans had behaved since the founding of our Republic. The failure to hold fast American principles and ideals by a majority of the Americans held prisoner, and their lack of understanding of and respect for basic elements in our American economic and governmental system, deeply disturbed America's military leaders.

It should likewise disturb America's entire citizenry—every adult man and woman. Because the fault lies not with the 7,000 American prisoners but with all of us—with We the people of America. We simply have not been fulfilling the responsibilities of citizenship in a free country. Most important, we haven't been teaching our youth—in the home and churches and schools—proper understanding of and respect for the great values, the great truths of life, and the basic principles upon which our nation was founded. Therefore, our professional and civilian soldiers—representing a cross section of our population—are found to be vulnerable to brain-washing.

Major William E. Mayer, the U. S. Army's top authority on Communist brain-washing, came to the National Education Program's 18th Freedom Forum to report on the results of the Army's comprehensive study of the behavior of the 7,000 American prisoners in Korea. Carefully and clearly he described the Communist brain-washing technique for rendering the Americans docile and cooperative. It is something that every American should hear or read. His Freedom Forum address is available at our printing cost—15c per copy. Write the National Education Program, Searcy, Arkansas.

With the unending "education" process, the Communists succeeded in undermining faith in values, destroyed trust and loyalty between individual prisoners. They halted normal individual and group resistance. Not a single American prisoner engineered an escape from a Communist POW camp. The ability of the Communist to thus control healthy young adult Americans by breaking down their normal resistance factors is cause for grave concern.

School Receives Letter Of Commendation

The Southern High School Band was the recipient of a letter of commendation from Mrs. Ethel Dorrett, Secretary, Dundalk Memorial Auxiliary to Post No. 6691, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. Mrs. Dorrett and her friend, Mrs. Sue Hilton, were passengers on the Baltimore and Ohio Autumn Glory Excursion last October.

In her letter to Kenneth Johns, principal, Mrs. Dorrett said that this had been their first trip to western Maryland and they found it most interesting. "I do hope that I can find words to express the thrill when I heard the school band playing upon our arrival. I don't think anyone can really express it, because that welcome was so warm and tender that it went to the depth of one's soul. They made you feel so welcome, you could imagine that you were a native son or daughter receiving a 'Hero's Welcome'."

Upon their return to Dundalk they told of their experiences to the auxiliary and as a result they are planning to present a Maryland Flag to the Southern High school in the name of the 1957 School Band.

The American Way

War On The Mind

By JOHN T. FLYNN

(EDITOR'S NOTE: John T. Flynn is a noted author, lecturer and radio commentator.)

There is such a thing as "war on the mind" as it is called—a planned, and managed operation to poison the minds of people with Ideas, fears, hatreds and, of course, politleal and economic theories. You can introduce poisonous Ideas into a novel, a poem, a play or most serious of all, into a school book.

When un-American ideas are slyly introduced into a novel or any book of general circulation, no one is forced to read such a book. But in the case of a school book—a text dealing with history or government or economic ideas—the student is compelled to read and study such a book. In order to get the right marks in his examinations he must give the answers the book calls for. And if such hooks are infected with socialist or communist or other anti-American philosophies, the teacher is obliged to teach and promote their dangerous and even subversive theories.

As an example, in one widely used high-school textbook, we find running throughout the volume the so-called "liberal interpretation of history" which, in reality, is nothing more nor less than the interpretation of history in terms of a pseudo-Marxian philosophy.

In many texthooks a shrewd use is made of the practice of directing the student to what is called "required" or "supplemental" reading. This, of course, is an excellent medium for introducing the student to historical, economic and current hooks to supplement the more rigid studies of the textbook. The practiced observer (which the student is not) while readily detecting the presence of one or two harmless volumes, will have no diffieulty in identifying the greater portion of the recommended hooks as slick vehicles for additionally poisoning the student's mind with various brands of un-American philosophies, usually slanted along Marxian lines.

Another device in this shrewd attack on the student mind takes the form of urging students to read a certain group of widely distributed pamphlets. These pamphlets are edited by a man who has been charged with being a member of the Communist party, though he stoutly denied this. Of course, he may not have been a dues-paying member, but he has been listed by the House un-American Activities Committee as a member of at least two dozen communist-front organizations. It is not possihle here to do more than call attention to the extent to which various organizations, committees and institutions, interested in promoting socialist theories, have managed to bring their un-American philosophies into the homework of the students.

What can be done to counteract this dangerous warfare on the student mind? The answer is quite simple. For every communist, socialist or left-wing dupe in America there are hundreds of patriotic Americans. If this handful of socialist and communist revolutionists can wreak so much mischief in our schools and publishing houses, why cannot patriotic Americans, who outnumber the reds and pinks and their dupes a hundred to one, make their influence felt? They are just as bright, just as well educated in the general sense of that word as the revolutionary elements. What they lack is, first, a clear knowledge of the danger of the socialist assault on the mind and, second, an organized effort as extensive and as well armed as the enemy's. The real trouble lies in the failure of American leaders to alert citizens and especially educated parents to the menace.

There is little danger to he expected from the angry, soap-box spouting Red. He is understood and dismissed. The enemy to he feared is that well-dressed, well-educated and oily revolutionist who denies he is a socialist or a Red, who moves in the best circles, calls himself a staunch Democrat or Republican, and who gets into the schoolroom, the publishing house, the newspapers and even into many pulpits with his hidden and thus infinitely more dangerous poisou.

Log Cabin Literature

By DENNIS T. RASCHE

Reprinted from The Glades Star.

Long before our present day sources of entertainment came into existence, the TV, the radio, movies, motor car—a century and a quarter before even the phonograph was invented, the early pioneers came into the area that is now Garrett county to tame a wilderness and make it habitable for themselves and their families.

Their means of begniling their moments of leisure when after much grueling toil such moments came, were limited. Groups of men would gather for house and barn raisings and other activities needing concerted effort. They would bring their families for the day; it would be a social event. News and ideas would be exchanged. Other such gatherings would be for corn husking and making maple sugar and syrup. In due time a log meeting house would be built in which to worship, and after the service the settlers would again meet as friends and neighbors.

In the log cabin homes there would be some things brought in by pack horse for family entertainment, such as games of drafts and chess, cards, a fiddle, and some books—at least a few.

What books would have been brought?

Anyone seeking to inquire into the daily affairs of the settlers and those who followed in their wake soon meets with difficulties. They left scant written records. Among the early families there was no Samuel Pepys to painstakingly record in his diary the day by day events. So none chronicled that he went to the Strand to my bookseller and there bought an idle roguish French book', or that one Sabbath Day he "God forgive me, did spend the day in bed reading of some little French romances."

At the end of the quarter century being considered an excellent chronicler appears on the scene, Meshach Browning, who gives us glimpses of conditions prevailing during his time and of the people who were his neighbors. However his chief concern was the wild life of the area. By the time he had reached early manhood there were nearly 1,000 people scattered over the 661 square mile area; up to 1776 only a dozen families had made their homes in it.

Books have been printed in the colonies since a time a century and a quater before our settlers came. The famous Bay Psalm Book was the first. It is now the most expensive; about $150,000 would he asked for one of the ten or eleven existing copies.

Other books had been printed and circulated, mostly of a serious nature and many concerned with theological subjects.

In our own land there were not yet any Hawthornes, Coopers, or Poes. Nor any Longfellows, Bryants, or Prescotts. Large shipments of books came from the Mother country. In the populous centers along the seaboard many well-to-do citizens had large and well-stocked libraries. Book shops of Philadelphia, Boston, and other large towns had ample stocks of literature. But all of this was at an inconvenient distance considering the transportation of those days.

During their earlier lives in Virginia or elsewhere all but the younger members of the families would have been familiar with Poor Richard's Almanack, printed by B. Franklin, Philadelphia. Many of the wise and witty maxims would be bandied about in the cabins. Daily the pioneers would of necessity be applying those relating to thrift and industry: At the industrious man's house Hunger looks in but dares not enter: He that Riseth late must trot all day and shall scarce overtake his business at night: Industry need not wish; He that lives upon Hope will die fasting.

What ever else they may have read it would seem the settlers were diligent and attentive readers of the Book of Books. Many of the names given to land patents are allusions to passages in Holy Writ: Promised Land, The Wilderness Shall Smile, Blooming Rose, The Gleanings, Land Flowing with Milk and Honey, Joseph in Egypt, are examples.

A number of place names lend weight to this idea of what men and women of two centuries ago read: Mount Nebo, Mount Zion, Bethlehem, Mount Pisgah, Paradise.

It is not hard to imagine some pioneer mounting his family on horseback some Sabbath at sunrise and setting forth to visit neighbors maybe twenty miles or more distant. Perhaps some transient preacher would be sojourning there and there would be a service. Upon leaving a dog-eared copy of Pilgrim's Progress, Robinson Crusoe, or Gulliver's Travels might be borrowed.

In the Mother country the modern novel was then only at the beginning of its development, a somewhat abrupt break from the ancient and fanciful romaunces.

Today when we read books, newspapers, and magazines it is largely by artificial light. Two centuries ago candles were the principal resource; even kerosene did not come into use until the 1850's. Every family and candle molds, but wax and even tallow were seldom in abundance. Artificial lighting was therefore somewhat a luxury. The resin-impregnated pine knot was useful if a bear or wolf came sniffing under the cabin door or near the stable where the prized cattle were housed. Its light was helpful in drawing a bead with the trusty flint-lock.

Fifty years ago an illustration in the elementary school histories showed the youthful Lincoln studying his books by the flickering light of logs burning in the fireplace. The time would be a half century after our early settlers were making shift with such simple and crude illumination as they had. It is likely they were content to read only at times when bad weather kept them indoors.

What about newspapers? Other periodicals?

Today the average circulation of daily papers is more than a 111,000,000. In 1765 only about 35 newspapers were published in the colonies with a combined circulation of 5,000. Nearly all were weeklies; the first daily was not to appear for nearly a score of years, that is, in 1784.

In due time the settlers would have a money crop to exchange for needed commodities such as powder, salt, needles, thread, a multiplicity of things. Perhaps there would be cattle or sheep to drive to market, or maybe grain carried on pack horses. Returning they would bring newspapers. Sometimes the news would be only a few weeks old. And what news!

Portentous events were in progress not many hundreds of miles from the area. Even during the years before coming here they had heard the mutterings of discontent. Parliament, 3,000 miles away, had enacted oppdessive laws restricting the trade of the colonies, limiting them to manufactures imported from the Mother country only, and only in British ships. During the year of their arrival came sensational news of the enactment of the Stamp Act, a revenue raising measure loathed by the colonials as oppressive and unjust. News came of the soldiery firing into a crowd of unarmed men at Boston; of the famous Tea Party in the city's harbor.

Someone would bring a weeks-old newspaper and read to the others the fiery eloquence of a young Virginian:

"Is life so dear or peace so sweet as to be bought at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God!"

At first some few thought these utterances intemperate, even incendiary. But none liked the new taxes or the old oppressions. Influenced by the pamphlets and newspapers loyalty to the Crown rapidly changed to aspirations for independence.

Some grim-looking buckskin clad and moccasined men went home and looked to the condition of their flint-lock guns. Powder was costly but they expened some in sharpening up their marksmanship. If war came it would be no parade ground presision drill affair!

While these events were in progress there came along with newspapers a flood of pamphlets.

Reading Franklin's Pamphlet

During the course of the political and religious disputes in England the pamphlet had been developed to a high degree of potency as a means of forming public opinion. Samuel Adams and his fellow patriots had been quick to seize upon it and bring it into ample use in furthering the cause of the colonies.

During these years the eminent Doctor Franklin was in Europe engaged in very important business pertaining to the welfare of his compatriots. He took time out to himself to write some pamphlets intended for circulation overseas. One in particular was a brilliant satire. It purported to be an Edict from the King of Prussia addressed to His Majesty's loyal subjects of the British Isles. The very early settlement of Britain having been made by peoples from Northern Europe, the king made it known that he would levy taxes on all goods, wares, and merchandise, on all grain and other produce exported from the said island of Britain, and on all goods of whatever kind imported into the same. The manufacture of iron and the making of hats was prohibited, the Edict went on to say. But the king did not wish his loyal subjects of Britain to go hatless. They could send their heaver furs to Prussia for manufacture into hats, the Britains thus favored paying all costs and charges, interest, commissions to Prussian merchants, insurance and freight going and returning, "as in the case of iron."

People of influence at Paris where the one-time Poor Richard was employing his boundless energies and talents enjoyed this sort of humor, as did the colonials when the pamphlet was circulated here. In the fullness of time the seed Franklin was sowing would bring forth an abundant harvest. Money and military supplies: Lafayette and military technicians; Rochambeau and De Grasse and their cohorts and armament.

In every town and village patriotic bands of men saw to the wide circulation of the pamphlets and the hundreds of newspaper articles written by Samuel Adams and other patriotic propagandists.

As in the case of the titles from the Scriptures given land patents we arrive at another definite idea as to the literature read by the early settlers. Subsequent events make it clear they read with grave and thoughtful attention the patriotic newspapers and pamphlets.

One day came news of the arrival at Boston of Genoral Thomas Gage with red coat regiments. Twenty years earlier this man had traversed the fringe of the area, second in command of one of the two British regular regiments. The settlers had heard of him. At that time the colonials believed a war was being fought to preserve their freedoms, the Anglo-Saxon way of life. In only a score of years they had come to see that insofar as people in the colonies were concerned His Brittannic Majesty's government had a different conception of these ideals then their own.

In the disaster near Fort Duquesne Gage had behaved with bravery and gallantry. Together with the Virginians, Colonel Washington and Captain Stewart, although he was himself wounded in the first onslaught he had rallied the eighty-man rearguard that literally saved the scalps of hundreds of panic-stricken soldiers. Now Gage was back with drawn sword to quell the rebellious colonials. Soon came the armed clash.

"By the rude arch that spanned the flood,
Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,
Here once the embattled farmers stood
And fired the shot heard 'round the world."

Only a month after July 4th, 1776, six men from this area joined the Continental army. They were men toughened by frontier life who could endure hardship and privation and who could shoot a squirrel's head off at fifty paces. If they didn't look soldierly in buckskins and moccasins the commander-in-chief and his lieutenants were unconcerned. Fancy dress, red coats, tall hats couldn't bring a decision: hard marching and good shooting might.

Young men from four of the dozen families then living in the county area rallied to the cause.

They were Jacob Froman, William Wilton Ashby, Jesse Tomlinson, and John, Gabriel, and Augustine Friend.

THE AMERICAN WAY

A Needed Shot-in-the-Arm
By GEORGE PECK

(EDITOR'S NOTE: George Peck is President of the Laymen's National Committee, sponsor of National Sunday School and Bible Weeks.)

A great many of our American citizens labor under the erroneous impression that because of our highly progressive individual income tax rates, the rich are paying for most of the "Iranken sailor" spending of the Federal Government. Because of this mistaken idea they are not perturbed about the manner in which the Federal Government tosses tax-money around—with apparently no thought of economy.

Well let's take a look at some of the individual income tax statistics! Those figures knock into a "cocked-hat" the notion that the "Economic Royalists" are bearing the brunt of Federal Government extravagance and waste:

Three out of four income taxpayers, some 30 million in number, in 1955 fell into the first bracket rate of 20 percent. These 30 million "non-rich" citizens accounted for 88 percent of all personal tax receipts. And further, even three-fourths of this amount came from the "definitely non-rich" who reported taxable incomes of $2,000 or less.

The surtax rates, starting above the $2,000 income level, progress to a high of 71 percent, or to a combined rate of 91 percent on incomes of $200,000 or over. Yet here again, one-half of the revenue from the surtax was paid by income groups up to $16,000—$18,000 for single persons, or double that for married persons where the combined rate reaches 50 percent. (Certainly these citizens cannot be tagged as "rich.")

To put it another way: If 50 percent were set as the ceiling for the combined personal income tax rate, it would mean only a loss of $700 million or around 2 percent of the total personal income tax, based on the 1955 experience.

My associate, Willis E. Stone, President of the American Progress Foundation, is working for outright repeal of the 16th Amendment (Income Tax.) He has produced authentic figures to show that such repeal would not jeopardize our national security, nor hamper any legitimate, constitutional function of the Federal Government. This repeal can only be accomplished by another Amendment to the Constitution, which must be ratified by three-quarters or 36 of the individual States. To get this proposed amendment before the 48 State Legislatures will require considerable time, even though several of the States already have indicated their willingness, yes, even their eagerness to ratify such an amendment.

Therefore, pending such ratification by the required 36 States to abolish the personal income tax, it has been suggested that the maximum combined rate on personal incomes be set at 50 percent, instead of 91 percent as of now. The proponents of this limitation give sound reasons for advocating same. They point out that not only do the present high rates fail to provide a sizable revenue, but they adversely affect the total tax take as follows:

1. They encourage efforts to secure income in non-taxable forms, or to postpone receipt of income.

2. They discourage the flow of capital investment, and lessen incentives for individuals to invest in any project that involves risk. Why take a risk, when if that venture is successful, Federal Government, between corporate and individual income tax, will take the lion's share?

Certainly the adverse effects upon our American economy of the punitive rates on personal incomes outweigh the arguments of the "socializers" that tax rates should be based on "ability to pay." The latter is a concept that is definitely un-American and stems directly from the Russian Kremlin.

If the top rate on corporate incomes were also fixed at 50 per cent, the combined loss might reduce the income tax take by 2 billion dollars. This would be a temporary loss, however, because private investment spending would be stimulated and after a short lag, tax revenue inevitably would increase.

Faced with the knowledge that the next budget will call for more defense spending, Federal Government is going to need every tax dollar it can muster, without killing the goose that lays the golden eggs. Setting a maximum of 50 percent on both personal and corporate income taxes will help materially toward that objective. It will be a "shot-in-the-arm" to risk taking—to risk taking which has ever been the prime ingredient of America's economic achievement.

YEAR END TAX TIPS NUMBER 2

How To Plan Federal Income Tax Deductions

This is one of a series of four articles on federal income taxes. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants.

By waiting until after the first of the year to decide whether to itemize your deductions or take the standard 10-per cent deduction, you run the risk of losing your greatest tax-saving opportunity.

When you are forced to take the standard deduction because your deductible expenses are less than 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income, you literally "waste" your expense deductions, for tax purposes. Don't let this happen to you every year. Plan your expenses ont lays so that you go over the optional 10-per cent deduction occasionally. This can be done by pyramiding two years of actual expenses into one.

For example, assume that you expect to have an adjusted gross income of $7,000 for this year and actual deductible expenses of about $600—or $100 less than what you would be entitled to deduct if you took the standard 10-per cent deduction. Not included in your actual expense estimate, however, is $250 in state taxes and $100 in home loan interest charges that will have to be paid in 1958 but which can be paid in advance.

Beat the Standard Deduction

If you act quickly and pay these expenses before December 31, you can bring your total allowable deductions for 1957 up to $950. By itemizing deductions this year and taking the standard deduction next year—when your actual expenses should be somewhat less because of what you have prepaid—your total deductions for both years will be approximately $1,650. Had you taken the standard 10 per cent deduction in both years, the total would be only about $1,400.

A salaried worker who has difficulty finding enough deductions to make itemization worthwhile might consider carrying the pyramid plan one step further. He could set up a system of "lending" and "borrowing" year-end items that would make it possible for him to throw three years of deductible expenses into one.

Timing Deductions

You can begin your own three-year pyramid by postponing payment on as much 1957 deductible expense as possible and planning to take the standard deduction on this year's return. The expenses you have postponed—or "loaned"—will increase your 1958 deductions, and in the final months of 1958 you can "borrow" from 1959 by speeding up the payment of deductible items.

As a result of your pyramiding, you maximize your expenses for 1958 (when you should be able to beat the standard deduction by itemizing), and minimize your deductible items for 1957 and 1959 (when you will take the standard deduction and waste your actual expenses). The general rule to follow when you are trying to make the most of your actual expenses is keep outlays as low as possible in the years in which you take the standard deduction and pyramid them as much as possible in the years in which you itemize expenses.

Pyramid Medical Expenses

Most taxpayers need look no further than their family medical bills to find a deductible expense that can be pyramided to gain a welcomed tax advantage. The section of the tax law governing the deductibility of medical expenses states that unless you or your wife will be 65 years old by January 1, 1958, you may deduct only those medical expenses for 1957 in excess of 3 per cent of your gross income.

If you find that you are near or over the 3 per cent minimum and you are going to itemize deductions this year, you should pay as many of your medical bills as possible before December 31. And since medical expenses can be deducted only in the year paid (but cannot be prepaid), you might even consider speeding-up and paying for the dental work, eye examinations and general physical check-ups your family will otherwise be having in the early part of 1958.

Taxpayers who had low medical expenses for 1957 should reverse this procedure, postponing the payment of their year-end medical bills until after the first of the year. In this way, they may be able to exceed the minimum requirement in 1958 and to gain a benefit from a payment that would otherwise be lost on their 1957 return.

Plan Premium Payments

The premiums you pay on your health, accident and hospital insurance policies can be deducted as a medical expense—so plan your payments accordingly. To give you greater flexibility in the shifting of medical deductions from one year to the next, you might arrange to have these premiums fall due in January.

BUILDING DEDICATED—The University of Maryland Journalism building was dedicated Saturday, November 23, at College Park. The $350,000 structure houses administrative and faculty offices of the department of journalism and public relations, classrooms, reading and conference rooms and a photographic teaching laboratory. Also located in the building are business and editorial offices of the Diamondback, student newspaper; Terrapin, senior yearbook; "M" Book, freshman handbook; and the Old Line campus magazine.

Journalism Building Dedication Is Held

The University of Maryland's Journalism building was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies last Saturday at College Park, emphasizing the people's right to know through an enlightened free press.

"Only an aroused American public can break through a 'cordon of secrecy' that bureaucrats have thrown up against the people's right to know what their government is doing," William Dwight, president of the American Newspaper Publishers association declared in an address.

Mr. Dwight, publisher of the Transcript-Telegram in Holyoke, Mass., also noted in his address at the dedication that invasions of the "right to know" are repeatedly made at all levels of government in the nation.

He cited the refusal of John Foster Dulles, secretary of state, to allow newsmen to go into Red China and report the facts to the American people as a conspicuous example.

"If we Americans are to fulfill our responsibilities in furthering the cause of freedom for the individual," he said, "we must be informed. And we can never be informed when restrictions are placed on access to news."

Mr. Dwight praised Representative Moss (D., Cal.) chairman of the House Government Information subcommittee, who has recently conducted hearings in Washington on an amendment to the Housekeeping Act. The amendment would spell out the fact that each of the ten government departments could not withhold information from the public or limit the availability of information to the public.

"Newspaper people are merely the active trustees of the people's right to know, the publisher told some 350 members of the journalism profession professionals in public relations and their guests.

"We have the role and responsibility to record the story of government. The precious privilege of the right to know belongs to all of the people," Mr. Dwight said that the desire on the part of too many public officials, both elected and appointed, for secrecy is a "continuing challenge" to newspaper people everywhere.

"This state of the 'bureaucratic mind' is not a creation of the present administration or of its immediate predecessors" he said. "It's been a reality as far back as 1789 when George Washington was president of the United States and the Congress passed the Housekeeping Act which is still the law of the land." Mr. Dwight explained that the Act was originally established to set up a cache for public records but that "it didn't take some people long to discover that it could be developed into a handy haven for hiding public information."

Mr. Dwight said that each of the ten departments of the Federal government are opposed to Congressman Moss' amendment.

Earlier in the day the group, including Governor McKeldin, Louis L. Goldstein, president of the State Senate; Delegate Daniel B. Brewster of Baltimore county, and Charles P. McCormick, chairman of the board of regents of the university, inspected the $300,000 building with Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, university president; and J. Freeman Plye, dean of the College of Business and Public Administration.

The dedication ceremony was held in the Rotary room dining hall at 11 a. m. After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served, after which the guests witnessed the football game between Virginia and Maryland.

Attending the ceremony was Donald R. Sincell, managing editor of The Republican. An enlarged photograph of his father, the late Benj. H. Sincell, hangs in the conference room of the building along with nine other former newspaper men who are listed in Maryland's Journalism Hall of Fame.

Mr. Sincell was editor of The Republican for more than fifty-six years, and passed away January 11, 1947.

Other editors to be placed in the Hall of Fame along with Mr. Sincell are Michael William Aker, Queenstown News; Aloysius King, St. Mary's Beacon; Paul C. Patterson, Baltimore Sunpapers; Paul G. Stromberg, Stromberg Publications; William M. Baskerville, Baltimore News-Post, Dr. Edward J. Clarke, Worcester Democrat; William Wakefield Duke, Calvert Journal; Andrew Banks, Baltimore News-Post; and Robert Delaplaine, Frederick News Post. Some of these editors were elected to the Hall of Fame in 1953, while others were named in 1955.

Farmer Vice President John N. Garner observed his 89th birthday on November 22.

Public Health service awarded contracts to six research organizations for production of "new, potential anti-cancer compounds."

Oversize Signs Are Marking Spot of Two Fatal Accidents

Oversized signs are now marking a spot on U. S. 219, about two miles south of U. S. route 40, where several fatal accidents have occurred within the past several years, in addition to numerous other mishaps.

The area has been the scene of two fatal accidents in a little more than five months. A number of minor crashes have also occurred there. All were one-car accidents and in each instance the vehicle was moving south.

Nearly all of the mishaps followed the same pattern, the cars slipping off the right side of the road on the left curve, and then careening across the highway to smack into trees on the left side of the highway as the drivers make sharp left turns to get on the highway.

Curves in this area are banked but the highway was engineered about 40 years ago before the era of high speed cars and until the reverse curves are eliminated and the roadway widened there will be accidents unless drivers heed caution signs.

Patricia Trenton was fatally injured on May 18 while a passenger in an automobile. Joseph F. Garlitz sustained fatal injuries there October 30. Both were of Cumberland. Both died in Meyersdale Community hospital following the accidents.

Both automobiles struck large trees on the left side of the highway less than ten yards apart. Mrs. Mildred Ryland, who resides near the scene said she and members of her family had been witnesses to a number of minor crashes and five major crashes during the past two years.

The State Roads commission has moved in an effort to prevent future crashes. Under supervision of G. Bates Chaires, SRC district engineer, and Edward P. Kahl, county engineer for the SRC, the department has installed four "oversized" signs. Two of the signs, 36 by 36 inches, warns motorists to "SLOW" while another 36 by 36 warns of a sharp curve ahead and the fourth measuring 24 by 48 inches, is posted on the outside of the curve.

The oversized signs are something new to this area and are used only in treacherous stretches. All the signs have special paint which "blazes" at night.

Chaires says the road is included in the state's 12-year improvement project but feels that prior to the recent fatal accidents the highway was well marked and that the old signs which included a "Safe Speed 35" marker should have served as a red flag to motorists.

The two millionth resident went to Greater Washington November 21.

Endorses Seal Sale

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin has made his personal endorsement of the 1957 Christmas Seal Sale of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association.

In a proclamation issued on November 20th, Governor McKeldin stated: "During a half-century of service, Christmas Seals have led the fight against tuberculosis which, despite the great progress made against it, is today a major public health problem in Maryland.

"Last year TB took the lives of more than 300 Marylanders and attacked 2,000 new victims. While deaths from TB are declining, the number of new cases remains fairly constant.

"Through programs of tuberculosis detection, education, medical research and special services, the Maryland Tuberculosis Association and its affiliates have made giant strides against TB.

"Continued support from the people of Maryland will help the Association toward its goal—eventual eradication of TB in every section of Maryland.

"I urge all my fellow citizens of this great State to contribute generously to the Association's work, which is directed toward TB prevention, detection and treatment. With this in mind, I, Theodore R. McKeldin, Governor, do hereby proclaim Friday November 15 through Christmas Day to be 1957 CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE in Maryland."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: Philippians 1.
Devotional Reading: Philippians 1:3-11.

Full Courage

Lesson for December 1, 1957

SOME of the best of the Bible was written in jail. In fact, the Bible was mostly written not only about, but by and for, people in trouble. When Saint Paul wrote his famous little letter to the church at Philippi, he had been in a Roman prison for some time. If his trial went against him, he had nothing to expect but a death sentence. He was well along in years, too; just at the time of life when a man welcomes enmforts. Paul had to get along without them. Paul needed the prayers of his friends, the help of the Holy Spirit. But he was also confident that with this help, he would honor Christ "with full courage," whether in living or in dying.

Dr. Foreman

Never Easy

It is almost never easy to stand up and be counted as a Christian. Easy enough when nothing is involved; but when being a Christian gets one into trouble, or even laughed at, that's different. The people these days who need our prayers and deserve our honor are the Christians in countries behind the iron curtain. We sometimes may think they are not as good Christians as they ought to be, but they are better than some of us would be in their circumstances. Take a high school boy in East Germany, for example. If he goes to church on Sunday, he will have to cut a youth meeting, set by the government at church time, on purpose. His absence will go on record; and when he applies for a job, or wants to go to college, he will find doors closed against him, because he was loyal to the church and not the government. You might think that going to church once a week is not much of a "witness for Christ," but in a situation like that, it is nothing short of heroic.

Everything Against Him

"Joining the church" calls for some stiffness of backbone, even in America. Young people who do it know that on the fence there is a gathering of vultures waiting for them to make their first mistake, commit their first sin as church members,—waiting for the chance to make fun, to say "I told you so." But it takes even more courage to confess Christ in a country where Christians are thought to be unpatriotic, and Christianity a "foreigners' religion." It takes most courage of all in a fanatic world where a person who becomes a Christian runs a risk of being killed for it.

Paul would understand this, for he had everything to discourage him. On the outside of his jail there were some "Christians" preachers who had their knives out for him, character-assassins as they were. And inside the prison, all the company Paul would have were other prisoners and Roman soldiers,—no very sympathetic congregation! Yet Paul went right on being a Christian and speaking a good word for Jesus. It was a situation that had everything to dishearten him. Many another in the same fix would have thought: What a glorious testimony I can give when I get out of here!

God Brings the Best

We know (from Romans) that Paul had wanted very much to visit Rome and preach there. But he hadn't the slightest ambition to go to jail there. He was eager to give a Christian witness; but it hadn't occurred to him that God would provide for him a very small church and a mighty unpromising congregation: a church house no bigger than a jail cell, a congregation mostly criminals and prison guards. And yet—faced with this, he made the brave best of it, and was actually happy over it. God knows best; he brings the best out of the worst situations, the least likely people.

For one thing, the Gospel had made its way, only a beginning, but still a real start, in circles that would have been very hard to crash from the outside. The Praetorian Guard was made of hard men; but they were beginning to catch on to the Gospel. Timid Christians, one suspects outside the jail as well as in, were lifting their heads, catching the contagion of Paul's courage. And suppose the death-cell is ahead? Paul is not afraid. In death as in life, Paul says, "I shall not be at all ashamed."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Washington The Center

Of course, Washington is the real center of the opposition to Mr. Eisenhower. Unless you want to pick your person you can hardly lunch or dine anywhere here without meeting an earnest citizen who though strongly working for the man in 1952, and again in 1956—and who contributed too—is now vocally violent against him. Of course, neither can vote, but that does not mean they are without influence because they can spread their views quite widely—and do.

"Well," she said, "what do you think of your Eisenhower now?" "Just what I did before," was the reply. "What has he done, now?" "That's just the trouble," she said, "he won't do anything until he is told or has to." "Oh," was the reply, "I don't think it's fair to say that he has done nothing. I don't suppose I approve of everything he has done but he is the first wholly sincere, utterly truthful and honest man we have had in the White House in nearly 26 years." "Who would you like to see there? Stevenson?" "Oh, now." "Kefauver?" "Good heavens, no." "Symington, Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, Knowland, Nixon?" "Well, no, I wouldn't for a number of reasons want to see them, but tell me why does Eisenhower cling to that perfectly awful Foster Dulles? Why doesn't he throw him out? You don't think he is a good man too, do you?" "Well," I said, "to tell the truth, I do. I think he is a very fine man and if I were Ike I would cling to him too."

With that she gave me up and turned away with the plain conviction that I had no brains. And as my late and lamented friend, H. L. Mencken, used to so enjoy replying to the many abusive letters he received from all parts of the country, "Dear Sir or Madam (as the case may have been), your most interesting letter received. Possibly you are right. Most sincerely yours." He rarely got a reply. Possibly, this lady and a great many more may be right and I have no brains, but I think, though Mr. Eisenhower, by law, is debarred from running again, he will retain enough of that great popularity among the people who live in the precincts to be the dominating figure in the 1960 Republican National Convention.

He will not, to be sure, be the nominee himself, but he is very likely, indeed, to be able to nominate the man to succeed himself. There are plenty of precedents, but the two historic ones most often cited are Martin Van Buren, who was the announced choice of President Andrew Jackson in 1837, and William Howard Taft, who was nominated for President in 1908 by President Theodore Roosevelt, with, as Gould Lincoln of the Washington Evening Star, wrote, a mere "pat on the shoulder."

At the moment an eager attempt of the anti-Eisenhower press experts—particularly those who were for the good Adlai in 1952 and 1956 (and were Fair Deal and New Deal before that)—is being made to promote an alleged coolness between the President and the Vice-President to the point of a feud. It ought to be needless to say that this effort has been wholly and completely ineffectual, though it has been and is being—pushed with great vigor by the Democrats, and also by some Republicans who dislike Mr. Nixon for various reasons, none of which seems sound.

It is the big reason the ties of friendship between the President and his Vice President are very strong. If they had not been close, Mr. Nixon's career would have been abruptly cut off in 1952 for an alleged crime of which he was not guilty, and again in 1956 when his retirement was demanded by Mr. Harold Stassen. Again the President stood by him as no other man could. For this reason Mr. Nixon is fully grateful, which he has shown in every possible way. A coolness or a feud is as unthinkable on one side as the other. It just could not exist. Neither one is that kind of man. True, there is a saying that "all things are possible in politics," but this appears just one of those that can't happen.

Another reason why it will not happen is that it would be unprofitable to both. Mr. Nixon hardly could be elected in 1960 without the Eisenhower Republicans and the Republican party. All of which seems to mean that the Democratic candidate whoever he may be must not only carry the, before 1952, Solid South, but in addition all the menacing Southern States so likely to join a third party on the racial question, such as Arkansas, South Carolina and several others or which because of the racial feeling are apt to vote so heavily Republican that a split electoral result would ensue.

Winterizing Helps Gasoline Engines Start In Spring

Gasoline engines that performed smooth as silk right up until they were used for the last time this year may give plenty of headaches when an attempt is made to start them next spring, unless they get special treatment for the wintertime layoff.

John Carter, county agent, calls it "winterizing." He recommends winterizing for engines on such equipment as lawn mowers, garden tractors, chain saws, and other equipment that won't be used during the winter.

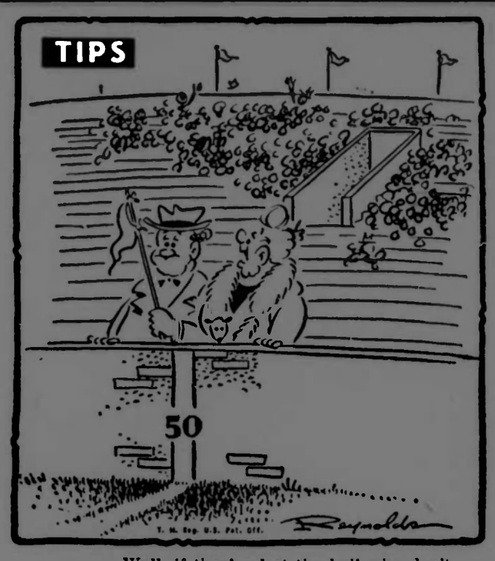
The first step in winterizing is to take the fuel out of the tank, then start the engine to remove all fuel from the carburetor and feed line. When the fuel begins to run out and the engine sputters, turn on the choke to drain the carburetor. Follow this by cleaning the carburetor and removing carbon wherever it has collected on the muffler or cylinder parts.

For protection of the cylinder and cylinder walls, take out spark plugs and put in a couple of teaspoonsful of number 10 lubricating oil. Crank the engine several times to distribute the oil, then replace the plug.

With this job done, the engine should be rarin' to go next spring—but it will be more willing if it's stored in a building and under a cover to keep off dust, dirt, and birds.

Mr. Carter says winterizing is about the same for two-cycle or four cycle engines, except that with a four-cycle engine a further step is to drain the crankcase and refill with winter-weight motor oil.

The final word in winterizing is the operator's manual, the agent adds. If the manual is lost, the owner should get another from his dealer, or request one from the manufacturer.



. . . Well, if they've lost the ball why don't they use a Want Ad?"

One Man Looks At God

(By Charles W. Carlson, Pastor, St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Oakland Maryland.)

In continuing our series of "Christian Proverbs," we will consider this week the words of Christ recorded in Matthew 9:12: "Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick."

The immediate event which brought this statement forth from Christ was a meal. This meal was given at the home of Matthew, immediately after he had received and accepted the call of Christ. Matthew had been a tax collector before his discipleship, and a tax collector was regarded with hatred for a number of reasons by most orthodox Jews. Perhaps the main reason was that so many tax collectors were downright dishonest in the way that they collected the taxes, though there were other reasons. At any rate after the call, Christ went to the home of Matthew to eat a meal, and there were other tax collectors as well as other "sinners" who sat with them to eat. When the Pharisees, who were a very righteous group as far as morals went, heard of this, they asked Christ's disciples the question "Why does your teacher eat with tax collectors and sinners?" From this situation brings Christ's comment mentioned above, as well as a quote from the prophet Hosea, "I desire mercy, not sacrifice."

Christ had a beautiful talent for disarming the self-righteous people of His time. His word can cut sharper than any sword, through the rusty armor of the formally religious, who regard themselves as a standard that other people must follow. There are many people like this in all churches. Some one has said that the Pharisee is more prevalently plentiful today than he ever was during the time of Christ. How unwilling this type of person is to associate with the sinful person, afraid perhaps that their own reputation is apt to suffer. The Pharisees of Christ's time thought it unworthy of Him, if He was what He claimed to be, to even eat or be in the same room with sinners. The Pharisees of our time wrinkle up their noses in disgust, lift their heads high with an air of superiority, when a sinner approaches them on the street, or worse still, if this sinner happens to come into their church, he is received with anything but open arms. He gets the "cold shoulder," perhaps has the unhappy experience of having someone deliberately slide away from him when he sits down next to them in a pew. How many drunkards, prostitutes, adulterers, ex-convicts, and other such people would find a place in the respectable, comfortably middle-class churches of our community?

The love that we as Christians are supposed to have for all men does not mean that we are to approve of the sins of society. Emphatically not! But it does mean that we are supposed to be a redemptive influence on a world of darkness which needs that light of the Word of God. This light came more than in any other way as a way of forgiveness. We must never lose sight of the fact that we who are children of God have no right to claim a just inheritance into this position. Never! We are in God's kingdom only out of His forgiving love. A main qualification for our remaining in this kingdom (and many of us may be surprised by Christ's statement to us on Judgment Day "Depart from me, I never knew you") is our willingness to forgive the sins of those around us.

Again and again let us apply these words of Christ, "Those who are well have no need of a physician but those who are sick." Apply them first to ourselves, for we all have need of this Divine Physician's healing power of forgiveness. Then apply them to the people around us, knowing that the only hope for the salvation of the world is in the gospel of redemption that we proclaim to all.

Silage Keeps Sows From Getting Fat During Gestation

Silage feeding during the gestation period will help keep sows from getting too fat and usually results in larger and healthier litters at farrowing time.

A good gain for a sow during the gestation period is 60 to 75 pounds, says Dr. Francis G. Wingert, in charge of swine research in the University of Maryland animal husbandry department. "The gain should be held down," he explains, "without depriving the sow of nutrients she needs to maintain her own body and to nourish her developing litter. Research has shown that properly supplemented silage can be a big help in such a feeding program, and in addition frequently reduces feed cost per pig farrowed."

Dr. Wingert says a normal feeding rate for corn or grass silage is 10 to 12 pounds per day for gilts and 12 to 14 pounds for sows. With both types of silage the amount of protein supplement required to balance the ration is determined by the quality of the silage. With corn silage of average quality 1.5 pounds of a 35 to 45 percent protein supplement per head per day is recommended whereas 0.75 pounds will balance the ration when average quality grass silage is fed.

Recommendations on the amount of shelled corn to be fed also depends on silage quality. One pound of shelled corn per head per day normally is adequate for gilts and sows fed corn silage made from corn yielding 60 or more bushels per acre. One and one-half pounds is recommended if the corn was 30 to 60 bushel corn. (Ground barley may be substituted for shelled corn on a pound per pound basis.) With wilted grass silage 1.5 pounds of shelled corn per head per day will usually be adequate.

Give silage, shelled corn and supplement in two feedings each day with the grain and supplement being distributed over the silage, Dr. Wingert suggests. A minimum of 1.5 feet of trough space should be provided per sow to prevent timid sows from being eliminated at the trough.

Ten to 15 percent of the coarse part of corn silage normally will not be eaten. Also, mature, dry silage normally will be poorly eaten.

Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

Sputnik will have served a very useful purpose if it jars us out of complacency and results in our doing a lot of very clear thinking. The space-satellite demands a long overdue evaluation of a lot of things we have been doing, and a lot of things we have not been doing. But, as I said last week, it is no cause for panic. In fact, the chief danger we face is the possibility that we will lose our heads and rush pell-mell into programs that may cost us the very thing we are fighting for in the cold war—our liberty and the freedom of individual choice.

The Russians have their "crash" programs, and for them they have sacrificed every human value. There is a vast difference between an American "all-out" effort to achieve a goal, and the Soviet state-dictated crash program. One may well ask: What's the use of fighting Communism if we surrender to its methods and philosophy?

With these thoughts in mind, I would like to comment briefly on the widely suggested "crash" program for training of scientists and engineers. Sputnik has served to point up something that has been apparent for some time. Not enough of our young people are being guided toward and encouraged to undertake careers in science. Purdue University surveyed a cross-section of high school students and found that 45% of them think that their school background is too poor to permit them to consider science as a career. It is a sad commentary on our educational system when students themselves feel that we are inadequately preparing them in mathematics and the basic sciences.

The times call for drastic reappraisal of our educational programs and our attitudes toward them. Responsibility for this rests on educators, private industry and on Federal, state, and local governments. It is worth remembering, though, that we do not have the constitutional machinery to legislate scientists into being.

Most of us would prefer to have a re-awakening of our responsibilities to education come from private sources, especially in the matter of funds needed for furthering the education of scientists.

Four Damage Suits Filed in Accident

Four damage suits were filed in the Circuit Court in Allegany county on Monday as a result of a fatal highway crash last May 18 that occurred in Garrett county on U. S. route 219, three miles south of Keyser Ridge, in which a Cumberland woman died and her daughter was badly injured.

Total damages asked are $175,000. Plaintiffs are Philip T. Christ, father of Mrs. Patricia L. Trenton, who died three days after the crash, and Cynthia Trenton, her 11-year-old daughter, who was injured.

Defendant is Raymond A. Wempe, of Cumberland, who was driving Mrs. Trenton's car at the time.

Christ, administrator of the estate of his daughter, asks $60,000 damages for the estate and also for use of the Potomac Insurance Company of the District of Columbia. Another $60,000 is asked by Cynthia Trenton through her grandfather, Christ, who is her guardian, for her injuries about the head, body and legs. The declaration states the child was permanently disfigured by the injuries. An additional $50,000 is asked for the child for the loss of the love and care of her mother and the permanent injuries she suffered.

The fourth suit is for $5,000 for hospital and medical bills incurred in the treatment of the child.

Mrs. Trenton was an employe of the C. and P. Telephone company. She and Wempe were driving to Deep Creek Lake at the time of the crash. The car left the highway and smashed into a tree. Mrs. Trenton died May 20 in Meyersdale Community hospital.

Trees That Keep Leaves All Winter Need Water Supply

Before the garden hose is put away for the winter, it might be a good idea for homeowners to connect it one more time and give a good watering to plants in the yard that keep their leaves all winter.

Dry winter winds can take a lot of moisture from plants that keep their leaves or needles all winter, says Carl Johnson, University of Maryland extension landscaping specialist. He adds that winter suns can also burn some of our broad leaf evergreens, especially the boxwoods.

Johnson says it is a good idea to see to it that these plants go into winter with a good supply of water around their roots. Even if there has been enough rain to make use of the hose unnecessary, there is still a job that can be done to help these plants through the winter. A mulch around the base of the plants will help keep the moisture in the soil and not let it evaporate too quickly.

For homeowners who are still considering planting, Johnson says the advisability of planting at this time of year depends not only on the weather but on the type of plant. If the weather continues mild without any sudden drops in temperature, the planting season can be extended right up to the end of November. In southern and central parts of the state planting can be done even later.

The landscaping specialist thinks it best to put off planting of some tender plants, though, such as broadleaf evergreens. It probably would be better to wait until early spring or next fall with these plants, especially if very young broadleaf evergreen. It probably plants are to be set out.

All young trees planted now should be wrapped to protect them against the winter sun and freezing weather and if there is any danger of mice chewing on the bark, the young trees should be protected with poison spray or metal guards.

It's Weather Or No . . .

Some like it, some don't.

Yesterday was a good day to find out just who did and who didn't—like winter, that is. It's good for skiing, also good for skidding.

It's good for sledding, and also good for heading—right smack into another automobile if you aren't extra careful.

For some it was full of luck—for others, it just meant getting stuck.

Some take it in their stride—others do nothing but slide.

For some it is most bracing—others start racing—for Florida and points south.

Yesterday a hunter was heard to remark, "And to think, I could have been in Baltimore this morning." But to most Garrett countians, it is practically like any other day. If they need to travel, they travel. If they plan to hunt, they hunt.

It is a well known fact that zero weather in our local mountains is not nearly so penetrating as 32 degrees along the bay or beside some river. Some old timers who have looked at the backs of caterpillars say that we are in for a mighty tough winter. Be that as it may, here we are in early December with an eight inch snowfall that could be the beginning of a long, hard row to hoe.

But those of us who stay here might as well make up our minds to be among the ones who like it and who continue to boost our climate.

The possibilities are here for making this an all-year resort and recreation area. Let's not talk down our weather. It is one of our important assets. The National Guard company here has made the name of Hillbilly one to be respected. We can make the name "Mountaineer" just as much so. When we do happen occasionally to be the icebox of Maryland so far as temperatures go, we could be proud of it. We could even boast about it.

We have so many things about which we can boast. Let's make weather one of them.

Open House Set For Eastern States Farmers' Exchange

The new service center of the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange on South 8th street has been completed and there will be an open house at the center next Tuesday afternoon, December 10, from 2 to 4:30 o'clock. Refreshments will be served to all and everyone is welcome.

The exchange will be open for business on Monday, December 9. The new structure is 120 by 36, of Butler steel with a 32 by 32 duplex on one end for an office, display area and truck wells.

Features of the building are a wareroom that has translucent sheets in the roof that allow enough natural light to pass through them to light the floor area, eliminating the need for windows. With a floor area of over 4,320 feet it will be approximately three times as large as the building the company has been using in Loch Lynn Heights.

The display area room and office area are paneled with plywood sheeting finished in natural color. The floor is covered with a "Multigreen" asphalt tile while the ceiling is covered with white asbestos ceiling tile. There are ceiling spotlights that can be focused on any item.

The site was selected because of its nearness to the B. and O. railroad tracks. Construction was done by the Garrett Building Supply Corporation of Loch Lynn Heights.

Maryland Woman 4-H Alumni Winner

Mrs. Fred L. Bull, of College Park, community and civic leader, has been honored at the National 4-H club Congress in Chicago as a National 4-H Alumni winner.

The award, sponsored by Olin Mathieson Chemical corporation through the National Committee for Boys and Girls Club work, cited Mrs. Bull, a former 4-H member, for her citizenship, responsibility and achievement in her chosen field.

Mrs. Bull was one of eight winners in a national poll. The eight were guests of honor at a dinner on Wednesday, December 4, at Chicago's Sheraton - Blackstone. Winners were nominated by their county agricultural agents.

Mrs. Bull represented Maryland at the President's White House Conference on Education and at the National Juvenile Delinquency conference. She was also National Chairman of Citizenship and Civil Defense, and just completed her term as president of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers. She spoke at a P.-T.A. meeting in the county last year.

She is the mother of two 4-H members.

Named Junior Stenographer

Miss Mary E. Bernard has been named junior stenographer at the office of the Garrett County Welfare board, replacing Mrs. Leona Wilt who was promoted recently to senior stenographer. The latter position was made available when Mrs. Leonore Fauber was transferred to the Welfare office in Prince Georges county.

Union District Laying Plans For Training School

Another leadership training school has been planned for Union district in Preston county with representatives of the Church of the Brethren, Lutheran and Methodist churches, along with the district school association officers meeting to map out a program.

Sessions will be held in Aurora High school Sunday afternoons, from 2 to 4 o'clock during January and including February 2. Galen E. Fike was named dean, with Mrs. Grace Bachtel as secretary and John Unger as treasurer.

Courses and Leaders

A brief survey of the New Testament will be taught by Rev. Allen D. Pugh to help students understand contents of New Testament.

Alcohol Education in the church will be taught by J. Roy Lipscomb to consider scientific information relating to effects of alcohol upon the human body and personality and upon society.

"My Life Work" will be taught by Mrs. Virginia Martin to help students evaluate various vocations.

"Improving the Sunday Church School," will be taught by Webb Roth, and will endeavor to help Sunday School workers to discover ways in which their schools may be improved.

The school is accredited under the West Virginia Council of Churches. The cost of the school is being underwritten by the Sunday Schools of the district. Text books will be available for purchase by the pupils.

An invitation is extended to all to attend.

Regional FFBL Meeting To Be Held On Friday

The eighth year of the regional round-up of the 1957 Farming for Better Living program will be held in Morgantown on Friday, December 6. The Morgantown Chamber of Commerce will be host to members of Council members from the five counties of Monongalia, Preston, Marion, Taylor, in West Virginia, and Garrett, at 12 o'clock noon in the ballroom of the Hotel Morgan.

Following the luncheon the five 1957 county winners will be introduced and the regional winner will be announced.

Several members of the Garrett County FFBL council plan to attend the function. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wagner, Jr., named county winners at the county FFBL banquet on November 1, will be special guests.

To Mark Silver Anniversary

On Sunday, December 8, the Rev. Fr. Michael K. Carney, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church, will celebrate his priestly silver anniversary.

The parish is planning a reception in the school hall on Sunday evening, December 8, at 7 o'clock. An invitation is being extended to all friends to join in paying tribute to him. Sponsoring the event are the ladies of the Blessed Virgin Mary Sodality.

Water Supply Is Now Ample But Still No Surplus

Oakland's water supply is now sufficient for all essential needs but there is still no surplus, Mayor Russell L. Smith reminded citizens this week.

The statement was made after the Mayor and the City Hall had been swamped with telephone calls last week when rusty water appeared in many places and a lack of water in others.

Mr. Smith explained that the apparent shortage was caused because workmen were engaged in laying a new line from the new well to the spring on Thanksgiving day. He said they had been having difficulty with the pump at the new well but that this was now in good working order.

Mayor Smith released a statement this week called "truthful information and facts on our Water Supply" which gives a background of the trouble this fall and what is being done for the future. Mr. Smith says:

"Because our citizens have suffered many inconveniences with relative few complaints during the past several months due to insufficient water in our lines, and a great deal of calculated misinformation has been spread around in an attempt to aggravate the situation, I feel compelled to publish the following facts:

"1. Why do we have a water shortage?

"During the six-month period from April to September, 1957, inclusive, we have suffered a deficiency of 10.49 inches in our normal rainfall. Weather records show this to be the worst prolonged dry period of more than thirty years. Records in our Water Department also show that the consumption of water in Oakland has almost doubled during the past ten years. Much of this increase in consumption is due to having added the hospital and high school to our lines and the growing use of automatic equipment for laundry and dishwashing purposes, plus a healthy growth in new attractive homes.

"2. Where do we get our water?

"The town had until three weeks ago four wells and a spring which supplied our water. These wells, most of which are ten or more years old (competent engineers tell us that ten years is about the life of such wells in this area) produced last year approximately 380 gallons of water per minute largely without pumping. Today these wells which have been pumped

New Member, Chairman Of Welfare Board Named

A new member to the Garrett County Welfare Board and a new chairman were named recently, according to an announcement by Robert W. Stemple, executive director.

Mrs. H. F. Stockslager is the new chairman, succeeding Rev. John J. Atwell who resigned when he moved recently to Arizona. Taking Mr. Atwell's place on the board is Henry W. McComas, superintendent of the Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland. His unexpired term appointment will run until 1960.

Other members of the board at present include Mrs. Scott W. Shirer, Oakland; Guy Stanton, Grantsville; Aubrey Brenneman, Hoyes; Glenroot Dilley, of Oakland; Mrs. Aldine McIntyre, Kitzmiller.

Mr. Stemple said the board had been working on completing the annual estimate of expenditures for 1958 which must be presented to the Board of County Commissioners in the near future. He said that the estimate would run slightly higher than last year but that the board would turn over enough unexpended funds of this year's budget to make up the difference.

Kirby Is Transferred

M/Sgt. George F. Kirby, now stationed in Hagerstown as an air force recruiter, has been reassigned for duty at Loring air force base in Limestone, Maine. Kirby was former recruiter in Cumberland and Oakland.

The Kirbys plan to leave Hagerstown on Friday, December 13 for a visit with friends in Cumberland and Oakland before driving to Louisville, Ky., where they will spend the Christmas holidays with their respective families. Sgt. Kirby will report at Loring base about January 10. His family will accompany him and reside near the base.

Held for Forgery

Arnold Sisler about 30 years of age, was being detained in the Garrett County jail on five charges of forgery. He was held under $2,500 bond, $500 in each case, for his appearance at a hearing set for next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock before Trial Magistrate Earl C. Friend in Oakland. Sisler denies the charges.

Charges were preferred by Paul E. Sisler who said that in recent days the man had tried to cash checks at the Garrett National bank, one for $58.21, $82.21, $71.22, $33.62 and $33.09, made payable to Arnold Sisler, Leroy Gibson, Carl Roberts, Ray K. Sisler and Paul E. Sisler.

The bank termed the checks "forgeries."

Wendell Turney Is Burned in Explosion

Wendell "Pat" Turney, who just recently was transferred from Oakland to Morgantown by the Standard Oil company, was one of two persons seriously burned Tuesday night in a rooming house on Kingwood street in that city.

An explosion of undetermined origin went off at the residence of Mrs. Vic Campbell. Both Mrs. Campbell and Turney were rushed to the Vincent Palotti hospital for third degree burns on their hands and arms. Turney's feet also were burned.

Neighbors reported that the blast, which went off at approximately 9:30 p. m., sent glass shooting in all directions from the house. One witness, a student who rooms next door to the Campbell home, said when he ran out to the porch after hearing the terrific blast, he saw sparks shooting out the upstairs front window.

Apparently the explosion came from a small gas stove in an upstairs bedroom. After examining the damage the fire chief said it was evidently of terrific force.

Mrs. Campbell, who is in her 80's, was carried from the building by Turney, who had been a roomer at the house for only a short time. Turney who goes to work at 4 a. m. had already retired for the night and the force of the explosion blew him out of bed.

The explosion blew out five windows in the upstairs of the two story frame structure and blew off a door leading to another bedroom. Damage to the vacant bedroom where the blast originated was estimated at about $400 excluding broken windows in other parts of the house. Turney was in a room adjacent to where the explosion occurred.

Mrs. Turney went to Morgantown late Tuesday night and brought her husband to Oakland where he will recuperate.

The condition of Mrs. Campbell is critical.

Violate Game Laws

Two persons were arrested for violations of the game laws during the week.

Edward J. Miller, Oakland, pleaded guilty to having a loaded rifle in his automobile in the Herrington Manor area and was fined $25 and costs. He was apprehended by Game warden Robert Brown.

William Otto, Fairchance, Pa., was charged with being a non-resident who was hunting with a resident license in the Meadow Mountain area. He was fined $50 and costs. Warden Francis Ruge made the arrest. The cases were heard before Trial Magistrate Earl C. Friend.

Six More Arrested

Six more persons were arrested by game wardens, five of them for having loaded guns in their automobiles. One was arrested for hunting without a license. He was Edward Mitter, route 1, Gormania. Upon failure to pay a fine of $25 and costs he was placed in the county jail for 30 days.

Those having loaded guns in their automobiles were Robert Dawson, Hyattsville, $25 and costs; Laird R. Chase, Bethesda, $10 and costs; Aubrey W. Marcus, College Park, $10 and costs; Jack Quaker, Glen Burnie, $25 and costs, Norman Rowen, Passadena, $25 and costs. The fines were suspended in the two latter cases but the costs were paid. Arrests were made by game wardens Leo Friend and Robert Brown.

Beavers Being Trapped

State Game officials are in the process of trapping beavers in the Potomac river area near Gorman. It has been reported. Two beavers were caught in that section last Friday.

Will Dedicate Dennett Road School Dec. 10

Dr. W. S. Patterson To Deliver Dedicatory Address

The new twelve-room elementary school on Dennett Road will be accepted as completed by the architect, County Commissioners, and School Board on Tuesday, December 10, and will be dedicated Sunday afternoon, December 15, at 2:15 p. m. The building will serve the children in the Oakland area in grades 5 and 6 as well as some who are in grade four.

The dedication of the new building will mark a "red letter" day in educational progress for the community of Oakland, for the completion of the new building makes possible the removal of the 380 children now occupying the old annex building, considered one of the worst school conditions to be found anywhere in the country.

The new building is situated midway between the towns of Oakland and Mt. Lake Park, and has been officially named the Dennett Road school. It contains twelve classrooms, one of which is designed for use as a library, one all-purpose room with kitchen and stage and a seating capacity of 500, a health room, offices, storage rooms, and adequate toilet facilities.

The contract price of the building was $275,000.00. This does not include the cost of driveways or sewerage disposal. The building is also equipped with all new furniture costing approximately $10,000. The total cost of the completed project is somewhat below the average cost in the state for similar buildings, Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, stated.

The building features a bus loading platform and shelter, suntrol glass blocks in each classroom, aluminum window frames and sash, copper spouting, mat-block for all

Remodeling Program At Englander Store Is About Complete

The expansion and remodeling program at the Englander pharmacy on Alder street is about completed, and it is expected that the material covering the front of the building will be removed before the end of the week. The store has remained open for business during the remodeling.

The new pharmacy will now have a frontage of 10 feet, just twice the width of the former room, and has a depth of 95 feet. The widening process took in the room formerly occupied by The Fair.

The fountain has been increased from seven to fifteen stools and the additional room has allowed C. W. Englander, owner, to stock a number of additional items.

Work has been underway for the past month or more.

Hunter Wounded Near Kitzmiller

Charles Armstrong, aged 42, of Baltimore, was slightly wounded last Saturday afternoon in a hunting accident in the Kitzmiller area.

Sheriff James E. Frantz, who investigated, said Armstrong was struck on the left side of the face by four pellets from a .12 gauge shotgun fired by a companion, James Curtain, about 55, also of Baltimore.

Armstrong, Curtain and a third man were hunting grouse when the accident occurred. Armstrong was in a ravine when Curtain, on higher ground and not aware of the former's position about 25 yards away, fired at a grouse and part of the charge struck Armstrong.

The man was taken to Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland for treatment.

A.A.U.W. Group To Meet

Mrs. Carlson will discuss the Suez canal problems. Mrs. Homer Bennett will discuss religious factors, and Mrs. Robert T. Hoffman will discuss the Golf of Aqaba and the Gaza strip. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

His buck was one of those having well shaped antlers. It was an eight pointer, and weighed 121 pounds. His brother, Jim Kehoe, also was in the county hunting. He is track coach at the University of Maryland. Charles also is with the athletic department of the school.

Oakland Takes On Holiday Appearance

Oakland is taking on a holiday air to usher in the Christmas season. Christmas decorations in the business section of town were placed on Tuesday and Wednesday and consist of strands of lights in fifteen or more places, and Santa Claus and other ornaments on a number of the electric poles. New this year are some large stars placed in the center of the strands of lights. They will be lighted each evening during the Christmas season. Stores are also being decorated for the occasion.

Advertisements of members of the Chamber of Commerce have been compiled into a sixteen-page tabloid circular and are being distributed this week throughout the area. Over six thousand were printed. Merchants advertising include Ralph Pritts and Sons, Wakely's Hardware, Englander Drug Store, The H-P Stores, Browning's, Inc., Shaffer Ford Sales, Inc., Rolyan's Oakland Hardware and Furniture company, Rudy's, A. D. Naylor and Company, Family Shoe Store, J. W. Jackson company, Smouse's, Hawkinson Tread Service, R. and P. Store, Leighton Brothers, Ace Radio and Electric Service, Oakland Lumber company, Garrett and First National banks, and The Fair. Another half-page advertisement calls attention to the Red Cross blind drive next spring.

These stores participating in the sales event will contribute $300 in prizes. There will be one $75 gift certificate, 1 $50 certificate, 3 $25 certificates, 5 $10 certificates, and 10 $5 certificates. Everyone who deposits a coupon in a participating store is eligible for a prize but no person may win more than one. One coupon may be deposited at each participating store but only one coupon may be deposited at any one store.

Deposits must be made before 9 p. m. on Saturday, December 14. Prizes will be awarded Monday, December 16. Winners will be announced by mail or phone. The gift certificates are redeemable in any store participating in the event and all must be redeemed by December 31.

The promotion is being sponsored by the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce and in addition to the Christmas shopping campaign also includes a Christmas treat for the children of the community.

The annual treat for the children, twelve years of age and under, will be conducted on Saturday afternoon, December 21, when an orange, candy and other articles will be distributed. Boy Scouts and members of the National Guard will assist. In former years as many as 2,500 children have received treats through the generosity of merchants and business men of town.

Attend Meeting

Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools; Maurice Brookhart, Dr. Ralph Calandrella and George D. Edwards, members of the Board of Education, were in Baltimore Tuesday and Wednesday attending the annual meeting of the county boards of education.

Theme of the meeting was "The Duties and Responsibilities of Members of the Board of Education." The meeting was held at the Emerson hotel with Wendell R. Allen, president of the State Department of Education, presiding.

8-inch Snowfall Descends on County

Winter settled on Garrett county on Tuesday night and Wednesday with an eight-inch snowfall. In comparison to other areas Garrett county faired lightly. Ten inches of snow fell in the Baltimore area, snarling traffic. There was a foot in Frostburg and nine inches in Cumberland. At Thomas and Elkins similar depths were reported.

Locally the snow caused some inconveniences to the travelers. Numerous school busses had difficulty in delivering their pupils yesterday morning. Highways were kept clear but were slippery and those without chains or snow tread tires had extreme difficulty in moving along. Traffic on U. S. routes 40 and 50 was slowed considerably.

The temperature in the county remained slightly below freezing most of the day. It had dropped to 24 degrees early yesterday evening and remained below freezing during the night. Clearing skies indicated that there would be thawing today.

The snow caused a drop in the number of deer hunters in the woods and many of them returned to their homes in central and eastern Maryland.

The snow began to fall in Garrett county about 4:30 p. m. Tuesday and continued all during the night and through Wednesday, although it had lightened considerably on Wednesday. Seven inches fell during the night and only an additional inch during Wednesday.

Schools were operating as usual, although yesterday some of the busses and teachers were late in arriving for classes.

It was the first real snow of the current season.

During the balance of the week the weather was comparatively mild. Thanksgiving was mild. Rain fell early Friday and the temperature turned cooler. Some snow fell Saturday night, and Sunday and Monday were cold and clear.

Truck Rams Two Cars

A pick-up driven by Jerry Tasker, of Deer Park, crashed into two automobiles parked in Clyde Breedlove's driveway, just off the Oakland-Terra Alta highway last Saturday afternoon about three o'clock.

Tasker was enroute from Terra Alta toward Oakland when he apparently lost control of his truck on a curve. He crashed into the rear of a Buick automobile owned by Henry Hinebaugh, of Waneta, W. Va., and then struck the Chevrolet automobile of Louie Lewis, of Fairchance, Pa. The Buick was badly damaged.

No one was injured. Corporal Samuel Conrad investigated, but details were lacking with Conrad on vacation this week.

Local Auxiliary Unit Receives Two Awards

At a meeting of the Mountain District of the American Legion Auxiliary in Cumberland on Sunday, Mrs. Harrison Stewart, local unit president and Mt. District membership chairman, received a cash award for having the quota unit of the entire district. She also received an award in Baltimore at the conference for presidents and secretaries for membership attained by the local unit.

Those attending the district meeting in Cumberland Sunday were Mrs. Clarence Stein, Mrs. George Goldington and Mrs. Stewart.

Deer Kill Hits 487 In 3 Days

Big Boost Will Be Necessary To Surpass All-Time Record Of 662

At least four hundred eighty-seven deer have been killed in Garrett county during the first three days of the six-day open season, it was announced by game officials this morning.

The number was thirty-nine below the total for the first three days of last year and a big boost during the final three days will be necessary to surpass the all-time record of 662 kills, made last year. Many hunters from the Baltimore area left for their homes yesterday after the eight-inch snowfall, and the number of hunters in the woods yesterday dropped considerably.

The hunting weather was considered ideal for the first two days but yesterday brought a damper to activities with the snowfall and poor visibility. Today, however, was bright and clear with indications that the hunting activity would pick up.

Most of the deer brought in were of moderate weight. Apparently the biggest rack of horns to show up until this morning was brought in by Joseph A. Ashby, Oakland showing 12 points. His buck however weighed only 140 pounds. Mahlon M. Yoder, Oakland, brought in one weighing 180 pounds, but having only eight points. There were a number of 10-pointers and one 11-point.

The number of women entering the picture totaled at least six. They were Naomi Holler, Mrs. Thomas J. Johnson, Elinor Browning, Oakland; Helen L. Layman, Hyattsville; Mrs. Daisy Rudy, Port Deposit, and Betty Ann DeBerry, Deer Park.

There were apparently not as many hunters in the woods as in former years. Restaurant owners said the number of meals being served was less than in previous years.

Game wardens reported violations at a minimum. There were several for carrying a loaded gun in their automobiles, and a few for hunting without a license. Illegal kills appeared to be few.

The tabulation of the several

One Man Looks At God

(By Charles W. Carlson, Pastor, St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Oakland Maryland.)

In the thirteenth chapter of the Gospel of Matthew, Christ sums up many characteristics of the Kingdom of heaven in a series of short parables. One of these will be our subject this week. He says: "The kingdom of heaven is like leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal until all was leavened."

The obvious reference here is to the amazing force of yeast, which in a marvelous way finds its way into a large amount of dough. Perhaps many of you have not watched bread rise in your mother's kitchen. I have not seen it either in recent years, but I do recall seeing in my childhood a small lump of dough turn into a huge mass that...the original size, as it set on top of the "warming closet" in the top of our old stove. The stove has long since departed, as has the habit of making bread at home, but the principle still remains.

One of the greatest indications of the truth of Christ's message to men is in the way it has indeed leavened one third of the world's civilization. The message was proclaimed by a relative unknown, in comparison to the other more important men of his day. It was proclaimed to just a few who took up the message, but out of this small beginning comes a movement that numbers nearly a billion of the two and one-half billion inhabitants of the world. And Christianity is still growing! In the past fifty years, church membership has risen from about forty percent of the population to nearly 65 percent of the population. And it will continue to grow. The thing that never ceases to amaze this writer is the fact that it continues to grow in spite of the obvious sins of the people in the churches. None of us can make any real claim to absolute perfection, and yet our efforts are made full with the help and assistance of the Holy Spirit.

This is the hope with which we can change the ways of the world. If each one of us would in our lifetime lead just two or three outside our own family circle into the life of the Kingdom, the effects would be amazing. In another statement, Christ says that the harvest is plentiful but the laborers are few. We who are in the Kingdom are like this yeast, but with one notable exception. The yeast grows of its own accord. We need the power of the Holy Spirit within our lives that our works are not in vain. Why not join this tremendous force!

Southern Quint to Open Season Friday

Three Rules Changes

Basketball spectators at Southern High Gym this Friday evening will note three major rule changes according to Carl Schoonover, coach of the Southern High School quintet.

Three changes are as follows:

1. It is legal to throw the ball in bounds under the basket. Last year's regulation did not permit a player to throw the ball in bounds within the 12-foot lane.

2. The bonus throw (one and one) has been partially discontinued. The new ruling states that a bonus throw is given only after five personal fouls have been committed by a team during a half. A bonus throw is given them for each foul committed thereafter.

3. In the case of a double foul, there will be no free throws. Instead, a jump ball is called.

The new changes are similar to pro basketball rules and were instituted to speed up the game.

Southern High school will open its season on Friday evening, December 6, on the local court against Piedmont High school. Piedmont was a new addition to the Highlander schedule this year and is a member of the Potomac Valley conference. There will be a preliminary game with the junior High schools quints.

Piedmont is expected to present a strong team since there are six returning lettermen. Dick Niland amassed 227 points in eighteen games last season. Last year the Piedmont Lions had a 13-9 record and prior to that time they were in the finals of the West Virginia class B state championship for two consecutive years and winner of the PVC crown three times in the past five years. They also were Mineral county league champs four times in five years. Tuesday night the Lions defeated Elk Garden 70 to 49.

corridor and toilet walls, classroom wardrobes, a large wire glass show window for each classroom, ample bulletin board and shelving space.

The building was also designed with a minimum amount of maintenance in mind, Mr. Hawkins said. Very little exterior painting will be required. The authority for the contracting and construction of the building was vested in the Board of County Commissioners which has worked closely with the local school board during the construction process. The work of the contractors, Hardesty and Shirer, was highly praised last week during an inspection trip by the architects, Altman and Altman, of Uniontown.

Merritt Feather, president of the P.-T.A. for the new school will preside at the dedication exercises. Dr. Ralph Cafandrella, president of the school board will present the key to the school to the principal, Foster Riggs. Remarks will be heard from H. D. Swartzentruber, president of the Board of County Commissioners, and from Mr. Hawkins. Dr. W. S. Patterson, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church of Oakland will deliver the dedicatory address. Special music will be presented by the school Glee club. A number of county and school officials will be platform guests.

The public is invited to attend the dedication program. Following the program those present will have an opportunity to inspect the entire building.

Drafts, Dampness Lead To Winter Mastitis In Cattle

By protecting his cows against drafts, dampness and sudden changes in temperature during winter months the dairy farmer is protecting them against a common cause of mastitis.

"Anything that lowers a cow's resistance to disease makes her a likely target for the many different kinds of organisms which cause mastitis," explains Richard G. Saacke, University of Maryland extension dairyman. "And among other things, resistance is lowered by drafts, dampness and sudden temperature changes."

The dairy farmer is taking a big step toward protecting his cows against mastitis by providing plenty of dry bedding and keeping drafts in the barn down to a minimum. Saacke says the lack of bedding or too little bedding in stanchion allows the udders to come in contact with the cold, damp floor and that could be the beginning of a mastitis infection.

In the barnyard, special winter-time hazards are mud, ice and snow. A cow can easily fall if its slippery underfoot and get an udder injury leading to mastitis. Anything that reduces the danger of slips and falls indirectly provides protection against mastitis.

An important consideration in loose housing construction is protection against prevailing winter-time winds.

"Keeping the cow's resistance high and avoiding injury is necessary protection against mastitis," Saacke explains. "Because it's almost impossible to completely prevent mastitis—causing organisms from coming into contact with udder. In most cases, they are present in udders of healthy cows ready to cause trouble in case of lowered resistance or an injury. Mastitis organisms also are in the manure and soiled bedding, and on the barn floor.

"The maintenance of high herd resistance, coupled with sanitation and proper milking procedures, make a sound program to ward off mastitis."

Fewer But Higher Producing Herds is Dairy Farming Trend

Average milk production on Maryland dairy farms selling whole milk has increased 263 percent in the past 25 years, from 45,000 pounds to 163,000 pounds per farm.

Increased production per farm is one of the several adjustments the state's dairy farmers are making in their business operations, according to a study of dairy farm business adjustments conducted by the University of Maryland department of agricultural economics.

Dr. John W. Wysong, reporting on the study, says other major adjustments are a decreasing number of herds, an increase in herd size and higher production per cow. The study is based on census figures.

Even though the number of farms reporting milk cows to the census takers has declined steadily from 35,000 before 1920 to 17,000 in 1954, the total number of milk cows on farms increased by about 57,000 head, during the same period, from 162,000 to 219,000. The average number of cows per herd increased from 5 to 13.

"There are two basic causes for the increase in average herd size," explains Dr. Wysong. "First, the elimination of many 1-to-4 cow herds formerly maintained to produce dairy products largely for home consumption. Second, the increased number of milk cows in commerical dairy herds—those producing for the wholesale milk market.

In the past 25 years the average number of cows per farm selling whole milk has increased 120 percent, from 13 to 29 cows per farm. At the same time, production per cow increased 65 percent, from 3,160 to 5,700 pounds.

One factor that has remained fairly constant through all the changes is the average size of the labor force per farm—it is still equivalent to two full-time workers. The pounds of milk sold per man has more than tripled during the last 25 years.

Explaining the trend toward larger herds, Dr. Wysong says expansion to 20 cows or more permits a dairyman to gain economies from the fuller use of his fixed resources such as dairy and farm equipment, farm buildings, and from skilled labor and management ability.

These trends are expected to continue in the future, according to the economist. Maryland dairy farms will likely be fewer, larger and more efficient in the use of land, labor, capital and management resources in the next five years or so.

Wins D. A. R. Good Citizen Contest at Northern High

Miss Janie Callis, senior student at Northern High school, was selected at the winner in the D. A. R. Good Citizen contest, conducted a few days ago at the school.

She was considered the girl who best represented these four qualities, dependability, service, leadership and patriotism. Runners up in the contest were Judith Horne and Barbara DeWitt.

National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, conducts the contest has as its aim to cultivate an appreciation among young people of character building as a basis of good citizenship. The three students were selected by the senior class and answered a questionnaire on school, church, community and home activities and also on matters about which a well informed citizen of the United States would be expected to know. A faculty committee including P. H. Johnson, chairman, Ralph Beachley, Floyd Carson and Darrell Malone, then graded the answers for accuracy and evaluated the lists of activities.

Miss Callis will compete for county honors. The county winner will be entered in state-wide competition with the prize for the state winner being a savings bond of $100 or a scholarship of $75.

Miss Callis, daughter of Mrs. Marvin Calis and the late Mr. Callis, is taking the Academic course which includes Problems of Democracy, English, Home Economics, Physics. She is a regional treasurer in student council, historian in the F N M, member of the Quartet club, member of the National Honor society, Maryland All state chorus and is editor of the school yearbook. She has attended the state student council convention meetings at Silver Spring, Hagerstown and Clear Spring. She was one of the Northern High students who sang for the county teachers banquet recently at the school. Miss Callis also is active in four-H club work, is a member of the Church of the Brethren choir and Youth Fellowship organization.

stations showed the following figures for the first three days: Oakland, 83, 51, 24, total 158; Storey's, at Deep Creek Lake, 32, 31, 22 total, 85; Grantsville 56, 43, 20, total, 119; Swanton, 16, 11, 2, total, 29; Friendsville, 24, 17, 12, total, 53; Westernport, 14, 7, 3, total 24; LaVale, 11, 5 3, total, 19; grand total 487.

In Allegany county the total for three days was 298 Monday, 117 Tuesday, and 30 on Wednesday, for a grand total of 445. The first day's kill surpassed that of Garrett county.

Bucks were being killed in most every section of the county. Hunters listed their killings at Roman Nose, Herrington, Short Run, Steyer, Chaffee, Dunkard Lick, King's Hill, Muddy Creek, Red House, Maple Glade, North Glade, Green Glade, White Church, Salt Ground, Hickory Hill Briar Ridge, Table Rock, Pine Hill, Truesdell, Mt. One hunter told a game warden of a frustrating experience. He had just killed a spike buck and was preparing to cut him open when he looked up and spied a 10-pointer calmly staring at him at very close range. Another hunter, unsure of the regulations, asked for a copy from another game warden and when he discovered he could kill spike bucks with an antler three or more inches in length he remarked disgustedly, "I've let four of those pass by today."

A partial list of the deer kill along with the residence of the hunter, the number of points and weight when available, is given below, and additional kills on page 16 of today's issue.

State Control of Assessments Felt To Be Necessary

A scheme based on a foundation of closer state supervision of tax assessments has been suggested for improving the way Maryland hands out money to its governmental offspring.

The Legislative Council's committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters has released a 55-page report on its study of distribution of state funds to the political subdivisions.

Inequities in the valuation of property from county to county still are costing some counties their fair share of state aid to education and health programs, the committee felt. To set things right, the committee outlined steps for equalizing assessments from county to county.

It listed nine proposals.

1. That supervisors of assessment and all assessors be placed under state control and be paid fully by the state. Maryland currently pays 60 percent of salaries and the counties pay 40 percent.

2. That formula for distributing some funds for aid to health be reviewed.

3. That any further increases in education aid be channeled into the direct grant programs based on numbers of pupils or classrooms in order to decrease the emphasis on equalization.

4. That income tax money be distributed by state comptroller to counties and Baltimore city and that distribution to municipalities be made by counties.

5. That the admissions tax be discontinued as a state tax and given to the counties and municipalities.

6. That distribution of racing funds and business franchise taxes be discontinued and that the income tax distribution formula be increased to a percentage figure which will compensate the local governments for loss of revenue.

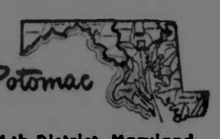
7. That Baltimore City which earlier had turned its back on state aid to health to retain its independence of the State Health Department, be brought into full participation.

8. That the state assume full responsibility for collection of vital records in one central bureau.

9. That Baltimore City and State Roads commission be directed by statute to determine what portion of the city's street system is part of state primary highway system.

The committee said progress had been made in equalizing tax assessments from county to county under a plan it suggested in 1955 but it felt too many inequities still existed.

Along The Potomac



Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

Public servants certainly are entitled to the opinions they develop from facts to broadcast views developed out of igorance. I have in mind the recent statement of the Maryland Board of Natural Resources regarding the proposed C.&O. Canal National Historical Park.

Some members of the Board object to the proposed national park on several grounds. I would like to comment on two or three objections to illustrate the inaccuracy of the statement in general.

The Board states that the proposed park would require Maryland to surrender to Federal control nearly all of the northern shore and the bed of the Potomac River from Great Falls to Cumberland. What are the facts? The proposed park would make no change whatsoever in the jurisdiction of the Potomac River. Under the U. S. Constitution the Federal Government has some control of the Potomac River as a navigable stream. Permission must be obtained from Congress—not the State Legislature—to build dams in the river. Also, under the statutes the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service could but has never tried to exercise authority to control pollution on the river. But for other purposes it is Maryland's river and would remain so under the park bill now before the Congress.

Another objection involves the right of access to the river. I would like to remind my readers that Public Law 184 (83d Congress), a law sponsored by Senator Beall and myself, specifically "authorizes and directs" the Secretary of the Interior to grant perpetual easements, subject to reasonable conditions as are necessary to protect the interest of all the people, for right-of-way through, over, or under the parkway lands along the C.&O. Canal.

Other objections made by the Board, such as the suggestion that the proposed national park would prohibit the normal development of homes, industries, communities, and recreational areas, just doesn't hold water. A careful study of the bill will show that the proposed park will help—rather than hinder the development of the area. An illustration is the establishment in the past two years of two new industries on the river—the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and the Potomac Electric Power Company. The bill makes no change in the availability of the river to other industries.

On Monday, I wondered if the "flu bug" had hit Northern again, due to the students who were absent. But the next day the students were back in classes, working and catching up with the schoolwork which they missed.

"IT WAS A NICE TRY, BUT . . ." seems to sum up public opinion about competitive cars attempting to equal the styling and features of the Swept-Wing 58. They tried to get as low, but had to lower the roof to do it. (Less headroom, same high, boxy, cooped-up look.) Their windshields got smaller, while ours got bigger. Most of them still don't have Total-Contact Brakes to assure smooth, even, safe stops when needed. Nor do they offer push-button TorqueFlite, the proven automatic transmission, and Constant-Control power steering that works full time—not part time as some other systems do. And Dodge no-sway, no-dip Torsion-Aire is standard equipment. (Bus-type air springs offered by some cars cost well over $100.00 extra.) So compare all the 1958 models with Dodge. We think you'll agree: Other cars are catching on, but they can't catch up.

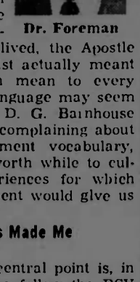
What Christ Means

Lesson for December 8, 1957

WHAT does America mean to you? Ask that question of a hundred Americans and you will get some lame answers, and maybe some good ones. But you would say that the truest answers are not the lamest ones. What does Christ mean to you? Ask that question of a hundred Christians, and you will no doubt get some lame answers. But let us ask the question of one of the greatest Christians who ever lived, the Apostle Paul. What Christ actually meant to him, he can mean to every Christian. His language may seem strange, but as D. G. Barnhouse says, instead of complaining about the New Testament vocabulary, wouldn't it be worth while to cultivate the experiences for which the New Testament would give us the right words?



Dr. Foreman

"Christ Jesus Has Made Me His Own"

The first and central point is, in Paul's words (we follow the RSV translation), "Christ Jesus has made me his own." We turn the thing around too much. We speak of "decisions for Christ." Paul had indeed decided for Christ; but that was never for him the main point. Christ had decided for him! He belonged to Christ by Christ's choice first: intimately, inseparably. With this go two other points. One (as Paul puts it) is the eager desire that "I may . . . be found in Him." This meant that when God looked at Paul, Paul hoped God would see him in Christ. Paul is not any longer a separate, lone man, he is so truly in Christ than when God looks at him, he sees Christ. Along with that thought, and a part of it, is another: "not having a righteousness of my own, but that which is through faith in Christ, the righteousness from God that depends on faith." This is so opposite to what the ordinary person, all religious but ours, and indeed many Christians, understand and aim at, that it seems too strange to believe. But this is what Christ can mean, my righteousness. The true Christian character is not something built up by the Christian's own efforts and offered to God; it is something accepted from God. If it is true that when God looks at the Christian he sees Christ, he sees the Christian (as one of our songs puts it) "clad in His righteousness alone."

"The Power of His Resurrection"

Christianity is a supernatural religion. Any one who takes it for less is like a person owning an airplane who never fills it with gas nor takes it out on the runway; like a person who has a fortune in the bank but never writes a check. How often a Christian says to himself, "I can't!"—and he is quite right, as a rule. Much is demanded of a Christian that is impossible; which doesn't make sense till the Christian discovers that the answer ought to be: "I can't but Christ can." Paul not only here but in other places testifies that the same power that raised Christ from the dead is actually available to the Christian. It does not come all at once; Paul is expressing it as a hope only partly realized; but it makes sense—spiritual, supernatural sense if you must put it that way. A Christian can rise above his ordinary earthbound self, by the same power in which Christ triumphed over death.

"We Await a Savior"

Once more, Christ for Paul means the Savior, one who comes to his rescue. But while Paul can speak of having been saved, he can also talk of salvation in the future. The same Paul who cherished the phrase "This do in remembrance of me . . ." could also speak of "awaiting" a Savior. There are two great things, part of what is meant by "salvation," which Paul expects Christ yet to do, in the future. They are closely connected. The first is that Christ will come to bring him and others to the "heavenly city"—the commonwealth the Christian has never seen but where his citizenship papers are already made out. The other thing Paul expects is to be changed: his "lowly body" is to be "like (Christ's) glorious body." Paul does not make this fully clear; he had not yet had the experience. This is the language of hope. But one thing is plain. For Paul, Christ is not only the Savior from sin, but the Savior from death. Paul no longer feared death, as he might have when a boy.

CHEVROLET SETS A NEW STYLE IN STATION WAGONS!

Two new Brookwoods—4-door 6-passenger and 4-door 9-passenger models. Luxuriously appointed.

Meet the year's smartest station wagon set! Chevrolet brings you five new wagons for '58—all long, low and loaded with news.

They're more than nine inches longer, dramatically lower. They set a new style with boldly sculptured lines. And these new Chevrolets are the most practical wagons that ever took to the road. The liftgate is hinged into the roof and raises completely out of the way for easier loading. There's a new easy-opening tailgate, too, and room for longer loads.

No station wagon built ever carried loads with more ease or passengers with more comfort! Chevrolet's new standard Full Coil suspension cradles you on deep coil springs at every wheel. And you can have a real air ride as an extra-cost option.

Stop by your Chevrolet dealer's and look over the smartest, smoothest going station wagons of them all.

Water Supply Is

steadily since early in April are producing not more than 40 gallons of water per minute. A new well was drilled and completed about three weeks ago as an emergency well, and we may be thankful that this well was a good one and is now turned into our water system supplying approximately 200 gallons per minute. We are depending almost entirely on this new well for our daily consumption and based on experience of past years we cannot expect much if any improvement in the older wells before early next year.

As an addition to our own supply we have been helped through this emergency by pumping water into our system from the wells of the Sterling Processing Corporation and the Carnation Company. Contrary to some malicious reports that our water shortage was brought about by the town supplying water to the Processing Plant, let me state emphatically that this plant is not now and has not received any water from the town for many weeks, but has in turn allowed us to pump water from their well to augment our supply. The same unselfish help has come from the Carnation well, and I should like in this public statement to thank these two companies for their much needed and appreciated help.

"3. What is being done to insure an adequate supply of water for the future?

"After consulting with our State Department of Geology and hearing of the ever decreasing supply of water from wells, and the report of The Chester Engineers proving the short years of usefulness of wells, we are now studying a long range program of impounding water from Bradley and Miller Runs since reports from the above two sources are convincing evidence that we can no longer depend on wells for our present or future water supply.

"Water is our most vital service and I feel most of our citizens will agree to this statement after their experiences of the immediate past and the uncertain future ahead without an adequate water supply. We cannot experience a healthy growth in either population or industry until we have an abundant supply of water.

"Please accept my thanks for the patience most of you have shown during the past weeks with the assurance that everything was done to alleviate the situation and that all will be done to assure the future.

The only 1958 car that offers more of everything you want... yet is priced lower than in '57

Here's great news! While prices of 1958 cars of other manufacturers are up, the price of Ford's exciting new Custom 300 Series is down. A brand-new 58 Ford Custom 300 with all of its exciting new styling and engineering advances is priced lower than a '57 model, similarly equipped!

World approved styling. A Custom 300 brings you styling that is dramatically new. With its Honeycombed grille, Slipstream roof, Deep-Sculptured rear deck, and Safety-Twin headlights and taillights, Ford styling drew admiring glances from Paris to Saigon . . . yet it's yours now in any 58 Ford Custom 300 without extra cost!

New handling ease. Slide behind the wheel of a Custom 300 and you'll soon discover just how much fun driving can be. Notice how smoothly it handles. That's Ford's new feather-touch Magic-Circle steering, the next best thing to power steering.

New riding comfort. Notice, too, the solid comfort of your ride. That's Ford's easier acting front and rear suspensions. They soak up the bumps before they reach you.

Thrifty, new engines. You have a wonderful choice of new, more efficient power plants . . . designed for real gas-saving economy plus greater performance. Six or V-8, they give you more power, smoother power, from less gas!

Priced as much as $50 lower. A comparison of manufacturer's suggested retail delivered prices shows that a 58 Ford Custom 300 is priced as much as $50 less than the same model for '57! You'll wonder how Ford can offer so many of the things you want in a car priced so low. One big reason: Ford gives you more car for less money because Fords sells more!

See and drive a Custom 300 and we believe you'll agree that these Fords give you more real value for your car-buying dollars than any car on the American road today.

Hey, I Found A Fossil!

That's worth shouting about, young fella!

Those strange patterns in the rock are pages out of the past in Nature's notebook. They tell the story of life as it was, millions of years ago, when huge quantities of natural gas were formed and buried deep beneath the earth's surface.

Today, fossils serve as important signposts in man's quest for more reserves of natural gas throughout the entire Appalachian area, for they often provide the clue to new supplies.

The search for this "wonder fuel" continues at an intensive rate, to keep pace with your increasing demands for modern homes and industry. Millions of dollars yearly are spent to discover new reserves, drill new wells, deliver a steady flow of dependable, economical natural gas to you.

These efforts are well repaid because natural gas is the modern, efficient fuel. And it serves you best when you use it with modern, automatic gas appliances.

The World Is Small

C. M. Sincell, Fairmont, W. Va., spent the Thanksgiving holidays here with his mother. Attending the Thanksgiving service Wednesday evening he read an account of his commanding officer in World War I in France printed on the back of the church bulletin. It's a small world. The story was about Major Harry D. Parkin, of Los Angeles.

The story:

Thanks for Life

A story was told in NOW magazine some years ago that up to that time in November of each year Robert MacCormack of Brooklyn, N. Y., had received a message of thanks from Major Harry D. Parkin, of Los Angeles, for that priceless heritage—Life.

This was the reason.

One day in November 1918 Major Parkin, bleeding profusely from four deep shrapnel wounds, and his sergeant major, the diminutive MacCormack, were trapped in a living inferno.

Enemy shells exploded in front of them. A Yankee barrage rained death dealing steel on them to the rear.

Though ordered to save himself, MacCormack half dragged, half lifted the wounded major over the parapet and across no man's land to a German dressing station. Major Parkin was given first aid and both taken prisoner.

"Every minute I have lived since that day of horror I owe to Sergeant Major MacCormack. Each year, on the anniversary of the event, I reiterate my appreciation."

If physical life is a matter calling for thanksgiving—and it most certainly is—how much more is eternal life!

Sergeant Major MacCormack risked his life to save Major Parkin, but the Lord Jesus sacrificed His to save us!

Bonus payments to Korean war veterans in West Virginia totaled more than a million dollars in November.

Not by Accident . . .

For the fourth time in ten years a Garrett County farm family has won the regional award in the Farming for Better Living Program. This does not happen just by accident, or by good luck. There is a lot of initiative, spirit and hard work behind it.

Congratulations are due this week to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley H. Baker, of near Loch Lynn, in being picked as the winners among the representatives of five counties. They follow in the footsteps of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Crowe, Mr. and Mrs. Lenwood Bittinger and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Schlossnagle, who won in previous years. The Schlossnagles went even further and were named the sweepstakes winners in 1952, which meant top farm family in many counties throughout West Virginia in the Upper Monongahela Valley area.

It is quite remarkable that for four years out of the ten in which Garrett county has been enrolled in the FFBL program, a county farm family has topped the region. And yet, if we stop to think, we know that every bit of the honor is deserving. We have heard visitors remark that Garrett county farms have the cleanest fence rows in the five county area. We have heard others say they felt that we had some of the nicest farms in any of the counties. There are farms in the county, of course, that don't even have a fence row, or if they do, they are broken down and delapidated, but the fact remains that over seventy farm families are engaged in a program to make farming more profitable and enjoyable and they are doing just that.

The FFBL program itself spurs the farmer on to better living. His interest remains high because there are rewards that can't be counted in a monetary sense.

For the fifth year, too, Garrett county won a special award for having 100 percent completion of all who enrolled. Outsiders who attend the annual banquets have remarked that they are among the best, and that there is much good will exhibited between the farmer and business men. The latter make these banquets possible. We feel proud of the accomplishments of these people.

KEYS MOVE AROUND—The keys to the new elementary school on Dennett road were handed around rather profusely on Tuesday afternoon, but finally remained in the hands of Dr. Ralph Calandrella, president of the Board of Education, left. They were presented first by Edgar Hardesty, contractor, to H. D. Swartzentruber, president of the Board of County Commissioners, center, who then proceeded to give them to Dr. Calandrella. The circuitous manner was necessary officially because the county commissioners had charge of the funds that were spent by the Board of Education.

Robbers Shoot Tavern Owner

Elmer Grubb, 50, Patient In Hospital, Is In Critical Condition

Elmer Grubb 50-year-old tavern operator near Gormania, was shot through the neck and chin during an attempted holdup by two unidentifed men Monday evening. He was admitted to Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland where he underwent minor surgery to enable the man to continue to breath. His condition is listed as "critical."

Sheriff James E. Frantz and Trooper Robert Henline, of the Maryland State police are continuing their investigation of the shooting.

Frantz said he was called by Mrs. Grubb shortly after the attempted hold-up which occurred at 7:45 p. m.

During brief questioning before undergoing surgery Grubb told the sheriff that two men, one short and the other tall, entered his establishment, the Four Oaks Tavern, and asked for "Cokes". Grubb said he went to the rear of the building to get the soft drinks and returned to the front of the tavern, where the men waited.

As he came through the door he said he saw that the men had revolvers in their hands. He said he threw one of the "Coke" bottles at them and the shorter man shot him. Both turned and fled without obtaining any money.

Grubb was unable to furnish much of a description of the pair or the vehicle in which they escaped. Police later were furnished a partial description of the vehicle. It was described as a late model station wagon with a cream or tan color.

The wounded man apparently staggered from the tavern to his home nearby and his wife called the sheriff. Neither his wife nor pthe children heard any shooting or knew that anything was amiss until Grubb stumbled into the house. Police believe Grubb was shot with a .32 revolver. The bullet is still lodged in the man's neck and physicians plan to perform additional surgery when he regains some strength. Frantz said the man lost a large quantity of blood and hospital officials said if he had not been brought to the hospital so soon after the shooting he would have choked to death from his own blood.

Answer Two Alarms

Oakland firemen answered two alarms during the week, neither one of any consequence.

The first call came as the result of a flue fire at the home of John Matthews on the Underwood road last Thursday evening about 8 o'clock. There was no damage.

The second call came when a passer-by thought he saw flames in the B and O. railroad station at Mt. Lake Park. This was on Friday evening about 10 o'clock. Firemen listed the call as a false alarm.

698 Bucks Slain In Six-Day Season

New Record Established In County, Topping Previous Mark of 662

Another new record on the deer kill in Garrett county was made this year along with new records also established in Allegany and other counties of the state, making it one of the most successful seasons in history as far as numbers go.

A total of 1,608 bucks were slain in the three Western Maryland counties. Garrett county had 698 of these, highest of any county in the state. Allegany had 623 and Washington county had 287.

Garrett county's totals for the six-day season were 236 on Monday, 165 on Tuesday, 86 on Wednesday, 95 on Thursday, 81 on Friday, and 67 on Saturday. The county's total was 35 more than the record of 662 set last year. Had the weather been more favorable the kill would have gone even higher. Rain fell on the last two days after a ten-inch snowfall on Tuesday night had scared a number of the city deer hunters into returning to their homes.

Allegany county's first day total was higher than that of Garrett county but after the second day it began to fade until the final day. The bulk of Garrett county's kills came the first two days. Records were set in Frederick, Talbot and Worcester counties.

The deer with the largest set of antlers was checked Friday at Oakland, when Jackson Thomas, of Oakland, showed up with a 22-point. This was the largest rack obtained during the past several years, but his buck weighed only 116 pounds. Largest kill was reported at Grantsville when G. W. Phillips of Frostburg brought in one weighing 185 lbs. with fourteen points.

More and more women were entering the field with slain bucks.

Youth Arrested For Embezzling

William E. Gochringer, 18-year old boy, of Accident, was arrested Tuesday by the FBI and arraigned before U. S. Commissioner James Alfred Avirett in Cumberland on charges of embezzling $2,000 from a Pittsburgh bank.

He was taken into custody at the home of his parents.

He waived a preliminary hearing before Avirett and was released under $1,000 bond for his appearance before the Federal District Court of the Western District at Pittsburgh.

James E. Kelly, agent in charge of the FBI at Baltimore, said young Gochringer, a June graduate of Northern High school, had taken a job as a teller in the Dollar Savings Bank in Pittsburgh last summer.

A shortage in a customer's account was discovered in October. Gochringer was picked up on a federal warrant charging him with embezzlement by an unauthorized withdrawal from the customer's account. The embezzlement reportedly took place on September 13.

Commissioner Avirett said Gochringer has given a full statement to the FBI of the theft and has agreed to return to Pittsburgh to stand trial, probably in January.

His bond stipulates he is to appear at the Pittsburgh federal court and no extradition waiver was required, the commissioner stated.

Accidental Shooting Wounds Bill Stemple

William Stemple, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stemple, of Oakland is hospitalized as the result of an accidental gun shot wound, but is improving rapidly.

The accident occurred when four boys, Donald Stemple, Jerry Wine, Terry Colaw and Billy were shooting at a target over at Crellin Saturday evening. One of the .22 calibre rifles the boys had went off accidentally and struck Billy in the abdomen.

He was rushed to Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland where x-rays showed the bullet to be lodged between the kindneys and spine. Apparently the bullet missed the kidneys and bladder and touched no viral organs. Local physicians and surgeons from the hospital at Philippi decided it would be unnecessary to operate.

Billy was up yesterday and assured that he could return to his home in a few days.

Plans for Change In Registration System Are Made

Permanent Set-Up Expected To Be Started By Wednesday, January 1

A permanent registration system instead of the previous two or three registration days prior to an election, will be a reality in the county after January 1, it was announced by the Board of Election supervisors yesterday.

Authorization to change to the permanent registration method has been given by the Board of County Commissioners, upon motion of Ervin Roth, seconded by H. D. Swartzentruber, board president.

Ward Hinebaugh, president of the Election Board, said the board had to call a special meeting to discuss a clause in the election laws that required, in the absence of a permanent system, two sets of books to be sent to each polling place.

Hinebaugh said he explained there are only two judges, one from each party, at each polling place. The board then voted for a permanent system where one set of books with two judges, would be sufficient. This action was subject to the approval of the County Commissioners and approval was given.

Hinebaugh said the clerk to the election board, Russell L. Smith, had been named chief clerk and Republican registrar for the new system.

The Democratic registrar has not yet been selected.

To Be Open Five Days Weekly

After the first of January county residents will be able to register on the voting books five days a week at the election board office in the Court House in Oakland.

The present board includes Ward Hinebaugh, alternate member, who is serving in the place of William L. Gibson, who is ill; Rodger Bond, McHenry; and Harvey Gortner, Grantsville. The latter is the Democratic member. Attorney to the board is Charles C. Nathan, Grantsville.

Ski Excursion Rates In Effect First Time

Excursion rates will go into effect this week-end on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, in preparation for the first ski week-end of the season.

Train accommodations are being offered from Baltimore, Washington and Silver Spring. Under the plan the skier is trasported to Oakland by train, then by bus to accommodations near the ski area. The package plan offers all transportation, two days skiing and two nights accommodations for a total cost of $21.

Daily ski rate for adults is $2 including tax, and for children under 18, 50 cents, tax free. For those wishing to ski often during the winter, seasonal and family rates are available upon request.

The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion council is distributing 20,000 ski folders giving pertinent information about the Marsh Mountain slope. This year they are featuring artificial snow when necessary and night skiing. Through the use of artificial snow the slope can be kept open when the supply of natural snow would make skiing impossible.

Town Will Hire Engineers For A Survey On Water

An agreement to retain engineering services for guidance in obtaining an adequate water supply for the town of Oakland was reached at the December meeting of the Mayor and Town Council on Monday evening.

The first step was to agree on a price of $1,500 for a detailed report which is to be submitted after a study of various conditions around the Oakland area.

After the report is delivered and reviewed the engineers would be prepared to go further, preparing detail plans, specifications for work to be performed, and to do other work on a percentage basis of remuneration, depending upon cost of construction.

The engineers also would be prepared to go still further, once a plan was mapped out, to take care of the general supervision and the construction, also on a percentage basis, depending upon cost.

This agreement will be made with the Chester Engineers, of Pittsburgh, Pa., a company which has done numerous other jobs for the town.

The report will embrace a study of the town's population growth and a projection into the future, a study of the growth of water consumers; a study of an impounding dam and reservoir in Upper Bradley Run Valley; a study of remote controlled automatic pumping station on Miller's Run with pipe line to proposed reservoir; study of a water treatment and filtration plant, near the spring house, along with pumping units which might be needed, would make an investigation of existing pumping means to existing reservoirs, and make recommendations for additional mains if needed; would study the existing reservoir capacity and recommend additional storage if

Storm Strikes Area; Mercury Hits Zero

The mercury took a sharp drop throughout the night, to register the coldest weather of the year at zero or possibly one below.

The freezing weather came into the tri-state area along with a snow fall of some four or five inches, which fell Tuesday night and Wednesday.

There were winds up to some 20 miles per hours with some drifting which made highway traveling hazardous. Snow plows of the county and state, however, were keeping the roads clear.

It was the second cold snap within a week, the thermometer having dipped to five above last Thursday night.

School busses were delayed somewhat this morning but all were operating. Snow continued to fall today.

There were three days of rain this week, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with the area blanketed by a heavy fog on Monday, followed by snow later in the day. Tuesday was clear and cold until late evening when snow again began to fall continuing into Wednesday.

Examinations For Teacher Education Scholarships Set

The second annual examination for the Maryland Teachers Education scholarships will be held Saturday, February 8, at test centers designated by the Board of Education.

The test in this county will be held at Southern High school at 10:30 a. m.

The 508 four-year scholarships were established by an act of the General Assembly at its 1956 session. One hundred fifty-two, each with a maximum annual value of $500.00, are awarded during each year. The number of scholarships available in Garrett county is equal to the number of members in the General Assembly from this county which would be four.

This year a number of additional scholarship awards of less than four years will be available. Scholarships are awarded by the State Department of Education on the basis of the results of scholastic competitive examination. High school seniors who expect to be graduated in 1958 and all high school graduates of former years are eligible to take the examination.

Scholarship winners must enroll in one of the 13 non-public institutions whose teacher education curriculums have been approved by the state departments of education, and follow a course of study leading to a teacher certificate. Each scholarship recipient must also give bond that he will teach in the Maryland public schools for at least two years. In addition, he must meet the conditions set up the college regarding this scholarship program in order to benefit from this award and be eligible to accept a renewal award.

Applicants interested in taking this examination must file an application by January 7, 1958. Application forms may be obtained from any high school principal or from the State Department of Education.

Successful candidates can choose from a number of colleges: College of Notre Dame of Maryland, Goucher college, Hood college, Johns Hopkins university, Loyola college, Maryland Institute, Mt. St. Agnes college, Mt. St. Mary's college, Peabody Conservatory of Music St. Joseph's college, Washington college, Washington Missionary college or Western Maryland college.

Christ's Warning Cited

Christ's warning of nearly 2,000 years ago—"Beware of false prophets which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves"—is cited by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover in an article appearing in the American Legion magazine for November. He applies it to communism. For communism, he writes, despite the efforts of leaders to put on smiling new faces, has not weakened and its philosophy has not changed, nor has the danger from it lessened. In his words: ". . . the same old communist crowd is doing business at the same old communist stand in the same old subversive way."

Actually, according to qualified spokesmen the Communist Party U.S.A. "is exulting that it has received a renewed lease on life." And it is intensifying its work in certain extremely significant directions. For one thing, it seeks to place members in heavy industry, steel mills and shipyards. For another it is seeking to appeal to young people and to influence them through concealed members in church and civic organizations. Minority groups are also a prime target, and communists are experts at exploiting and warping legitimate and honest grievances. Then, the purposeful hand of communism is turned to protesting against the continued testing of nuclear weapons and other such strategic matters.

As Mr. Hoover, out of his long and intimate experience with this danger, puts it: "Division and disunity are communist weapons . . . It pits race against race, worker against manager and group against group. It muddies the waters of peace while shouting, 'Coexistence!'"

The personalities of communism change. We now see, for instance, Khrushchev in place of Stalin. But as we have also seen, those who oppose Khrushchev are purged just as surely as were those who opposed Stalin. It is Mr. Hoover's point that "The tactics of communism do not change. Hypocrisy, guile, deceit, and subversion are the hallmarks of communism today as they were yesterday. Here in America every walk of life has been infiltrated by the fanged salesman of subversion cloaked in the lamb's wool of glowing promise."

Then he propounds a question: "What . . . shall we do to insure that Americans will never eat the bitter fruit which is the dreadful lot of more than one-third of the peoples of the world?" His answer is this "Learn what communism is and make ourselves aware of the tactics used by those who promote communism." Communism is purely materialistic in its explanation of the relationship of man to the universe and in its interpretation of history. It wishes to abolish all religions and the economic system we know as free enterprise. Its code of action is based not on morals but on utility. It reasons that the end always justifies the means. Its goal is worldwide revolution culminating in a world-wide communist society. And its end result, to quote Mr. Hoover once again: ". . . is the reduction of man from a spiritual creature to the level of high-grade animal whose sole reason for being is to copulate and die."

High Egg Prices Seen Continuing For All Of 1958

Egg prices this fall are higher than a year ago, and the higher price level in comparison with last year is expected to continue throughout the present laying period.

Economists in the University of Maryland department of agricultural economics base this outlook on numbers of layers. They say the number of potential layers on farms on January 1, 1958, will be 5 percent less than a year earlier. The average number of layers during 1958 probably will be 3 or 4 percent below 1957 for the United States.

With fewer layers in flocks, they point out, there will be fewer eggs and they are going to bring higher prices.

They say there is no possibility of the number of layers in 1958 catching up with 1957 until after the middle of the year, when pullet replacements will increase the size of the laying flock. Even then, it is expected that the increase in layers will be smaller than usual, because the large number of old hens now in production will be only partially replaced during the fall of 1958.

Early in 1957 egg production was at a record high, with prices the lowest in 11 years. Prices picked up after mid-year, reflecting the 18 percent cut from 1956 in the number of chicks raised for laying flock replacement.

Another point in the outlook for eggs is lower consumption. Per capita consumption of eggs in 1958 may be reduced about 5 percent below the 360 eggs now anticipated for 1957. This would be the lowest level in 15 years. U. S. egg production has remained relatively stable since 1950, despite an increase in population.

AUDITED PAID CIRCULATION ABC

The Hallmark of Circulation Value

In the same way that STERLING on silver signifies a standard of known value, so is the A.B.C. emblem a symbol of integrity for the circulation of newspapers and periodicals. It means that circulation so identified is measured according to the rules and standards of the AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS.

The A.B.C. is a cooperative and non-profit association of 3,450 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. Organized in 1914, these buyers and sellers of advertising brought order out of advertising chaos by setting up standards for paid circulation and establishing rules and methods for measuring, auditing and reporting circulations.

Therefore, the work of the A.B.C., of which this newspaper is proud to be a member, provides you with a direct and valuable service. You can buy advertising as you would make any other sound business investment—on the basis of well known standards, known values.

At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. The results of this exacting audit show: How much circulation we have; where our circulation goes; how it was obtained; and many other FACTS that you need in order to know just what you get for your advertising dollars. This audited information is published by the Bureau in easy-to-read A.B.C. reports which are available to our advertisers on request. Ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

Ask Commissioners To Back Legislation On Inventory Tax

County Commissioners of the state were asked yesterday to back legislation which would put the tax situation back where it was before the appellate court's decision.

The annual meeting of the State Association of County Commissioners was held yesterday at Annapolis. All three of Garrett county's three commissioners, H. D. Swartzentruber, Aubrey Brenneman an Ervin Roth were present.

The high court upheld a claim by Sears Roebuck company that the State Tax Commission's assessment of its business inventories was discriminatory. The ruling said the commission would use the same yardstick for assessing business stock as it does for real estate, that is, making allowance for inflationary influences.

Inventories had been assessed at cost or market value with no allowance for inflation.

The commissioners referred the matter to their executive and legislative committees who are to meet at Annapolis, January 6.

The tax commission secretary said reduction of inventory taxes to the real estate tax level would cost Maryland's 23 counties a maximum of two tenths of a million dollars. Baltimore city 8.8, and the state 8.

It was predicted that the General Assembly would enact legislation allowing tax assessors to treat business inventories differently than real estate.

Albert Ward, executive secretary, state tax commission, advised county assessors to mark time until the Legislature acts.

The county commissioners endorsed a recommendation that the state's distribution of income tax funds to towns and counties go through the counties so that counties may check the list of persons claiming city residence. Towns get the refund on taxpayers living within their limits.

The Commissioners opposed a proposal that tax assessors be made state employes.

Steel production in U. S. in eight months set a record high of over 78 million net tons.

There were 77,869,284 licensed motor vehicle operators in U. S. in 1956.

Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

As we enter another Christmas season and mark another milestone in the history of mankind, we Americans should take time to count our blessings. In fact, we should make a New Year's resolution to count our blessings every single day in 1958. As individuals we would be more humble, and as a national community our strength would be greater if each of us would make each day in 1958 a day of thanksgiving.

Every man, woman and child in this wonderful land of ours has been blessed in many personal ways. But our richest blessings are the ones we all have in common. Freedom is our greatest blessing. How many Americans realize this fact? How many prize freedom so highly that each day they thank God for their birth in America and for the governmental and economic structure that has made individual freedom secure for 177 years? Thomas Jefferson, 187 years ago, observed: "The God who gave us life, gave us liberty at the same time."

Jefferson spoke those words at a time when the Colonies were under the domination of a monarchy and no individual citizen could fully exercise his God given liberty. Independence for American citizens had to be won in a war imposing great sacrifices. It was then that our founding fathers set about building a governmental structure protecting our individual liberty. Its keystone was the United States Constitution.

The Constitution was the "keystone" because (1) it provided for the basic structure of our Republic and our economic system; (2) no President, no Congress, no judge or court was given the authority to alter a single word, phrase or sentence: only the sovereign people of the United States, acting together through their legislatures, had permission to change it. In this, and in much of its fundamental philosophy, it was unlike any other governmental instrument in the world.

The Constitution became the pattern for a way of life. Faith in God was the bedrock. Constitutional government, in a Republic with carefully guarded divisions of power, was its superstructure. An economic system motivated by private ownership, self-reliance, freedom of enterprise and competition supplied the dynamic substance for progress.

With this way of life America has provided the greatest amount of human freedom along with the greatest degree of human welfare for a people in the history of the world.

And yet, in spite of the rightness of our fundamental principles, in spite of the great benefits they have brought to generations, they can be destroyed. History shows that great principles and standards do not survive just because they are right, unless they are understood, unless they are appreciated, unless each generation dedicates itself to their preservation, they will sooner or later disappear. That is why at this Christmas season, 1957, each of us needs to understand and to care enough about our heritage to daily give thanks for its great privileges and advantages.

Give Unusual Demonstration

The Cove Chapter, Future Farmers of America Northern High School, recently gave an unusual demonstration in the butchering and cutting of meat.

When a beef heifer went "wild" on pasture, and experienced stock handlers were unable to load her with her pasture companions to go to local auction, it was decided to butcher the animal in the field.

Robert Frazee, an eleventh grade agriculture pupil, felled the animal with a single shot at a distance of 250 feet, using a high powered rifle equipped with a scope.

The beef was scaffolded and butchered on the spot. The occasion became a demonstration project in butchering and meat cutting for the Home Economics girls and the Vocational Agriculture boys.

The butchering and meat cutting demonstrations were done by Lawrence Faith and Edward Grose, vocational agriculture instructors. They were assisted by advanced agriculture pupils. The Home Economics girls were directed by their instructors, Mrs. Polly Hanst and Mrs. Martha Lawton.

The Cove Chapter believes it is the only F. F. A. Chapter in the State of Maryland owning beef animals. This is a school farm project. Six or eight cattle are purchased in the Spring, pastured on the school farm and sold upon the approach of winter weather.

Animals of a nervous temperament occasionally go "wild" on pasture. When this happens they always present problems to the farmer.

The Cove F. F. A. at Northern recently won the highest national award, the Gold Emblem, for outstanding agricultural activities.

Joint Boards

now owned by Simon Swartzentruber, which will be the site of the new building.

Both boards also had discussion on the school board budget for the coming year.

Other Action Taken

During the regular meeting of the board of education it approved appointment of Melvin Garland as art teacher at Southern High and transfer of Mrs. Mary K. Eliason as a music teacher in the elementary schools to fill vacancy which has existed since October. Mr. Garland will begin his duties the latter part of January. Mrs. Eliason will teach music at Center street, Dennett road, Red House, Kitzmiller and Loch Lynn.

Mr. Hawkin announced he had secured Dr. Ethel Alpenfels, anthropologist from New York University, for a county-wide teacher meeting on January 16. State Department officials also will be on hand to conduct group meetings with teachers in various subject areas on the same date, he said.

Bids were opened for purchase of materials to be used for renovation of the front portion of the Annex for school board offices. Board members will study the bids before awarding contracts.

Increases for each school bus contract were discussed. Mr. Hawkins pointed out that the average increase for the year was $355 and that last year each contractor had received a dollar a day driver pay increase amounting to an average of $183.

The possibility of purchasing a bus to be used to help solve the bus schedule problem in the Crellin area was discussed but action tabled until additional information was received from the State Department of Education.

Foresters Increase Tree Planting Price

At a meeting of top officials of the State Department of Forests and Parks last week at Baltsville, it was decided to increase the price of planting trees by machine on private land from $10 to $15 per acre in Western Maryland. The cost of the Eastern shore was raised from $12.50 to $16 per acre. Increased material, labor and machinery costs make the higher prices mandatory, according to William H. Johnson, district forester.

American Chestnut Plans

Dr. Jesse Dillar, plant pathologist, U. S. Department of Agriculture, spoke to the group on attempts to revive the chestnut tree in America since the blight years ago decimated these nut-bearing trees.

He said prospects of the native American chestnut overcoming the effects of the blight are very poor. He told of grafting Chinese and other Asiatic strains of chestnuts on native trees which has produced some good results but only as far as the trees will bear chestnuts. These hybrids are not so good as sources of timber.

The chestnut blight which started about 1920 in New York State and soon covered the entire eastern United States, killed off millions of stately chestnuts trees. Their loss also hurt the propogation of squirrel's and other wildlife.

An appeal for chestnuts from some of the few American trees still standing has resulted in stands of these survivors being plotted and their locations posted on a map. Some of these locations are in Western Maryland.

needed; would make a study of water pressures throughout the town and give a preliminary estimate of the cost of improvements needed. The engineers also agreed to submit a copy of the report to the State Department of Health.

Following the completion of the report the engineers would hold a conference with the city council to discuss the report.

The basis for additional work, which would include the plans and specifications for work to be performed, preparation of detailed estimates of construction cost of the various portions of the project, the furnishing of complete general supervision of construction, the furnishing of a resident engineer and any necessary inspectors to supervise the construction, would be on percentage. If cost of construction was $10,000 the cost would be 9 percent. The percentage would decrease in proportion to the greater amounts with the percentage being 4.5 percent if the cost of the project went between $500,000 and a million dollars.

The town meanwhile agreed to make information available, to furnish surveys of property, easements and rights of way, legal services and other general items.

If the work went forward according to plan the Engineers would credit the town with the $1,500 cost of the original study.

Should the town agree to have the Chester Engineers do the actual construction and supervision the cost would be 3 percent for a $10,000 program, or 1.5 percent if the program cost $500,000 to a million dollars.

The entire agreement is on record at the council office on Third street.

Routine Business

Other rountine business was transacted at Monday's meeting with Harry L. Stemple president of the council for the time being. Dr. E. I. Baumgartner was absent still suffering from three broken vertebrae as a result of an automobile accident recently.

Receipts totaled $6,431.53, including $695.68 for water, $1,857.98 for taxes, and $3,877.87 for miscellaneous. Included in the latter were $671.39 for parking meters and $2,516.88 for gasoline tax.

Expenditures totaled $9,023.97, including $988.49 for street labor, $750.64 for street supplies, $708.13 for water labor, $842.48 for water supplies. Capital outlay in the water department amounted to $2,196, leaving a balance in the treasury of $15,261.77.

Several permits were granted, one to Thomas K. Vance to erect a neon sign; one to Kitzmiller and Edgar for Dr. R. J. Flaherty, to erect an office building 18 by 38 next to his residence on Liberty street, at a cost of $4,000; to Elroy Bolden, to erect a dwelling 26 by 42, one story, on old Deer Park road, at a cost of $10,000, and to Eastern States, to erect a directional sign on North side of Oak street, at 8th.

Carlton Hinebaugh appeared before the council to find out if he was expected to pick up waste material at stores when it amounted to as much as a truck load at a time. The council informed him he was under no obligation to cart away such waste paper and boxes of wrappings, etc., and advised him to tell business men that such trash must be hauled away at their own expense of through individual arrangement with the garbage collector.

The council reaffirmed a decision they had made in 1954 when the same question arose.

H. W. McComas, hospital superintendent, appeared in regard to the well on the city grounds near the hospital. The town agreed to give permission to the hospital to take water from the well and use it exclusively for hospital purposes at any time in the future.

Porter DeWitt was granted a raise in salary as night police from $250 to $275. All police now get the same amount.

The council decided to place a no parking sign on the alley north of Alder, between Brownings and Fazzalari building. It also decided to turn over $105.56, surplus from a recreation planning committee fund to W. Kenneth Johns, high school principal, for the junior basketball league program. Sunday movie tax amounted to $59.05 for November.

five years. These awards were presented for the sponsors by Miss Mildred Fizer, State Girls club agent, of the West Virginia Agricultural Extension Service. Berlin Galford, manager of the West Virginia Artificial Breeders Cooperative, Clarksburg, presented breeding certificates to five past year winning families in the five counties.

Approximately 130 persons representing the Farming for Better Living winners of former years and the Farming for Better Living Council members in the five counties, University faculty members, and Morgantown Chamber of Commerce members attended the dinner, an annual affair, which was held in the Hotel Morgan.

About the Baker Family

The Baker family won the county award in 1954, and it the fourth Garrett county family to receive the regional award.

Other regional winners have been Mr. and Mrs. Clark Schlossnagle, Mr. and Mrs. Lenwood Bittinger, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Crowe. The Schlossnagles were the sweepstakes winner in 1952, covering all counties in the program.

The story of the Baker family is told in the project booklet. "We feel farming has brought us a better living. Stanley now works shorter hours than a few years ago and spends more time with the family," said the family in the booklet.

A visit to the farm by FFBL members showed a neat farmstead and a modern, comfortable brick home with many conveniences.

The 258-acre farm of the Bakers is primarily a dairy operation. They have Guernsey, Holstein and Jersey cows producing an average of 9,235 pounds of milk per year per cow. The herd is bred artificially, unproductive cows are culled regularly and there are drinking cups in the barn. Plans for the future call for increasing production without adding to the herd, by better stock, by culling, by careful feeding and good breeding.

The farm has been in the Baker family for about 68 years. Stanley took an active part in Future Farmers of America activities in high school and after graduation worked for his father until 1948. Since that time he has married, has built himself the brick home and has been working in partnership with his father. Mr. and Mrs. Baker have two children, Constance Sue, 7½ years old, and Nancy Jean, 5. They are active in Farm Bureau, P.-T. A., church and Homemakers club and other groups.

In answer to how they achieved their position, a quotation from the project booklet tells: "We plan to make farming as near a one-man operation as possible. We plan to use more efficient methods and strive for higher production. We plan to keep buildings in a better state of repair and remodel to use and accommodate modern methods. Keep more cows, use less labor, spread lime and fertilizer on the fields, clip pastures and remodel. Production has increased about 3,000 pounds per cow in ten years. We now sell hay and feed less grain."

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde • 6th District, Maryland

The announcement that the Eisenhower Administration will press for congressional action on the problem of what is to be done when a president is unable to perform his duties make certain that the question will be before House Judiciary Committee early next year. You will recall that the Committee held hearings on "Presidential Inability" last Spring. As a member of the Committee I have devoted considerable study to the question.

It seems to me that the authors of the Constitution felt that the intent and the language of the section providing for the assumption of the powers and duties of the office of President needed no additional clarification. There is no question that the Constitution provides for the Vice President to "take over" in times of "inability". It also seems to me clear that the section intends the President to resume his duties whenever he feels he is able.

Many, however, feel that Congress should by law or Constitutional amendment spell out (1) who is to determine presidential inability and (2) the procedure for a President to resume the powers and duties of his office. My own opinion is that the President can without resigning, authorize the Vice President to act for him. I further believe that the Constitution "directs" the Vice President to make the decision if the President is unable to act. However, history demonstrates that Vice Presidents have been reluctant to use the authority granted to them by the Constitution. But the fact that they have not exercised the power does not mean they could not.

There are two principal proposals before the Judiciary Committee now. One would set up a mixed commission composed of representatives of the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial branches of the Government. This commission would decide when a President is disabled if the President were unable or unwilling to certify his own inability. The other would authorize the Vice President to declare himself acting President upon the convening of Congress in emergency session.

I am of the opinion that Congress cannot by law clarify the issue and that it must be done by constitutional amendment. I am hopeful of early action by the Judiciary Committee on this important problem and a speedy acceptance by Congress of the Committee's recommendations.

Welfare for October Totals $23,470.89

Relief expenditures for October showed another slight increase over the previous month with 629 persons receiving $23,470.89 through the Garrett County Welfare board. Figures were released by Dr. Alvin Thalheimer, chairman of the State Department of Public Welfare. The total did not include cost of local administration.

The report showed the total number receiving assistance was thirteen more than the number receiving assistance during September. The total amount was $278.16 more than for the previous month.

Largest percentage of the total expenditures for October went to Old Age Assistance category where 214 individuals received $9,196.26, an average of $42.97 per person. There were four new applications with nine cases added and four cancelled.

Two hundred eighty-four children in 100 families received $8,135.86 under the aid to dependent children category, an average of $81.36 per family. There were twelve new applications with eight cases being added and three cases cancelled.

Five blind persons received $324. Eighty-six persons listed as permanently and totally disabled received $3,823.74, an average of $44.46. One case was added and one cancelled in this group.

Twenty-eight children were listed under foster home care and they received $1,433.70, an average of $51.20. One case was placed under care during the month.

Twenty persons were listed as eligible for hospital care at state expense following an investigation. Throughout the state the expenditures for October amounted to $1,866,014, compared to $1,854,583 for the previous month and $1,741,723 for October a year ago.

Is Your Name THOMAS?

Thomas is one of the most popular of personal names and over the past few centuries has been used increasingly as a surname. It is obtained from the Aramaic word meaning "twin". Thomas was one of the Twelve Apostles and was often referred to as Doubting Thomas. The martyrdom of St. Thomas a'Becket of Canterbury in 1170 established Thomas as one of the most popular of English names.

William Thomas (1711-1795) served as major of Maryland troops at the time of the Revolutionary War. He was a member of the St. Mary's County Committee of Safety and served several terms in the House of Delegates. He was born in Charles County and died in St. Mary's County, Maryland.

As indicative of the fact that members of the Thomas family were among the early settlers of Maryland, it should be noted that the first census of the United States, taken in 1790, has 151 listing of individuals by that name who were residents of the state and heads of families at that time.

Numerous genealogies of the Thomas family have been published. One is entitled "The Thomas Book" and includes separate chapters about the Thomases of West River, Carroll's Manor, Charles County, Frederick County, Montevue Queen Anne's County, St. Mary's County and Talbot County, all of Maryland.

Francis Thomas (1799-1876), a native of Frederick County, Maryland, was admitted to the Maryland Bar in 1820 and soon became one of the leading lawyers in the western part of the state. He was a member of the U. S. House of Representatives for ten years and was elected governor of Maryland in 1841.

Charles Mitchell Thomas (1816-1908) was rear admiral, U. S. Navy.

T. Rowland Thomas (1884-1923) was president, National Bank of Baltimore.

Edwin Joel Thomas is president, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Akron Ohio.

Charles Edwin Thomas Jr., is major general, U. S. Air Force.

George F. Thomas is professor of Religious Thought at Princeton University.

MARRIED

McKenzie-Resh--Miss June Resh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jervis Resh, Grantsville, became the bride of Robert McKenzie, on October 27, in a double ring ceremony in St. Stephen's Catholic church with Rev. DePaul Ripko officiating.

The altar was decorated with arrangements of palms, candles and baskets of white gladioli and mums. Mrs. Joseph Fahey, organist, played a program of nuptial music.

Mrs. Wayne Miller, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Mrs. Lorraine Bittinger, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Terry J. McKenzie was flower girl.

Lorraine Bittinger was best man, and Jonas McKenzie was groomsman. Wayne Miller and Joseph Bender served as ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz-length grown of white lace and net over bridal satin, fashioned with a Peter Pan collar of lace, fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves. Her fingertip-length veil fell from a matching crown trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a prayer book topped with an orchid and white satin streamers.

A reception was held at Turner's Restaurant following the ceremony. The bride and groom are both graduates of Northern High school. The bride is employed at the Flushing Shirt company in Grantsville. The groom is employed by the State Roads commission.

NATIONAL WARNING System, or NAWAS, of the Federal Civil Defense Administration is activated at the control center in the Continental Air Defense Command headquarters at Colorado Springs as Gen. Earle E. Partridge (above), CONAD commander, uses the new 28,000-mile net for the first time on May 1. From this control center, or one of two similar centers on the East and West Coasts, information on an impending attack can be voiced directly to 200 warning points throughout the nation. From these points, local warning nets would take over. By a simple switching process, State civil defense directors can also use the net locally to transmit detailed warning and survival data to CD forces in the field. (U. S. Air Force Photo)

THE AMERICAN WAY

Job For American Industry
By GEORGE PECK)

(Editor's Note: George Peck is President of the Layman's National Committee, sponsor of National Sunday School and Bible Weeks.)

During World War II, a distinguished internationally-minded economist of German birth said:

"History will record America's industrial achievement as the outstanding miracle of the war."

No truer prophecy ever has been made. American factories were the one bright spot in the rather dismal picture that existed in the months following Pearl Harbor. Asked to do the almost impossible, America's industries not only met the challenge, but exceeded it. Commenting on this miracle of production, the top executive of one of the nation's leading industries gave forth as follows: "But you ain't seen nothin' yet."

Here was another prophecy, couched in American slanguage, that came to pass. American industry went on to even greater miracles of performance.

And what made this possible? Why were our factories able to turn from peacetime production to war production almost more quickly than you could say, "Adolph Hitler?"

There is only one answer to those questions. It was possible because of our American Capitalistic System of Competitive, Free Enterprise, under which a resourceful management force had been trained to think and plan so as to be able to cope with an emergency that might present itself. These men operating under an economic system that allowed them to galvanize that training, thinking and planning into quick action, were ready to jump into the breach when the Japs made their unexpected, unprovoked and sneaky assault upon Pearl Harbor.

Previously, many of these industrial executives had been held up to ridicule and subjected to unwarranted persecution by the "planning boys" who infested our nation's capital. But now, they were summoned to Washington to take over the nation's war production. In America's hour of need, these "Economic Royalists," these "Princes of Privilege" were drafted by an administration which knew just where to turn and wisely did so.

We owe a debt of gratitude to Donald Nelson and other patriotic businessmen, who for the duration of World War II relinquished all thought of personal gain; disrupted their family lives; worked not only 40 hours a week, but often 70 to 80 hours, without adequate financial compensation. They undertook a thankless task to direct our all-out war production, in a messy environment that was distasteful to them.

Despite the fact that the bureaucrats did not give them an entirely free hand, but hampered them with unreasonable restrictions and red tape, Donald Nelson and Company did a magnificent job. They were faced with shortages of material, but as rapidly as those shortages reared their ugly heads, they met the issues with the aid of the men who were directing production in the factories, who also gave of their best on the production lines.

It is our American privilege to grumble. Mistakes were made, surely—but they were quickly corrected. Because of the urgency, the dispatch with which certain things had to be initiated, some mistakes were inevitable. But the over-all performance rode under almost every conceivable handicap, was magnificent. The few grumbles soon turned to cheers.

Hitler, who certainly had given ample proof that he knew a thing or two about producing weapons and materials of war, was confident that American industry could not convert from peace to war in time to avoid defeat, and so stated. There were plenty of people in this country who held this same pessimistic but understandable opinion. But American industry did its—it made a "bum" of Hitler as a prognosticator, just as the armed forces of the U. S. A. and her Allies finally knocked "into a cocked hat," the illusion that Der Fuehrer was a military genius.

Free Enterprise was "weighed in the balance and not found wanting" during World War II. It stands ready again to serve us, if given a free hand. The Russian satellite, which at this writing is circling the Globe, is cause for alarm, but not panic. Will our present administration act with the same wisdom as did the administration in office at Pearl Harbor time? Will it call upon American industry to take over the job of catching up on "Sputnik," and outdoing it; and of keeping America well ahead of Russia in atomic and hydrogen bombs and guided missiles? We hope so, because it has given ample proof that it can do the job.

Southern Is Rated Class "B"

Season 1957-1958 is Southern's last year as a Class B school.

The class of a school is determined by the number of male enrollment. Class A is 250 and over. Class B is 100-249 and Class C is under 100. There are thirty Class A, thirty-six Class B, and forty-three Class C schools in Maryland.

The enrollment is taken from the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades.

Southern has an enrollment of 249 boys this year. This is the highest enrollment of Class B schools in Maryland. Sparrows Point has 248 and Boomsboro 229.

Present enrollment of boys in Southern's ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades are 111, 113 and 92, respectively

Next year Southern's male enrollment should jump from 249 to 316.

The only effect Class A rating will have on Southern is in athletics.

For instance, in the Class A basketball tournament Southern automatically wins the county championship because there is no other Class A teams in Garrett County and that also means playing teams like Allegany, Fort Hill and Frederick.

Poultry Meat Prices To Stay Low In 1958

Consumers will continue to find bargains at poultry meat counters next year, according to an outlook report issued by the University of Maryland department of agricultural economics.

Broiler prices may average even slightly lower than in 1957, the economists say. Turkey prices in 1958 will remain lower than the 1957 level until mid-year, then prices may go ahead of late-1957 prices if demand continues strong.

Although the ratio between prices received for broilers and prices paid for broiler feed in 1957 have been more unfavorable for producers than a year ago, the number of broilers started thus far in 1957 is about 6½ percent above last year for the U. S. and 7 percent above the Delmarva area.

Willingness of the broiler industry to expand output in the face of unfavorable ratios between broiler and feed prices may result in a production increase of about 6 percent in 1958. The economists' outlook for lower prices is based on this expected production increase.

The economists of the broiler industry help to explain the sustained high level of production at seemingly unfavorable prices. The majority of broilers are grown on a contract basis. The usual contract specifies a guaranteed return per bird or per pound. Additional payments for efficiency in feed conversion are often paid. The growers risk little out-of-pocket each under such agreements, even when broiler prices are quite low.

Present low turkey prices are accounted for by a 5 percent production increase in the U. S. over last year. Maryland production is 1 percent. U. S. production is now only 4 percent above 1956 and will run about six percent less than this year, and a similar cut is expected in Maryland production. Turkey prices, however, will not reflect lower production until the middle of the year because large stocks of turkey in storage will hold prices down until the surplus is moved into consumption.

698 Bucks Slain

In addition to the six last week are Mrs. Glenn Sisler, Friendsville; Mrs. Mildred Ryland, Accident; Rosalie Butler, Swanton, Anna C. Wengerd, Grantsville; and Iris Snyder, Jennings. Youngest hunter reporting apparently was Gerald Mazer, 13, of Lonaconing who got an 8-pointer. First one reporting apparently was Ronald Beiler, Grantsville, who came in at 7:15, according to the checking station at Grantsville.

In addition to the many places listed last week where the kills occurred, those in the Grantsville area got theirs at Meadow Mountain, Negro Mountain, Bear Creek, Bittinger, Big Run, Piney, Keyser Ridge, Casselman, Little Savage, Red Ridge, Glades, Winding Ridge, Savage, Wolf Swamp, Mt. Etna, Puzzley Run and Elk Lick.

Average weight of deer in the Grantsville area was 115 pounds and weights were similar in all areas.

Throughout the entire state 3,045 bucks were slain which topped last year's total by 384. It boosted the total kill for the year to 3,647 including 117 bucks and does dropped by bow and arrow hunters during a special season earlier in the fall. The total also includes 368 deer killed at the Aberdeen Proving Ground and Chemical Center at Edgewood.

An unusual catch was reported by four Baltimore hunters, who wanted to check in a deer, alive. They brought one into a checking station in Allegany county with a makeshift rope halter about its neck. It turned out to be a billy goat with small button horns like the sprouting antlers of a young deer.

The small game season, which was suspended last week, resumed Monday and will continue through January 5. Rabbits, ruffed grouse and quail may be taken for the remainder of the hunting season.

Additional kills reported from the various stations, follow:

"ALMOST, BUT NOT ENOUGH" is our verdict on how close competitive cars have come to matching the Swept-Wing 58. Take style. Other new cars are "almost" as low in inches, but still seem high and boxy in looks. Some of them are "almost" going to fins, but not enough to really make a difference. Then take performance. None of the other 1958 cars have anything to match the sway-free, dip-free, vibration-free ride of Torsion-Aire. (It's standard equipment.) Most of them still don't even have push-button driving! So after you've seen the "almost" cars, come in and drive a Swept-Wing 58. You'll see why we say: They're catching on, but they can't catch up.

EFFECTS OF STEEL reinforcement are shown clearly in these wall panels tested under high pressure during the current atomic tests in Nevada. The eight-inch brick wall at left was unreinforced, while the other brick and tile walls of the same thickness were reinforced with quarter-inch steel rods, and survived the atomic blast intact. A 26 x 32-foot windowless brick structure, adaptable as a school or utility shelter, also was undamaged even though it was exposed to blast pressures five times those for which a house is normally built. Moving Day For Annex Pupils Set For Next Monday

The 380 children now occupying the old annex building in Oakland, will complete their last full day of school there on Friday, Monday, and children are to be ready to move immediately after the noon December 16, will be moving day hour.

A fairly strict schedule will be followed in the abandonment of the old building. Each teacher will take his or her pupils to the Dennett Road school by bus where upon arrival they will go to the room assigned. Each clash will find a new room fully equipped with new furniture, wardrobes, show windows and book shelves. The only equipment taken from the old to the new will be books and instructional materials. These will be loaded on the bus as each group moves out.

The first meal will be eaten in the all-purpose room at the new school on Tuesday.

School is to be dismissed Monday from the new building at the usual time and some adjustments will be made in time schedules for buses hauling both high and elementary children.

Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, said the abandonment of the old Annex marks a new era in educational progress for the Oakland community. He pointed out that many parents of children now in school used the Annex as a high school. The building was condemned for school use a number of years ago and its deplorable condition was well known.

Renovation of the front portion of the old building for Board of Education offices will begin January 1, with completion date set for May 1, when the offices will be moved from the Court House. The rear portion of the building will be used for storage and maintenance shops. All furniture now in the Annex fit for use will be refurbished and moved to the Grantsville school next summer.

The Hoover Suggestion

When former President Herbert Hoover talks he never wastes words. Always, he goes to the heart of things. Always he knows what he is talking about. If his advice had been more often taken this would be a far better nation and we would have avoided many of the basic mistakes we have made.

A few days ago he made a speech before the American Society of Engineers, of which he has been president, in New York City. His subject was the superiority in numbers of engineers, technicians and scientists of Russia over us. In the first place, he said, it just was not so, as he had long ago learned not to believe in Russia's claims. In the second place, even if it were so it would be very little trouble for us to catch up and pass them at no real cost if we would make one change in our school system. The point Mr. Hoover then made was one which seemed to be editorially ignored generally in the discussion about the public high school which has been going on for years.

Conceivably, had it been made some years ago and then become applicable to the nine little Negro applicants for entrance to the Little Rock High School, there would have been no incident there and the nation would not have been rocked as it has been for so many months. The point is a simple one and Mr. Hoover did not try in any way to connect it up with Little Rock. But others did. What he did suggest was that there would have been a good many more scientists, chemists, physicists, engineers, etc., in this nation now had not the choice of what studies he or she should pursue been left to the child—even to the child of 14—as the oldest of these nine were.

For under the new modern level of higher educational freedom, the children of high schools in general choose for themselves what studies they like best and want most to pursue. The new doctrine is to leave everything to the child; to give the child perfect freedom to map out his own course without any guidance from parent or teacher. That was the idea—perfect freedom for the child to follow the line which most attracted him with no pressure from any source; simply to express himself, to do what was most attractive to him or her, what is natural for him to do and nothing whatever that he is forced against his will to do on the theory that that is good for him physically, mentally or morally. That is the new doctrine of higher education.

The result is that the normal child of 14 and after chooses to study the courses that involve the least work and give opportunity for the most play. This, of course, is the natural way for the undisciplined child—even of 14 years—to feel. More than 90 per cent of the male and female students, left to their own selections, do not choose algebra, or geometry, or higher mathematics, chemistry or physics, or philosophy, or even arithmetic or any other subject upon which it is necessary to concentrate and ready work. Rather they pick English literature, or history or poetry or some "soft subject" which requires less effort to master and less time for worry. The result, Mr. Hoover thought, accounted for the vacant seats in the classrooms of those high school teachers who teach any or all branches of science.

Now a great deal has been written and talked about the necessity for complete "freedom of choice" for the student as to what he shall study in the high schools before and since the Arkansas affair. But no one has put the reason so clearly why there are so many undisciplined students who are called upon to make their own decisions without guidance or pressure of any sort from those competent and experienced to advise or direct them. In brief, Mr. Hoover advises a study of why our sciences classes in all our high schools are so poorly populated and so thinly attended. It is not the fault of the teachers; it is not the fault of the schools. It is the fault, Mr. Hoover thinks, of the system which allows those too young and too poorly trained to know the best road to take in their best interest, and in the absence of competent guidance either at home or at school, naturally and immanly select the easiest way. This is a sound suggestion—but like all the suggestions for improving the state of our nation by men like Mr. Hoover, Mr. Baruch and others it will probably be left on the shelf, though it could be achieved at very little cost in dollars and the use of only moderate intelligence.

Report Intimates Congress Should Improve Potomac

Congress should assume responsibility for the Potomac River and for the solution of its flood control, pollution and water supply problems.

This was one of the main suggestions made by Potomac River committee of the Legislative Council of the Maryland General Assembly in its report of a several months study of the river and its problems.

In its county breakdown the committee had this to say about Garrett County: "Army engineers have proposed a series of three dams on the North Branch of the Potomac three miles above Luke, on Stoney River near U. S. 50, and on the Savage river above the present Savage River reservoir."

The committee urged cooperation between the states to raise non-federal funds necessary for coordination of the three dam projects. Local flood protection works are proposed at Kitzmiller and Blaine but the committee said "cooperation is difficult" in raising local funds for preliminary costs at Blaine because it is an unincorporated community. The committee suggested that if this money cannot be raised locally it would be borrowed from the Board of Public Works.

In the report the committee said one of the principal needs was that of water supply for the Washington metropolitan area.

It also urged that enough money be made available to complete the engineer report in time for presentation in the 1958 Congress, rather than in 1961 as scheduled.

Northern Lights

By RUTH STANTON

Lobby Is Decorated

The spirit of Christmas is in evidence in the main lobby of Northern High School, which has been tastefully decorated for the Christmas season. As one enters the main door the scent of pine and the lights which gaily shine remind us of the approach ahead.

To the right is the traditional Christmas tree with lights, balls, icicles, snow and tops it with the Christmas star. This as the tradition goes, originates from a pagan background, when men worshipped trees. To the left one sees a quiet, dignified scene showing the Christmas background of Christmas. The open Bible, displayed in quiet dignity, together with the oil lamp ... this meaning of Christmas day.

The outer lobby, decorated by the French class proudly displays a fireplace and the family hearth, representing family life which is so dear to the people of France.

The decorating was done by the students in Mrs. Kathryn Smith's ... class. The tree was donated by Frank Sporrleib, Accident.

More Tax-Saving Deductions And How To Time Them

This is one of a series of four articles on federal income taxes. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants.

If you are one of those individual taxpayers who is constantly being collared and dollared for charitable contributions, you may save money by paying particular attention to the timing and planning of your year-end donations.

Before paying off on any more 10-p pledges you might have made, remember that you will share only in tredit for such charitable contributions unless you itemize deductions on your return. You can't take the standard 10-per cent deduction and a special deduction for donations to charity. You may take any one of the other, so plan your year-end pledge payments accordingly.

Planning Charitable Gifts

If you will be forced to take the standard 10 per cent deduction this year, you may find it to your advantage to defer payment on your outstanding pledges until after January 1, pyramiding them into 1958 when you may be able to itemize deductions. However, if you have had a better than average income year-and are trying to bunch itemized deductions on this year's return, you should pay not only the pledges you have made but possibly the pledges you would ordinarily make in early 1958.

Here is an important point to keep in mind as you plan your year-end pledge payments: a charitable contribution will be considered paid —and therefore deductible—in the year when the check is delivered to the charity and not when it is actually cashed.

Property Donations

A gift does not have to be in cash for you to claim a deduction for it. It can be in property, and you can claim a deduction for the fair market value of a property that you may actually pay you to give away items that are now worth more than they cost.

For example, suppose that you own a few shares of stock that cost you only a few years ago. Today that stock is worth $150, and appears to be appreciated by a charity, college or the like. Your donation within the next few months, you might consider contributing these securities before the end of the year.

By doing this property away, in addition you save to favor will benefit by receiving property which has appreciated in value, you will not have to pay the capital gains tax on the profit.

If you must dismiss the idea of giving away a piece of real estate or a block of stock within the next few years, don't overlook the opportunity of building up your charitable deduction by donating such "property" as used furniture, clothing, books and toys to a worthy charity. The value of these items is deductible, too.

Preparing State Taxes

The state and local taxes which you pay are also deductible items on your federal income tax return. Here is a tax advantage. Some taxes that fall due early in 1958 can be prepaid to give you an additional deduction on this year's federal tax return. On the other hand, it may be to your advantage to delay payments until 1958 to be careful when you do this, however. You may incur a late payment penalty.

Farmer Tax Tactics

While businessmen and farmers can do everything that a salaried worker can do to cut their tax bills, they also have special opportunities to time year-end deductions.

A farmer, for example, who reports for tax purposes on a cash basis, can deduct his expenditures in the year paid. By purchasing his 1958 grain requirements in December, he can increase deductions on his 1957 return. If he borrows money to make this purchase, the interest paid on the loan during the year is also deductible.

A businessman, whose year-end tax plan calls for bunching deductions on this year's return, can time the sale of used equipment to establish loss deductions. For example, by selling a truck that has a depreciated value of $100 and a real market value of $500, a businessman may claim a tax credit for his $300 "loss." If he sells the truck before December 31, he can take this deduction on his 1957 return.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: Philippians 4
Devotional Reading: 1 Thessalonians 5:12-24

Live With Joy

Lesson for December 15, 1957

NOBODY wants to be unhappy. The trouble is, people look in the wrong places, or in the wrong ways, for happiness. They look for it under the Christmas tree, or at the race track, or in the taverns, or in books . . . They think happiness is something you can pay for and pick up like a ticket to New York. Well, you can get short-lived happiness, of sorts, in many of these and other ways. But why is it that so many old people not only look sour but are sour? Isn't it because they are disillusioned about happiness? It's something they chased but never caught; or if they caught it they could not long keep it. Happiness is always the big fish that got away.

Dr. Foreman

For Now and for Always

Realizing this, many Christians have worked out another scheme in their minds. They figure that happiness, or joy, is not to be had in this life, only in the next. Indeed some have gone so far as to believe that the unhappier you are in this world, the more happiness will be piled on your plate at the heavenly banquet. And so they will even go to a lot of trouble to make themselves as miserable as possible, like doing without proper food and clothes, wearing hair shirts and heavy chains around their bodies, so earning happiness in the future life.

All this is quite off the Bible's beam. The worldly man is right in thinking happiness is to be found here and now. The hair-shirter who wakes up at 3 A.M. to beat himself with a whip while he sings a mournful Psalm is right in thinking real happiness ought to be a lasting thing, proof against pain and disaster. But the worldling is wrong in thinking happiness is the same thing as "kicks" and that just anybody can have it, and the hair-shirter is wrong in thinking you have to wait for death to usher you to the land of joy. The Bible tells of true joy, and it is something for now and for always.

The Quality of Joy

Bible religion, especially when we come to the New Testament, is a religion of joy. The very word "Gospel" means "Good news." One of our Lord's final words was "—that my joy may be in you and that your joy may be full" (John 15:11). Paul, in writing to his friends at Philippi, was writing in circumstances which could hardly be called cheerful. He was getting older and felt his age; he was not and perhaps never had been a completely well man; he was so poor he needed the help his friends sent him; and furthermore he was in jail. Yet it was precisely in those circumstances that he wrote the classic passage about joy, in Philippians 4, beginning "Rejoice in the Lord always."

A thing like joy never exists by itself. It is always in somebody. It is a name for the way some people are. True joy is woven in with life. So it can best be observed and studied not as if you could put it into a test-tube or under a microscope. You can see what joy is by watching the people who have it. When Paul talked about love, and joy, and faith, people paid attention, they did not throw the letters into the waste-basket, because they knew him and they knew he had lived these things before he wrote about them. They knew that in his life there was no fear, they knew that he had "learned the secret" in whatever state he was, to be content.

How to Have It

Paul did not "have" joy as you might have a parakeet which you let out of its cage to play with now and then. He "lived" in joy. it was the atmosphere of his life. But with Paul, as with all Christians who have learned the same secret, joy did not come alone. The Christian's joy is a treasure beyond price.

If it is not the "joy of the Lord," it is not genuine. So it is always found only in those who have the Christian faith, and the Christian love. The selfish life, the loveless life, never can know what joy is. This is one great reason why true happiness—and the only true happiness is the joy of the Christian—cannot be found by chasing it. For the person who seeks joy for his own benefit is still selfish; and selfishness and joy are eternally strangers.

B-58 BUICK

It begins with a greater use of aluminum -and takes off from there

ONE IDEA sparked the creation of this B-58 Buick, —and that was to build it with more aviation principles than ever before.

So this one starts with a greater use of airweight aluminum — inside where its special cooling properties can be used — outside where its beauty and protection are needed.

But wait till you see what else is here to make land travel as modern as air travel.

The first automatic transmission to use the infinitely variable pitch stator principle of today's stratocruisers.

The most modern engine it is possible to build for today's fuels.

A Buick-engineered air-suspension ride that literally floats you on four columns of air.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission

A Party Anomaly

A curious anomaly exists in the Democratic party at this time. Thus, the Republicans are by no means free of this disease but apparently have it under better control. The interesting thing is how little attention the Democratic condition seems to attract even among the politicians.

For example, take the case of Senator Lyndon Johnson, of Texas, Democratic leader of the Senate. A few days ago Senator Johnson publicly declared this no time for extreme partisanship and political attack. Rather, he said, it was a period when partisan demagoguery should be set aside and the nation, as a nation, demonstrate its unity of purpose and belief. Most people would respond heartily to that declaration. To most people these words of Senator Johnson made a great deal more sense than those to which he was addicted when his journalistic admirers were hailing every utterance that came from him as "brilliant" and daily boosted him as the foremost candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960.

Now, Mr. Johnson has ceased his effort to be "brilliant" as portrayed by his dedicated newspaper columnists and other propagandists, and is simply trying to be his natural self—to wit, an astute and agile Texas politician. He has regained a good deal of ground. He appears to recognize that there is such a thing as running too far and too fast after so big a prize as the presidency, and thus to have calmed down his more vociferous supporters. Where the analogy comes in is the sharp contrast between Senator Johnson's present position and that of Mr. Paul Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee and his friend, Mr. Adlai Stevenson. The Butler-Stevenson attitude is starkly revealed in the latest issue of the so-called Democratic Digest, the Democratic monthly magazine that appeared during Mr. Stevenson's first campaign and was run by his close friends—and still is.

So far as taking Senator Johnson's nonpartisan view of the present situation the Democratic Digest in its latest issue went to an almost unprecedented extent in malignant partisanship and misrepresentation. It practically pushed Mr. Eisenhower aside as though he had already died and made an attack upon Vice President Richard M. Nixon which in virulence and violence has not yet been approached. There are several things to be said about the attack other than its striking resemblance to the final speech of candidate Adlai Stevenson in the 1956 campaign just before the American people turned him down by nearly 10,000,000 majority. It will be recalled that in that speech Mr. Stevenson not only expressed a very low opinion of the President but declared that he literally "shuddered" at the notion of Mr. Nixon in the White House. In a very dramatic manner he conveyed the idea that Mr. Nixon was a particularly low and vicious form of reptilian life, the mere thought of whom made his flesh creep. A little more detailed and bitter, the Digest article was an almost exact duplicate in thought of the 1956 Stevenson speech.

Among the significant things which the Digest reveals in its latest issue are—first, that the 1960 Democratic campaign is now being conducted in the firm belief that Mr. Nixon will be the Republican candidate in 1960. In this they are probably right but they also are exceedingly stupid to make it so clear. For one thing it certainly helps Mr. Nixon toward the nomination. For another, it prepares him for the character of the fight against him. All the charges now being made are old and unproven. In no instance have they seemed to do him any harm. In no case has any proof been offered. In no case has Mr. Nixon failed to meet the charges head on—and defeat his opponents. They are pretty old hat to him now and if the Democratic Digest continues to hammer on them they are apt more and more to increase the Nixon vote. Every effort to get something new and effective against Mr. Nixon has been—and is being—made. So far, all efforts in this direction have failed. Behind the Digest are Mr. Paul Butler, chairman of the Democratic Committee, and Mr. Stevenson, in the sense that he is back of Mr. Butler.

In the opinion of most Democratic leaders, Mr. Nixon has grown in political strength and experience in the last six years and to start a campaign attack on him now so far in advance of the 1960 convention is more or less absurd. But that seems to be exactly what Mr. Butler is doing. The present reaction of "influential" Democratic leaders is not favorable to their party chairman, nor even of their "titular leader" Mr. Stevenson.

No. 104, folio 546, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, and the 2-acre parcel being the same which was conveyed to the said Martha Burch by deed from Jefferson Burch, dated September 18, 1934, and recorded in Liber A.G.R. No. 110, folio 59, one of said Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property situate in Election District No. 2 of Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and the State of Maryland to the plaintiff in this proceeding:

Two parcels of land described as follows:

1. 18½ acres of land, being part of the tract called "Canrobert," which was conveyed to Martha Burch by deed from Jefferson Burch, dated March 1, 1932, and recorded in Liber A.G.R. No. 104, folio 546, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

2. 2 acres of land which were conveyed to the said Martha Burch by deed from Jefferson Burch, dated September 18, 1934, and recorded in Liber A.G.R. No. 110, folio 59, one of said Land Records of Garrett County Maryland.

The bill states, among other things, that the said Martha Burch departed this life, intestate, on December 15, 1949, and that title was vested in the above named defendants, being her next of kin and heirs at law, at the time of said tax sale, and still so remains; that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than one year and a day from the date of sale has expired.

IT IS THEREUPON, this 11th day of December, 1957, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, ordered that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this order in some newspaper having general circulation in Garrett County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks before the 3rd day of January, 1958, warning all persons interested in said property to be and appear in this Court by the 3rd day of March 1958, and redeem the property and answer the bill, or thereafter a final decree will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property and vesting in the plaintiff a title free and clear of all encumbrances.

Why Nations Decline . . .

Answering a question as to why great nations decline, H. W. Prentis, Jr., chairman of Armstrong Cork company, recently had this to say:

"You can find the answer in history, for in every case there seems to be a pattern—for the rise to success and the fall to failure. As I see it, the historical cycle has always run: From bondage to spiritual faith; from spiritual faith to courage; from courage to freedom; from freedom to abundance; from abundance to selfishness; from selfishness to complacency; from complacency to apathy; from apathy to fear; from fear to dependency, and from dependency back to bondage once more."

Mr. Prentis went on to warn that this nation has already compromised many of its basic principles of free enterprise and individual initiative—that having reached the pinnacle of abundance, America has started down the toboggan toward bondage.

Optimistically, Mr. Prentis expressed his opinion that the trend toward losing our cherished freedoms had been halted to a considerable extent, but that "if it had continued, the ultimate consequence would be as predictable as the sequence of night and day."

There is still argument as to whether or not the trend toward oblivion has been halted. Many people see the dangers in a Santa Claus government which brought us to the point of dependency. But the firing of Sputnik has certainly partly pulled us out of the area of complacency or apathy.

The great upsurge in religion in recent years has been the means of giving many a greater degree of spiritual faith, and with it an increase in courage that may bring freedom to the many nations that are at present crushed beneath the heel of communism. We are still at the pinnacle of abundance.

We can still keep away from this toboggan toward bondage by a continued renewal of interest in the message of Christ, which is so clearly depicted at this season of the year. People would find it one of the best assurances of continued abundance and against further decline.

Churches Plan Special Events For Christmas

Special musical programs and devotional services will be presented within the next few days in the Oakland area in observance of the anniversary of the birth of Jesus Christ. Programs are being prepared for presentation at both Protestant and Catholic churches.

St. Paul's Methodis:

Christmas services are planned at St. Paul's Methodist church for Sunday, December 22 with a Christmas program in the Kindergarten department at Sunday school at 9:30 for the little children. All other departments will meet in Fellowship hall for a special program. The annual Christmas treat will be given at the close.

At the worship service at 10:45 the senior choir will sing "Beside Thy Cradle Here I Stand." Two 18th century Christmas carols, "The Song of the Angels," and "The Shepherd's Christmas Song," will be sung by the junior choir. Rev. W. S. Patterson, pastor, will speak on "The Wonder of Christmas." There will be a nursery for the little children during the worship service.

The members of the Youth Fellowship will go caroling at 6:30, returning to the church in time for the candlelight service.

The traditional candlelight service will be held at 7:30 with a Christmas cantata by Joseph W. Clokey to be presented by the senior choir. It includes a solo by Jay L. Bell, a duet by Miss Olivia Naylor and Miss Carole Savage, a solo by B. Beeson Snyder, a solo by Mrs. Jay L. Bell, a trio by Miss Naylor, Robert DeWitt and Rich-

Sleet Covers Roads Wednesday Morning

Garrett county highways had a covering of sleet and ice on Wednesday, giving the area the only unusual weather of the week.

But this one morning was enough to make traveling dangerous, particularly for a trailer of the Maryland Transportation company which skidded and partially turned over on route 50 near Table Rock early that morning. No one was injured. School buses operated cautiously and without anything unusual occurring.

Other automobiles and trucks found the going difficult until moderating weather turned the sleet into a fine rain.

A run-down on the week's weather showed last Friday and Saturday cloudy, with the skies clearing Saturday afternoon. Sunday was fairly clear but cool. There was a smattering of rain on Monday with skies clearing later Tuesday was clear and cold. There was rain on Wednesday night and Thursday morning with temperatures moderate.

Ross Speicher Has Stroke

RECEIVES CHARTER—Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, president of the newly organized Garrett County Health association, is shown receiving the charter from Ray Hamby, assistant executive director of the Maryland Association for Mental Health, at a meeting of the Board of Directors on Monday afternoon in the Methodist church in Oakland. Following a period of orientation presented by Mr. Hamby, Mrs. Naylor named four local committee chairmen: Clinic, Mrs. John Record; legislation, Mrs. William Ritchey; hospital, Mrs. Irvin Rudy; publicity and public education, Mrs. E. Ray Jones, with Mrs. Bernard Guy, Bloomington, sub-chairman. Mrs. Rudy with her committee of Mrs. Dale Evans and Mrs. Britten Martin, selected "Forgotten Patients" for its project. The committee on public education made plans for a speaker's workshop to be held in January under Mr. Hamby's direction, in order to set up a speaker's bureau, available for P.-T. A., service, church or fraternal organizations. Mrs. E. Irving Baumgartner, of Oakland, is mental health chairman of the Maryland Federation of Women's clubs.

Christmas Business Is Good in Oakland

Christmas business is good in Oakland. This seems to be the consensus of opinion of a number of merchants who were interviewed this morning. Other merchants throughout the state generally agree.

Business is as good this year as last and in most instances the amount is a little bit better. This in spite of the slight increase in price of a number of items.

One merchant in Oakland estimated his increase this year would reach fifteen percent more than last year. One store owner remarked that people didn't seem to be buying quite as many "big items". For instance the candy boxes were not as many pounds per sale. Perfume was being purchased in slightly smaller bottles than previously but the sales were being made, just the same, and in encouraging quantities.

Every merchant queried this morning was hopeful that the same conditions would prevail for the balance of the week-end and on Monday and Tuesday of next week. One store owner remarked that last Saturday had been the biggest day he had ever had.

Throughout the state money seemed to be a little tighter with the spenders more cautious, and merchants in Annapolis, Baltimore, Cambridge, Cumberland, Frederick and Hagerstown, felt that several factors had somewhat retarded the Christmas buying spree. These factors were listed as "lateness of Thanksgiving this year which shortened the Christmas shopping season by six days" and "the snowstorm on December 4 and 5 and the week of rain which followed which kept shoppers home, postponing, although not curtailing their Christmas spending," and "tighter money."

Most persons were feeling that when figures were in for November and December that sales would be about even with last year or even better.

Merchants all agree that prices are about the same as last Christmas, with some few items being a little higher. Toy sales were booming but this was explained by "but then we have lots more for children every year." Clothing sales also were good. In women's apparel the luxury items are popular but so also were the staple requirements.

Television sets, radios, electrical appliances and household equipment were also popular in sales.

One sales lady in Oakland remarked that there had been no particular rush day but that there had been steady buying all the time.

Many merchants were optimistic, feeling their sales probably would top 1956.

Welfare Estimate Is Approved For 1958

At a recent meeting of the Garrett County Welfare board the annual estimate for the agency operations in 1958 was reviewed and approved, according to Robert W. Stemple, executive secretary.

The Board will seek $55,432.47 from the County Commissioners in their annual levy, compared to an amount of $54,703.17 sought last year.

Total expenditures of the welfare board are expected to be less than last year, Mr. Stemple said.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stocksleger, chairman of the Board, signed the budget which has been sent to the State Department of Public Welfare for further review. Upon its review and approval it will be submitted to the County Commissioners with the formal request for levying and appropriating the funds to cover the county's share of welfare expenditures. The amount said to be needed already has been given to the commissioners informally.

Mr. Stemple said the increase in county funds is due to the fact that an increased cost in the board for children is anticipated and there are no federal funds for that program. Cost of board for children is borne by state and county on a 50-50 basis.

Stemple pointed out that the amount of estimated expenditures for 1958 was figured at $355,999.26 as compared to $303,375.16 estimated for 1957. The 1958 estimate shows a decrease in money requested for Old Age Assistance, Aid to Dependent Children, Aid to Disabled and for General Public Assistance. Slight increases are noted for aid to the blind, board of children and in administration. Stemple said this was the first year in the last seven that the annual estimate has been less than the one for the preceding year.

The estimate for the coming year provides for increases in food allowances for assistance recipients which will be effective sometime after July, 1958, provided that the funds needed on a statewide basis are made available by the Maryland Legislature.

Mr. Stemple further pointed out that approximately $1,000 in county funds appropriated for 1957 would be returned to the County Commissioners in early 1958.

Members attending the budget session included Mrs. Stocksleger, chairman; Aubrey Brenneman, County Commissioner representative; Guy Stanton and Henry W. McComas.

County Offices To Close

Some of the offices in the Court House will be closed several days next week.

Offices of the County Treasurer, the Register of Wills and the County Commissioners will close on Tuesday, December 24, at noon, and will remain closed until Friday, December 27, at the usual time.

The office of Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit court, will remain closed on Christmas day but will be open until 1:30 o'clock on December 24. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 26, 27 and 28, skeleton force will remain on duty and the office will be open for business.

Teacher Resigns

Mrs. Anna Sue Harvey, principal of the Deer Park school, has resigned her position, effective January 2nd, it was announced this week by Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools.

She will be replaced by Paul Easy, presently teaching the fifth grade at the new Dennett road school, and Mrs. William Nace will assume the position as grade teacher at the new school.

FAWN ENROLLS—A fawn enrolled in the Loch Lynn school last Thursday—almost, that is. Ruby Jean Brenneman, a first grade pupil in the room of Mrs. M. H. Blamble, brought her albino fawn, "Frisky," to the school on that day to visit the children and also the animals that make their home there. Mrs. Blamble said Frisky behaved beautifully and appeared interested in the guinea pigs, white rats, chipmunk, parakeet and Japanese Yokahama Silkie that were lodged there. "Jeannie," daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brenneman, of near Gortner, introduced her pet to the children in all rooms of the school and posed for several photographs. The fawn was found on May 18 on the Thousand Acre tract of woodland along Deep Creek Lake by Mr. Brenneman, and was brought to their home at that time.

New Elementary School Dedicated

Overflow Crowd Gathers At Dennett Road Structure Sunday

The formal dedication of the new Dennett Road elementary school just east of Oakland was witnessed by an overflow crowd of more than five hundred persons with Dr. W. S. Patterson of St. Paul's Methodist church, delivering the dedicatory address.

Dr. Patterson termed the building,one in which the word "new" would have a high place, even when the structure grows old, "for here new information will be imparted and new ideas taught. Here new inspiration will come to those who teach and to those who study. Here new friendships will be formed and new relations entered into. Here new light will fall upon many. Here we believe new life will come to those who enter these doors and who find a place within these walls."

Dr. Patterson further stated that many would say that the task before the people is to train scientists, because our survival depends upon it. He said he would not discount the need or importance of greater training in this field, but he suggested that our task must be much broader. We must stress the humanities, for education is vastly more than the instruction in certain facts. Education is the creating of an atmosphere in which beauty comes to bloom and truth unfolds. It is the making or the establishment of an attitude in which values become as real as the findings in the laboratory."

Superintendent Speaks

Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, expressed appreciation for the people who cooperated in making the building possible, and guaranteed a rapid stepping of morale, motivation and morale leading to a higher level of achievement on the part of teachers and pupils.

Mr. Hawkins spoke briefly again concerning what he called a lack of support of Governor Meredith in the local school program, pointing out that the governor had his way he would be here today dedicating a new building." He pointed out a number of legislative bills concerning schools which the governor vetoed.

He said he was ready to fight at

Third Polio Shots Are Made Available

Graduates of Northern and Southern High schools, who received their first and second polio immunization shot last winter and who have not received their third shots, may get them on Christmas Eve, it was announced by Dr. Arthur Jones, county health officer.

Dr. Jones said the health department in Oakland would be open on Tuesday, December 24, from 9 to 12 and from 1 to 4, and that the health center in Grantsville would be open on the same day from 1 to 4 o'clock, for the purpose of giving the shots.

He said some 96 graduates of Southern and about an equal number of graduates at Northern had received their first and second inoculations but had not gotten the third shot.

He strongly urged graduates to take advantage of the opportunity so that they would have complete immunization against the disease.

Farm Taxpayers To Get Two Tax Bills In Future

Farmer taxpayers of the county can expect to get two tax bills next year—but it isn't going to mean any increase in the amount they will have to pay.

But for the first time in this county the real estate tax and the personal property tax will be separated. This was learned this week in talking to Joseph Welch, county treasurer, R. C. McComas, supervisor of Assessments, and Lewis E. Jones, attorney to the County Commissioners.

The assessors have received instruction to refrain from sending out the personal property tax bills until the coming legislature acts upon proposed new legislation, which would allow tax assessors to treat business inventories differently than real estate.

The new procedure is expected to cause some inconvenience for taxpayers. The usual two-part tax bills may not be sent out until April, May or even later, and the present state on discount for payment of taxes is effective only during the first six months of the year, in varying degrees.

It is expected that the tax bills for real estate will be mailed out a few days after the County Commissioners set the county rate for the year, which will allow those paying in January or February to receive a discount of five percent, or those paying in March or April to receive a discount of four percent, or those paying in May or June to receive a discount of three percent. New legislation however, will have to be passed to provide any discount for personal property taxes, since the filing bills will not be [illegible] discount period is over, May 31st. THE AMERICAN WAY

Time For New Labor Laws

By MAURICE E. FRANK

(Editor's Note: Maurice E. Frank is President of the National Labor-Management Foundation and Editor of its official publication, "Partner.")

A growing number of Ameri[illegible] people already a[illegible] of us in every walk of life have become convinced that the labor laws of this country need drastic overhauling.

To strengthen and the thinking of both management and labor, some important differentiations must be made in our labor laws and certain vital definitions of responsibility must be brought up to date.

To protect the labor movement from all of its enemies, including those within the house itself, both force and persuasion and coercion and give them the dignity place of both.

To strengthen and the thinking of both management and labor, some important differentiations must be made in our labor laws and certain vital definitions of responsibility must be supplied.

The time has come when the public character of the labor movement must be legally recognized and its functioning so regulated as to bring both it and its leaders in line with their public responsibilities. The time has come when the labor movement can no longer remain a private estate, operated mainly by and for its leaders — when the democratic machinery upon which its charters are based must be fully protected by law — and when every union official must be professionally qualified to function in office.

Before any union is enabled, by a collective-bargaining agreement, to govern the working conditions of any group of workers or influence the operations of any employer, surely that union's officials should be certified by a duly authorized examining board. If the operations of labor organizations are to affect the living conditions of workers, their leaders must be democratically elected by a legally guaranteed secret ballot. And if the operations of a union are to affect in any way the comfort, safety, happiness and economic progress of the general public, then that union and its officers must first of all demonstrate both willingness and fitness to function without injuring the public or in any way prejudicing its interests.

To these ends the labor laws of this country must be shaped, armed and strengthened. Of this the American electorate is daily becoming more and more convinced. So put your ears to the ground and listen carefully, Congress! And gentlemen, do try to get straight what you hear. For your job, I need hardly remind you, is to protect by law the best interests of all our people and to see that no sacred cows roam any of the corridors of our national life.

In harder language, this country of ours can tolerate no form of trust — neither business, industrial, financial or labor. Your predecessors knew this and barred by law the first three types. Today it is your turn to complete the job — and incidentally to make clear to the Supreme Court that a labor trust is, in the mind of Congress as it demonstrably is in fact, as bad as any other kind of trust.

Americans everywhere were shocked by what your McClellan Committee was able to expose as evidence of union-leader corruption, irresponsibility and arrogance. Doubtless, most of you gentlemen were likewise shocked — and will receive an even greater jolt by further evidence still to be uncovered by your rackets committee. All you have to do is listen, not only to what is said but also to what this or that witness may refuse to say under self-incriminating oath, to appreciate the need for legal correction of the total situation.

You will know that, far more important than catching and punishing a juvenile delinquent or a big-time racketeer is the case to be, is the need to regulate out of the labor movement the very conditions that invite criminal types to leadership and bar cooperation in the way of leaders who are basically honest. You will also know that however much sense it may make for editors, politicians, clergymen and other public educators to avow that the vicious, self-seeking labor leader is very much in the minority, it offers you as lawmakers no excuse for assuming that cleaning up the house of labor is so widespread that our society can well afford to exempt it from sanitary regulation.

Yes, the time has come to put into the laws of this country protecting organized labor, the kind of regulation that will end all forms of exploitation.

Mahoney Will Run For U. S. Senator

George P. Mahoney, who has been defeated in candidacies for governor and U. S. Senator, has filed his candidacy for the Democratic party's 1958 candidacy for United States Senator.

He posted his $290 filing fee yesterday at Annapolis, thus making his third try at becoming United States Senator from Maryland.

This assured the Democratic party of another primary fight for the Senate nomination. Mrs. Nellie Marie Marshall, Baltimore already has filed and James Bruce, Reisterstown. Clarence Long of Baltimore and O. C. Miller of Hyattsville have announced their intention.

There is strong belief that John Grason Turnbull State Senate majority leader from Baltimore county, also will enter the race.

The Senate seat up for contest next year is held by Republican J. Glenn Beall who fully intends to seek re-election. Beall won it in 1952 by beating Mahoney. Mahoney also ran last year and lost to Republican John Marshall Butler. Mahoney lost the Democratic nomination to Millard Tydings only to have it handed him when the former senator became ill and couldn't run.

Mahoney also sought the Democratic nomination for governor in 1954 and was beaten by H. C. Byrd, again a candidate for the same post.

Mahoney had offered himself as a candidate for comptroller on a ticket headed by Millard Tawes for governor and with C. Ferdinand Sybert for Attorney General. There was no response.

One Man Looks At God

(By Charles W. Carlson, Pastor, St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Oakland Maryland.)

Things seem to "jam up," don't they? Late gifts to buy, Christmas cards to mail, unexpected chores, baking, cooking, and all the rest . . . It has led some people to wonder if it is all worth it! The cost of Christmas in terms of cash has led some also to the cynical attitude of buying gifts for others only out of habit and a feeling that they have to. Pretty poor attitude, isn't it? Or perhaps you feel that way too! We hope not! But it can happen.

So, from now until Christmas, pray a lot . . . prayer is your conversational contact with our Father. When in need of comfort we often share our woes with some old friend whom we can trust. It seems to help a lot to get some of the "gripes" off our chest. Get in touch with the Lord, for He does care! And He can be trusted.

From now until Christmas, read a lot, not just the funnies and the sports page, but God's Word. Take the trouble and the time to read about the Nativity, and the events leading up to it, and you will find yourself more in tune with the event for which you prepare. (In case you have forgotten, Matthew and Luke carry this event in full in their opening chapters.)

From now until Christmas, think a lot, not about your own troubles, for this will not help. Think about how a young Chinese boy may be begging on a corner for enough to buy a cup of rice, or a young girl in your own county may be wondering what Christmas is, for her parents have never shown her... her experience may be one of only seeing her father drunk on the couch, like many other Tuesday nights, come Christmas eve. Think about the tremendous needs of so many of the starving and cold in the world. Your troubles will seem very small, in comparison.

From now until Christmas, do a lot! Yes, there is a lot to do, a lot to give to. Christmas seals, Salvation Army, Church activities and special appeals, CARE, and many more. Take stock of your own blessings, and then do something vital about getting rid of suffering, hatred, hunger.

But remember what was said a long time ago, in a letter written to a group of people in Corinth: "If I speak in the tongues of men and of angels, but have not love, I am a noisy gong, or a clanging cymbal. And if I have prophetic powers, and understand all mysteries and all knowledge, and if I have all faith, so as to remove mountains, but have not love, I am nothing. If I give away all I have, and if I deliver my body to be burned, but have not love, I gain nothing." Give out of love. Any other way is not worthy of the giving.

To Present Christmas Program At Sand Flat

The Sand Flat Assembly of God church will have its annual Christmas program Sunday, December 22, at 8 p. m.

The first portion of the program by the Beginner, primary and junior departments will be under direction of Mrs. Elmer Yoder, Mrs. Charlotte Wilburn, Mrs. Robert Kitzmiller and Mrs. Rob Roy Paugh and will feature recitations, playlets, exercises and songs.

A pageant, "Song over the World," will then be presented in three scenes, showing forth the Christmas story of Christ's birth. There will be an angel chorus and an adult mixed choir under direction of Mrs. Charlotte Wilburn. Mrs. Edgar T. Harlesty and Mrs. Walter Hamill will have charge of the pageant.

Rev. Irvin Steiding, pastor, has extended an invitation to the public to attend. A recently installed nursery will be available for parents with children.

McKeldin Expected To Ask Tax Hikes

Gov. McKeldin appeared ready this week to ask the Maryland Legislature to boost both the sales and income taxes in order to balance the state budget for 1957-58.

State House sources confirmed the governor is contemplating these major general revenue sources to raise the some 37 million dollars plus he will need to fill the gap between expected income and expenditures in the fiscal year which begins next July 1.

He is expected to take the proposals before the General Assembly session which convenes in February. If approved it will mark the first general tax boost since McKeldin took office in 1951.

In 1955 he approved boosts in both the sales and income taxes to balance the budget and meet future revenue needs but these were scrapped as a result of a windfall resulting from the state's adopting withholding of state income tax and some revised estimates made during the legislative session.

Sources say the 1957-58 outlook points to a budget deficit of around 40 million dollars and only increases in the state's major revenue sources—sales and income taxes—will meet it. A one percent increase in each is expected to net around 41 million. This would mean a boost in the sales tax, from 2 cents to 3 cents per dollar and a boost in the income tax from 2 to 3 percent of taxable earnings.

McKeldin won't get an accurate official picture of the state's revenue until next Monday when he meets with the Board of Revenue Estimates to hear forecasts on revenue for fiscal 1959. However, it is understood from advance information that the state's surplus will be less than expected and that a rise in expenditures, mostly mandatory, will require the raising of some 40 million dollars more. The governor already has predicted a deficit of 37 million.

Bureau Chief Says 28 Million

The director of Maryland's Fiscal Research Bureau estimated the state would have to find 28 million dollars in new revenues.

He said the need for new revenues might go as high as 35 million or as low as 18 million, depending upon business conditions in the last six months of the fiscal year ending June 30.

John S. Shriver, the director, said the money could be raised by jacking up the sales tax from two to three cents and the income tax from two percent to three.

Rockwood Wins Close One from Northern

High scoring forward Bill Lamp led Rockwood High school to a 51 to 48 victory over Northern High's Huskies at Accident last Friday night.

Lamp tallied 12 field goals and 10 of 15 free throws for a total of 34 points. Tom Schroyer and Dick Spear shared 25 markers for the losers with 13 and 12 respectively.

Rockwood also held a three-point advantage at half time and at the end of the third period, 28 to 25, and 38 to 35. There were four points difference at the end of the first quarter, 16 to 12. Northern made good on 18 of 34 foul shots, but was outscored from the field 18 to 15.

Others scoring for Northern were Humberson 8, Robeson 9, Overby 1, Mickey 2, Wright 2. Non-scoring substitutes were Hetrick Strauss.

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

(Glenn A. Green, Associate director of the National Education program, has been doing research in Europe for several months. This column gives an account from an area in West Germany.)

Neu-Gablonz, West Germany—In this amazing little city on the doorstep of the Bavarian Alps southwest of Munich I have found a wonderful story and a mighty advertisement for private enterprise. Thirteen years ago the Nazi Panzer divisions kept an ammunition dump here on a wooded knoll. Twelve years ago the U. S. Army swept in and took it. Eleven years ago, with the war over and a detachment of U. S. occupation troops settled at the dump, two bedraggled men walked into camp and asked to see the Commanding Officer.

The men were hungry and footsore. Their only belongings were a handful of personal effects carried over their shoulders in crude cloth knapsacks. They had tramped all the way from Gablonz in the Czechoslovakian Sudeutenland, and were searching for a place to make a new home. The Army C. O. referred them to a refugee camp down near Landsberg, some 15 miles distant. But the two Czechs didn't want refugee camp life; they liked the looks of the country surrounding the ammunition dump.

The two men begged shelter for 14 persons in one of the unused frame buildings at the dump, and the privilege of earning their "keep" by day and working at their craft by night. They said they were decorative glass and jewelry artisans. They said they had 12 companions straggling on behind. They told the C. O. they wanted to establish an industry that "soon will be selling merchandise all over the world."

The skeptical American officer gave them shelter. Then he sought through Army channels to authenticate their story. It was true. For two centuries Gablonz, in northeastern Czechoslovakia, had been world famous in the glassware and costume jewelry trade. It was a city of 25,000 highly skilled artisians whose products from several hundred small workshops were in great demand throughout the world. But Gablonz had fallen under control of the Communists. And the Gablonz free enterprisers couldn't knuckle under to the Reds. One day the Communist militia came and drove the people from their homes and workshops.

The Gablonzers had to leave behind their priceless tools, their property, virtually everything they owned. Gablonz became a ghost town; its people scattered and fleeing westward toward freedom.

The U. S. Army officer improvised housing and shop arrangements for the 14 Czechs. The industrious refugees earned their upkeep, and they began working at their creative art. Other Czechs from Gablonz came to the old ammunition dump. When the Gablonzers began to merchandise their wares, U. S. authorities helped a little with housing and leased them land space on the dump. The men borrowed axes, felled trees, hauled them and had them cut into rough timber for their expanding needs. In 1947, when the U. S. Army unit moved, there were four firms of Gablonzers, working 22 people. The Army C. O. shook his head, unbelieving: The four firms were selling merchandise as far away as America!

Two years later many more Czechs from old Gablonz had arrived; there were by then 156 firms with 1,470 people working.

Today the ammunition dump has disappeared; so have the first crude buildings of the Czechs. On their sites the Czechs with loving care have built a model little city, one of the most colorful in the world. Neu-Gablonz has a population of 15,000 of which 6,000 are artisians working in more than 300 small shops. Other of the original artisians of old Czechoslovakian Gablonz have settled in adjacent Kaufbeuren. And there is a third Gablonz industrial community at Markit Oberdorf.

I spent a half day here, talking with Max Wahersich, one of the original bedraggled 14 who is now chairman of the Gablonz Industries Association; with some of the shop owners and artisans, and viewing the glittering array of jewelry and beautiful glassware. The Association's hooks were opened for me. These irrepressible enterprisers exported more than $25 million in products to 45 countries last year, about $8 million to the U. S.

"Free enterprise and our faith in our own ability have combined to build our new life and our new city," said Wahersich. Neu-Gablonz is a living testimony to the power of a free, self-reliant people.—G. G.

ABC AUDITED PAID CIRCULATION

What a fix we'd all be in without those standards of measurement for the goods you buy and sell. Imagine the confusion, waste and doubt in business transactions if we didn't have accepted standards of weights and measures—known values.

We believe it is just as necessary for us to tell you what you get for your advertising dollars, in terms of known circulation value, as it is for you to do business with your customers on the basis of recognized standards. That's why this newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

WHAT IS THE A.B.C.? The Bureau is a cooperative and nonprofit association of 3450 publishers, advertising agencies and advertisers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

WHAT A.B.C. DOES FOR YOU. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors comes to our office and makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. He has access to all of our books and records to obtain the FACTS that tell you what you get for your money when you advertise in this newspaper.

WHAT A.B.C. REPORTS TELL YOU. The circulation FACTS obtained by the A.B.C. auditor are condensed in easy to read A.B.C. reports which tell you: How much circulation we have; where the circulation goes; how it was sold and many other FACTS about the audience we provide for your sales messages. Make your advertising investments on the basis of this audited information. Ask for a copy of our A.B.C. report.

What's Your Safety Quotient?

For safe driving, make it a family rule that children are not permitted to distract the driver.

Here's a checklist of driving do's and don'ts for harrassed and harried mothers who have to make so many extra "last minute" shopping trips during the holidays.

Remember, while such devices as nylon safety belts, dashboards cushioned with urethane foam, and laminated safety glass windows minimize injuries when accidents occur, they do not prevent collisions from taking place. It is also important to keep windshield wipers in good operating condition at all times, and glass areas clear of snow, sleet, and dirt.

Observe these 14 rules prepared by the National Safety Council, and your SQ will put you at the head of the class:

1. Never leave children alone in the car, regardless of whether or not the motor is left running.
2. Have youngsters ride in back seat whenever possible.
3. Allow no eating of lollipops or ice cream on sticks in moving car.
4. Permit no rough-housing, friendly or otherwise.
5. Have family rule that children are not permitted to distract driver (remember, always pull over to the curb and stop car if it becomes necessary to admonish children).
6. All riders must be seated while auto is moving.
7. Hands, heads, and possessions must remain inside the car at all times.
8. All doors locked when vehicle is in motion.
9. No sharp-edged, hard or heavy toys permitted which might become lethal flying missiles in case of sudden stops.
10. No objects stowed at any time on window deck behind rear seat.
11. Infants firmly strapped in car bed or halter type safety seat belt at all times.
12. Driver should be physically fit. Don't drive when tired or high strung. Car should be mechanically safe also.
13. Children in back should not be sitting in drafts. Crack side vents to provide necessary ventilation, prevent exposures leading to colds or infections.
14. Always remember to be alert to the actions of drivers of other cars. They may not be as careful about their driving habits as you are.

Woodland Owners Invited To Join Tree Farm Program

Woodland owners of the county who are practicing good forest management have been invited to become members of the American Tree Farm system of growing timber as a crop on tax-paying lands.

John Adams, Jr., forester for the Western Maryland Railroad company, and an area tree farm inspector, explained that to become a certified tree farmer the timberland owners must protect their woods from destructive grazing, fire, insects and disease and cut harvest timber trees in a manner that will assure future crops of timber.

The tree farmer receives a certificate and a green and white sign to mark his property. Members also receive a free subscription to the quarterly American Tree Farmer magazine.

The second follow-up meeting of the property by a technical forester and a review of his report by a committee of nine foresters under Orville W. Sawyer, Jr., chairman of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company, Antietam, are available from Mr. Adams, Oakland, or from the Maryland Tree Farm committee at Baltimore.

Maryland now has 37 certified tree farms, almost triple the total owned by Virgil T. Steyer, of Severn. The program is sponsored by the Maryland Forest Industries, in cooperation with the conservation of the Department of Forests and Parks, the Farm Cooperative District Boards and the Agricultural Extension service.

New Elementary School Dedicated

the crop of the hat anyone who tries to deny the children of the county the kind of schools they rightfully deserve—or tries to deny the teachers of Garrett county a salary in keeping with what teachers elsewhere in the state are receiving.

He told the people that "Today we stand at the crossroads. Whether or not our county school system faces a calamity for the coming year will depend largely upon whether or not the Governor's veto of the salary bill is sustained or over-ridden."

He declared that the governor's theory of "let the counties finance their own salary increases" was ruinous to counties like Garrett, and repeated a statement he made two weeks ago to service clubs that "The Governor's theory defies completely the whole principle of equalization upon which our state school system has operated for years."

He pointed out that if the county added 35 cents to the present $2 tax rate we could raise in this county the amount of money "we should have to operate our school system next year."

He listed in detail the various legislation enactments which had been vetoed by the governor, some of which had been overridden and put into law. Mr. Hawkins asserted he was willing to talk long and loud to defend the right of the children of the county to an education just as good as that which is provided for the children of any county of the state.

He concluded by saying the American Public School, along with the churches of America, represented the greatest symbol of Democracy on earth.

Mr. Swartzentruber Speaks

H. D. Swartzentruber, president of the county commissioners, pointed out the importance of the things on the inside of a building, as well as the outside. He told of the ingredients necessary to make a house a home and showed similarity in that and a school building. Teacher, pupil and parent must work closely together to make the school building a home of learning.

Keys to the new school were presented to Foster Riggs, principal, by Dr. Ralph Callandrella, of Kitzmiller, president of the Board of Education. Merritt Feather served as master of ceremonies. Mrs. Earl Zepp led the dedication. Mrs. Ethel Helbig gave the teacher viewpoint and Margaret Englander gave the pupil viewpoint, and Rev. Ross Speicher gave the invocation and benediction. The school glee club sang two selections.

Those attending the dedication then inspected the building.

Monday the 380 children who had been enrolled in the old Annex building moved to the new structure.

The building was built under authority vested in the County Commissioners by an act of the legislature. Hardesty and Shirey of Oakland were general contractors and the building cost $245,000 exclusive of driveway and sewerage system. The cost of furniture and equipment was $10,000. The building will accommodate 375 children. A similar elementary school, slightly smaller, is being completed on route 40, east of Grantsville. It will be dedicated, probably in February.

Walker-Younkin Wedding Takes Place at Grantsville Brethren Church

Miss Joanne La Donn Younkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Younkin, Grantsville, became the bride of Jonas B. Walker, Salisbury, son of Mrs. Orpha Walker and the late Harry Walker, on Wednesday, November 27.

The candlelight double ring ceremony was solemnized in the Maple Grove Church of the Brethren, Grantsville, by Rev. Owen M. Moyers and Rev. Paul L. Westcoat, Jr., of Salisbury.

The church was decorated with ferns, palms and blue delphinium and candles in tall candelabra. Miss Frances Rush played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Donald Newcomer who sang, "The Lord's Prayer," and other selections.

Mrs. Wilma J. Twigg, Cheberlain, was matron of honor. Miss Janet Younkin, sister of the bride, and Miss Patricia Kelbe, were bridesmaids, and Miss Sandra Miller, Deposit, Pa., cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Steven Bender was flower girl and Larry Richter was ring bearer.

Joseph J. Walker, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Robert Beachy, Dale Hoffman, Blaine Minnick, of Salisbury, and Clarence Younkin, Grantsville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a bridal gown of imported Chantilly lace worn a two-tier illusion veil. The bodice had Sweetheart neckline and a petticoat. Her bouquet was a cascade of lavender orchids and stephanotis with satin streamers.

Mrs. Walker is a graduate of Salisbury High school. He served in the U. S. navy and is now employed at the Salisbury paper company.

Mrs. Lewis Spessard, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Darrel Stahl served the cake while Mrs. Pansy Jefferies and Mrs. Iva Stanton presided at the punch bowl.

Approximately 300 guests were received from Washington, Rockville, Cumberland, Frostburg, Oakland, Hagerstown, Donora, Oakmont, Salisbury and Grantsville.

The bride chose a royal blue wool dress trimmed with satin for her traveling costume, with black orchids completed the ensemble.

After a wedding trip the couple will reside at Hazelbirth apartments in Salisbury.

CANDLE IN THE NIGHT

Simplest, humblest gleam of light . . . yet it rolls back the shadows. And striking the new-fallen snow, it casts a dazzling halo upon boughs of pine and holly.

Like a candle in the night Christmas rolls back the shadows of time, and touching the life of man, gives an aura of peace and good will to every day and deed.

It was truly the simplest and humblest event in history, this birth of a child in a stable. But from it shines "the true Light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world." And to live in that Light, to reflect it upon the world around us; this is peace and good will.

Like a candle in the night the Church beckons us to the gleam of its ageless Truth. And as we come to live by the Church's teaching, our faith will roll back the shadows for those around us.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest force on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

To Share Our Life

Lesson for December 22, 1957

THE baby Jesus we have been seeing everywhere these days. His picture is on the greeting cards, songs about him are sung (mechanically for the most part) on every street. Fresh candles are lighted in front of his statue in many churches. Luke 2 is memorized in a thousand Sunday schools. Now that is about all some people ever see or think about Jesus. He is the baby we have to hear about once a year.

Dr. Foreman

Christians know better than this. Indeed Christians, from very early times, never saw only a baby in the manger at Bethlehem. Here is no ordinary child, made romantic by the hardships of his birth. He is more than a symbol and example of the sweetness and helplessness of all babies in the world.

"Who for Us Men Became Man"

The Child of Bethlehem is the Event of all time. For this child is the Son of God made man. What men have often longed for, what poets have dreamed, what every man needs, here it is . . . only not as we expected. What we want is a God who is near us, nearer than heaven, nearer than Mount Olympus, yes nearer than the nearest temple. If possible—and who dared it could be?—we want God in human form. But what we might have expected is a very grand human figure, some super-man, born to power and majesty. What God has sent us is quite different: just a baby. A baby who cannot talk nor walk nor live without help, a baby born to displaced persons in the poorest of circumstances, with no very bright future likely. Yes, this is He. When God became man he came all the way. He came to share our life.

Sharing Struggle

Theologians say that Christ had a human "nature" and a divine "nature." The Bible seldom if ever uses such language. The New Testament just calls Jesus "life." Jesus himself called himself Son of God; he also called himself a man. (John 8:40.) The Nicene Creed, one of the most ancient and widely used creeds of the church universal, says that the Son of God "was made" (i.e. became) man. We can make this clearer to our minds if we simply say that Jesus shared our life. He shared it to the full, he identified himself with mankind. He shared the circumstances and the conditions under which all men live. We said just now that a baby born as Jesus would have no rosy future; and this was true of Jesus. His life was one of constant struggle. In his boyhood it must have been a struggle with poverty; as he grew older he had to wrestle with temptation, with misunderstanding and hatred.

Sharing Suffering

Possibly not all human life is a struggle; but there is no man with lifelong exemption from suffering. We know Jesus suffered on the cross; we often forget that he was always a "man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." We do not read that he wept on Calvary; we do know that he wept at the death of a friend. We know the Pharisees hounded him to his death. We forget the times when he was nearly lynched by angry mobs. He knew a kind of suffering which is harder for a sensitive soul than physical pain: suffering of the mind and heart. That his mother misunderstood him, that his brothers did not believe in him, that he "could do no mighty work" at Nazareth, his own home town, because of their stubborn unbelief.

Bearing Sin

One thing Jesus did not share with us: sin. And yet even this he shared in two ways. He always sided with the sinner, so much so that his critics called him "friend of sinners;" and in the end he suffered because of sin. Paul in one place writes, "For our sake he (God) made him to be sin who knew no sin" (II Cor. 5:21). This brings us face to face with the awesome mystery of the Atonement; but as a Scottish minister once said, the reason we do not understand the Cross is not because our minds are dull but because our hearts are too poor to understand love. If the baby in the manger had died then and there, it would have been sad. But only if that baby lived, and grew, and suffered, could the child become Man, giving his matured life a ransom for many.

What, indeed, is Christmas?

Ask a child and he may tell you that it is a time of snow and bright lights, and Santa Claus and presents under the tree

Ask a hundred grown-ups and you may get a hundred slightly related answers, for Christmas is many things to many people.

But, for all of us, the happiest memories of childhood are those associated with the celebration of this great holiday. How easy it is to vividly call up scenes of long ago when a happy family gathered by the warm glow of an open fireside; to close the eyes to see again the snow-covered fields and to bear again the crunching sound of heavy boots plodding through the snow and visualize the little white church on the hill. In the silence of a darkened room one can so easily revisit that little church, breathe again the aroma of evergreens and burning candles and sense anew the presence that is so obvious in the quiet and solemn stillness

These are the things about Christmas that have not changed and will not change with the modes and mannerisms of new generations. These are the things which reflect the spirit of Christmas It is in the spirit of love and goodness, of close communion with God and with mankind and with it all is mixed a sense of awe at the wonderful miracle brought into being on that first Christmas night at Bethlehem so long ago

This is the spirit of Christmas, and so it shall remain until the end of time.

Although America has contributed more than its share, our Christmas carols, both old and new, have come down to us from many lands.

Our early settlers brought with them the carols of Europe. Perhaps the most universal carol is "O Come, All Ye Faithful" (Adeste Fidelis) which has been translated into hundreds of languages and dialects and belongs to no one nation.

Germany was responsible for Luther's hymn for children, "Away in a manger, no crib for a bed . . . " England provided "God Rest You, Merry Gentlemen . . . " And from France came the beautiful "Cantique de Noel" or "O Holy Night."

Three of our greatest carols were written by Americans. "It Came Upon A Midnight Clear" was written by Edmund H. Sears, a Massachusetts Unitarian minister, in 1849. Dr. John Henry Hopkins, Jr., Episcopal rector from Williamsport, Pa., composed the words and music for "We Three Kings of Orient Are." Author of "O Little Town of Bethlehem" was Phillip Brooks, a young Episcopal minister who later became bishop of Massachusetts. He was inspired to write the poem after a trip to the Holy Land.

Although non-religious, the rollicking "Jingle Bells" also came from the pen of a churchman, John Pierpoint, almost a century ago.

Woodmen are Santa's Helpers

In hundreds of communities, Woodmen Camps bring Christmas cheer to children, the aged, disabled and less fortunate.

In North Carolina, for example, Woodmen Camps have raised thousands of dollars for their annual Christmas parties at more than 20 orphanages. Some 1,500 boys and girls will receive clothing, toys, candy and fruits.

Other Camps participate in the Society's varied program of helpful Yuletide activities, including those in Chattanooga, Tenn., where hundreds of pairs of shoes are given needy youngsters. Fellow Woodmen everywhere receiving hospital and outpatient care provided free by the Society for victims of pulmonary tuberculosis, and others disabled or unfortunate, are also remembered with Yuletide gifts.

This is part of the Society's year-round program of civic and humanitarian services, the exclusive "plus" of the Life insurance it provides its members at cost.

YEAR END TAX TIPS NUMBER 4

Steps That Could Save A Dependency Exemption

This is one of a series of four articles on federal income taxes. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants

As you check over the list of people you intend to claim as dependents on your 1957 tax return, keep this phrase in mind; more than one-half support.

This is the test of dependency. Unless the money you have contributed during the year is enough to make up more than one-half of a dependent's living costs, you might as well cross that person off your list. He or she will not qualify as a dependent for tax purposes—and you will lose a valuable $600 exemption on your 1957 return.

Taxpayers with children who work part-time or during the summer should watch this angle closely. It's not how much your child earns during the year—it's how much he contributes to his own support. The law specifically states that a parent may claim an exemption for a child, stepchild or adopted child under 19 years of age, no matter how much he earned, provided the child depended on the parent for more than one-half of his support.

Bank Child's Earnings

Here is an important point to remember when you are trying to decide whether you have contributed the necessary amount: the money a youngster banks or invests is not considered to be a contribution to his own support costs. Check carefully to see how much of your child's earnings has gone for his support. You may find that it will save an exemption on the family return if you have him bank his earnings for the rest of the year.

Supporting a Relative

If you have helped support a relative during the year, see to it that what you have contributed is enough to permit you to claim an exemption for this dependent. For example, you may have paid approximately $650 of your mother's $1,400 living expenses. By contributing another $55 or $60 to her support before December 31, you can push the total over the more-than-half mark of $700 and gain an additional exemption.

Or, if you shared with others in the support of a parent, take steps now to insure that one of you can qualify for an exemption. Make sure, first of all, that your combined contributions were enough to total more than one-half of the parent's living expenses. Then, have all the members of the group that contributed 10 per cent or more of the parent's support sign Multiple Support Agreements, granting one signer of the agreement permission to claim the full exemption.

Claim All Exemptions

Exemptions cannot be juggled, shifted, bunched or pyramided to gain a tax advantage—but they can be overlooked. Be sure to claim all the exemptions you properly can, because each one reduces your taxable income by $600. Remember that to qualify for an exemption a dependent must:

(1) Have received more than one-half of his support from you, unless you file Multiple Support Agreements (which may be obtained at any Internal Revenue Service).

(2) Have less than $600 gross income for 1957, unless he or she is your child and under 19, or a full-time student.

(3) Not file a joint return.

(4) Live with you (absence while attending school does not interfere), or be a close relative as specifically defined in the official instruction book, or be a cousin receiving institutional care for a mental or physical disability who had lived with you before going to the institution.

(5) Be either a citizen of the United States or a resident of the U. S., Canada, Mexico, Panama and in some cases, a serviceman's child living in the Philippines.

If you are supporting dependents but are not able to file a joint return because you are unmarried, you may be able to qualify as the "head of a household" and be entitled to use a special schedule of tax rates that gives you half the benefits of income-splitting. In a situation where, say, a son lives with his widowed mother and shares expenses equally, the son may have to contribute a few extra dollars before the end of the year to qualify as the head of a household.

Each year millions of taxpayers put off filing their tax returns until the April 15 deadline. The last minute rush to avoid a late filing penalty produces not only long lines at Internal Revenue Service offices, but also many careless mistakes by taxpayers. Prepare your tax return carefully and file it early. Help is available from the I.R.S., which urges you to consult a properly qualified advisor if you need outside assistance.

The American Way

Thank You, Sputnik

By DR. ALFRED P. HAAKE

(Editor's Note: Alfred P. Haake, Ph.D., is a noted economist, public relations consultant, author and lecturer.)

Sputnik is not sufficient reason for the wave of fear and capitalization of that fear now sweeping into the minds and paralyzing the hearts of many Americans. But we should be grateful to the Russians for their unintended kindness in awakening us out of our complacency and smug quest of still higher standards of living without the appropriate work and sacrifice that must accompany such a quest. If Sputnik will help us realize what has been happening to the basic principles on which we built our strength and prosperity as individuals and as a nation, we need not feel so badly over our temporary loss of face and the rumbles of rambling politicians who see no further than November of 1958.

We have gone soft as a nation and as individuals, in spite of the terrible price we paid in two world wars to know better. We have listened to the apostles of apostasy who led us to sacrifice principle on the altar of expediency. From the member of the Supreme Court who boldly proclaimed his independence from the fetters of the Constitution he swore to uphold when he took office, down to the moral mote who appraises his yawning belly above his self-respect, too many of us have been willing to let the Constitution of the United States be pushed aside and ignored in the quest of easier ways to get things done and a lower price than work for what we want.

It is not the Russian, with his borrowed or stolen achievements and ideas, developed by his slave labor, in fear of whose attack we need cringe. Russia has the first satellite. So what? She has developed a means and medium of power to push half a ton a thousand miles into space. She could raise havoc with the missiles she might rocket into the air and drop on our cities. And we could destroy her with the atomic bombs we are in position to drop on her from many places and directions—while her sputniks continue their journeys around the earth, unable to come down or drop where their masters wish them to drop.

In a missile-fought war both of us would suffer and possibly be destroyed. The very practical certainty of that is likely to keep either of us from starting on the other. And that is the more nearly true now that we have been given dramatic warning by a little dog journeying around the earth.

But that is not the way we are likely to be destroyed. The Russians have found a surer way, one far less costly to themselves, for they encourage us to destroy ourselves. Lenin and Stalin, and even musty old Karl Marx, should be lifting their glasses in a toast to the "do-gooders," the "Soviet-lovers," and even good but mistaken citizens who are paving the way for the real and inevitable destruction of America.

"Debauch their currency!" cried Karl Marx, and echoed the other, "as the sure way to destroy them. Destroy their capitalism with high taxes and government spending, government competition with private enterprise. Arouse racial hatreds, build labor dynasties to outweigh industrial and political dynasties. And the Americans will destroy themselves with their growing paternalism and centralization of government, high taxes and higher spending, smothering individual and states' rights and power in Federal Aid to Education, insidious socialization of medicine, the prostitution of their self-respect and strength in the arms of their welfare state."

There is the real menace to America. And the antidote?

More of the "three R's," science and mathematics, learning to work and think through competition with other students, less of the glamorous furbishments that multiply the cost of building schools. We need a restoration of what we once recognized as "pride of craftsmanship," virtue as its own best reward, sweat, sacrifice and fitness for freedom as the price for the right to exist. We need leaders who do not see God when they look into mirrors, law enforcement for labor leaders as well as the rest of us, and even a Supreme Court which respects the Constitution of the United States. In all fields we need men and women who accept life as a stewardship at the hands of God.

We can stop worrying if we will really go to work.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

The Eisenhower administration is at work on a program designed to revamp our educational system to help meet the challenge of Soviet scientific success. I am in general agreement with some of the proposals in their tentative form, for example: aid for providing colleges with equipment for scientific teaching and expansion of graduate fellowship programs. Some of the proposals carry the threat of Federal control or interference at the local level, but I feel certain that the Congress in preparing the program for enactment can provide necessary safeguards.

When Congress reconvenes in January it will be faced not only with the Administration's proposals, but also a host of bills of every description designed to improve our educational system. In studying these programs we ought to keep in mind a basic fact: Federal money, no amount of it, cannot overnight make scientists or create new attitudes toward the content of our school curriculums. Then, too, we ought to keep in mind the fact that the classroom teacher is the key to progess and improvement in helping our young people to understand science consider careers in this field.

I would like to urge, too, that we explore the educational system in other countries for clues to improving our own. From such studies we may find the means of stimulating our youngsters to careers in science without the use of rigid forcing methods that are characteristic of dictatorial systems.

For leadership in a campaign to convince our people of the value of studying mathematics we ought to look to the "wide—awake" in local school districts. There is a misconception about the study of mathematics and the science that these local leaders can clear up.

The study of mathematics does not prevent any youngster from becoming a sociologist or, for that matter, a minister. But not studying mathematics will not only prevent him from becoming a scientist, it will keep him from being a very good sociologist or a minister since he will not understand our culture which is now being shaped by technological forces which are still not clearly understood.

May I take this opportunity of extending to all of you my best wishes for a happy holiday season.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Not A Pretty Picture

There are two widely divergent views as to the manner in which Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson conducted herself during the recent effort of the Eisenhower Administration to help, as titular leader of the Democratic party, in a great international crisis abroad. The effort failed and that of course means that there will be no bipartisanship, so far as the United States is concerned, at the NATO meeting in Paris.

Most Americans will be disposed at this. Certainly, too, it is not what they expected. Certainly, too, it is not what the President expected or could be quite the reverse. As for the [illegible] views on the Stevenson course, the friends insist that the Eisenhower request put him in a very difficult position. He could, they say, as a matter of fact as a politician when he agreed to go to Washington as a candidate, if he failed to accept that invitation he would have been open to severe criticism. Having had all the facts laid before him and given his view, he does not think he is free to go more. With most of that we Administration people heartily concur, but should the President's personal prestige and the Paris NATO meeting be one of the American elections might have forced the approval of the whole American position, in some of which he does not believe. Thus he could be forced into an indorsement of Democratic party and to the Democratic party which he represents. That is the view which Mr. Stevenson has promulgated and which is shared by his supporters, who are inclined to emphasize that in connection with Mr. Eisenhower.

The [illegible] view of Mr. Stevenson is that he has been overtaken and [illegible] the bipartisanship [illegible] was forced. There is not even a flavor of real [illegible] about his response to the President's verbal appeal. He certainly lacked in graciousness and generosity but showed himself too small a man to rise above politics and, in the interests of the country, cooperate with the man who had twice beaten him for the Presidency. He gave proof of this, it is maintained, by consulting in Washington and taking the advice of the three or four most bitter of the anti-Eisenhower people in the whole United States personal as well as political haters of the President. These were the people he got out here and by whose counsel he was guided. They were, in turn, supplemented by a small group of journalistic left-wingers who have been the center of anti-Eisenhower and pro-Stevenson propaganda for nearly six years and still are.

There are friends upon whom Mr. Stevenson relies. They were positive [illegible] was to be that Mr. Eisenhower had asked him to go to Paris. First, because merely to [illegible] would somewhat restore what was certainly his greatly impaired prestige; secondly because he could so easily refuse, with no prompting at all, without [illegible] absolutely churlish and political. There are some well-informed men in Washington who insist that from start to finish Mr. Stevenson, in this episode, has been motivated by politics and not statesmanship. His "close friend" has seconded in cutting back to the bone the idea that in 1960 he can be renominated for the presidency and this time win because Mr. Eisenhower can't run again. Mr. Nixon, even most observers believe, would be nominated for the Presidency by the Republican Convention in 1960, if a man he can easily accept. It is pointed out by his friends that while there are plenty of Democratic aspirants [illegible] and with Nixon instead of Eisenhower running there should be little trouble to get a third nomination if he plays his cards right.

There is slight doubt that this idea strongly appeals to Mr. Stevenson. True, he has indicated that he will not actively seek nothing in 1952 and 1956. In brief, nomination in 1960, but did the same he has never really slammed the door. He still maintains his association with the Americans for Democratic Action, with the AFL-CIO, with the disgruntled farm element with the Democratic Negro leaders and Mrs. Roosevelt. In brief, though he says he is not a candidate he behaves very much as though he were. In particular, he has done so in the last few weeks. From the start, his whole attitude toward the bipartisanship he was asked to promote does not present a pretty picture. It is now charged that rather than help in a national crisis he prefers to make the president's job more difficult by criticism and comment which—to put it mildly—is neither constructive nor co-operative. If he had some thing helpful and practical to propose it might be different. But so far he has not come foward with it.

Sputnik and the Christmas Star . . .

Nineteen hundred and fifty-seven years ago three wise men beheld a celestial phenomenon. They followed the beacon until it hovered over a cave in the Judean hills. The star heralded a brief period of peace and brought into the world a concept of human values and spiritual rewards that has helped to sustain mankind through twenty centuries of alternating faith and doubt—twenty centuries that have recorded a slow net gain in the progress of the individual.

Today men wiser in the ways of natural science, though not in the ways of the spirit, have outdone Aladdin, Merlin, Munanaun, and all the magicians and sorcerers of the storybooks. For the applause if not for the good will of men, Russian scientists have created a star and launched it into space. American scientists, somewhat abashed, are hoping to hurl an equally impressive object into the zodiacal racetrack.

No doubt Soviet Russia has many ethical and well-intentioned savants who are hopefully working their computers and straining at all the mathematical patterns that can be applied to the laws of nature for the sake of a world of peace and plenty. Though they may care little for a flag or a political creed, such men are still intellectual captives of a system that makes science the servant of an evil notion that the end justifies the means. The range of their freedom is only the distance that a prisoner seeking the light may drag his chains. The American scientist may complain about restraints on his mental enterprise where classified information is concerned, but at least he has a voice in the disciplines set up, and the unimpaired right to criticize any person or policy that interferes with free circulation of ideas, whether scientific, social or political.

Gravity has anchored man to earth for countless centuries. In our epoch he has flown higher than the bird, plunged deeper than the whale, and with Promethean strength has hurled a ball into outer space. He may take off for himself soon and scare the feathers off the seven ranks of the angels—all of which a divine eye might observe with mixed anguish and pride in the creature of his handicraft.

Man has conquered nature—almost. But while he may report a little progress, he cannot claim to have conquered himself—not even almost. There is, of course, a prescience of doom among the Cassandras who prophesy that man may have learned to destroy himself—but perhaps that decision still rests with a higher power. There need be no evil in man's enlargement of his domain through the doors of science, with each new door opening into wider vistas of challenge and achievement. But man's potential for greatness is still the vast and unmeasured realms of his mind and the deeper, still unplumbed depth of the human spirit.

Man is a gregarious creature. If he cannot get along with his neighbor, neither can he get along without him. In his heart he knows this to be true. After every bloody conflict he cries out, "Peace, peace! There is no peace," and seeks an answer in such things as the League of Nations and the United Nations, and despite failures keeps trying and never loses hope.

Every impulse of power requires controls. The spirit seeks to act as governor over the ideas of man, as they gain in dimensions and velocity. The spirit asks, "What shall it profit a man if, as a mimic of the Creator, he gains domain over the whole world but fails to fulfill his responsibility to his fellow man?"

Scientists on both sides of the Iron Curtain may play ping-pong with the satellites and the world may find industrial and recreational application of their achievements on the frontiers of the atomic world. Size, speed, time, and space have lost much of their significance as precision concepts, but the Star of Bethlehem as a symbol of human hope has never changed by a single blink of an eye. Its meaning is still greater than the combined threat of the sputniks and the promise of a synthetic star that wise men of the West may launch over the world. A pity it is that the enormous intellectual resources of our day do not include enough wisdom to evoke good will among all men. Yet we may console ourselves that the spirit of man has never given up the search for understanding. In that faith we must abide, survive, and move unflinchingly forward. —A. M. Sullivan, editor of Dun's Review and Modern Industry, December, 1957, a Dun and Bradstreet publication. Reprinted by special permission.

LaSalle Is Winner Over Northern High

LaSalle High school of Cumberland remained unbeaten with a 58-44 victory over the Northern High Huskies at Cove last Thursday night.

Plans for Starting Publication House Are Now Abandoned

Plans for establishing a new publication house in Oakland have been abandoned, it was learned this week. Organizers gave as their reason the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Webb, of Chicago, relatives of Wesley Schaible, cashier of the Garrett National Bank in Oakland, who were planning to come to Oakland, had decided not to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb were interested several months ago in organizing a publishing house which would also publish a newspaper.

During the past three months a campaign to raise $30,000 by sale of stock had been conducted by half a dozen or more business men, and one of the men stated this week that the amount had been oversubscribed.

Last week they began to call for the cash, and within a few days the money was being returned to the subscribers with the explanation that Mr. and Mrs. Webb had made other plans and that the project would be abandoned.

Several buildings had been considered for housing the new enterprise, the former Pontiac garage on North Third; the former Dusie Wholesale warehouse, on High street, and part of the Hinebaugh building on Green street.

Oakland was served by two newspapers until four years ago when the Mountain Democrat, established in 1878, ceased publication on December 17, 1953. With the exception of the years of World War II, it had published continually since its inception.

The Republican was established in 1877 and has continued uninterruptedly since that time. It now publishes 4,700 or more copies every week, highest circulation in its history.

Theft and Breaking Of Christmas Tree Bulbs Plagues Town

Attemps of individuals and business places to decorate for Christmas have been somewhat nullified by vandals in recent days. Unknown persons have been taking many Christmas bulbs from lighted trees throughout the area, in most cases breaking them on the spot, and in some instances, carrying them away.

Among those to feel the effects of this vandalism have been Mrs. Homer Bennett, the Oakland Fire hall, the Court House, and the community tree on the Episcopal church lawn.

Henry Arnold, police chief, appeared quite indignant over the events and remarked that it "was worse than Hallowe'en." He said that a number of people have asked him why the town doesn't decorate its streets better than it does and why home owners don't decorate their outside trees like they used to do. He says he tells them there is no encouragement for anyone because when they do they are liable to have the bulbs stolen and in some cases the trees damaged.

Arnold said there were indications that all the mischief wasn't being done by children, but by people of right good size.

During the past week bulbs were taken from the tree on the lawn of the court house, necessitating the removal of the tree to the balcony of the court house. They broke over two dozen bulbs from this one tree.

The large tree on the lawn of A. D. Naylor and Mrs. Homer Bennett had been decorated, and someone took off a number of bulbs there and broke them against the side of the house. The fire department fixed up a tree in front of its building and bulbs have been stolen twice from it. Many bulbs have been taken from the Community tree.

Police Chief Arnold said he thought when parents let their children out at night and they didn't know what they were doing, it was high time to use the old-fashioned method of using the paddle where it hurt the most.

Authorities also have reported activity recently in turning over a number of the school bus stations.

Senate Candidate

Dr. Clarence D. Long, professor of Economics at the Johns Hopkins university, became an official candidate for the United States Senate on the Democratic ticket. He filed at the State House for the Democratic primary election in May, on December 25.

Over 1,000 Names Are Removed From Poll Books

To Be Given Official Notice Before Removal Is Permanent

Over one thousand voters in the county have had their names removed from the poll books temporarily by the Board of Election Supervisors, Ward Hinebaugh, acting board president, announced last Friday. Whether or not the action is permanent depends upon these people themselves.

He said the board had been clearing the inactive voters from the books in preparation for the permanent registration system that is scheduled to become effective Monday, January 6.

Hinebaugh said 991 registrants had their names removed because they had not voted in the past five years and were being placed in a separate book. He said action was taken by authority of the Maryland Election laws. Of this total 531 were men and 460 were women. Affiliations were 586 Republicans, 393 Democrats, one independent and 11 with no party.

All 991 persons are to be notified by mail that they must appear at the election board office in the court house on or before January 20 to show why their names should not be erased from the registry permanently.

Those not appearing will be compelled to re-register after January 20 before they will be able to vote in the primary election next year.

The 1,054 eliminated from the poll books include 57 deceased persons. Of these 37 were men and 20 were women, 33 were Republicans and 24 were Democrats.

Six names were removed at the request of the registrants so that they could be transferred to polling places outside the county.

As of the November 20 deadline for changing party affiliation, 19 Republicans became Democrats; 17 Democrats switched to Republican, and one independent to Republican.

There has been no registration since October 16. At that time there were 6,328 Republicans, 3,646 Democrats, and 46 others, for a total of 10,020. The totals showed 5,474 men and 4,546 women.

The board's office, with Russell L. Smith as chief clerk and Republican registrar, will be open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., Monday through Friday and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturday, beginning Monday, January 6.

Winter Arrived Saturday

Winter arrived in Oakland for a three month visit at 9:19 p. m. Saturday, December 21.

It had been unseasonably warm here Friday as it had been for the past several days but cooler weather prevailed on Saturday.

Warm, moist air flowed up from the South and covered most of the eastern half of the country. Temperatures climbed into the 50's and 60's. Cleveland, Ohio had the warmest December night ever recorded there.

Out of session tornadoes struck areas in southern Illinois and Arkansas.

The resume for Oakland and vicinity: rain on Friday and fairly warm; Saturday rainy but clearing later in the afternoon. Sunday, sunny and mild, cold Sunday night, Monday, clear and warm.

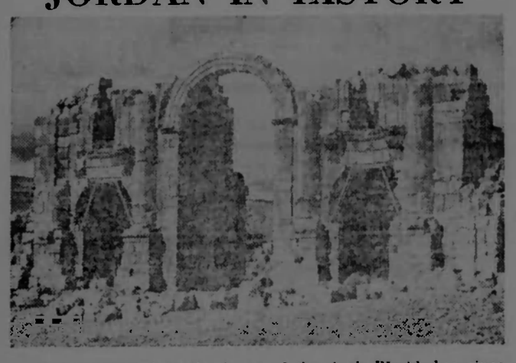
JORDAN IN HISTORY



Jordan, situated in the heart of the Arab World, has since ancient times, witnessed the impact of successive civilizations which have greatly influenced human progress. It has seen the empires of Egypt, Assyria and Persia; it was the battlefield of the Romans and their Byzantine successors, and Christianity was born within its borders.

In April 1950, after the end of hostilities between the Arabs and Israelis, the Jordanian Parliament, representing Central Arab Palestine and Trans-Jordan proper, approved the union of these two regions into the new country called the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan.

The total area of present-day Jordan is 37,500 square miles, slightly larger than the state of Indiana. The population of 1,500,000 is predominantly Arab in race and Moslem in religion with about 12 per cent Christian Arabs and a great variety of other distinct groups and cultures. This mixture of cultures adds a picturesque diversity of dress and customs.

Jordan contains most of the sacred shrines of Christianity. Within its borders lie Bethlehem; Jericho, the site of the oldest walled city in the world; Hebron, where Abraham is buried; the River Jordan; the Dead Sea, the Mount of Olives and the ancient walled city of Jerusalem.

The country offers a great variety of climate and scenery—from the temperate heights of the rugged mountains of Moab, to the gently rolling hills of Judea, to the tropical Jordan Valley with its luxuriant vegetation; the Dead Sea, the fantastic, sandstone mountains of Wadi Rum and, finally, the dry arid desert of the eastern plateau.

Winter often brings snow to the mountains and Spring carpets the countryside with myriads of beautiful wild flowers. Rainfall occurs only in Winter, from November to April, so for the rest of the year the people of Jordan rarely see a cloudy day.

Dickens' Manuscript Brought High Price

Only a few years ago, a previously unpublished Dickens' manuscript, "The Life of Our Lord," was presented to the world.

This simple, moving narrative had been written by Dickens 100 years earlier for the exclusive enjoyment of his children and because he felt such deep veneration and reverence for the life and lessons of our Saviour. Dickens had left instructions that this particular manuscript never be commercialized. It was never made public until the year 1933, after the death of Sir Henry Fielding Dickens, the author's youngest child.

Literary Prize

Purchased by the London Daily Mail for the staggering amount of $210,000—or, $15 per word, the manuscript became a literary event of the first magnitude, destined to be read and cherished forever wherever thoughtful parents, like Dickens, want their children to know something about the history of Jesus Christ.

For, according to Dickens:

"Everybody ought to know about Him. No one ever lived who was so good, so kind, so gentle, and so sorry for people who did wrong or were in any way ill and miserable, as He was.

"And as he is now in Heaven, where we all hope to go, and all meet each other after we are dead, and there be happy always together, you can never think what a good place heaven is, without knowing who He was and what He did."

Holiday Treats

Pies for the holiday party can be "trimmed" to add to the festivity of the occasion. With a mince pie, cut a star opening in the center and place small red candles in the pie so each wedge will have one. Form a circle of whipped cream around a chocolate pie, then place a small candy cane where each wedge will be. It will make a big hit at a children's Yuletide party.

Insect Summary Shows Less Damage By Corn Borers

Even though the European corn borer did less damage to the 1957 Maryland corn crop than in two previous years, corn growers still had their insect problems with corn earworms, armyworms, flea beetles and fall armyworms.

The corn earworm did heavy damage in the corn crop, according to the annual year-end summary of insect conditions in Maryland, prepared by University of Maryland extension entomologists. The annual summary is based on reports from county agents, farmers, homemakers, and on insect surveys.

In the alfalfa crop, the alfalfa weevil started earlier than usual and did heavy damage to unsprayed first growth alfalfa. It is estimated this pest destroyed over ½ million dollars worth of alfalfa. Entomologists report that farmers who sprayed got good results. Pea aphid and meadow spittlebug infestations on alfalfa were lighter than in 1956, except in the western counties.

Green peach aphids were the most troublesome pest on tobacco. Infestations were moderate to heavy on tobacco during August and over 3500 acres were treated with insecticides, mostly by aircraft. Hornworms were back to normal after a record year 1956, but the tobacco budworm infestation was heavier than usual. The vegetable weevil increased its range on tobacco growing counties, although damages was spotty.

It seems that more soybean growers will have to be thinking about insect control on this crop, the entomologists say. Insects on soybeans have been increasing in recent years and the 1957 summary shows damage was done by such pests as spider mites, bean leaf beetles, green clover worms, velvet bean caterpillars and corn earworm.

On bean crops the potato leafhopper, Mexican bean beetle and corn earworm were serious. Codling moths did more damage to the apple crop than in 1956. Spider mites were more destructive than normal on beans, tomatoes and cucurbits due to the dry weather. Aphids were also more numerous than usual on tomatoes, spinach and broccoli. Pea aphids, however, were below normal.

Homeowners had trouble with spider mites, bagworms, lace bugs, Japanese beetles and scale insects on ornamentals. Homeowners also had their usual problems with such pests as clover mites, boxelder bugs, fleas, termites, roaches, ants and silverfish.

The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission issues this safety reminder—When you celebrate in the holiday spirit keep this always in mind: Drinking and driving are a fatal combination—It's murder to try it!

Death or injuries are grim at any time. Why risk ruining your holiday, your family's holiday or the lives of some other family? Enjoy this wonderous holiday—Live and help others to live!

State Experiment Station Releases New Red Clover Variety

Seed of a new red clover variety has been released by the University of Maryland Experiment Station for 1958 planting. The new variety, Chesapeake, originated from a local strain that was included in Experiment Station Trials in 1947, and has been under test every year since.

In 15 variety tests in six Maryland counties from 1952 to 1957, forage yields of Chesapeake ranked first 13 times over Kenland, Pennscott and a northern red clover strain. It ranked second in the other two trials. Average yields were 2.56 tons per acre for Chesapeake, 2.03 for Pennscott, 1.61 for Kenland and 0.72 for the northern strain.

Good seedling vigor, persistence and some resistance to southern anthracnose are the characteristics that makes Chesapeake an outstanding yielder in comparison with other varieties in the tests. It has shown its greatest superiority on the Eastern shore of Maryland, but has outperformed both Kenland and Pennscott in most tests in the state. Favorable performance in tests in other states indicated it has wide adaptation.

About 100,000 pounds of Chesapeake seed will be available to farmers through seed companies in Maryland and neighboring states for 1958 spring plantings.

Hot Punches Gain New Holiday Popularity

Hot punches, gaining new popularity in America, have never gone out of favor in England where punch bowls are a frequent sight, usually of polished silver to hold hot brews. These zesty punches may be mild or glowing.

For mild drinks there is spiced tea with cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg added before brewing, then combined with heated fruit juices. For glowing drinks there is Mulled Cider, simmered with spices and served with floating orange slivers; or the traditional Tom and Jerry, served untraditionally early, its brandy frothy with egg, and spiced.

Gift Buying Simplified By Making Shopping List

Your Gift shopping will be easier and less fatiguing if you decide what you want to buy and make a list before you shop.

It is wise to list alternate choices so that you won't limit yourself to only one idea.

You may want to see what is in the stores, make a list and then make a second trip to do the actual buying. Your list will help you shop systematically.

Catalogs can also be helpful in getting suggestions. Most large department stores, specialty shops and mail order houses have catalogs. So, why spend hours looking for gifts when you can shop or prepare your "want list" from your armchair.

Sitting comfortably at home, you can choose from a greater variety of merchandise and at the same time conserve your time and energy.

Lucia Day Celebration Opens Sweden's Season

Celebration of Lucia Day on December 13 inaugurates the Christmas season in Sweden. It takes its name from St. Lucia, or Lucy, martyred for her faith and virginity in Syracuse in 304 A.D. and venerated by the church each December 13.

The prettiest blonde in every home, office, factory, village and town is elected a "Lucia" and visits the sick, leads carnivals and processions and attends banquets and balls accompanied by her "handmaidens."

The ancient custom coincides with the winter solstice, when the sun swings toward the earth once more and the days begin to lengthen.

Tree Should Be Safe As Well as Pretty

Make sure your Christmas tree this year is as safe as it is attractive. The way to do it is to keep the butt of the tree in water while it's in the house.

Keeping the tree in water will help to prevent dryness that may mean a fire hazard. It will also keep the needles from dropping so rapidly.

When you select your tree, try to find out how long it has been cut. It will last longer if it has been cut recently.

Balsam fir makes the best Christmas tree, but Douglas fir is nearly as good. Becoming increasingly popular are the pine trees—Scotch, red, white and jack—which hold their needles from two to four weeks. Spruce trees will hold their needles only from three to ten days in the house.

HAPPIER CHRISTMAS . . . Things are tough these days for the mailman, but carriers in some sections of the country will have it easier. Many post offices are now using caddy carts which carry the mailman's heavy load easily on rubber tires.

Festive desserts play a big part in the celebration of the Christmas holiday and no other treats are more associated with this holiday than plum pudding and mince meat pie.

The origin of the plum pudding is lost in history, but popular legend explains it this way:

Once upon a time, an English king went hunting on Christmas Eve. A sudden blizzard blocked the paths of the forest and the hunters became lost. One member of the party, the cook, was charged with the task of preparing dinner from whatever food he could find. In desperation, he literally threw "everything" into the pot—the remains of a stag chopped into fine bits, flour, birds' eggs, dried plums, ale, brandy, sugar and meat from some wild game. Soon, to his surprise and delight, he had a delicious, hot "pudding" and to this day, true plum puddings have all of these ingredients which our quick-witted hunter put into his cooking pot.

Mince Meat Pie

The tasty mince meat pie was originally devised by the Puritans as a religious offering and was served with a tiny figure of the Christ child in its center. The earliest known recipe dates from the reign of James I in the early 17th century. At that time the pie was filled with beef tongue, chopped chicken, eggs, raisins, orange and lemon peelings, sugar and various spices.

Candles Surrounded By Various Legends

Candles have long had their place in legends and in the observance of the holiday of Christmas.

In Ireland on Christmas Eve a large candle was burned which could be snuffed out only by one named Mary. As the Irish put it: "Who knows, on some Christmas Eve, Jesus and Mary and Joseph may come again, not to Palestine, but to the Holy Isle on the farthest edge of Europe?"

The first use of candles for Christmas is not recorded in the annals of any nation but according to an old legend the "Christ Child Candle" is burned in the window to light His way if He makes an earthly visitation and in atonement for the night of His birth when there was no room for Him.

Children's Task

During the early days of our country, animal fats were relatively scarce. The branches of the bayberry shrub were covered with wax-giving berries and children were given the task of gathering the berries when candles had to be made so that the animal fats could be conserved.

According to tradition, one who burned a bayberry candle on Christmas Eve of Christmas Day would have long life and a happy one.

An old verse reads:

"To learn your luck for the year they say,
Burn a bayberry dip on Christmas Day.
If the flame burns bright and the light shines clear,
Good luck will be yours throughout the year."

WISHING SPOT . . . Practically every nook and corner of the department store becomes a wishing spot as kiddies anticipate the coming of Santa. In this instance the very young ladies have focused their attention on a pair of dolls.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1957

Letter To The Editor

Oakland, Maryland
December 20, 1957

To the Editor:

Sir—In a recent issue of The Republican, the water situation was discussed.

Over in New York State there are two cities, only eighteen miles apart, each having a population of [illegible] thousand.

[illegible]e of them has an abundant [illegible]pply of clear, sparkling water [illegible]om three mountain reservoirs. The other provides a sharp contrast. There the water comes from glade reservoirs, partly surrounded by open farm lands.

As a result, the water has a strong swampy taste, which becomes quite obnoxious during dry seasons.

This city has lost a number of small industries, while the other has gained several.

Perhaps mountain water does make the difference sometimes. Chemicals purify water, but do not remove the tastes and odors.

Which kind of water do the people of Oakland prefer? (The "waters of Mara," or the "waters of Meribah?" Perhaps we need a Moses here.)

The logical source of water for Oakland is the west face of Backbone mountain. No finer water can be had, and the supply is unlimited and never-failing.

The cost of a pipelines would be largely offset by the difference in land values. Mt. Lake Park will soon need a new line. How much additional would it cost to lay a somewhat larger line, and extend it to Oakland?

Pure, sparkling mountain water can be one of our greatest assets. Swampy-tasting water will not help to attract industry. If the proposed reservoirs are built here in the glades, the water will be far from pleasing. There will also be a huge bill for reforesting and patrolling.

Long-range planning has paid big dividends in the case of our schools and hospital. If we bring in water from mountain reservoirs, we will never have cause to regret it. Make your choice known before it is too late. As a taxpayer and water-consumer, you will have to pay the bill.

Yours truly,
Ernest G. Gnegy

One Man Looks At God

(By Charles W. Carlson, Pastor, St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Oakland Maryland.)

At this season of the "Prince of Peace," it would do us well to look into the efforts of man to secure a way of peace. We have heard much in recent days of the efforts of NATO to secure a peaceful life for the nations of Western Europe, and the U. S. and Canada. What seemed so strange to me was the fact that all of the practical results of the "effort at peace" that were made at this conference sounded very much like preparations for war. Perhaps I do not understand the ways and means of good international government, but it has always seemed a strange way to prepare for peace when all we hear about the results of a conference like this are headlines such as "NATO Grants Missile Bases," "Nuclear Warheads to be Given Allies," "Record Budget for Missiles Being Prepared," "Ike Refuses to Talk to 'Bulgy';" these seem very strange for such a "peace loving nation" as ours.

Ways of peace that man has seemed to prefer have been totally worthless. There has never been a long period in history when some nation or other has not been doing war against another nation. Never was there a war that was really just. Never will there be a war that will be really just.

The way of Christ has never been really tried by very many. There are some who give lip service to this way, but very few who really are ready to trust the way of Christ implicitly. It always seems so much more reasonable to suspect a man's motives, never giving him the slightest benefit of the doubt than to trust him. It also seems so much more reasonable to hate a man for what you don't know about him, than to try to find something worthy of your attention in him. It is so much easier to worry about your own needs, color T-V, Cadillacs, Imperials, bigger, air-conditioned homes, and all of these other vital things than to care whether a bunch of stupid Arabs have enough water.

One thing is certain, however. Man's way has always proven wrong. Man's way grows more destructive with each discovery, leading to the time when he can have within his grasp the power to destroy himself completely. Perhaps he has it now. But there is another way. It is the way of the Babe of Bethlehem. We hope and pray that you choose it, for any other way leads to destruction.

Turkey is a favorite holiday treat, so be sure your bird is tailor-made to fit your family's holiday appetites and plans.

Birds are plentiful at this time of year and most stores are stocked with birds ranging from 6-pound hens to 27-pound toms. A young turkey weighing between 4 and 6 pounds is ideal for a small family. For a slightly larger number, a young hen or tom weighing from 10 to 25 pounds will provide ample servings.

Allow at least one pound of uncooked bird per serving. If you plan two dinner parties, it's wise to buy a larger bird, cut it in half and store half in a locker or home freezer.

Select your bird carefully. A tender, juicy bird will have plenty of finish, or fat. This fat is most noticeable in the feather tracts, but should cover the entire bird. The best turkey has moderate depth and a well-fleshed breast carrying well back between the legs. A broad back and short drumsticks also mean more meat per pound.

A well-fleshed bird has a broad, flat breast and enough fleshing over the back, legs and thighs to make all parts of the dressed bird blend together, with no prominent bones.

They were accompanied by Sheila and Sharon Tasker and Mrs. Tasker's mother, Mrs. Ida Johnson. Eileen and Jimmy also attended. The latter served as best man for his brother.

Shoot Out Windows

Police reported this week that unknown persons had shot out a number of windows in the new Dennett Road school, just before school opened for the first time last week. H. D. Swartzentruber, president of the County Commissioners, said it had cost $85.00 to replace the glass.

The air rifle shots came from the direction of Mt. Lake Park.

Living costs rose again in November to a high level.

Five Births Occur

Five births occurred during the past two days at the Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland, three girls and two boys.

On the 19th a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Blizzard, Deer Park.

On the 20th a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Francis Brooks, Mt. Lake Park; a son to Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Nelson Marion, Terra Alta.

On the 21st a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Yoder, Accident; a son to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Sypolt, Oakland.

During the week the hospital admitted 20 patients and discharged 24. Census Monday morning was 30.

Married Last Friday

Mrs. Grace Dennison, of Aurora, W. Va., became the bride of Dorsey Ashby, Sr., of Crellin, at St. Paul's Methodist church in Oakland last Friday evening, December 20, at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. Jack Fields, pastor of the Aurora Methodist church, performed the ceremony.

Attendants were Mrs. Barbara Ward, of Columbus, O., daughter of Mrs. Dennison, and Joseph Ashby, son of Mr. Ashby.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Earl Evans, daughter of Mr. Ashby, near town. The couple left for a wedding trip to Florida.

23 Marriage Permits Granted Past Week

Twenty-three marriage licenses were issued during the past five days ending Friday morning from the office of Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit court. This brought the total for December thus far to 77. Two licenses issued were marked "don't publish."

Attractive holiday adornments for the front door, mantels and dining room can do much to bring the warm, friendly spirit of the Christmas season into the home.

A triangle or crescent formed of two or three types of greens will brighten the front door. Pine, hemlock, spruce, fir, laurel, holly and scotch broom all work well here. Tie the stems together with string or wire to form the triangle or crescent. Use branches of varying length, with the larger foliage near the base of stem end. Add a bow of waterproof Christmas ribbon and some pine cones, berries balls or bells for color at the ster. end of the spray.

Front Door Piece

Turn a few greens upside down and insert them at the basal ends to cover the bare stems. The entire spray should then be turned upside down and hung on the outside of the front door.

A simple, but attractive dinner table arrangement involves using a glass salad bowl with a needle or pin holder in the center. The holder can be made fast with modeling clay. Place a few evergreens around the edge of the bowl, inserting the stems in the holder. A dozen red and white roses or carnations facing in different directions completes a beautiful but simple centerpiece for the table.

An excellent mantle piece can be made from a piece of plain white Styrofoam. Insert candles in a row down the center, then decorate foreground and background sparingly with small pieces of evergreen.

Christmas is the season of joy and peace, yet quite often carelessness causes it to be a time of tragedy.

Fire hazards are about us everywhere during the holiday season. The majority of us overload our home electrical systems during the season and practically everyone brings a Christmas tree into the house without first spraying it with a fireproof substance.

Holiday fires are needless. Don't use more lights than you need to make your tree look bright and cheerful and have your electrical system carefully checked even before you install any lights at all.

Buy Fresh Tree

Don't let a tinder-dry Christmas tree spoil your holiday. Be certain your tree is fresh when you buy it. Keep it in water at all times and do not bring it into the house until a day or so before Christmas. Do not place the tree near a fireplace or heating unit. Dispose of the tree when it begins to shed its needles a lot.

Be sure that all decorations used in the home are fireproof. Do not use lighted candles as a part of your Christmas decorations. They are much more dangerous than decorative.

Check Wiring

If your string of lights are not new, check the insulation on the wiring carefully as it tends to become brittle with age and use.

Use only approved lights and wiring for outdoor decorations. Indoor wiring tends to short when used outside.

If you burn a Yule log in your fireplace to observe the holiday, be sure to use a screen and keep household items and other articles a safe distance from the fireplace.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and helpfulness during the illness and following the death of our mother and grandmother, the late Mrs. John O. Thayer.

We also want to thank all who gave flowers and contributed the use of their automobiles for the funeral service.

Christmas Tree Care Halts Fire Hazards

You wouldn't build a fire on the living room floor, but an improperly decorated Christmas tree amounts to the same thing. Don't invite Santa to come to your house on a fire engine; follow these precautions in Christmas tree lighting and decorating:

Choose a small tree, rather than a large one.

Store the tree outdoors until a day or two before Christmas.

When the tree is brought into the house, stand it in water and set it in a cool part of the house, away from radiators, heaters and fireplaces. Don't allow it to block an exit.

Check Carefully

Be sure every lighting set and electric cord you use is in good condition—no worn or frayed wires, no loose sockets.

When you buy new sets or cords, look for the approved Underwriters' Label. The ones that bear it have passed tests for fire and shock hazards.

Provide a switch some distance from the tree for turning tree lights on and off.

Ornaments should be made of fireproof materials, metal or glass.

Never set up electric trains under the tree.

Don't let gift wrappings pile up under the tree.

Don't leave tree lights burning when no one is home.

From time to time, check needles near the lights to see if they have started to turn brown.

When needles start to fall, take the tree down and discard it outdoors.

Cancellation Record Set At Oaklond Postoffice

A new cancellation record was set this week at the Oakland postoffice, with a total of some 12,000 above that for the same time last year.

Last year from December 10 to December 24 there was a total of 134,593 cancellations. This was increase of more than 14,000 over the previous high.

The total is now 12,000 above that number with December 23 and 24 still to be counted.

Receipts are over $1,000 more than last year for the same period, according to Donald M. Browning, postmaster.

The peak definitely had been reached. There were only 2,490 cancellations on Sunday.

It was my good fortune to be seated next to Dr. Nusret Koymen, Adviser on Adult Education to Turkey's Ministry of Defense. He was a most engaging and interesting dinner companion. Among other things, he told me that the only hope for world peace lies in all nations recognizing God as the fountainhead. "One thing," he said, "that has come out of this conference is that we have found the differences between our several faiths are inconsequential; and that we are as one in our aims and objectives."

Captain Joshua L. Goldberg, Chaplain, Third Naval District USN and staff Chaplain, Eastern Sea Frontier, presided. In opening the proceedings, he explained why there was no dais for the occasion. "All are seated on one level," he told us, "because that is in keeping with the spirit of NATO, where all member nations are equal. In other words, all of us here tonight are equally close to Heaven."

His Eminence Francis Cardinal Spellman in referring to this, stated that he hoped for the sake of the younger guests, all present, however, would not be arriving at Heaven at the same time. This reminded him of a story which he proceeded to tell to the delight of his listeners:

A 20-year-old Salvation Army lad stood on a city street corner shaking a tambourine. Generous passers-by were dropping coins on the tambourine. Watching this procedure was an 85-year-old man, who finally walked over and inquired for whom the collection was being taken.

"This money is for the Lord," the young man replied.

Without further adieu, the old fellow scooped up the money from the tambourine and put it in his pocket, remarking as he did so, "Well I'll be seeing Him long before you and I'll give it to him."

To finish on a serous note, the dinner was a grand affair, and what is of most importance, those participating declared their convictions that the Conference had served "to further cement the bonds of friendship that bind the NATO nations together as Free Nations Under God."

Ninety-nine miles of completed highway were added to interstate system of superhighways during November.

Two freighters sank in a howling North Sea storm with 28 crewmen of one ship lost.

Russia was seeking summit talks with United States but Dulles was silent.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Free Nations Under God

By GEORGE PECK

(EDITOR'S NOTE: George Peck is President of the Laymen's National Committee, sponsor of National Sunday School and Bible Weeks.)

Recently it was my great privilege to attend a dinner at the Hotel Plaza, New York City. This dinner was given in honor of the NATO Naval Chaplains who were assembled in the United States for a conference. This columnist was invited to this affair as President of the Laymen's National Committee, which organization among other projects, for the past 17 years has sponsored National Bible Week (this year's observance was from October 21 to 27.)

Attending the conference and this dinner given in their honor jointly by the United States Navy and the City of New York, were chaplains of all 14 nations who comprise the membership of NATO: Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Germany, Greece, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Turkey, the United Kingdom and the United States. These chaplains are adherents of five great religious faiths: Mohammedan, Greek Catholic, Roman Catholic, Jewish and Protestant.

In welcoming these NATO Naval Chaplains to the United States, on September 11, 1957, Thomas S. Gates, Jr., Secretary of the Navy, made the following statement:

"Our concern for Freedom and Peace for all mankind amply warranted the calling of the first NATO Chaplains Conference in the Netherlands in August 1956. This initial pioneering spiritual effort exceeded expectations.

"It is with a deep sense of gratification that the United States Navy chose to act favorably on the recommendation of the delegates that a second conference be convened here in 1957. . . .

"I have the honor to welcome the delegates and observers to our country. May your sessions and deliberations be rich and challenging. Such conferences bring meaning and hope to all free nations, who aim to build into their citizens moral discipline that would assure a morally virile world. Such a world is the surest guarantor of peace among individuals and nations alike. Historically and traditionally, we are as one with our NATO allies in securing and preserving the peace.

"I wish you all success."

In his telegram of September 12 welcoming the NATO Naval Chaplains, President Eisenhower referred to the Conference Motto: "There is no Freedom without Religion," and commented that this motto "strikes a responsive chord in the hearts of our citizens. This nation was founded on the principle that all men are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, foremost among which is the freedom to worship God according to the dictates of individual conscience. Our Nation has prospered under God, and the observance of that basic freedom has undergirded the structure of our National Life. . . ."

THE Yule Log

The Yule Log tradition is making a comeback as more and more of today's modern homes are designed with open fireplaces as well as central heating and gas stoves.

For those who have a place to burn a Yule log and want one, tradition says that it should be oak, ash, olive, apple or pine. Whatever type you choose or may be able to acquire, get plenty of wood.

Ash is highly desirable since it can be used without being seasoned. It burns quickly, and throws off plenty of heat. Poplar, on the other hand, will spark badly if unseasoned.

Elm is less desirable since it is slow to get started. However, it lasts a long time and brightens up when it gets going. A few logs of birch, pine or fir will help it along.

Beech and oak are among the best logs. Beech has a pleasant aroma and gives off a steady glow. Oak has the outstanding merit of burning slowly.

If none of these are available, select wood from some kind of fruit tree. Such wood gives off a pleasant smell when burning.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

It is a sobering thought to recall that the last 25 years we have spent over $22 billion dollars on programs to help the American farmer. About half of this sum was spent to stabilize farm prices and incomes. Yet, despite the programs which called for these expenditures, farm income has steadily decreased. This decline has occurred in a period in which total domestic consumption of U. S. agricultural products has increased.

Congress, during the coming session must tackle again the problems facing the farmer. I am certain that no one would deny that a magic formula has not yet been found, now is one likely to be found, that will erase all of the problems that American agriculture faces, I have hopes, though, that this Congress will be a little less inclined to listen to the siren song of political expediency and enact a farm program that realistically strikes at root causes.

Many feel that our present agricultural aid programs serve only to help big farms get bigger. What is needed is a clear separation between large-scale farming and family farming. Future legislation, I believe, should be tailored to the needs of the family farm.

Then, too I feel that we have neglected to provide facilities for adequate research into new uses for agricultural commodities. The Secretary of Agriculture—Mr. Benson—considers research on new outlets for farm products sounder than price supports or production controls as a remedy for our overproduction of farm products.

I believe that a congressional study of ways and means of intensifying research in new uses for farm products is justified. I also am inclined to believe that it might be wise for Congress to consider setting up a permanent commission to supervise and direct research into widening markets for agricultural products. Such an Agricultural Products Research and Development Commission might be patterned after the Atomic Energy Commission.

Perhaps, too, the Congress ought to look into the advisability of providing incentives to industries that put promising laboratory discoveries into commercial use.

Just a cheery greeting to wish you and yours all the joys of this festive season! Hope you have a very Merry Christmas!

Modern World Still Needs Old Saint Nick

Every December many parents are faced with the problem of what to do or what to say about Santa Claus. Some of our educators have been saying for years that the Santa theory is all wrong and some of today's "modern" parents seem to agree.

But is the Saint Nick idea good or bad for children? We say it is good and that no child, be he average or brilliant, ever suffered from the grand illusion. Children know there is a Santa Claus and they accept the fact that he gradually changes from the Santa of fiction to the bill-paying Santa of reality.

Santa is good for small children, for children have imaginative minds. The fact they might see a Santa on every corner matters little. In their eyes Santa is a symbol, a mystery, and in his wondrous magic, is apt to pop up anywhere.

Time to Explain

And it is not the end of the world when the time comes that some older child shatters the illusion by telling all. Such is the perfect opportunity for the wise parent to explain that Santa is, after all, a spirit of Christmas. He represents the spirit of giving and the reason that we give at Christmas time is because this is the day on which Jesus was born. Jesus taught us love and faith and hope and Santa is a figurative being who helps us understand and use that teaching.

Make Holiday Candle From Scrap Pieces

Odds and ends of partly burned candles can be used to make a big, long-burning Christmas candle.

Melt the candles and remold them in an ice cream carton or oatmeal container, whichever is handy. Use plain cord for the wick. When the wax is beginning to harden, tie the wick to a pencil and suspend it in the wax.

Let set hard, remove the carton, and there is a nice candle for your table.

Be sure, however, that you burn the candle safely. While it is pretty and attractive and adds to your holiday decorations, it is also a potential fire hazard.

MAKING SNOW

Grandmother's way of making snow for evergreen branches is still a good and economical way to dress up holiday decorations.

Use plenty of soap chips or flakes in a little water. Beat lightly with a wire mesh spoon just long enough to get a nice, thick foam and smear on the needles and stems. Allow to dry and you have a beautiful winter woodland scene.

BULGARIAN HOLIDAY

New Year's Day is a great day for Bulgarian children who receive their presents and small sums of money in return for the gifts they ceremoniously present.

Teen-agers go visiting, and wishing neighbors a happy New Year, expect treats and refreshments. But unlike our "trick or treat" of Halloween, should the supply of goodies run short, the situation is accepted graciously.

U. S. was expecting to have its intercontinental ballistic missile into operation within two years.

ABOUT Mistletoe

There's more to mistletoe than the excuse to invite a kiss from a pretty girl.

The white-berried plant actually is a parasite, often killing off trees that play it host. In recent years Australian foresters resorted to flame throwers to kill off the plant in some wooded areas. The popular promoter of Yuletide romance has a bad habit of sapping the water and mineral salts from the trees, starving them to death.

The mistletoe does serve one useful function in the outdoors, however, as it provides a winter food supply for mockingbirds, robins and waxwings. These small birds are responsible for the spread of the tree-damaging parasite. After eating the berries, the birds clean their beaks on the trees, firmly planting the mistletoe seeds they do not eat. The tap root of the seedling pierces the tenderest portions of the tree—young branches or buds—and the tree sap is drawn into the thick leaves of the guest plant.

Thus the mistletoe plays dual characters and at least according to one superstition, can change from one character to another in the twinkling of an eye. For instance, if the Yuletide mistletoe bough isn't removed from a house by Candlemass Eve (February 1), each leaf will produce a goblin to plague the careless occupants during the year.

Uses for Christmas Tree After Holiday Is Over

You can still put your Christmas tree to use after it is taken down.

For one thing, you can cut off the longer branches and "plant" them as windbreaks to protect outdoor plantings such as low-growing boxwood, aborvitae, azalea, yew, rhododendron and juniper. Little teepees can be built around exposed shrubs and tender plants. This will protect them from biting, drying winds and prevent snow and ice from accumulating and bending the plants out of shape.

Must Report Earnings

Farm maids and plowhands, farm cooks and tractor drivers all are the same to the Social Security Administration insofar as reporting their earnings is concerned, according to James Robertson, Social Security district manager.

Before January 31, 1958, farm operators will be required to send in Social Security tax reports on their employees for the farm work they did during 1957. All farm employees, whether domestic or farmhand, are reported alike.

Mr. Robertson listed these rules for farm workers: (including maids, cooks, and other domestics hired for work on a farm operated for profit.) Report all employees who were paid cash wages of $150 or more, or who worked for 20 or more days on a time basis.

Tax reports covering such employees must be filed during January, according to Mr. Robertson. They are to be sent to the District Director of Internal Revenue.

Agriculture department forecast a 1958 winter wheat crop of over 906 million bushels.

Christmas Tree Legends

The trimmed Christmas tree, as we know it today, is little more than a century and a half old, yet legends trace the origin of the tree back to earliest times.

One legend concerns an early Christmas missionary, St. Wilfred, who once came upon a band of Druids preparing to make a human sacrifice under a large oak.

According to the story, St. Wilfred had the tree cut down and almost immediately, a young fir tree sprang up in its place. The missionary seized the evidence and made the fir tree a symbol of new faith and thereafter the Druids set this symbol of immortality in the halls of their lodges at Christmastime, surrounding it with feasting and laughter and love.

There is also the story of the Faithful Pine which sheltered the Holy Family during the flight to Egypt. With Herod's soldiers in pursuit, it was still necessary that Mary rest awhile so they sought shelter in the low trunk of a huge fir tree. As the soldiers approached, the tree bent its branches to conceal the huddled little group. When the danger had passed, the baby Jesus blessed the old tree. Today, if you cut a pine cone lengthwise at Christmastime, you can still see the imprint of His little hand.

Another legend holds that the first Christmas tree was really an apple tree. And, although the fir tree has long since replaced its predecessor for Christmas use, the tinsel baubles we use on the tree are said representative of the fruit which for the early Christians symbolized the fall of man in the Garden of Eden and his reclamation by the birth of the Saviour.

NATO summit conference adopted a nuclear age defense strategy of U. S. design to meet Russians on foreign minister level to discuss disarmament.

Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, and lately disarmament specialist, is planning to run for governor of Pennsylvania.

When he stops being cute

This is his very first New Year. He's celebrating it in his own talented fashion, just being cute.

Last year thousands of boys and girls were arrested as juvenile delinquents. They had all been cute—once!

But did they have the priceless example of active Christian parents? Were they given moral and spiritual training in the Church? Did they grow up in a Christian atmosphere?

This young fellow can't be absolutely sure that the New Year is worth celebrating. His future is in the hands of his parents. But he's smiling because of his confidence in them.

During this New Year their faith in God, and the sincerity of their relationship with the Church will begin to determine just what their son is going to be when he stops being cute.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH L. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: Philemon. Devotional Reading: Ephesians 2:11-22

Brothers in Christ

Lesson for December 29, 1957

"BROTHERHOOD" is a word that gets kicked around a lot. There are all sorts of brotherhoods, and most of them are good. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is a sample of many groups held together by the same kind of work and skill. We can talk of the brotherhood of Americans, or of artists, or of the same battalion in an army. We can speak of the brotherhood of suffering.

Dr. Foreman

"Brothers in Christ," however are closer to one another than even those who have the same father and mother. We could not go into this and show why it is. But let us follow Paul's lead and think how this works. The little note he wrote to Philemon brings together in Christian brotherhood two men who were aboot as far apart as two men could be: for one of them, Philemon, was a master and Onesimus, the other, was his slave.

Restored

Onesimus was worse than a slave. He had stolen from his master and ran away. Somehow or other, probably in jail, he had run across Paul, and became one of the many whom Paul led to Christ. Now Paul might have said to him: "Now, Onesimus, you are my Christian brother and Philemon's too. The past is all wiped clean. God has forgiven your sins. Stay here in Rome, take a fresh start, leave your old life behind. I'll never let on to Philemon that I ever met you." But Paul did not look at it that way. The first thing Onesimus had to do was the hardest. He had to go back to Philemon and give himself up. The letter to Philemon urges that gentleman to remember that Onesimus is now also his brother; but Paul may have had to do some tall persuading, to make Onesimus see that Philemon was his brother. Brotherhood in short, as Christians at their best understand it, does not cancel out obligations. If I owe a Christian ten dollars, I can't only write it off because it's "all in the family." If I have slandered a fellow-Christian or wronged one in any way, the very fact that we are brothers, so far from excusing me, lays on me a special duty to make all the restitution I possibly can. Let us not go into the New Year, if we can help it, owing any man—"except to love one another."

Reconciled

This return of Onesimus, as Paul hoped, would be more than restoration of an absent slave and at least some of the missing money. It would be a reconciliation. (Paul's hopes probably were realized, otherwise one suspects this little letter would have been saved.) Now reconciliation is very difficult, because it involves something in the heart. You can restore all the externals of the old relationship,—the runaway slave can come back, the estranged husband and wife can move into the same apartment, the countries lately fighting can send ambassadors to each other again, and so forth. But unless something happens in the hearts of these people, the restoration is going to be something formal at best, galling and intolerable at worst. There has to be forgiveness on at least one side in all human reconciliation: usually two sides. Who knows why Onesimus ran away? If Philemon had been the ideal master, Onesimus might have preferred to stay home. And if we can guess that Onesimus had something to forgive, we know that Philemon had. But brotherhood means love, or it means anything. Brotherhood in Christ means Christlike love.

Refreshed

Paul, as the reader of his letter will notice, asks Philemon to live out his brotherhood,—but not for his sake and that of Onesimus alone. The restoration and reconciliation which Paul prays for, will "refresh the hearts" of a good many people. It is not true that my relations with you and yours with me affect us two alone. A family reconciliation may make a difference far beyond the household. This is a sad world, a weary world. And the weariness comes partly from listening to so much jangling and wrangling. As the bells ring out the Old Year, how wonderful, how refreshing to the heart, if they ring out old quarrels, old resentments! Christian brotherhood is a bell with far-heard overtones of peace.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Peace On Earth, Good Will Toward Men"

By WILLIS E. STONE

(Editor's Note: Willis E. Stone is author of the "Proposed 23rd Amendment" and President of the American Progress Foundation, Los Angeles.)

So we come again to Christmas. This is not merely a season of the year, but the heartwarming remembrance of the birth of the Christ Child.

In the 13th and 14th verses of the 2nd Chapter of the Gospel according to St. Luke, is told the story of the birth of the Savior of Mankind:

"And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, 'Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men'."

Remembrance of His birth is clearer and dearer to the heart of mankind today than it was nineteen hundred years ago when the miracle of the Nativity was still new.

Perhaps it is the anguish and frustrations of the centuries which have brought us a greater understanding, not only of the Holiness of His birth, but of the Divinity of the Ide of sacrifice which followed.

King, Herod, defending the tyranny and despotism of his kind, attempted to prevent our Christian civilization by destroying the Child.

Herod proceeded to have his minions slay all the children from two years old and under, that were in Bethlehem and its environs. Jesus was saved because his parents, having been warned by God, took Him to Egypt. It was not until Herod was dead, that Christ was brought back to Israel—the land of His birth.

Tyrants have always used every expediency to destroy or remove all obstacles to their absolute power, no matter what the form of government. The ancient philosophers often indicated that government was frequently the handy device for legalizing murders and thievery by despots.

Plutarch, who lived a hundred years after Christ recorded the lives of all the so-called great men of those times, but never once did he mention Christ—the greatest of all.

It is curious that of all the personalities recorded by Plutarch, aided by the glorification of countless historians, not one can be easily remembered by us today. Yet the story of the Nativity is still fresh and new, known and loved by everyone throughout Christendom.

Progress from the ancient to the modern has kept pace with the acceptance of the true meaning of Christ's teachings—that we are all created in the image of God; that we are all equal in His sight; that we must, therefore, be equal in the eyes of the law, if the law is just; that mankind holds domination over the earth and all that is in it, but that no man shall have dominion over another; that through a society of mutual love, understanding and respect we can attain "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men."

We are, unfortunately, still far from this ideal. Tyrants who declare themselves the masters of men are still pretending to achieve peace through force of arms and establish good will through bribery, corruption and compulsion. Treaties and pacts are made, presumably to keep the peace, but actually to hold the balance of power.

History records an endless variety of Alliances between Nations, Leagues of Nations, and even United Nations, each built to defend the power of those who pretend they are "rulers of men," and to destroy those who contest their rule. These vain things are done in the name of peace—but there is no peace.

Have we not learned through these thousands of years of strife and agony that tyrants have failed to make peace? Must we forever seek the thrones of power to plead for peace and justice?

Or shall we accept the Divine condition of equality, one with another, and gather at the Manger to find love and peace at last?

If we could but maintain the warm compassion and human understanding which is ours this Christmas season we could soon abolish hate, greed and force. We would replace these with the Christmas spirit of service to others—the one and only sure way to "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men."

And there were in the same country shepherds, abiding in the field keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shown about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for behold, I bring unto you good tidings of great joy, which shall be unto all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying:

Glory to God in the Highest, and on Earth Peace, Good Will Toward Men!

Let Children Help Prepare for Holiday

Children learn the real meaning of Christmas when you let them participate in preparations and activities.

Making gifts for someone special is a project that even a three-year-old can do. Children can fill pretty jars with sand to make attractive doorstops. They can make clove apples to add spice to handkerchief drawers. Even their simple drawings make gifts that parents cherish.

Baking cookies and making Christmas decorations also put children in spirit of things. And even small children can string popcorn and cranberries for tree trimmings.

Deeper Meaning

Making Christmas cards shows children that there is more to the cards than the actual sending. You particularly want friends to know you are thinking of them at Christmas time, and children can learn this early.

Music is a part of Christmas and offers another opportunity to put meaning into the holiday for children, who enjoy singing.

Mistletoe Subject of Many Controversies

The mistletoe, alternately a symbol of good and evil, has a controversial background. Known today as a criminal killer of forests, it is still used as a symbol of love, peacemaking and goodwill.

According to legend, this is how the mistletoe became a symbol of love: The ancient Scandinavian light god, Balder, so the myth goes, was killed by Loki with a mistletoe arrow after the beloved Balder's mother had evoked a promise from all other living things that they would not harm her son, Balder was restored to life by the intercession of other gods who entrusted the mistletoe plant to the goddess of love and she ordained that henceforth anyone passing beneath its bough should receive a kiss in token of love, not vengeance. Held high, the mistletoe would never again be evil.

No Observance

The Puritans of Mass. bay colony had a law that imposed fines for observance of Christmas and Gov. Bradford once issued a statement publicly ridiculing certain young men who declined to work on Dec. 25, "ye day called Christmas."

Railroads asked ICC authority to increase freight rates on a selective basis.

Enjoy Christmas by Carefully Planning Your Holiday Budget

Enjoy Christmas by observing it in proper fashion; take part in Christmas customs, gather with friends and family and go to church often during the holiday season—but don't wake up weeks later with a Christmas "hangover."

You get Christmas "hangover" not from making too many trips to the holiday punchbowl, but from allowing yourself to spend more than you are financially able in playing "Santa" to friends and family.

While it isn't necessarily true, as many claim, that "Christmas is too commercial," many will allow themselves each year to be carried away with the spirit of giving to the extent that the New Year greeting from the mailman is in the form of a huge stack of unpaid bills.

Right to Give

It is right that the spirit of giving should be a part of the Christmas observance, but giving should be within the means to give and it is the gift itself and not its cost or value that is most important.

Gifts that you make yourself, in the kitchen or workshop, are always greatly appreciated for they are a gift of time and effort, two of your most valuable possessions.

Perhaps the best way to avoid overspending during the holidays is to plan your Christmas shopping program. Begin by making a list of those to whom you wish to give presents. Then study your [illegible] budget to see how much you can spend. You can then determine how much you can spend for individual gifts without taxing your savings or putting a burden on your future income.

It may take some will power to stick to a holiday shopping budget, but you will enjoy a happier holiday and get off to a better start in the New Year if you avoid the headaches that come with spending more than you can afford.

Racoon Has Own Christmas Tree

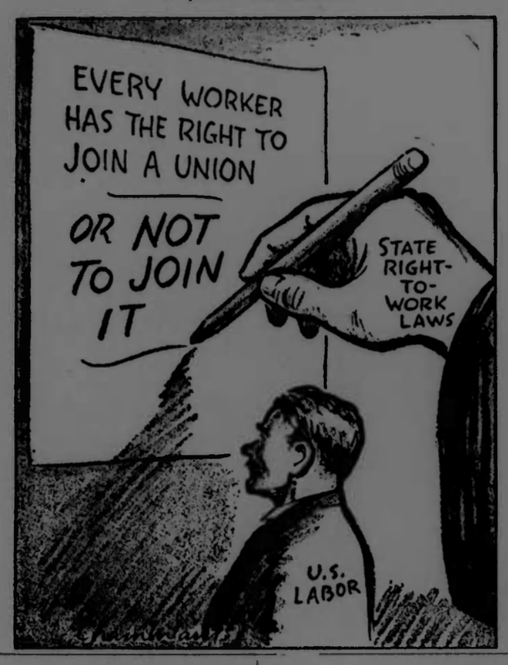
WHO WOULDN'T GRIN? Jasper, a celebrated racoon who lives at a fishing camp along the Trans-Continental line of the Canadian National Railways in Northern Ontario, has his own Christmas tree this year and he likes it. What racoon wouldn't grin when he finds that guide Jack Wilkinson has decorated the tree with all the routine trinkets plus a liberal amount of bacon rind of which racoons are especially fond. Jasper is the racoon who made headlines a couple of years ago when he failed to win a race crossing the tracks at Government Park, Ont. as the "Super-Continental" came along. The train clipped his tail off and tossed him into a snow drift. He has fully recovered as this picture shows. INS

A JUST REVISION



Listen Americans!

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College

(Glenn A. Green, associate director of the National Education program, has been doing research in Europe for several months. This column gives an account from Munch, Germany).

MUNICH, GERMANY—Dear Dr. Benson: At places in West Germany which I shall not identify I have interviewed people from three families who are working and living today as virtual prisoners of the Communists in the Soviet Zone of eastern Germany. They all are Germans, and they detest the life they are obliged to live under Communist rule; but for various understandable personal reasons each feels impelled not to try to escape.

I met each of them at a different location. All talked for a time freely and frankly. Then in each case fear of the possible consequences caused them to cut short the interview. Even a suspicion by the Communists that they had "talked" would result in their being labeled "Enemy of the State," and this could mean imprisonment or even death. Therefore, with their permission, I will quote them, but carefully conceal their identity and place of residence inside the Iron Curtain.

The first interview was with a person whose family resides in an East German city. We'll call this person Number One. Number One said that living conditions had grown worse in the last three years. Meat, sugar, butter and some other food staples are rationed and money is scarce. I saw Number One's ration card issued by "The German Democratic Republic" for a month. It permitted purchase of three pounds of meat for the month, if the meat were available, and the purchase price was at hand (which it seldom is). The month's ration in sugar was two pounds, 10 ounces.

"Like the meat ration, the butter ration doesn't matter," Number One said. "It costs $2 for nine ounces when available, but seldom is it available." Children rarely see fruit, a family rarely has fresh vegetables. An off-brand coffee is $2.50 a pound—"and horrible." A quarter pound bar of chocolate costs $3.50. Clothing for children and adults invariably is hand made at home. Shoddy cloth for a suit costs $5.80 a yard.

The work week is from 45 to 50 hours; Number One's wage is 28c an hour. "We have to work a 10 hour day to buy a pound of coffee," said Number One.

The family's sustaining diet is made up largely of potatoes, bread and soup.

The Communist regimentation is oppressive and sometimes frightening, said this person whose family nevertheless must continue to make the most of its tragic plight.

From Number Two, I learned some facts about farming in Communist East Germany. Most of the farmers fare no better than the city people. The Communist officials openly dislike small farmers who resist collectivisation. Number Two said: "They give the farmers norms to fill, and when they produce above the norms they can eat what's left. But few can meet the high norms! If they can't meet the norms regularly, they can't eat regularly, and the State takes the property.

"If the small farmer persists in continuing his individual operation, the Government will see that he does not get feed, seed and fertilizer sufficient to reach his norms.

"A neighbor of mine kept laying hens. The Government set a norm for egg production. Lice got into the hen house and killed some of the hens. But still my friend had to fill the norm. The friend bought sufficient eggs from a neighbor to reach the norm, but the friend had to pay 40 fenigs each for the eggs, and the Government took them for nine fenigs each. My friend had to give up . . .

"Meat is not available to Germans in East Germany because the Russians take all the beef production, take it up to Rostock (East Germany), take out the best quality for Russian use, then can the remainder and distribute it through East Germany under Russian labels—and at prices nobody except the Communist bureaucrats can afford. The Russians have bled East Germany of its resources and money."

Number Three said: "There is no political freedom in East Germany. In the voting places, there are booths for 'secret' balloting. But nobody uses them. The voter is given a ballot with a list of the Communist candidates. He votes the straight ticket—or the next day he and his family may disappear. Whole families have disappeared after one member of it had voiced opposition at a meeting. The police come in civilian clothes and say: 'Come, you are wanted.' The whole family must go. That's the last of it." If free elections were held, not 10 per cent of the people would vote for the Communists . . .

"Unless a person in East Germany has good political recommendations and is active in the Communist Party work he can't expect to get a good job . . .

"In my city the Russians have not cleaned up and rebuilt the heavy bomb damage. They use it as propoganda. They point to it and engender hatred against America and Americans—saying saying the bombings were ordered by Americans over the objection of Russia."—G. G.

Annual Tree Harvest Helpful to Forests

Don't feel disturbed or guilty about using evergreens for Christmas trees—there's more than enough to go around. Besides, today most Christmas trees are "harvested" as a crop to insure more living room for regular plantings.

Also, many Christmas trees come from poorer forest soils and wet bog areas devoted exclusively to the growing of trees for the Christmas market. In such areas everygreens grow far too slowly to produce a lumber of pulpwood crop—thus Christmas trees are the only profitable harvest to come off that land.

Another Christmas tree source is thinnings." Mother Nature seeds from 5,000 to 10,000 trees per acre. In today's growing-trees-as-a-crop operation, frequent thinning is essential to allow trees room to live and grow. The thinnings can be sold as Christmas trees—and fill a trio of needs: first, as a bringer-of-joy into the home; second, as an income source to the forester; third, as "life insurance" for upcoming timber crops.

NEWS FROM THE Ruth Enlow Library

BY EDITH BROCK

The library will be closed on Wednesday, December 25 and Thursday, December 26.

The library Christmas tree is a large red pine given by the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks. The tree was trimmed by the Oakland Girl Scouts as a part of their community service project of assistance to the library.

Books have been given recently in memory of Margaret Townshend, Asa T. Matthews, and Mrs. Alletta B. Mayer.

New books and records are being presented by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pritts, S. Townshend Naylor, Stanley P. Smith, and the Maryland Christmas Tree Growers' Association. Mrs. William Grant, Edna Beiler, Mary Louise Trembly and Mr. and Mrs. George Hanst have donated hooks and magazines.

Recent additions to the exhibit of Japanese arts and crafts include dolls loaned by Mrs. Harold Bittinger and Diane Morrow. This exhibit now fills the large display case and has attracted a great deal of attention. It will be continued for two or three weeks longer.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

The Leadership Chorus

In less than two weeks after this piece appears in print the second session of the Democratic controlled Congress elected with President Eisenhower in 1956 will reconvene in Washington. Not in much more than a generation has any Congress been called upon to deal with problems as serious and complex as this Congress will have.

Covering both the foreign and domestic fields, it seems impossible to exaggerate their gravity. From the richest to the poorest citizen, all of us will be affected by the manner in which they are handled. No one can wholly escape their consequences. Peace loving as we are, our very existence is threatened by a formidable enemy not long since our ally whose power, position and hostility are such that it could completely destroy civilization as we know it. Equally, we are deeply disturbed by internal questions such as the frightening size of the public debt, almost intolerable inflation, an inflation that easily could become devastating, and a grievous racial struggle to which there seems no end.

Under such conditions, it is understandable that a demand for "leadership" should have arisen in the country. From all quarters and from many variegated men this cry comes. There are several things to be said about it. First, of course, it is generated by the President's most recent illness, which makes it easy to accept the false assumption that he is unable properly to perform his presidential duties and the country, therefore, is "dangerously drifting." Neither of these things happens to be true, but they provide temptation material for those who want to believe them—of whom there are a great many.

A second thing to be said is that largely this demand for "leadership" comes from the journalistic and political supporters of Mr. Adlai Stevenson, who himself has encouraged them through his intimate, the Democratic Chairman Mr. Paul Butler, and his egg-headed advisers counselors and friends. Incidentally Mr. Stevenson's most recent public utterance was made in Chicago, while the President was in Paris. It is difficult to see how his most partial friends could think that a worth-while performance. Certainly, it did not enhance his reputation as a politician, a statesman or a man.

A final thing to be said about this "leadership" clamors is that those who shout loudest about it are wholly vague and general when it comes to detailing what kind of "leadership" they mean, whom they want as leader, where they want to be led, how and when. True, they use a number of adjectives such as constructive, dynamic, dramatic, vibrant, vital, etc. But, if either Mr. Stevenson or any of his columnist commentators or political friends have proposed any specific, concrete change in any Eisenhower policy, foreign or domestic, clearly to the national advantage, it cannot now be recalled. Even Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, though always critical, is rarely concrete.

Add to all this the fact that the shrillest and most persistent voices in the demand for "leadership," "constructive, dynamic or dramatic," come from the union labor bosses of the AFL-CIO, who politically are linked with the Democratic party and were anti-Eisenhower in both 1952 and 1956. Besides making political speeches and statements all over the place, and wearing a front of Pecksniffian piety to contrast with the exposed crooks of the Hoffa-Beck type, these AFL-CIO bosses are conducting with the dues of their members, the most elaborate and expensive anti-Administration propaganda on record. What they are after is easy to surmise. They want to run the country—and under the Messrs. Roosevelt and Truman damned near did.

What they will get out of the next Congress remains to be seen. But, for a variety of quite obvious reasons, they do not stand very well right now with the American people. The chief one, of course, is that it has been indisputably shown that corruption to a shocking degree exists among the present labor bosses and has for a long time. Notwithstanding this and notwithstanding even further exposures promised by the investigations, they still retain great political power and are reaching for more all the time.

Holiday Cooking Should Be Planned

Fun's a-poppin' in the kitchen during the holiday season. Much of the preholiday fun comes in deciding what to serve, but this often means extra work.

Plan your holiday cooking so that you can do much of the preparation well ahead of time—make pies, breads and prepare fowl and store them in the freezer.

You can make salads 24 hours before serving, and you can prepare cranberry jelly at any convenient time.

Since you want to save your energy so that you'll be in good spirits for the holidays, recruit the helping hands of your family. List things to do, and let them choose their jobs. You'll have better cooperation that way. They will want to help and share in what should be a family tradition.

Holidays are more meaningful to your children if you let them have a hand in the preparations. Of course you'll adapt their jobs to their ages and abilities.

Pinata Is Traditional In Mexican Observance

Our Mexican friends south of the border are picking up some of our holiday traditions and we could do ourselves a favor by adopting one of their customs, such as the "breaking of the pinata."

Widely used in Mexico throughout the year, the pinata is busiest during the Mexican Christmas Festival. The pinata is a fragile earthen jar which is filled with sweetmeats, trinkets, candies and toys, then suspended from the ceiling in a large room or patio.

Each guest is blindfolded, spun around, and allowed a whack at the pinata with a stick. When it is finally smashed, all hands rush for the shower of candies and toys.

Egg Nog Custom Dates Back to Early Custom

The custom of inviting friends and relatives in for cocktails or egg nog during the holiday season, so popular in America today, dates back to the old English practice of "wassailing." In Elizabethan times, no celebration was complete without the wassail bowl filled to the brim with pungent ale—a cheery invitation to all to come in and help celebrate the Yule. Then, as the guests raised their steaming mugs in a toast to Christmas, the merry cry of "What Hail!" "Wassail!" would ring joyously through the hall.

Holiday Decorations

Instead of the conventional wreath on the outside of your door why not string some bells and tree ornaments on narrow baby ribbon and hang from a huge red bow?

Make your door and window frames bright and cheerful by framing them with ribbon and sprigs of holly. Hang the ribbon in festoons across the curtains and tie at the sides in wide sash bows for colorful effect.

Two parcels of land described as follows:

1. 18½ acres of land, being part of the tract called "Canrobert," which was conveyed to Martha Burch by deed from Jefferson Burch, dated March 1, 1932, and recorded in Liber A.G.R. No. 104, folio 546, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Having just returned from an inspection tour of the Missile Test Center at Cape Canaveral, Florida, I feel it might be appropriate for me to make a special report to the people of Maryland on the spectacular firing I witnessed, the multi-million-dollar facilities I saw, and the talks I had with our missile experts.

Therefore, I shall use this newsletter to discuss these items with you.

Redstone Fired

One of the most impressive moments of my trip was the exact second when, after a dramatic 9-hour count-down, a slender, modified Redstone missile streaked from its launching pad and blazed a fiery trail through the clear night sky toward a target far out at sea.

Army officials who conducted the launching as part of their test series for the mighty Jupiter told me the next day that the firing appeared to be almost completely successful but that it would require a week or two for completion of a final report.

Viewed from Open

I viewed the launching from the exposed roof of an observation building which was as close to the firing pad as anyone is permitted to be unless he is under cover.

While waiting for the actual zero-moment, I was told that night tests are preferable since they usually provide conditions for more accurate tracking of the missiles.

At night, for instance the missile-tracking cameras can be used to take pictures which will show the progressive position of the missiles in relation to specific stars.

Roar Heard for Miles

The Redstone launching I witnessed occurred at 7:37 P. M., and I understand that its powerful roar was heard for many miles up and down the Florida coast.

I had been given a pre-firing briefing on the Redstone and our other missiles at the nearby Patrick Air Base, which is the control center for the Cape operations, and on the day following the launching, I was given an extensive tour of all the projects on the Cape itself.

This visit included an inspection of several missiles being prepared for firing, among which was the giant Atlas ICBM launched successfully on December 17, and detailed conversations with the engineers and technicians who are working in the numerous assembly hangars.

Maryland Projects Visited

I also made it a special point to see the work being done at Cape Canaveral by two of our own Maryland firms—the Martin Company and the Fairchild Engine & Airplane Corporation.

Much of the activity of these companies is top secret, but I can assure you that the military authorities of the test center feel that their performance has been highly satisfactory.

In fact, I was told that the strictly classified Fairchild product "has already demonstrated its ability."

Observations Expressed

In spite of the restrictions placed on public discussions of the Cape Canaveral work, there are several observations which I can pass along without violating security regulations.

In the first place, I can say that I was greatly impressed by the knowledge, spirit and determination of the men at the Cape.

Here, obviously, are a group of dedicated individuals whose aim is to give our Nation an unqualified scientific and military superiority.

Failures are a part of their every-day lives, they readily admit, but they are using the knowledge gained from their failures to advance toward the almost fantastic goals which they have set for themselves.

Snark, Bomarc Tested

I was also encouraged by reports of what we have already done in the field of missilry.

I can tell you, for instance, that we have satisfactory tests with the Redstone and the 5,000-mile Snark, and that the Bomarc defensive missile is now at the stage of development where it can be fired approximately 90 seconds after an alert.

These are but a few of the wonders of our missile program, but I think they give some indication of what can—and—will be done.

Costs High

Finally, I would like to comment on the cost of efforts in this relatively new field.

To operate the Air Force Missile Test Center costs about $8-million per month, regardless of how many firings are made.

Scientific stations to accumulate information on the missiles as they speed over a 5,000 mile course into the south Atlantic cost between $3-million and $8-million each.

And the missiles themselves are enormously expensive.

One which I saw for instance, represented about 1.5 million of our tax dollars.

Inspection Tours Profitable

Because of the extreme importance of these various factors, I am already making arrangements to pay personal visits to several other of our vital defense operations.

Such trips, in my opinion, will be of great value aid to me when considering the defense legislation which will be presented to the second session of the 85th Congress, which will convene next month. On my last recent trip, I was told that I was the first member of either house of the Congress to request and make a visit to Cape Canaveral on his own rather than as part of a special Congressional committee.

The air force successfully fired the Atlas at Florida base which landed at a pre-selected target.

Beautiful Poinsettia Needs Special Care

The poinsettia, with its bright red flowers and green foliage, will survive if cared for properly.

If you have recently purchased a poinsettia, chances are it was greenhouse grown, so try to provide conditions as nearly as possible like those in the greenhouse. A uniform temperature of 60-75 degrees F. is best. Place the plant in bright light near a sunny window but remove it at night to prevent chilling. Water it enough to keep the soil moderately moist but not water-logged.

Cool and Dry

If you intend to keep the poinsettia for another year, gradually withhold water and store it in a cool, dry place after it has stopped blooming. In April or May, prune it down to six inches, and repot it in a good potting mixture with proper drainage.

Return it to bright light to renew its growth. You can put it out in the garden when the temperature remains above 60 degrees F. An area partly shaded from the midday sun is most desirable.

You can keep the poinsettia short by pinching it in summer, but do not prune the same shoot more than once because small flowers will result.

As cool weather approaches, move the plant indoors to an airy and sunny location, preferably near a south window. The poinsettia is a short-day plant and must not be exposed to artificial light because it will delay or prevent flowering.

Safe Toys Will Make Holiday Happiest

The toys you give your child this Christmas can turn his happy holiday into a time of needless tragedy if you do not exercise caution in selecting safe and well constructed playthings

The frequency of eye accidents among children show a marked increase during the holidays, accidents caused by BB guns, bows and arrows, sharp-pointed toys, or toys so poorly construeted they fall apart, leaving jagged edges.

Here are some helpful hints for toy-buying parents:

1. Be sure the toy is suitable for the child's age and that he knows how to use it.
2. Avoid toys with sharp edges.
3. See that the toy is put together sturdily.
4. Avoid dangerous playthings such as BB guns, pointed-tip arrows and air rifles—especially for the smaller fry.

UP SHE GOES . . . It takes plenty of horsepower to hoist the huge Christmas tree in New York's Rockefeller Plaza. The three ton white spruce shown above is estimated to be 65 years old.

Choose Wisely When Buying Toys for Tots

Safety is an important factor in the selection of Christmas toys for the pre-school set and here are some good suggestions:

Be sure paint on toys is lead free and that toys have no sharp or jagged edges.

Never give a small child a toy that is small enough to swallow. Tiny toys or toys with small parts that may come off should be avoided.

Consider traffic hazards before buying toys used outdoors. A ball or a bicycle is a dangerous plaything on a busy street.

Building blocks are just something for the small tot to scatter from one room to another and small toys quite often cause bad falls if left scattered on the floor.

Avoid glass and other breakable materials.

SAVE THE TREE

For the family which prefers a small tree, an evergreen can serve as the traditional Christmas decoration during the holidays and later take its place in the family yard as an ornamental tree.

Forestry experts say that the live tree has a reasonable chance of survival if several rules are followed.

First, careful digging is necessary to insure that the whole root system is removed with the tree. The evergreen should be thoroughly watered from the moment it is potted.

The tree should be kept in the house a minimum amount of time, since the heat of the house often forces the buds to break out. These will freeze when the tree is transplanted outdoors.

Short-needled varieties of evergreen make the best potted trees. These include balsam, white and Dauglass fir and blue, white, red and Norway spruce. The foliage of pines is too sparse at the three-foot height to make them suitable as table trees.
